When bathing a baby in a porcelain tub lay a Turkish bath-towel on the bottom of the tub to prevent the child from slipping.

Does the tone of your piano ever seem dull in damp weather? Try placing a lump of lime in a breakfast-food box inside the lower part and see how soon it makes the tone clearer.

When cooking apples never touch them with a steel fork or knife. A silver knife should be used, and a wooden spoon or fork in stirring or pulping the food. Otherwise it will have a sharp and acrid taste.

If celery is used for strong flavoring of soups, stews, etc., it should only be allowed just enough time to cook it thoroughly—about half an hour. If put in too early very little of the flavor remains.

A shallow biscuit tin is a useful thing if you use a gas cooker. Perforate a number of holes with a nail and place the tin over the small ring of the cooker. In a short time the tin will become hot enough to keep a couple of small saucepans going.

KEEP THE COLOR.

The delicate color of green vegetables may be preserved by cooking them uncovered. Cabbage, onions and turnips should be cooked uncovered in a large quantity of water. By changing the water once or twice during the cooking much of the strong odor may be lost. If dried bread be tied in a cheesecloth and place on top of vegetables during cooking it absorbs some of the odor.

ENAMEL YOUR SHELVES.

Give up the idea of using shelf paper on your shelves. It is anything but sanitary, and if you have any insect pests or mice in your house, then the shelf paper is a perfect nuisance. Your shelves may be enameled white, so that they will look just as attractive, and shelves so treated may be wiped off as often as you wish without possible injury to the finish.

Shelves may be made especially useful if you have them fitted with cup hooks. You should have some just the size for cups, and others larger on which may be hung milk and cream pitchers. If you wish to stand large plates and platters up at the back of a shelf it is nice to have a little groove.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Headdresses and fans are featured accompaniments to the formal evening toilette.

The bateau neckline is giving away to the V shape, in evening gowns, with a frequent use of the round or square line.

Elbow length gloves are worn to the opera and play.

Satins are beginning to creep in as rivals of long established crepes.

The beaded jacquette blouse is finding favor.

Hip yokes are seen on some of the tailored skirts now being shown. Others are of the wrap-around variety. The hip yokes when used for sports skirts often have the yoke of a different color than the rest of the skirt. It may, for instance, match a stripe or a bit of braid.

Many of the latest sports hats today are of coarse-braided straw with wide, slightly mushroom brim. They are trimmed with the fattest and healthiest of fruits, plump pears, rosy peaches, tempting apples. The variety of bright colors.

There is a foundation of underslip which may be used with several frocks among the latest showings. It is of dark satin with a pointed and picoted hem. The corsage is cut on a deep V both in front and under the arms and and it is held up by jeweled straps. Such an underslip is a satisfactory foundation for various sorts of evening gowns.

Long, straight lines are compulsory for spring, according to designers here today. The taller a woman looks the better. It is likely that street suits will have rather long skirts and rather short coats, a style which adds all the the length possible to a slim figure.

RIBBON SASHES.

Gray velvet ribbon girdles or sashes combined with lavender or orchid velvet ribbon, with artificial flowers forming the center of the knot, are among the smart things for spring. Grosgrain ribbon also combines in bows and girdles and sashes with a velvet ribbon. An effective bow that resembles a flower is made by tying a single knot loosely at the end of each loop of ribbon. A background of velvet ribbon tied in tailored loops, such as grosgrain or moire ribbon, is indeed artistic and easy to look at.

CHIC STRAW HATS.

Fascinating soft straw hats of medium size have two holes cut perpendicularly in the front about three inches apart. Ribbon binds the straw where it is cut and a tailored bow with three loops and one end on one side and two loops and one end on the other drawn through. The loops come nearly to the edge of the brim.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If either the finger or toenail is bruised it should be held in water as hot as can be borne for half an hour. Usually this will keep the blood from forming under it and making an ugly mark.

The egg shampoo is easiest and awfully good for the scalp. An egg is beaten thoroughly, rubbed in and allowed to dry, then washed out with soap and water. This takes dirt and grease from the scalp and leaves the hair soft and glossy.

An oily nose or complexion is best treated by washing the skin with warm water and soap, and then coating it for half an hour with starch paste—white laundry starch and cold water.

It is very necessary to brush one's hair. It brings it to life and causes the blood to circulate through the scalp, thus giving the proper nourishment to the hair. Whether you are washing it enough is really another matter. If it is a splendid tonic to give your hair a good sun bath whenever it is possible, and especially in hot dry weather. Wash your hair in the sun after a shampoo. Best prescription is to thoroughly brush it fifty times every day, and see how fluffy and healthy it becomes.

YOUR HAIR BRUSH.

Every woman knows the little wrinkle about never letting the washing-water touch the back of her hair-brush, but there is rather more than that to the care of hair-brushes if they are to have a long life of usefulness.

The rubber cushion brush is a great favorite, and rightly so, for it is so kind to the hair and gives it a beautiful gloss, but these brushes should never be washed in water in which there is the slightest trace of soda. It makes the rubber perish and destroys the bristles.

Brushes should always be stood up on end to dry, otherwise the water soaks into the back and not only rots the brush, but, if it is of ivory or ebony, causes a stain to appear on the back.

The same care should be taken in washing silver-backed brushes, particularly if they are of the cheap kind. The water causes the wooden foundation to warp, the silver is thin, and in consequence the whole brush goes out of shape.

CHILDREN'S DIET.

Little ones are sometimes squeamish about their food and must be trained to eat the things that are good for them. Letting them pick and choose as they please is apt to result in a one-sided diet, but a little careful planning will go a long way to prevent or overcome such a tendency. For instance, bread is one of the best of cereal foods and it may be served in so many different ways that it is a constant temptation to the child's appetite. Bread pudding, raisin bread, toast, graham or rye bread, cinnamon buns, currant rolls, bread and milk, milk toast—these are some of the many forms in which children may be persuaded to eat sufficient cereal.

SEWING HINTS.

To avoid the "home-made" look, the amateur dressmaker should practice button-holing, gusset-making, pleating, whipping, tucking, piping, ruching, etc., on small pieces of material until they are thoroughly mastered. All the elemental stitches should be learned before attempting to make any garment.

Having done this, the would-be dressmaker should next go to a reliable pattern store and obtain a fitted lining pattern, which she should cut out in linen and tack together, so that she knows exactly where the different seams and joins come. This lining pattern, which should fit the figure exactly, is very useful, as it can be modified to suit practically all dresses. Undergarment patterns too can be cut out by this lining, as all the measurements of neck and armholes, etc., being accurate, it is a simple matter to invent different methods for front and back parts.

Every woman who makes her own clothes should know how to bind the bottom of skirts. The hems of thick materials, for example, simply have a skirt binding run along the raw edge, the whole is then turned up, and that binding slip stitched on to the main part of material, so that the stitches do not show through on to the other side. In turning up hems, if a piece of notched cardboard be used, there will be no danger of unevenness. In heavily pleated skirts again, it is always best to tape the pleats across, even if the tapes are not left in afterwards. Plenty of tacking is, of course, essential.

MENDING MADE EASIER.

Lace flounces, which are back in fashion, tear easily. But they can be mended practically invisibly by tacking net of exactly the same shade under the torn place.

Corsets, when they split or when the busks break through the material, should be repaired with strips of strong white tape an inch wide. Tape, in fact, is useful for strengthening many slits in fairly stout material. Put a strip on each side of the stuff if it gets heavy wear and tear, as children's underclothes often do.

Buttons on the little people's clothes will not be nearly so apt to wrench bits of stuff away with them if, when they are first put on, a little square of stuff is put on the wrong side, and the stitches taken through that as well as through the garment. The squares need not match exactly, as they don't show.

Mackintoshes which have torn or split can be temporarily mended and made to last a while longer by drawing the edges together and sticking them on the wrong side with strips of adhesive paper tape.

SILK FRUIT MOTIFS.

One woman has utilized the bright little silk stuffed fruit motif in her boldoir. Tiny garlands of the fruit hold the curtains back from the window at the proper angle. A circlet of the fruit, in a larger size, decorated the center of the bedspread. And a frame of it is most effective around the oddly shaped hand mirror on the dressing table.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Recent census figures show that there are in the United States today 14,000 actresses.

Gwen Richardson of London, Eng., is the first white woman to explore the wilds of British Guiana.

Of the 572 occupations listed in the recent census only 25 failed to show the employment of women.

The proceeds of all the plays written by Queen Maria of Rumania are devoted to the charities of her country.

At the age of 28 years, Miss Vivian Cook of Mississippi is probably the youngest practicing attorney in the world.

Mrs. Mary McAuliffe, who looks after the boilers in a Pittsburgh, Pa., public school, is the only licensed woman engineer in that city.

Dr. Maria Otte, a native of Wuerzburg, recently appeared in the Munich courts as the first lawyer of her sex to practice in Germany.

Miss Miriam Conrad of Reading, Pa., and a graduate of Oberlin college, has been appointed assistant pastor in a large Philadelphia church.

CABINET DESK.

To introduce a bit of color into one's living room there is an extremely beautiful tall, slender cabinet desk of red lacquer. It is an excellent reproduction of a Chippendale piece in Chinese style.

TO CHIP ICE.

Remember that if the ice pick is misplaced for the time being an ordinary hatpin gradually forced into the ice will produce a crack and separate the ice without a sound.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Vice Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, the new head of the British fleet in North Atlantic and West Indian waters, comes of a fighting family. He is the fourth baronet of his line and the head of a family which has supplied a succession of officers to the royal navy without a single break since the reign of Henry VIII. A Seymour served as vice-admiral against the Spanish armada under Queen Elizabeth. In fact, the name of Seymour has figured since the time of the discovery of the American continent by Columbus, and no other name has been "entitled" so often for distinguished service. Besides commanding the battleship "Centurion" in the great battle of Jutland, Sir Michael Culme-Seymour saw active service during the World war, succeeding to command of the Mediterranean fleet and also as admiral commanding the British forces in the Black sea.

Briand, the name, was first given during the imprisonment of King John in Paris in 1363 to the mercenaries who held the city.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Teaching at Niantic.

Mr. Editor: To think only of the best, to work only for the best, is the motto which is followed by Miss Northop, the principal of Niantic school. Time and again have I had the opportunity to watch her and her associates in their classrooms and have always found everything going on in perfect harmony with their pupils. Miss Northop has the wonderful gift of being an excellent disciplinarian and her school works like a clock which is wound up with love, as she, herself, radiates with it. In each and every parent would give their time to the improvement of themselves and their children, surely they could find no time to criticize others, and if this were so, what an easy task all teachers would have. I have been a teacher for many years, and how I wish I could make parents realize that the teacher should be consulted as well as the child. It is not always the teacher's fault. I find the parents, who abuse their children at home, are the first ones to throw stones at teachers who are doing their utmost for the coming generation. It is by far a much easier task to raise one or two children than it is to control 40 pupils. Naturally if one pupil disobeys the rules of the school and is allowed to continue, there are 39 others who will soon follow.

How much better for humanity, if we could all understand the first laws of nature, love. With love we can move mountains; hatred only reacts upon one's own soul and we fail in life's purpose.

Releasing Prisoners.

Mr. Editor: An article appeared in Thursday's issue of your paper entitled "Habeas Corpus Gets Man Out of Jail". The article is misleading. The hearing came before me on February 13, 1923. William Blanchard was charged with stealing an overcoat, a suitcase, a pair of gloves and eye glasses. The article referred to mentioned only the eye glasses. Why not be truthful and tell the whole story? Mr. Blanchard had worked at the state hospital only three days when he was paid off and discharged. While there he worked under an assumed name. It was disclosed in court that he had been arrested before for a similar offense, which he admitted. If our courts are going to release criminals from jails and prisons without punishment it is not surprising that houses are robbed and that men are held up on the streets and highways.

Stories That Recall Others

But That Was Different.

Mother was entertaining her card club and, of course, desired anything rather than embarrassment. Harry, very young, but very much a basketball fan, burst into the room with:

"Mother, may I go to the basketball game?"

"No," replied mother, "You went to a game last night."

Thoughtful for a minute, Harry came back with:

"But this one won't cost anything, mother."

A Boy's Ambition.

David with a number of other boys attended a father and son banquet. To start off the programme some one suggested that each boy be asked to give his name and age and what he most aspired to be when he grew up.

It happened that David's father owned a department store in the town and was known among other things for his ability to take a joke. David, therefore, was mystified what to say when it came his time to tell what he wished to be when he became older.

The boys were called on, and the good name enjoying listening to the youngsters. When it came David's turn, he took his name and age. Who his father was and said he guessed he'd like to be a gambler.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They start about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock."

Now it has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world—all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way. A person half sick with biliousness, dull and heavy headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

TWO SUCCESSFUL RAIDS IN THE FALLS DISTRICT

When the 7 o'clock squad of officers started out from police headquarters Saturday evening, they were sent directly to the Falls by Capt. D. J. Twomey with search warrants for two liquor raids.

At the store of Charles Badiony, 269 Yantic street, a man by the name of Finnegan who was in charge, was seen to put a glass pitcher under the faucet while the officers were getting through a door. The pitcher with its diluted contents, said to be whiskey, was seized for evidence and arrested on the charge of violating the liquor law. He gave bonds for his appearance in court.

At the home of Stanley Kusick, 246 Yantic street, the officers seized a bottle of alleged moonshine whiskey, 7 bottles of home brew beer, and one keg of grape wine. About 40 gallons of warm mash were found at the place.

Kusick, who had had his foot jammed by a beam falling on it last week was not brought to police headquarters on that account but was summoned to appear in police court.

Automobilists Taking Chances

LOCATED RUBBER PIPE LINE IN RAID ON SALOON IN JEWETT CITY

In a raid at the saloon of John Godak at Jewett City Saturday night by a detail of state policemen, mostly from the Danielson barracks, the clevercest scheme found around here in some time was discovered after about two hours of searching by the officers. They covered every spot in the place that seemed to be a likely one where liquor could be hidden, poking around in dust and cobwebs from cellar to attic and even digging up several spots in the floor of the cellar where it looked as if the dirt had recently been disturbed. Nothing resulted until in a final effort they returned once more for a search of the upper rooms. Officer Williams shot his flashlight around under the eaves, when he suddenly saw a place that he thought would bear looking into. It turned out he was right for it proved to be the hiding place for two 5-gallon kegs from which pipe lines of rubber hose led to the floor below and furnished the supply for Godak's customers.

The rubber hose were led down through the partition into a room towards the rear of the building and two rooms behind the saloon. There were faucets on the ends of the pipe lines, in a concealed place. According to the officers, Godak explained to them that he followed the safe method of drawing only a glass or two at a time for his customers, coming through from the saloon into the rear room every time it was necessary to supply the trade.

After the hidden kegs and pipe line had been found the Godak place yielded 20 gallons of alcohol and four cases of Fleischmans rye whiskey. Godak explained, according to the police officers, that he was making a mixture of one part water, one part alcohol and one part whiskey which he colored with sugar.

The police made the raid about 11 o'clock, finding about 30 men in Godak's place near the railroad when they arrived. Those making the raid were Officers Fields, Williams Carron, Kelsey and Keith from the Danielson barracks and Sterling of the Norwich district.

Promoting Treasury Savings Certificates

The United States government is promoting special effort to invite the people to put their savings into treasury savings certificates. They are in denominations to fit any pocketbook, a safe investment for rich and poor alike. The temporary investment in postal savings stamps and certificates of money which is being accumulated and the exchange of these postal securities to treasury savings certificates as fast as the funds amount to 20.50 or more forms an ideal combination of safe investment with good income return.

Treasury savings certificates are issued in denominations which are within the reach of all. The U. S. government guarantees to pay $25 in five years for certificate which costs only $20.50. The same is true of the $100 and $1,000 certificates which cost $82 and $820 respectively. The rate of interest received on certificates held until maturity is thus established at 4 per cent. compounded semi-annually. They can be cashed at any time before maturity, and a schedule of values on the reverse side of each certificate shows exactly what the U. S. government will pay for it on any month during the five years to maturity.

As these certificates are payable in Washington where arrangements have been made to handle applications for redemption with the utmost dispatch, it makes no difference where they are bought or how many times the investor has moved since his purchase. The value of the security follows him wherever he goes and the money invested is thus absolutely safe under any and all circumstances.

PASSION WEEK SERMON BY CENTRAL BAPTIST PASTOR

Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, announced Sunday evening that there would be several baptisms before Easter Sunday and on that day there would be baptism at both the morning and evening services, over 50 people in all having signified their wishes of becoming Christians and joining the church.

In his sermon Rev. Dr. Pitt said, I like to call this week, Passion Week, not Holy Week as many call it.

My theme is an old, old theme and many preachers ask what things new can be told of Passion Week? Perhaps nothing new can be told, but I believe that we should often go back to those things that are central in the evangelical church.

The birth of Christ is not the importance in the event in the New Testament, for in all its books there is little or no stress laid on the birth of Christ, but almost on every page after the resurrection we find references to His death and resurrection. Let's put the emphasis where the New Testament put it. The Bible is not a specialist on 'death but on life. Christ came to this world to bring life. Many times we know of His giving back life to the dead. Our Lord is a specialist on life. The Bible says but little of death, practically nothing is told of the death of any of the great followers and disciples of Christ, but fully one-third of the New Testament is devoted to the story of Christ's last week on earth, and later every page refers to His death and resurrection.

Every great movement of the evangelical church has been founded around Good Friday and Eastern morn. The teachings and character of Christ are not told of here but emphasis is laid on His suffering, death and resurrection.

Before the war not much was said about the death and resurrection, but mostly of His life, but the change comes for two reasons: First, people came to talk of the sin as nothing, something like a fall upward. The way showed us sin as terrible as the sin that nailed Christ to the cross on Calvary. Any man today who speaks lightly of sin is not keeping up to the times; second, there was a revulsion against the old interpretation of the death of Christ. It was not fair to God. There was the teaching that Jesus came to this earth to persuade God to love men and this was untrue. God in His great love sent Christ to earth that those who believed in Him should not perish, but have eternal life. God loved us when He sent Christ here, so think what the suffering of God must have been when the sin of the world nailed Christ to the cross on Calvary.

Many people thought a good home, sunshine, and happiness was all that is needed but life has proved this false. In order to bring about the best the hearts of men must first be reached, from there reaching to the home, then out into the usuness and throughout the world. We must reach the heart first, other things will follow. As a follower of Christ I dare not stop with myself, my thoughts affections, and will must cover the world as did those of Christ. Your name on the church books is a good beginning but if this is all it is a poor ending. You must say how do my plans true up with His.

Serious minds today have come to the conclusion that belief must be in regeneration. The interpretation of Christ must be fair, do justice to God, Christ himself, and to mankind.

Before the war many believed that sacrifice was dead in men. Many thought it was foolish that Christ should suffer for others. This war showed us that sacrifice was big in men. The sacrifices of many of our boys taught us that their sacrifice was made for the sins of others, that our sins affected everyone. The spirit of sacrifice gets its interpretation at Calvary where God suffered for the sins of others.

In some churches, too much stress is laid on the physical suffering of Christ, the weakness is to overdo the physical suffering. The terrible part of it all was that it was not the physical suffering that killed Christ. When Pilate was told Christ had died he was surprised for crucifixion is a lingering death, men hang for days before death kindly ends their suffering. The Bible tells us that when the soldiers pierced His side with the spear, blood and water flowed from the wound, and best medical authorities claim that this is an occurrence following death by a broken heart. We can't believe our Master was afraid of any physical pain, but when He cried out, "Oh, Lord why hast thou forsaken Me." He cried out in all the anguish of a soul broken in pain with a heart that had been filled with anguish to the utmost. It was the burden of the sin of the world that killed Christ, His life was crushed out by the sin of the world.

We must remember that the death of Christ and His resurrection always go together, that Calvary was only the stepping stone that led to the resurrection told of by Christ long before. In the New Testament the two are always linked together and what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

On Good Friday, God in His great love gave His Son, this was the revelation of God's great love. Love is not strong enough, love alone cannot save us, it was the resurrection that showed the marvelous power of God. He brought forth from the dead Christ, the first fruit of them who slept, never to die again, and gave to Him the keys to Heaven and Hades.

The same power of God that flowed through the Saviour in Joseph's tomb, is in every child of God who is doing His Father's will, seeking to do His will among the men of the earth. God has said, "Lo, I am with you, even to the end of the world." That's the Saviour we present to you, the Saviour in whom we trust.

ORDERS FOR PHYSICIANS ON ISSUING PRESCRIPTIONS

John R. MacKenzie, of Hartford, federal prohibition director for this state, has sent to physicians a letter of instructions regarding the issuance of prescriptions for whiskey in less than the 10 day period.

This letter gives the regulations as follows:

Not more than one prescription book shall in any case be issued or furnished by the director to the same physician at one time, nor shall more than one book be issued during any period of ninety (90) days.

If the physician has exhausted a book issued to him, or it is apparent that the number of blanks remaining therein will not be sufficient to meet his legitimate needs during the period of ninety (90) days from the date of receipt of the book, and the opinion of the physician an extraordinary cause renders necessary the furnishing to him of more prescription blanks during such period he may file with the director of his state an application addressed to the commissioner of internal revenue, for additional blanks, supported by a verified statement of the extraordinary cause believed by him to exist, and any other evidence he may see fit to submit. The director will investigate the circumstances set forth by the physician as warranting the issuance of additional blanks, and will promptly forward the documents received from the physician to the prohibition commissioner with the director's recommendation of approval or disapproval of the application of the physician for additional blanks. If the commissioner of internal revenue shall find upon such written application and recommendation that the physician is entitled to additional blanks the prohibition commissioner will advise the director accordingly, and the director shall thereupon issue the additional blanks to the physician.

No physician shall issue any prescription for liquor not on the prescribed form, and no druggist or pharmacist shall fill such prescription, except that in the case of an epidemic or a sudden and unforeseen accident or calamity, a physician holding a permit to prescribe may issue a prescription for intoxicating liquor upon a form other than 1403 where failure to issue such prescription might result in loss of life or intense suffering, but such a prescription shall describe fully the accident, calamity or circumstances constituting the emergency because of which the unofficial blank is used. Such emergency prescription must be prepared in duplicate and reported each month to the director. All prescriptions for liquor, whether on official blank or otherwise must be written in duplicate, both copies signed by the physician, and must contain all the data called for on Form 1403.

CITY BIBLE CLASS WINS IN ATTENDANCE CONTEST

The Men's Forum of the First Baptist church of New London started something they couldn't finish when they challenged the City Bible Class of the Central Baptist church of Norwich to an attendance contest for the four Sundays of March. The contest closed Sunday with the Norwich class finishing a winner by 255 per cent to 200 per cent., which will bring them the reward of a supper at the expense of the New London Forum. The date and place are to be announced next Sunday.

Attendance for each class was figured out on a percentage basis, allowing the Norwich men an average attendance of 59 and the New London men an average of 26. Norwich led from the start, but the New London men made a great effort to beat them out on the last Sunday by running their attendance up to 400 per cent. This was not enough, however, as the Norwich class countered this with 441 per cent attendance, when it had 225 men present, the largest attendance on record for the class.

The following were the records:

	Norwich.		New London.
	Att.	P.C.	Att.	P.C.
March 4	123	241	59	227
March 11 ..	156	304	73	281
March 18 ..	223	437	76	292
March 25 ..	225	441	104	400
Total p. c.—	1423	—	1200
Final p. c...—	355	—	300

Selection by Swahn's orchestra opened the session of the City Bible class at the Baptist church Sunday at noon and a solo by Hugh Kinder was greatly appreciated and applauded. Vice President Shepard B. Palmer expressed the regrets of President C. D. Noyes, whom illness and the doctor's orders kept at home.

Charles L. Stewart, who has been leader in the attendance contest, conducted the lesson for the day, speaking on the chapter, Choosing the Great Adventure, which is the final one in Bosworth's book, What It Is to Be a Christian, which the class has been studying.

Enthusiastic applause greeted the announcement of the result of the attendance contest by Carl W. Brown after the figures had been reported by telephone between this city and New London. Votes of thanks were passed to the orchestra and to Mr. Kinder and the big gathering of men filed out with thoughts of realizing their slogan of the last four weeks, "Let's Eat on New London."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The utter collapse of sections of state highways in different sections of Windham county, causing trucks and pleasure cars to mire by the score, featured the news of the territory over the week. On Sterns hill on the new [illegible] and Providence road the state highway broke down during Friday, when the temperature ran up to 68 and for and heavy rain came during the late afternoon and evening and between then and Sunday noon over 200 cars, including a score of big trucks wallowed into the mushy mess—and stayed there until they were hauled out. One 7-ton truck loaded with bales of cloth settled through the center of the road, just at the Gallup farm Saturday noon—and stayed there for more than 24 hours. This ponderous vehicle all but blocked the highway, but cars did manage to squeeze by it on one side.

Ezra Burgess, opposite whose property the road also gave way, counted 117 cars that mired in one day and then gave up the count. Mr. Burgess noted cars bearing registrations of Maine, Texas, Indiana and Iowa stuck in the mud at one time.

Warnings to drivers and road signs put up by representatives of the state highway department had practically no effect in checking traffic. The cars kept coming along on the chance that the bad places could be negotiated and then plunged into the mud and stalled. For long stretches the entire width of the state highway would wriggle, like ice on which small boys like to run headers, when a car was run over it and then break through.

State road men dumped crushed rock into the broken area near the Burgess property and were prepared to do the same Sunday as soon as the big Mack could be hauled out. Even with the aid of two other trucks, hitched tandem and with its own great power this truck could not be budged after more than 24 hours effort to get it on solid ground again.

At Plainfield the state highway also collapsed on Plainfield street. Conditions there were much the same as on Stearns Hill. Cars by the dozen got into this mess and had to be hauled out, but it so happened that a detour through private property let many cars past this bad place in case. At Hopkins hill a 7-ton truck plunged through the surface of the highway and then slid off the side into the ditch, burying its forward wheels to the axle, while both rear wheels sank nearly a foot. This truck was hauled out.

[illegible] who reached here Saturday [illegible] route via Willimantic from [illegible] say they counted more than [illegible] trucks. This route is in bad shape between Hampton and Willimantic. Verily, the week end was no time for pleasure touring in territory thereabout—for even a state highway is no better as a means of getting a destination than its poorest part.

The sharp and sudden rise of temperature Friday, driving the frost out of the ground in a few hours, is held chiefly accountable for the many breaks in the highways which broke down. They were in fairly good condition Friday morning, but by night were crumpling up as though made of putty. A suggested remedy for the protection of the roads, as heard on Sunday, was to close some of the routes to truck traffic for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Putnam Perkins, 87, wife of James Perkins and a great-great-granddaughter of General Israel Putnam, died suddenly Saturday morning at her home on Maple street. Mrs. Perkins arose dressed and apparently was as well as usual, but became suddenly ill and died almost at once.

Mrs. Perkins was born in Brooklyn, this state, October 29, 1835, a daughter of William Hutchinson and Eliza (Day) Putnam. Her father was a great-grandson of General Putnam, illustrious patriot whose name is enshrined in the nation's history and whose deeds of valor in his country's cause have been an inspiration since Colonial days. Mrs. Perkins was the last of her family, which has done much to mould the history of this section of the county as well as winning permanent place for itself in the annals in the early history of the United States.

Mrs. Perkins' death is a cause of regret to all who knew of her charm of character and her many splendid attributes. She has been a lifelong resident of Brooklyn and Danielson.

She leaves one son, William P., and three daughters, Miss Harriet Perkins, Miss Belle Perkins and Miss Helen P. Perkins, all of Danielson.

Mr. Perkins, who for years was engaged as a dry goods merchant in Danielson, died March 20, 1917. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins were married April 19, 1861.

Motorists are not the only ones who have been meeting with all kinds of difficulties in getting about since Friday. The country roads have been in deplorable condition as the frost has come out, but were drying rapidly Sunday under sun and wind.

One hears strange tales of horses and human being getting into the mud on back highways. In the Sparks district one horse that had sunk into the mud was practically given up for lost finally managed to get out after a whale of a struggle. Even light vehicles went down to the axles and men who tried to lift them out sank in to their knees. Out of the town of Sterling comes a story of two horses that had to be hauled out of the mud with a pair of oxen, who appear to [illegible] mud better than do horses. Altogether it was a great week end from the transportation standpoint.

Some dog cases developed by the activities of officials of the bureau of domestic animals were disposed of before Justice C. B. Montgomery at Oneco Saturday. In the case of William Rammaka a fine of $5 and costs was imposed. Rammaka came from Michigan about 6 months ago and had an unlicensed dog. The penalty in this particular case was made heavier than in the others heard because Rammaka was critical of the action of the court.

Congregations larger than usual attended the Palm Sunday services at Danielson's churches. This is taken as indicating an intent to observe Holy week with more devotion to spiritual matters than has marked even the earlier weeks of Lent.

Members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., marched in a body from their hall Sunday morning to attend the 7 o'clock mass and receive communion.

Up where the state road broke down on Stearns hill Friday night one driver of a light truck that flopped in and stuck made it known in no uncertain manner that he just couldn't afford to be stuck and that he was willing to pay well for prompt assistance and release. Those who saw the incident say the driver made no secret of the fact that his cargo was whiskey, and several saw him pay a pretty sum for being hauled just a few feet that his car might be set on firm going. The service rendered him by the towing car was liberally rewarded.

Quantites of pussy willows were brought in Sunday by parties who had been in woodland territory.

Next Sunday marks the opening of the trout fishing season, and though it will be Easter some will find time not only to attend services, but also to have an hour or two on the brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Andre Maindon of the West Side, parents of Gaston A. Maindon, are to observe their golden wedding anniversary in April They were married in France, but have been residents here for many years

Dr. J. F. Renehan, whose home is in Naugatuck, has located in Danielson. At the present time Mrs. Renehan is visiting in Baltimore, but will come here in the near future.

For thousands of workers in this territory Good Friday will be a holiday, though in Danielson stores remain open as usual.

William A. Sendal of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week end.

At 10.30 Saturday evening there was a beautiful display of aurora borealis and was watched with interest all through this territory.

Another big boxing bill is being arranged for a date shortly after Lent. Boxing has become very popular here within the past few months and is attracting a contantly increasing attendance.

Henry Gallup, who is attending a medical college at Boston, is spending the Easter recess with his parents, Mr and Mrs. J. W. Gallup.

PUTNAM

One may be in close touch with millions and still be wearing light pockets in one's jeans. When one's wife holds the purse strings this is doubly apt to be the case. It happened in Chester, Pennsylvania, when Anastase Vonsiatskey-Venslatzky, husband of the former Mrs. Marion Ream Stephens of Thompson, heiress to many millions, was arrested for exceeding the time limit in parking his automobile on a busines street. When the gentleman with the name of many letters was arraigned in the court he said, "I have no money with me. I did not expect to be arrested." The police captain was sympathetic answering quickly, "None of us do." The fine amounted to $6.35 and the genial captain loaned the heiress' husband the full amount which will be returned to pay day if not sooner. This incident was recorded in the metropolitan newspapers that carried many stores of the marriage of the Thompson heiress, the appearance of a woman claimant to be the spouse of Vansiatsky and the pair still appear to be making news.

Dexter Elliott of Thompson is president, M. J. Taylor is vice prreident and Fred Ashton is a director of the newly orranized Tracy-Elliott Mills Incorporated with mills in Gloucester, R. I., just over the line from Putnam, and at South Coventry. The mills make a grade of material used in the manufacturo of cloth and also by-products from their regular lines.

The Woman's Board of the Day Kimball hospital have voted to buy 12 new pillows for the hospital at a cost of $36; also two desks for the nurses' home to cost $40.

John J. Whitehead, Jr., of Putnam, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seam of Thompson attended a luncheon at the New York club in New York city, Friday, at which Miss Mary Louise Marot and Miss Howe of the Howe and Marot select school for young ladies, Thompson, were hostesses. The plan of enlarging the school was discussed.

Spring arrived in the business section of Putnam early Saturday morning. Nearly forty merchants entered the unique plan of having a concerted spring opening day from fruit to the tiniest in millinery apparel and to the common dishpan and kitchen utensils. Windows had been dolled up for the occasion in a prize winning contest. Blue ribbons were awarded the best window displays in each of the various lines of merchandise sold and by noon these coveted ribbons adorned the windows of the fortunate contenders. That there were some artistic window dressers in Putnam's stores was clearly evidenced and all or the exhibits were attractive, some for originality of arrangement and others notably that of clothing, drygoods and jewelry stores, for their color effect.

It was heralded that some live models might be used in the display but none appeared. The Spring Opening Day had been generally advertised and in the afternoon the business section was filled with shoppers. The plan was successfully carried out and may become a yearly event.

A session of the juvenile court was held in the superior court room, Saturday morning, when Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner presented 12 to 15 young boys who had been misbehaving for some months. The charges against the lads were truancy and some petty thievery. Judge Geissler gave the young offenders a severe talking to and put them in charge of the probation officer mid an outburst of sobs and tears on the part of some and of sullen silence on the part of others of the culprits.

Is Putnam's building boom to be or not to be? This is the most discussed question among the business men of the city. From red hot enthusiasm over rumors that several new business blocks were to transform Main street a depression is beginning to be felt over rumors that the "boom" was but a flash in the pan. Directly following the fire on the morning of February 22nd, James J. Donahue, who owned the building, stated that he was going to rebuild at once. Then came the transfer of the Hopkins property just north of the Donahue property to Charles Seder, one of the merchants occupying the Donahue block, and it became current rumor that Mr. Seder was to build a modern business block. Following these rumors came a third that Wolf and Kaminsky, who recently completed a new block on lower Main street, were to erect another block just south of the present new building.

Now comes the statement from Mr. Donahue that he has decided not to build. It is understood that his property is in the market and no doubt there will eventually be a business block on this fine site but as to the immediate future there is much uncertainty. In the instance of Mr. Seder it is stated that he has told tenants in the buildings on his property that he will let them know in plenty of time if he finds it necessary to request them to vacate. This is taken to mean that Mr. Seder has no immediate plans for erecting a business block on his newly acquired site. In the third case, that of Wolf and Kaminsky, who, rumor had it, were on the verge of starting operations on their property south of their present new block, it is now understood that they are in a condition of watchful waiting.

While it looks at the present time as if the building boom has been deferred, conditions are such that it must come eventually. Every office and store in the city is occupied and there are no locations where new business can locate and some of the tenants made homeless by the Donahue fire have not found permanent locations. The law offices of Torrey & Geissler and A. S. Macdonald are temporarily in the Windham county bar library in the court house block; Alexander Varbedian, a shoe merchant, has been unable to fined a location and for the present has given up hope of locating. But with tenants at hand and waiting for locations it is believed that some one will come forward and relieve present congestion.

The First National Bank building is nearing completion but this will not afford any relief as the whole building will be used for banking purposes. The old St. Onge block is now being razed to make room for the new Putnam Savings Bank building. When this building is completed, which will not be for some months, there will be offices in the second story. Some of these have already been spoken for but not definite contracts for lease or rent have been made.

Putnam lodge of Elks will install its new officers at the meeting Tuesday night. The installation will be followed by an entertainment and banquet.

Mrs. Douglas Fenwick of New York is in Putnam concerning matters related to the estate of her brother, the late John G. Johnson.

Members of the Windham County Bar remembered that Sunday was the 77th birthday of the dean of the bar, State's Attorney Charles E. Searls, who, with Mrs. Searls, is spending a few weeks at the Court Inn, Camden, N. C.

The French River Textile company of Mechanicsville has awarded a contract to wire all of its mill tenements in Mechanissville and West Thompson for electricity. The work will start this (Monday) morning.

Allen Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer, Chapman street, has been elected captain of next season's Putnam High School basketball team. The team has received the Rennselaer trophy as champions of the Quinebaug Valley Basketball League for the season 1922-23.

This Monday morning at the Putnam High School the junior prize contest will be held. Two pupils, a boy and girl, will be chosen to represent 1924 in the inter-class contest to be held later. Those who have entered the competition are: Charles Carpenter, Harry Davis, Ralph Davis, James McBrierty, Celia Aframe, Rita Kelly, Jenevieve Letters and Molly Smith.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brownlie at three o'clock Saturday afternoon when their daughter, Birdella, V. Brownlie became the wife of Francis W. Crabtree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Crabtree. The nuptial service was performed by Rev. Nathan B. Burton of the Methodist church in the presence of relatives and a few friends. Gertrude Place, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and Willard Place was best man.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin charmeuse, with Spanish overlace and wore a bridal veil caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of sweet peas. For traveling she wore a suit of blue serge. The bridesmaid wore white silk georgette and carried a large bouquet. The bride received a number of pretty and useful presents. Upon their return from a short wedding trip they will reside in Putnam where Mr. Crabtree is employed in the office of the American Railway Express.

MECHANICSVILLE SCHOOL SHOULD BE ABANDONED

Putnam, March 25.—When the special town meeting to be held in the town of Thompson next Thursday afternoon, to see if the town will appropriate $35,000 for a new school house in Mechanicsville, is called to order, it is expected that a large gathering of voters will be present and that arguments will wax warm. The northern part of the town feels that its needs are more acute than the southern part of the town where nestles the mill village on the banks of the French river.

In relation to the controversy that it is expected will develop a letter received by John Kennedy of Mechanicsville, a member of the town school board and one of the most instrumental in having the special meeting called, from Frederic H. Camp, of the state board of education, who is supervisor of elementary education in the state, is of interest. Mr. Camp writes in part:

"To Mr. J. E. Kennedy,
French River Inn,
M[illegible]ersville.

"Dear [illegible] Kennedy: The following will repe[illegible] the conclusions I was able to draw from my study of the town of Thompson's school buildins problem during my visit yesterday:

"1—The town as a whole is growing at the rate of 25 to 40 school children a year. This represents an addition of about four school rooms every four years.

"2—Manifestly this growoth is not concentrated in any one section of your town so that the conclusion must be that every three or four years a four room building should be constructed first in one section of the town, then in a section section, then a third section, etc., according to the immediate and urgent needs.

"3—You have now reached a situation where a building is necessary. Two sections, Mechanicsville and North Grosvenordale were visited by me yesterday and so far as I was able, their special local needs were analyzed.

"Without reference to registration, I must say without hesitation, the school building used at Mechanicsville should be abandoned. It is utterly unfit for use. In my opinion it is a menace to the health of the children and teachers. It was represented to me that although this Mechanicsville building is not at the present time overcrowded, there would be an inevitable influx of children to a new Mechanicsville building should one be constructed in a more desirable location and of sufficient size. For these reasons it would seem to me that the first consideration of the town should be that of constructing a building at Mechanicsville.

"The North Grosvenordale building is over-crowded but it could be used at least for another year. This building too is unsatisfactory but repairs could be made to put it into serviceable shape. I question whether the fire escape law is being complied with and suggest your superintendent write officially to the state board of education asking for inspection.

"I can see why the people of North Gresvenordale should also desire better facilities but much as they are needed, they are not needed nearly so much in my opinion as good school accommodations for Mechanicsville. I would advise first Mechanicsville and then North Grosvenordale.

"The town of Thompson is peculiar in two respets. First it is a town that is out of debt. There exists sentiment there against obligating the town for future payments. As a consequence any aditional school buildings of four rooms, representing approximately an expenditure of from 25 to 35 thousand dollars would represent a tremendous percentage increase on total local tax receipts of only 55 or 60 thousand dollars. Obligating a town for school buildings by the issuance of serial bonds for instance is a perfectly legitimate and safe charge, and not only proper, but advisable it seems to me. Your people must realize that sooner or later you must build. It is of course for the town of Thompson to decide how they can best finance their obligation to educate their children. A building plan covering a period of five to ten years providing for school accommodations in the different villages in rotation according to their aspertained needs, should be formulated and agreed upon and then carried out in good faith co-operatively.

"Yours very truly,
"F. S. CAMP."

NEW LONDON FAMILY DRIVEN FROM HOME BY FLAMES

New London, March 25.—Fire drove out of their home at 302 Ocean avenue Sunday morning before 8 o'clock the family of Frank J. Howell, who occupied the handsome little cottage known as "The Blossom." The fire is understood to have originated from a furnace, and the story goes that hot ashes were taken from the heater and placed close to kindling wood, but this could not be verified. The flames followed through the partitions till they reached the roof. An alarm was sent over the 'phone to the Niagara Engine company house and then to other houses, so that the apparatus of several companies were at the scene of the burning building before the whistle and bell alarm was given.

Then the other companies of the department rushed to the scene. More than an hour's work was required before the recall was sounded. The furniture in the house was saved, though much of it was wet considerably.

Mr. Howell is an official of the Robert Gair company at Montville. A beautiful house is being constructed for him on Ocean avenue not far distant from the residence he and his family were occupying Sunday. Fire misfortune appears to follow the Howell family, for during the war they were burned out of the house on Granite street that was formerly occupied by Stephen Mead and family. That house was burned to the ground.

William E. Green of Bellevue avenue is seriously ill. He is a past master of Brainard lodge and one of the best known members of the Masonic order.

Lawyer Willard of Groton, who has managed the Groton-New London ferry since the municipality decided that the boat line was not a paying proposition, is seeking an arrangement with the city council of New London.

The New London council will Monday evening probably decide what arrangement will be made with the new ferry lessees as to continuing the boat on the line. The members of the council desire that a boat shall be maintained on the line and will be very liberal with the parties who operate it, it is said, but they may suggest that the music plan is a doubtful one.

The week beginning today is to be a busy one for the Masonic fraternity in this city. Monday afternoon the most excellent degree will be worked by the Royal Arch Masons at Brainard temple at 4 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30 the Royal Arch decree will be served at 6 o'clock at which there will be a large attendance. On Thursday evening Union lodge will work the Master Mason degree in full form. Brainard lodge will hold its Easter services at the temple as usual this year.

Ernest Schleifer, of New Haven, against whom the most serious charges have been made and the case partially heard in the police court here, is to come to trial by adjournment of the case Monday. Schleifer was accused of having agitated among the shopmen to bring about serious violence and the wrecking of trains and locomotives and also the placing of sand and emery in the journals of the car wheels.

It is said that Schleifer will come prepared tomorrow to file a bond in case probable cause is found for holding him for trial in the superior court. He is now at liberty on a bond of $5,000. It is not likely that his bail will be reduced below that figure if he is held for the county criminal court. He is held in that bond it is under stood for a hearing in the superior court of New Haven county on charges similar to those on which he is being prosecuted in New London.

Three restaurants have gone out of business on Bank street within a fortnight or so, the patronage in that section of the city not seeming to be sufficient to support them. The Uneeda was the first to close its doors, and soon the restaurant on the opposite side of the street had a "to rent" sign in the window and the place was cleared of all its furnishings. Within a couple of days the restaurant which was established a month ago in the Sebagh building closed its doors for good.

Albert Garacausa is seeking the position of director of Americanization in this city, a soft job that has been held by John C. Ellis a long time. It pays something like $2,000 a year and the duties that devolve upon the person who occupies the position is to disseminate American ideas among the foreign born. Mr. Ellis is said to be incapacitated by illness with a prospect that he will not be able to fill the position hereafter.

Work on the addition to Union bank, the oldest national bank in the city is going on slowly, but going on all the same. The business of the bank has grown to such an extent that its present quarters do not accommodate the business and the building next east of the bank structure was acquired and is now being remodelled. There is a great deal of work to be done on the addition, but when it is completed the bank will have twice as much space for the accommodation of those who patronize it as the bank now has.

The police are wondering what the cause of the obvious carelessness of merchants and others who have the care of stores and business building which leads them to go away from their business and leave doors unfastened. Some half dozen or more places are reported by the police as being found unfastened every week. Last night Officer Harry Hick reported the laudry of A. E. Moore on Main street unsecured against trespassers and Officers Opperman made report that the Star garage on Bank street was left unlocked when the last of the employes there left the place last night.

Dora Taylor was looking for her husband, last night. She alleged that she was not living with him, but that he had taken $10 from her at her home. Officer Hick was told to find Taylor if he could do so and finally located him at 16 John street and brought him to the police station. When Dora referred. She said she did not care to prosecute Janess, but she wanted him to keep away from her abode and she proposes to see that he does so.

It was reported to the police today that one man had gone to a fire department station on Bank street and that there he took off his coat which contained a bank book. The fellow who reported said that his bank book had been stolen in the fire house. He was influenced in that statement the police thought by the liquor he had drank so no search for the bank book was made. The condition of the accuser was such that he was not regarded as responsible.

Soon after the man left the station another complaint was made by a caller who declared that his coat and his false teeth had been stolen at an engine house. That was going pretty strong so Sergeant Smith was assigned to the duty of discovering what foundation there was for the complaints. He went to a firehouse designated by the complainant and there discovered the coat that had been reported stolen and he also found the false teeth. The coat was where it had been left and the teeth were on a shelf nearby where they had been placed by the man who reported them to have been stolen. Then it developed that the complainant was a loiterer about the fire house and that his condition from drink did not warrant the toleration of him there hereafter. He got his coat and his teeth but he got no more heat and loitering space in that firehouse.

Elmer Filliau and Charles Frear formed a partnership and established a restaurant on Bank street, where they did a good business for a s time, because their patronage was considerable. Then the police were notified that Filliau had departed and had taken with him valuables that belonged to Frear. Filliau, it appears had gone to Newport, where his is enlisted in the naval arm of the country's defense.

He is charged now with having taken and disposed of an automobile which he had bought on a conditional bill of sale. He will be brought back to New London to account for his transactions as soon as the necessary papers are forwarded to Newport and they are honored by the commandant of the naval station there. Sunday Filliau's mother and sister decided to make charges against Frear, so the case is being very much mixed.

It was supposed that Dr. John N. Dimon, who, while operating an automobile some three weeks ago, drove the machine upon the sidewalk on Bank street as he operated the car from Golden street, would be arraigned in the police court Monday charged with manslaughter in inflicting upon one Eugene Partlow mortal injuries when the Dimon car drove Partlow against a building. Partlow's skull was fractured by the crushing he sustained against the building and he died from his injuries several days after he received them.

It will be recalled that Dr. Dimon attempted to kill himself by cutting his throat with a pocket knife immediately after the injury to Partlow, but that he did not succeed. He has been nursed back to his normal condition at the hospital and Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond of Norwich has been conducting an exhaustive examination of all who had any knowledge of the facts attending the accident to determine whether Dr. Dimon would be proceeded against criminally. Coroner Desmond examined witnesses here Saturday and is expected to have one other person before him before he makes his report to the prosecuting attorney.

The movement to induce the government to purchase the Williams property at the square at the head of State street bounded by Meridian, Church, Huntington and State streets, is gathering power and no doubt the government at Washington will be asked to secure the property and there erect a building that will accommodate all the federal offices now established in this city.

Chief Engineer Stanners, Assistant Chief Rose and others of fire department headquarters spent Sunday at work on the wires of the alarm system. They are transferring the wires from a position over the telephone wires to one under the phone lines, but on the same poles.

Someone played a mean trick on Turner, the local florist Sunday. Mr. Turner rolled up a long stretch of cocoa matting and laid it outside his place of business while the store floor was being washed. Then came the joker and taking the roll of matting there and threw it over the fence of an adjoining yard. Mr. Turner called upon the police and Officer Hick was detailed to find the thief or the matting. He discovered the matting.

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 25—Joe Basile, a Norwich barber, who claims to be in the business of selling supplies to barbers in his home city and in New London, made a hard fight Saturday in the police court here to escape the penalty for transporting alcohol in his Ford auto. The state alleged that he had alcohol, manifestly for the purpose of sale and exchange and seems to have convinced the court that such contention was a right one and that what the state claimed, Basile intended to do.

Basile and Charlie Levanto the latter no stranger to New London, were nabbed by police officers as they came from a restaurant at midnight last week Wednesday. They had in the auto a five-gallon can of alcohol and a half-gallon glass jar of some decoction that might be hair tonic or it might be moonshine whiskey.

Joe tried to explain that he told the officers he did not have any intoxicating liquor in his car, but the officers had said nothing about intoxicating liquor or any other sort of liquor. Basile's claim through his attorney was that the alcohol was denatured and that it was to be used for making samples that were to be submitted to the revenue department to disclose the preparations he was to make for sale. He also claimed that he could not obtain glass jars to hold the alcohol and which he represented would prevent the deterioration of the alcohol in the city of Norwich, but that he came to New London in the forenoon of that day to get the jars. He did not get them. Then he claimed that he had lost his money in some unaccountable way here, but that he sold goods in this city so that he had $40 or more in his pocket when he was arrested.

His attorney started out from the court to have a chemist analyze the stuff Basile had, but no chemist could be found and the effort was abandoned. It was shown that Basile had obtained a permit from the revenue department to have denatured alcohol, but he did not show that he had any permit or any right to transport the stuff from place to place. He was fined $300.

For having a loaded revolver on his person when he was arrested he was fined $25. In both cases Basile appealed and furnished a bond of $350 to appear in the court of common pleas next month. Levanto was not held for any connection with the case as Basile claimed he met him on the street and was giving him a ride to Norwich.

The case against Samuel Taylor, colored of New London, charged with breaking and entering the dwelling of Andrew E. Ralston on March 17th, was heard before Judge M. J. Tennant Saturday. The defense offered no testimony, Attorneys Morgan and Hollandersky of New London were counsel for Taylor.

Andrew Ralston was a witness for the state. He testified he and his wife had left their house on the evening in question to go for an automobile ride. He said he had locked his cottage house securely, leaving at about 6 o'clock and returning at 9.15. He told the court that his wife went into the house first on their return and noticed that one of the windows had been left open and she called him at once.

After an investigation Mr. Ralston found that his gold watch was missing. He also missed some money which was left in his other clothing in the house. A new hat was also stolen.

Officers Champlin, Ferguson, Mitchell and Chief Brown also testified for the state. Taylor was bound over to the superior court for Washington county.

MYSTIC

During the thunder storm Friday night the house belonging to Wainright Bentley on West Mystic avenue took fire. The residence is occupied by the Bentley family downstairs and Mrs. Andrew Tillinghast upstairs. Their daughter, Helen Tillinghast, had retired for the night and was awakened by pieces of plaster dropping from the ceiling. She immediately notified the rest of the family and also the Bentleys. They discovered that the attic was ablaze. An alarm was sent in anw both Mystic Hook and Ladder companies and B. F. Dixie Engine company of Mystic responded. The entire upper part of the house was badly damaged. Mrs. Tillinghast was unable to save any furniture, but a few pieces including a piano belonging to the Bentley family were removed to the homes of neighbors, who rendered all the assistance possible to fight the fire. Mrs. Tillinghas is stopping with Mrs. Mahoney while Mrs. Bentley and family are residing with her sister, Mrs. Gurdon Allyn of Mystic. The firemen fought the blaze until early Saturday morning. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The body of Mrs. Mary E. Wolfe arrived here Saturday afternoon for burial in the Packer cemetery.

The deceased was a former resident of Mystic.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Greeneville Property Sold.

Colt & Sholes sold for Joseph Jaworonski his six room house on Prospect street to Miss Margaret and Mary Delaney of Prospect street. This is a nice cottage with all improvements. They intend to make it their home in the near future. This makes the second house they have sold for Mr. Showronski.

"Adam's Rib" a Success.

Miss Garon as Mathilda Ramsay meets Prof. Reade at the Customs inspections in New York city. It develops that Reade (Elliot Dexter) is also from Chicago, Miss Ramsay's home town.

In Chicago there is a family mix-up and in endeavoring to straighten it out, Mathilda places heiself in a precarious position when she is found in the apartment of M. Jaromir (Theodore Kosloff) the exiled king of Murania. Mathilda's father rlies her by saying that now no man will marry her. Prof. Reade is present and professes his love for Mathilda.

The finish finds Jaromir back home in his native Marania married to a fat princess, while the domestic affairs of the Ramsay household have all been untangled with Mathilda and Prof. Reade presiding as junior mistress and master of the Ramsay mansion.

The direction by Cecil De Mille is faultless and the photography and scenic effects are nothing short of marvelous. The vision scene in the Museum of Natural History, which takes one back to the days of the cavemen is as powerful as it is novel. It must be said of "Adam's Rib" that it stands alone as an exemplar of photoplay perfection. The support is excellent.

This is a picture that every man, woman and child should see, so don't miss it for anything.

"Beautiful and Damned" at Strand Today.

A flapper who dances, smokes, drinks and turns the heads of the idle rich is the heroine of "The Beautiful and Damned," the Warner Brothers drama, starring Marie Prevost, coming to the Strand theatre today for a three days' run.

This is the screen adaptation from F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel, which has run into many editions. The scenario was written by Olga Printzlau.

The story of "The Beautiful and Damned" centers about New York's giddy night life of cafes, cabarets and theatres, and has for its principal characters a group of graceful idlers who do not know what the word work means.

Anthony Patch, the grandson of old millionaire Adam Patch, lives in New York, frittering away his time and waiting till his grandfather should die and leave his millions. He attends a party given by Gloria Gilbert, a lovely flapper and instantly falls in love with her. Gloria is a sophisticated product of the fast city life, who can tell a man, "I can't see why a woman cannot kiss a man beautifully and romantically without wishing to become either his wife or his ——." Anthony and Gloria marry, and their motto becomes "Wait 'till Granpa Patch dies." Meanwhile, they continue a course of dissipation which saps their will and ambition. Anthony is so in love with his wife that he turns down many advantageous offers of business which would take him away from home.

Grandfather Patch is nappy, thinking his grandson has turned over a new leaf. He decides to pay the newly married couple an unexpected visit; when he arrives he finds the house a scene of revelry and drunken riot and his son a veritable debauchee. Infuriated and broken-hearted he returns to his home, where he dies a week later.

When the will is read, Gloria and Anthony discover that they are disinherited, and are left penniless without a single resource of brain or skill to capitalize. The struggles and final triumph following this climax provide many high lights in this realistic picture of fast life and foolish flappers.

Kenneth Harlan has the leading role opposite Marie Provost. Others in the strong supporting cast include Tully Marshall, Harry Meyers, Parker McConnell, Clarence Burton, Walter Long, George Kuwa, Charles McHugh, Louise Fazenda, Kathleen Key and Leo Ridgeley

Larry Semon in "The Agent," his latest comedy riot and a News will also be shown.

Breed Theatre.

Betty Compson, an erstwhile bathing beauty, and latterly a dramatic player of exceptional and established beauty, scores her fourth successive hit as a star in "The Green Temptation," a Paramount picture screened for the first time in this city at the Breed theatre last evening. Miss Compson, whose host of admirers manifested considerable pleasure at her interpretation, gave a remarkable rendition of three separate and widely diversified roles. Her performance ranks her among the her by Mahlon Hamilton, Theodore Foremost dramatic performers of the screen. Excellent support was given Kosloff and a number of other popular players embraced in the supporting cast.

"The Green Temptation" will be the feature at the Breed theatre again today and tomorrow and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and an Educational comedy.

You can't tell what a woman thinks of a man by what she says about him

SATURDAY'S MARKET

New York, March 24—Short interruptions to trade in anticipation of Easter holidays were reflected in prices in today's stock market. Some shares proved particularly valuable in spots, reserved in view of the government investigation of sugar prices. Railroad business also was shown by the motor and motor accessory groups. Losses of 2 to 8 1-2 points were registered by Stewart Warner Speedometer, General Asphalt preferred, Cuba Cane preferred, Punta Alegre and Cuban American Sugars. In dependent strength was shown, however, by a few issues, notably Beechnut Packing, which crossed 70 1-4, a new high record for the year, on net gain of 5 1-4 points, and California Petroleum, which moved up a point in the face of heaviness in other oils.
The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 950,000 shares.

LENTEN PREACHER ASKS HOW MUCH REAL CHRISTIANITY AMERICA HAS

Rev. John X. Pyne, S. J., professor of psychology at Holy Cross college, who has been the preacher at St. Patrick's church at the special Sunday evening services during Lent, delivered the last sermon of the series before a congregation that filled the church on the evening of Palm Sunday.

He spoke upon Christians, Christ and Christianity, discussing the modern attitude towards Christianity and asking the significant question, "To what extent does real Christianity still exist in America?" He left with his congregation two other questions, "What are the Christians doing and what are they going to do about the matter?"

Until our own age Christians always took Christianity seriously. Over and over again Europe has been drenched with Christian blood in quarrels among Christians about the meaning of Christianity. Christians are divided into several groups. Some Christians recognize in the church an authority to teach; other Christians reserve themselves the right to select their own religious tenets.

From whom do these Christians derive their name? And what do we know about their founder. Christians derive their name from Jesus of Nazareth, Who was called the Christ. Nearly everything that we know about Him we have learned from the New Testament. Contemporary literature has little to say about Him. According to the New Testament He was born in Bethlehem about 1920 years ago. He was born of a virgin, and lived until His thirtieth year in poverty and obscurity, after which He came before the people of Palestine as a religious worker, a miracle worker, and the founder of a new faith.

His teachings contain many statements that are in apparent contradiction. In Matthew X, 34, we read: "Do not think that I come to send peace upon earth: I came not to send peace but the sword." And, again, in Matthew XXVI, 52, which describes the arrest of Jesus in the garden of Gethsemane, we find these words addressed to the Apostle Peter: Put up again thy sword into its place; for all that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Earlier still in the same gospel—V, 39, we read: "But I say to you not to resist evil: but if one strike thee on the right cheek, turn to him the other."

This gospel was new. His method of teaching was altogether different from that of the official interpreters of the Old Testament, the scribes and the pharisees. Thus, He was brought into conflict with them. Finally their hatred of Him, became so intense that they conspired to have Him publicly executed. They succeeded in their plot. He was haled before the tribunal of Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor, condemned and crucified. On the third day He rose from the dead. On the fortieth day after His resurrection He ascended into heaven. On the fiftieth day after His resurrection He sent down the Holy Spirit upon the apostles, who thereupon began to preache and make convert to the new faith.

Christianity, the new faith, with its practices and organization, made such progress in winning converts that, within three centuries, it had become the established religion of the Roman empire. It not only transformed the old empire, it proved to be the vital spirit in the new empire into which the barbarous tribes of Europe were incorporated. It threw its mantle about the child and compelled its converts to recognize life as a sacred possession. The wanton destruction of the undesired offspring ended. It elevated woman to a position of equality with man. "Wife" and "mother" became sacred names. It emancipated the laborer, who had been enslaved by the pagan, and made labor respectable and respected. It inspired to deeds of generosity—hospitals, asylums of all sorts, schools and universities were established, the arts and the sciences were fostered, a new civilization, with new languages and new literatures, was created.

Three characteristics dominated the minds of the Christians who were the makers of Europe: Faith, practice, ideals. They believed the entire body of truths which had come down to them from the apostles. They put their belief into practice. They studied how to carry out the commandments and the counsels. They sinned, as men have always sinned, but, in accordance with their faith, they did penance for their sins. Their ideals are revealed in the perfection of the languages which they created, in their paintings, their poetry, their music and their architecture. When our architects of today wish to erect a church, they look for inspiration to the masterpieces of the Age of Faith. The men of those ages produced works of immortal value because they were actuated by sublime ideals.

True, during those ages there were many religious wars. Every religious group attempted to secure control of the civil government, and when it did secure control, it exercised its power in a manner which scarcely breathed the spirit of the gentle Preacher Who had delivered the Sermon on the Mount. Yet one fact stood out clearly—they took religion seriously. Today religious differences are not the cause of war. Today religious liberty is permitted almost everywhere, and, strange to say, religion is dying out.

How can we test the attitude of men toward religion? Jesus Christ lays down a good test in the Sermon on the Mount: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His justice and all these things shall be added unto you." How do men bear the test today? Out of a population of 105,000,000 in the United States there are 41,000,000, who are recognized church-members.

There are 64,000,000 who are not seeking first "the Kingdom of God and His justice." Is religion necessary for America?

Two thousand years ago Christianity rescued European civilization when it was on the brink of chaos. Today European civilization is again on the brink of chaos. In fact, one large section of Europe appears to have toppled over the brink. Are not the very same forces working for the overthrow of American civilization which have already caused the collapse of civilization in Russia? Does not "Sociology," which is held in such high repute today, assume the truth of those same materialistic principles which are the basis of the radical propaganda? Are not the Christians of America, like the apostles in the garden, asleep, while the enemy, who are bent upon the destruction of the Master, stealthily advance under the cover of "Science"?

Under these circumstances it is well for those who call themselves Christians to ask themselves these questions:

1—To what extent does real Christianity still exist in America?

2—What are the Christians doing about the matter?

3—What are the Christians going to do about the matter?

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKS AUTO AT CROSSING

(Special to the Bulletin

New London, March 25—John alias Darby O'Brien of Groton and Larry Jakobsen of 250 10th street Groton, formerly of the Ship and Engine company were at the home of Henry Luck of Magnolia Court Lane off Maple avenue this evening where it is said they had a booze party. O'Brien was driving a Dodge touring car and ran the car from the lane up onto the track of the New Haven railroad. The car ran up against the ledge with the body of the machine overhanging the tracks.

A freight train from New Haven was pulling in at that time. Jakobsen got out of the car and ran down the track to flag the train. The train hit the auto and tore off the tires and wheels. A part of the body was on one side of the track and the other side was across the other track.

O'Brien was cut about the cheek and forehead but he got away so that the police could not find him. When the police got there they made inquiry about the men and arrested Harry Luck. The police went to his home where they found two quarts of gin and a bottle with about a quart of whiskey. The gin tested about 25 per cent. alcohol and the whiskey 36 per cent.

O'Brien got to Groton where he was arrested. They will appear in the police court tomorrow.

NEW LONDON MAN DROPPED DEAD AT NIANTIC

(Special to the Bulletin

New London March 25—Edward Havens, a well known engineer here died suddenly of heart disease today. He had been feeling well of late and was going to Niantic to call on some friends. He was affected by the heart and sat down on the steps of a residence of Mr. Holmes. He felt better but suddenly complained of dizziness and went down to the water side where he dropped dead.

He complained that he couldn't see. He was in charge of the New London Power Co., at the time he resigned. He formerly was employed by the Central Vermont running to New York. Two brothers George and Charles survive him. He has a daughter who married Teller Booth of the New London National Bank.

"DOG DAYS" ARRIVE IN TOWN OF STERLING

Sterling, Conn., March 24.—"Dog days" opened up in old Sterling town today with the arrest of Andrew Maki for allowing a dog to roam at large without collar or tag. Deputy Commissioner Jarvis from the Hartford office, County Game Warden Charles M. Letters and Sheriff Chas. Ayers were the officers that brought "Dog day" to town. Grand Juror Frank W. Hazard prosecuted the case with Justice of Peace Charles B. Montgomery as judge. Maki was fined $1 and cost, $14.10, and allowed until Monday at 9 o'clock to settle.

William Rammoka was charged with keeping an unlicensed dog. The justice drew from him an admission that he had brought the dog all the way from New York state in October and had no effort to conform with the law. In fining him $5 and cost, a total of $18.10, the justice made plain that the fact of bringing the dog from another state made the crime more serious as Connecticut was trying its best to control dogs without having them dumped in here from outside.

He was also given until Monday at nine o'clock to settle.

Another case of a man keeping a dog under similar conditions to Rammoka will come up later and several other violations of various degrees have been under investigation. Frank A. Hazard, dog warden of the town of Sterling, warned each of the men what a second offense might mean.

It is said dog tags have again run out at the town clerk's office as those who have been keeping dogs "close to the wind," are crowding under cover. There is no intent to be hard in these cases but men who keep dogs in the town of Sterling must abide by the law or stand the consequences. The state officials in charge of the matter are very lenient and do not in any case urge extreme fines, but at the same time are firm and will do their duty.

SENT LETTER IN STOCKINGS SHE KNITTED FOR SAILORS

The death at the age of 90 of Mrs. Nelson D. Robinson, the oldest member of Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of this city, recalls a letter which she enclosed in stockings which she knitted and sent to the sailors on the battleship Connecticut during the World war.

Mrs. Robinson's letter was printed in the D. A. R. Magazine for March, 1918, as follows:

A Message from Yankee Land

The following letter was written by the oldest member of Faith Trumbull chapter, Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution, and sent in the stockings she knitted for sailors on the U. S. battleship Connecticut.

"I the knitter of these stockings, have lived 85 years. The needles belonged to my grandmother, who knitted stockings for her sailor husband in the Revolutionary war. My mother used them for her two boys, and other boys in the Civil war, and I am now using them to knit for our boys in the World's war.

I pray our Heavenly Father to keep thee in the hollow of His hand and, that the toes in these stockings be ever toward our common enemy.

JEWETT CITY

Seven members of the Connecticut state police, from the Danielson barracks, visited Jewett City a little before midnight Saturday night. The saloon of John Godek was raided, and a big haul of moonshine was found, including about 40 gallons of hard stuff. The liquor was taken by the officers to Danielson.

Godek will be brought by Acting Prosecuting Attorney John T. Barry, before Judge A. M. Brown, in the Griswold town court at 9 o'clock on Monday morning.

The postoffice department have announced the changing of the name of the post office of Griswold, Conn., to Pachaug, Conn. Relative to recent endeavors, to have this matter brought to the attention of the department, the Community club of Pachaug, for whom W. P. Holmes has acted as spokesman, has been successful: The benefits, to all concerned, that are derived from the change, are many. Outstanding among them is the fact that less mail intended for Jewett City will go to Pachaug. Not a little mail reaches this office every day addressed to Griswold, intended for persons living on the Jewett City R. F. D., yet in the town of Griswold.

Connecticut distributors, on the big trunk line mail trains, have a box in their cases labelled Griswold. Their packages, when they reach the local office are rightly dispatched to Griswold. Later the postmaster at Griswold must send back to Jewett City mail addressed to persons on R. F. D. No. 1, which starts from Jewett City. Also, all mail addressed to people living in Jewett City, yet bearing the address Griswold, solely because Jewett City is in the town of Griswold.

The change was ordered by the epartment after these matters were understood.

When the department changes a post office name or establishes a new office certain original data must be available.

J. Hammond Trumbull, the authority on Indian names, says Pachaug, was named by the one Indian tribe that inhabited this section. Pachaug-auke, which being interpreted means Turning Place, alluding to the windings and turning of the Pachaug river, which at this point, on account of the main channel being taken with little grade, almost doubles upon itself, time and again. From Beach Pond to the Quinebaug, as the crow flies, is ten miles. The Pachaug river consumes 44 miles in accomplishing the journey. So then, Pachaug came rightly by its unusual name.

Griswold was named in honor of Gov. Roger Griswold who was the chief executive of Connecticut during the time of the war of 1812.

The death of Mrs. Mary Lamothe Bernier occurred at her home on Slater avenue, Friday evening, after a prolonged illness of about three years.

The deceased was born in St. Roch, Canada, March 6, 1849, and was married to John B. Bernier in 1880. For a number of years the family resided in Putnam, upon coming to the states and moved to Jewett City five years ago.

Mrs. Bernier was a woman of kindly nature, and received the most attentive care of her devoted husband and children.

Aside from her husband, Mrs. Bernier is survived by four sons, Paul of Kankakee, Ill., John, Alec and Albert of Jewett City.

Rev. Richard F. Morrisey, pastor of St. John's church of Plainfield, celebrated mass at the funeral services of Annie Brelsford, Saturday. Burial was in Wauregan. The bearers were Raymond Vallie, Theodore La Mothe, Edgar Desjardines, Edmond Davigon, Ledovique Jodoin and Ernest Cotnoir.

Hourigan brothers were the funeral directors in charge.

The local R. F. D. man was an hour late. On his 25-mile route, were many stretches absolutely impassible. New roads and cut-offs had to be established through the lots.

Pachaug Grange gave one of the best and most largely attended entertainments the latter part of last week in the town hall. Mrs. J. P. Richardson arranged the program, and Mrs. George Briggs and Miss Margery Brewster were in charge of the arrangements for the nickel lunch and dancing. A total of $77 was added to the treasury as a result.

The program opened with a piano solo by Miss Mabel Kanahan. Miss Frances Montgomery recited The Shadow Man. A monologue, A Perfectly Lovely Companion, was given by Miss Ethel Miller, assisted by her father and brother Herbert. A comic song, A Drama in the Old Town Hall, was given by two southern darkies who were Ernest Richmond and Byron Kinney. Then came a drama, Always Stick to the Truth. The heroine was Pocahontus, the part being taken by Lillian Pepin. The father was W. B. Montgomery, and the three suitors were Ernest Richmond as Dr. Squizzle; Byron Kinney as Bill Prettyman, and William Edmond as Elder Snuffles.

It was a black-face sketch and full of the most ludicrous situations. After another piano solo by Miss Kanahan, Mrs. George Briggs introduced The Labor Song by reading Angela Morgan's poem, Work. Then twelve persons sang and whistled as they worked with the instruments corresponding to the words of their songs. Harold Geer was the farmer, Mrs. Harold Geer the farmer's wife, Iola Button, a farmer's girl and Edith Tift a cook, Mrs. M. H. Bartlett, laundress, Esther Frink seamstress, Mrs. Briggs dairymaid, Chauncey Geer, blacksmith, Herbert Wild, painter; Elmer Miller, woodsawyer, and Mc Karjalo, cobbler. Mrs. Will Edmond sang the spinner's song, while Mrs. Jane Lester in old fashioned cap and gown spun upon a real old fashioned spinning wheel, running and skipping back and forth as she drew the threads and made the wheel buzz. At the close all the workers were singing How Happy Was the Laborer, as they all worked together.

The news of the death of Henry Huntington was received by Mrs. G. W. Robinson on Saturday. Mr. Huntington has been ill for some time. The family have resided in Jewett City, where he was boss farmer for Ashland Cotton Co., later living in Preston on a farm and then going to live on the Willimantic Camp Ground with his daughter, Mrs. Leonard Geer. He is survived by his wife, who is a sister of the late Dr. Soule and one daughter, Grace, wife of Leonard Geer.

Miss Viva Richardson has returned to East Northfield Seminary, attending symphonies in New Haven and Boston, before reaching Northfield.

It is expected that Rev. Howard Stephenson will come to Jewett City the middle of the week, as he is recovering slowly. His [illegible] been invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richardson, where he can regain his strength under the care of Mrs. Richardson, who is a graduate nurse. The conference of churches will be postponed indefinitely, as it was to be held here the first week in April.

Miss Jean Burleson spent the week-end in Hartford and returned with her sister, Mrs. Richard Meyer of New Britain, who will spend the Easter recess at E. F. Burleson's.

Palms were distributed at the high mass at St. Mary's church on Sunday. The churches were decorated with ferns and palms and the sermons and music were in accordance with Palm Sunday.

The marriage of Miss Clara Wilde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilde of Glasgo and Earl Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray of Jewett City takes place in the Jewett City Baptist church at 1 o'clock this (MMonday) afternoon.

All outside automobile traffic obliged to call at the borough, in accordance with their Saturday schedules, brought reports of the very muddy conditions of the roads. At one time in the forenoon 14 trucks were reported mired between Oneco and the borough line. A portion of the local bread supply for the town, comes by automobile express from Providence. The trip is made ordinarily via Putnam and Danielson in three hours. Saturday one of the bread trucks, was five hours getting from Putnam to Jewett City. Notwithstanding several unloadings, he was stuck in three feet of mud at several points.

ed the horse and I rode him to the barn. When I was coming around the house, an old shepherd dog that followed close behind, bit the horse's heel, which was something that I never knew him to do before. The horse, not liking this, leaped into the air and ran full speed for the barn. I tried my best to hang on and also tried in various ways to stop the horse but it was of no use.

Fortunately my mother was on the porch and when she saw the horse running for the barn with me hanging from his side by one hand and my feet tangled up in the reins, she ran quickly to the barn and closed the door so that the horse could not enter. She caught the horse when he came up to the door and held him while I got off.

Likes to Read.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awakes. I like to read very much. I have read all of my own books. One day when I had finished all of my own books I found one of my mother's books. I sat down and started to read it. It took me a few days. Now I am reading one of my father's books. The name of it is The Young Showman's Triumph.

Two Cats And a Calf.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our pets. One is a large, gray cat. We call him Thomas. He is very gentle and when I pick him up he purrs very loud.

We have another cat, she is gray and white. We call her Spotsy. But I don't like her. She is very cross and growls when I pick her up. We have a calf. She is black and white. When I go near her she jumps. One day I patted her on the head and she tried to chew my sleeve.

Visit to the North Pole.

Dear Uncle Jed: One night I dreamed I went to the North Pole. On my way I went through Canada. They asked me for my passport. I told them I had none so they let me go. Finally I came to some Eskimos and they asked me where I was going. I told them to the North Pole. They said, "Stay with us tonight and we will take you there in the morning." When morning came they took a big sled with five dogs and we started for the North Pole.

We reached the North Pole after a long ride. All I could see there was ice and snow. We were there an hour or so and then we went home again. They asked me where I lived. I told them, and they said they would take me home.

When I woke up I could not believe that I was home. Then I dressed and told my mother about it. She said it was a funny dream, but it would never come true.

Life of George Washington.

Dear Uncle Jed: George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732 in Virginia. His father's name was Augustine Washington. He was a planter. His mother's name was Mary Ball. His father died when George was eleven years old and left the estate to Lawrence Washington. George was always chosen leader in school. George had a good education.

At the age of sixteen he became a surveyor for Lord Fairfax. Later he became a public surveyor. His brother died and left him the estate and he had to take care of a small girl.

Washington married Martha Custis. Washington and his wife would go fox hunting together. Washington was six feet tall and weighed over two hundred pounds. Washington had a friend in Lebanon, Jonathan Trumbull. Trumbull was governor thirteen years in Connecticut. Washington was commander-in-chief of the American army.

Washington was elected the first president and was re-elected. He would not serve another term. Washington died of pneumonia at Mount Vernon in 1799. Washington was first in peace and first in the hearts of his fellow countrymen.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have two little dogs. One is named Leo and the other is named Prince. When I go anywhere they follow me. One day my brother went to set a trap and they followed him. I couldn't find them, so they did not eat for a whole day. Prince can bark but Leo can not. They are only two months old. Many people come to my house and want to take them away for they are gentle and cunning.

The Courage of a Girl.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day three British officers went to their general's headquarters. While they were walking, one became hungry, so he said, "Should we stop in this house for dinner?"

To that all agreed. They knocked at the door, and asked if they could stop and have dinner. The woman said they could. In the house was a little girl of seven years, playing. When she saw the officers' swords, she hid under the table, because she was always afraid of a sword. At that time the Revolutionary war was beginning, and her father was a captain in the American army.

Soon the officers summoned dinner, and after she gave them dinner they demanded that she should go out of the room. Soon they started to talk about their plans. They said they would capture her father and keep him a prisoner. When the girl heard this she went out from under the table to the back door to escape and tell her father.

Soon as the door was locked, one of the officers heard it. He asked if they heard it, but they said they moved the chair. While they were talking the little girl told her father about it. Then he and his neighbors attacked them, and you may be sure that they were taken prisoners instead of their taking the girl's father. The girl was always admired for her bravery.

A Little Lame Boy.

Dear Uncle Jed: As I was walking along a road last summer I stopped to rest near what looked like a thicket of bushes. As I was waiting I heard something that sounded like the clucking of a hen. When I approached the spot where the trees grew I noticed something that looked very white.

On entering among the trees I saw a small cottage with shrubs and trees growing in front of it. On the eastern side, where the sun rose, it was completely covered with growing vines. Further away were lilac bushes, smelling leaves and peonies. In back there was a large brook with many ducks swimming about on the swift flowing waters, bird housed with beautifully colored birds in them, a box with six white rabbits and hens walking about with their tiny yellow chickens and scrutching in the dirt. On the west where the sun set was a large vegetable and flower garden.

In this house lived a little lame boy of twelve, and his aged mother. He was very happy even though he was unable to walk for he could wheel himself in his chair all about the house and outside, too. Very often he went outside picking flowers, watching the chickens, rabbits or ducks as they went about in the sunshine, or else he read to himself or to his mother.

The Hungry Birds.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl six years old. This is my first letter. I am glad the snow is going because the little birds have been so hungry all winter. I have tried to keep some of them fed. Every morning I put crumbs out in the yard for them. A large flock would come and they always ate the crumbs.

Gave Apple to Rabbit.

Dear Uncle Jed: I go to school every day except Saturday and Sunday. I live about two miles from school. I get up in the morning about six o'clock. I do not have any chores to do, except get ready for school.

Before going to school I wash my face and hands, comb my hair, eat my breakfast, brush my teeth and put up my dinner. I am then ready to start for school.

I start for school around seven o'clock. I walk a mile, where I meet the team which carries the children from my district to school. I go on the team the rest of the way and reach school at half-past eight.

The other morning as I was walking up to the corner where I meet the team I saw a rabbit run across the road in front of me. He was quite tame and looked as though he were hungry. I had an apple in my pocket and I gave it to him. He began to eat it at once and seemed quite pleased. I have not seen my little friend since.

Wonders in My Home.

Dear Uncle Jed: Would you like to hear the conversation I had with my uncle the other night? Here it is:

"Here," spoke my uncle last night at the dinner table, "I sat upon a chair made of wood from the cole forests of Canada. The seat is of cane, imported from an island in the Pacific Ocean. The rubber tips on the legs are from Brazil. My plate may be from China. The napkin and tablecloth may have come from Ireland. The knife and fork were brought from Scotland. My bacon may be from Chicago, and the coffee is from Brazil and Java.

You notice, concluded my uncle, that many people travel to see the wonders in other lands and never really observe what is wonderful in their own.

A Fourth of July Visit.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. One day I went to see a friend of mine. It was the Fourth of July. I went with my father, mother, sisters and my brother. We had ice cream and cake. We had our pictures taken on a rock by the water.

After we had our pictures taken we went in the water and I got my dress wet. There was a man who stood on a board by the brook. The board went into the water and he went in the water, too, and got his shoes wet, and had to take them off. Afterwards I was in the water without my shoes or stockings. I stumbled over a rock and got all wet, and had to go in and take my things and get them dry.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN.

When Mr. Myers of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, stepped into the drug store and asked the druggist for the best medicine he had in his store for women's ills, is it any wonder he was handed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Mrs. L. K. Myers in writing of it says: "I had been weak, run down, and had a pain in my left side for a long time, so I could not do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me in a short time so I was able to do all of my housework, including washing and ironing, and now I feel fine all the time." As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for benefiting 98 women out of every 100 women who take it, it will pay every suffering woman to try it.

POETRY

THE PASSING OF A PALM.

Weary of my wanderings
In the rank of life,
Woefully defeated
In the daily strife,

Lo, I saw one passing
With a spray of palm,
And my soul sang in me
Triumphant psalm.

Victors of the ages
Somehow seemed to be
Through those glowing branches
Reaching help to me.

Saints and martyrs hailed me.
Yea, the Christly One
Sent His bidding through me—
"On to victory sun!"

What a flinching coward
I had lately been:
Oh, transforming power
Of the holy green!

Calm I rose to struggle.
Victory in view.
What a mighty marvel
Just a palm may do!

LOVE LIGHTENS THE LOAD.

There is oh, so little of love, lad,
And oh, so great is the need
For the courage to love the richly, lad,
And strength for the kindly deed.
For 'tis love that lightens the load, son,
And builds new hope in a man
(Who ndespair has engulfed and wrecked, son),
And tells the soul that it can
Bring a new and a finer structure
To stand where the old has stood—
And to us is given the chance, lad,
To nurture love as we should.

So abide in the paths of love, lad,
And keep when you hear it call,
For it brings to the soul that peace, lad,
That soothes when the shadows fall.
When the hearts of us all want love, son,
And welcome its touch, though late,
So again I adjure and pray you,
To give to the child its love.
And forget not the lowly neighbor,
Nor Him who watches us.

DEATH OF SARAH BERNHARDT WORLD'S GREATEST ACTRESS

Uraemic Poisoning Ended Brilliant Life at the Age of 78 at Her Home in Paris—Messages of Sympathy Are Pouring in From All Parts of the World—Besides 61 Years on the Stage Madam Bernhardt Had Been Somewhat of a Poet, Novelist, Painter and Sculptor.

Paris, March 26.—(By The A. P.)—Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son, Maurice, at one minute before eight o'clock tonight. In life she had had an amazing power of emotion, of marvelous realism and pathos in the acting of death scenes. At the end of her days she quietly drifted away into eternity, tied after her long fight against death, which she did not wish, but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned, and half an hour before she passed away, those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though, knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live throughout the night.

Mme. Bernhardt died in a large room on the second floor of her home with windows wide open on the Boulevard Pereire, the noise of trucks and the railroad keeping up a low roar to which she long had been accustomed.

It was the sudden closing of these windows, opened on the finest day of spring, that gave the signal to those watching and waiting without that Bernhardt was dead.

Death was due to a renewed attack of uraemic poisoning, which began Friday, but the actress astonished her physicians by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last December when hope had several times had been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon when symptoms of the gravest nature supervened, but Bernhardt rallied and regained lucidity. The priest administered Extreme Unction, which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hands and head, too weak to speak.

The widow of Edmond Rostand, whose fame is linked with that of Bernhardt and the poet's son, Maurice Rostand, were at the bedside. Bernhardt's grandson, M. Grosse, Brought the first flowers into the death chamber—mauve and white lilacs. Flowers came from many friends quickly, and soon the room was heaped with them, those from the family and dearest friends being placed on the bed.

The actress's son, Maurice, aided by the family physician, Dr. Marot, arranged his mother's hair and clothing and readjusted her position on the large bed on which she died, facing the windows. This room is filled with antique furniture, chosen by the actress herself, with the walls covered with tapestries, except where hang many autographed photographs of sovereigns and great personage who were her friends.

Many hundreds of friends called during the three days of her last illness but few of them were permitted to see her. Aside from the members of the household and family and her closest intimates only Dr. Marot and the other physicians visited the sick room.

Messages of sympathy came from all the world, and from all parts of France friends journeyed to Paris so they might come personally to the house to make inquiries and leave an expression of their affection.

Carriages and automobiles filled past the entrance from morning until night the whole world seemed to be watching with the group of six doctors, hoping for recovery, but regretfully realized that a great career was ending.

Arthur Mayer, editor of La Ganlois, who had known Mme. Bernhardt for many years, was the last caller; he arrived five minutes before her death, but realizing what was happening, left without seeing her. Just as he departed the windows of the bed chamber were closed, and a moment later Dr. Marot appeared and informed the newspapermen, who had been keeping watch day and night;

"Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has just expired in the arms of her son. With her were Maurice Rostand, Mme. Edmond Rostand and her grandson, Monsieur Grosse."

Bernhardt's last stage role, in Sacha Guitry's play "Un Sujet De Roman" never filled; she insisted she would appear, but the doctors and her family interfered and prevented her. Her last appearance was in the motion picture made in her home, which remains unfinished.

Three score and one years on the stage did not fill her life; she found time to be poet, novelist, painter and sculptor, yet seemed never too busy to see her many friends and always seeking something more to do.

The loss of her right leg at the beginning of the war caused her to limit her movements on the stage, but did not hinder her appearances. She took her misfortune bravely, played for the soldiers and used to the utmost her wonderful voice, which seemed never to tire; only of late years had it begun to lose something of its marvelous quality. Her inability to walk well and the increasing disabilities of age of late greatly restricted her stage roles and latterly she has appeared only seated.

Biographical Sketch of Bernhardt.

Madam Sarah Bernhardt, who at 70 years of age seemed still a girl, was known to every land as "the world's greatest actress". What dissent there might have been to this estimate, and however far her detractors ventured in their attempts to minimize her right to that distinction, the numberless admirers of the "Divine Sarah" remained convinced that never before had the stage produced an actress capable of soaring to such heights in the realm of emotional drama.

Three generations have praised and even worshipped the art of Bernhardt, and hundreds upon thousands of people around the world have thronged to see and marvel at her acting without understanding the French language, which she invariably employed upon the stage. Once, in Rio de Janiro, she was called before the curtain more than 200 times by a wildly enthusiastic audience, and many times, in other parts of the world, she was obliged to answer scores of curtain calls at a single performance.

The long life-story of Bernhardt is almost legendary. Closely woven with dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage, it was set down by herself in a lengthy volume published many years ago, and, as one of her critics has said, "through the pages of the book peers the face of a woman, a little tired, weavy of her own reputation, and blessed with more than her share of the vanities of the sex." As she and others have told the story, it is summed up here:

The date of her birth, the record of which was destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1845. Her mother was Dutch and Jewish, and her natural father a French official.

As a child Bernhardt spent much of her time with relatives in Paris, and at the age of 13 was sent to the Grand Champ Convent, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play given by the children. Even at this early age, the pale and sickly child is said to have displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

After a year or two at the convent, she conceived a passionate desire to become a nun. To this her mother recorded unqualified opposition, and suggested a theatrical career instead.

"She's too thin to be an actress," said her god-father, "Let her be a nun."

"I won't be an actress", little Sarah categorically exclaimed. "Rachel is an actress. She came to the convent and walked around the garden, then she had to sit down because she couldn't get her breath. They fetched her something to bring her around, but, she was so pale, oh, so pale. I was very sorry for her, and the nuns told me that what she was doing was killing her, for she was an actress, and so I won't be an actress, I won't."

But fate had determined otherwise, and at the age of 14 Bernhardt was sent to a conservatory. At the end of the first year she won second prize for tragedy. A subscription among the players at the Comedie Francaise enabled her to spend another year at the conservatory, and upon the completion of this she carried off second prize for comedy. Her first public appearance was at the Comedie Francaise in August, 1862. She took a minor part without any marked success.

Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelai in a French translation of "King Lear" at the Odeon. Then came Queen in Victor Hugo's "Ruy Blas", and above all as Zanzett of Francois Coppee's "Le Passant," which she played in 1869.

Then came the Franco-Prussian war. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. In 1871 she was made a life member of the Comedie Francaise. She clashed repeatedly with M. Perrin, the manager, over the roles she should take, and once in a fit of pique fled from the theatre and decided to give up the stage. She plunged into sculpture. Her first piece, "After the Storm"—finished some years later—won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin only to break with him again, incurring a forfeit of 4,000 pounds which she paid.

Years ago a jealous rival of her theatrical career published a satire entitled "The Story of Sarah Barnum" in which the love-affairs of the actress, real and alleged, were shamelessly laid bare. Bernhardt resorted to the horse-whip to punish the author.

In 1882 the actress was married to Javques Damala, a handsome Greek who had made a name in the theatrical world through his work in "The Ironmaster". He later took a minor part in one of her plays, but after a year on tour they separated. Later she took him back to her home and nursed him through a fatal siege of consumption.

Mme. Bernhardt's natural son, Maurice, showed no inclination to follow the profession of his mother, and after spending a short time in the French army, he married a Russian princess. She died after bearing him a daughter, and Maurice Bernhardt took a Parisienne as his second wife.

Two of the treasures in her Paris home invariably excited the interest of visitors. One was the skull given her by Victor Hugo, on which he had written autograph verse to the actress and the other was the coffin in which she occasionally slept. This strange bed, she explained, was padded with "memories of her dead life"—faded rose leaves and letters yellow with age.

She once expressed a wish that this coffin be her final resting place, and in 1922 the idea was elaborated upon when she bought for $100 from the French government a little granite island in the Bay of Biscay, not far from her summer home at Belle Isle, where she planned to build a magnificent tomb crowned with a marble statue of herself, the arms outstretched as if beckoning to harrassed fishermen imperilled by the storms.

Death had a weird fascination for Bernhardt, and for years she contemplated it with what appeared to be an uncanny humor. The wish she most often expressed was that she might die in the midst of her triumphs. "I shall play until death," she said, "and the death I hope for is the death Sir Henry Irving died," Her English conception of Windham will fall in line next week with other towns, in a roundup of personal tax delinquents. This announcement was made Monday morning at the office of the personal tax collector. The tax was due in February but Personal Tax Collector Michael E. Sullivan extended the time through the month of March. Last Saturday the collector sent out over five hundred "last call letters" to delinquents. In the letters were notifications in the form of a tax bill and they were mailed to the person's last known address. The present week is the last opportunity to pay up and next Monday morning a list of those who have failed to pay will be made out and handed over to the police court officials. Warrants will then be made out for the arrest of all delinquents and they will be ordered to appear in court.

Over $11,000 on the list of 1922 has already been collected by Collector Sullivan, 6311, of which 3633 were women and 2678 men, were presented by the enumerators, on the list. Nearly three hundred men on the list claimed exemption from the tax for various reasons.

P. U. HOLDS HEARING ON JITNEY LINES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, March 26—The Public Utilities Commission represented by Charles C. Elwell held a hearing at the Springs House Monday morning upon the applications for a jitney license between Stafford Springs and Staffordville. There were two applicants one of which was George J. Gary and the other was the Black and White Jitney Corporation which operates the motor bus line between Willimantic and Stafford Springs. Mr. Gary would make four trips a day each way and the Black and White Corporation would do likewise making their destination Staffordville instead of Stafford Springs. F. F. Patten, selectman Arthur M. Cody, Judge William H. Heald and Judge M. D. O'Connell all spoke of the necessity and convenience such a line would be. The Black and White Corporation represented that they are capitalized for $50,000 and that their drivers would be members of the corporation. Frank Poluda a member of the corporation and one of the drivers said that the corporation was in a position to meet the requirements of the public and that their charges would be at the rate of five cents per mile which would make the price 20 cents to Staffordville. Mr. Gary would charge 15 cents to Hollow, 20 cents to Hydeville and 25 cents to Staffordville. Mr. Remington of Willimantic said that the corporation was well qualified to operate the jitney and that within a few days a new 25 passenger bus would be put on the Willimantic-Stafford line. After the hearing, Commissioner Elwell rode over the line. Decision was reserved and will be given in a few days.

VIRL

Once I longed for the open sea,
For its sheets of gray and its skies of gray,
For the roar and crash of its melody
Afloat from the sands by night and day.

Longed for the chill, salt tang of its breath
Blown over monotonous meadows of dulse;
For its strength defying or fear or death,
Obeying no will but the wild heart's pulse.

Longed for the storms, where the north wind's whips
Beat the crests of the waves to hissing foam,
While the fluttering gulls were still, and the ships
Turned their bows once more from the shores of home.

When the rain swept down in a blinding sheet,
And earth and sky were of fog-veils swept,
And the only spot we could find for our feet
Seemed the only spot in the wide world left.

But now I long for the land-locked bays,
Secure from menace of wind or tide,
Where tall trees temper the sun's fierce rays,
And where only they who are old abide.

Long for a low gray house 'neath the pines,
Its dooryard with foxglove and larkspur gay;
With lilac thickets and tangled vines
To screen all sight of the sea away.

With apple orchards that stretch afar,
And poplars veiling the pinkest sky,
Leaving but room for the Evening Star
To light my way through the darkness nigh.

With no sound harsher than whirr of wings,
The lisp of leaves, the bob-o'-link's call,
A droway brook's muffled murmurings,
To break the blessed peace of it all.

Port after storm, where rain would stay,
To wait, alone, till one comes for me,
And leads to that land of Far-and-Away,
Where—it is said—"shall be no more sea."

LONGING.

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again!
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

Come, as thou can'st a thousand times
A messenger from radiant climes,
And smile on thy new world, and be
As kind to others as to me!

Or, as thou never can'st in sooth,
Come now, and let me dream it truth;
And part my hair, and kiss my brow,
And say: My lovel why sufferest thou?

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again!
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

—Matthew Arnold.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Palmgren is a fine chap. He takes things as they come."

"Yes. He took my rubbers yesterday."—Kasper (Stockholm).

Visitor—What is your new brother's name, Ethel?

Little Ethel—I don't know yet. We can't understand a word he says!"—Exchange.

Mother—Now, then, haven't yer just had a haircut? You're always craving after amusement.—Answers, London.

Marketman (much rushed)—Yes, ma'am; just a minute; my wife will be here.—Detroit News.

"Try that bottle yonder."

"I don't care much for this brand."

"Well, you have the wrong bottle. This is the turpentine. Try this one."

"No, I think I've had about enough for one time."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The people of this country alone breathe out every year a total of about 45,000,000 metric tons of carbon dioxide.

Probably the highest legal position held by any woman in the world is that of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general of the United States.

A handful of Klamath Indians in southern Oregon own about 8,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber, standing in one of the finest tracts of virgin western yellow pine in the whole United States.

Probably the smallest fish in the world is to be found in the mountain lake, Buhi, on the island of Luzon, Philippines. This fish, which the natives term the smarapan, is the most minute vertebrate animal known to science. It weighs only half a grain, and half an inch is the maximum length.

The Lincoln highway connects 12 states and is laid out between New York and San Francisco as directly as possible consistent with the topography of the country. Its length is about 3,384 miles, but this will be shortened by improvements and the elimination of curves. It is the longest road in the world and is to be of concrete wherever practicable.

A European doctor who recently died at the age of 108 attributed his longevity to his method of sleeping. He said: "When you go to bed always take a compass with you and with the aid of the compass place your bed in such a position that your head points directly north and your feet due south. Sleep soundly in a horizontal position and you will live long."—Scientific American.

MacDowell of Cleveland was the star of today's play. MacDowell started off strong in the five-man events with a total of 582, ran into some bad breaks in the doubles, counting 608, and came back strong in the singles with 713, which gave him second place in that event and an aggregate of 2,003 for the lead in the all-events. ENGLISH INTER. POLO TEAM DEFEATS SAND HILL BLUES

Pinehurst, N. C., March 26—The English international indoor polo team which failed to wrest the John R. Townsend cup from American players in their recent New York tournament, finished its first outdoor American series today by defeating the Sand Hill Blues, 9 to 6, half of the loser's total being conceded by handicap.

Their victory gave the invaders three victories and one defeat in the series. They lost the first to the Blues and won the next two from the Greens, the contest today evening the tally with the Blues.

F. W. Egan, captain and star of the English, still was unable to resume the saddle, having been injured last week and was replaced by Major C. K. Rhinehart of Fort Bragg, a regular member of the Sand Hill Greens. Major Rhinehart made three of the victors' goals. The English team galloped into the aggressive and had not the Sand Hill backs showed excellent defensive work in front of their own goal the margin of points would have been larger.

JOHNSON KNOCKS OUT THOMPSON IN 30 SECONDS

Boston, March 26.—Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, knocked out Ray Thompson, of New York, in 30 seconds here tonight. The Iowa heavyweight sent Thompson reeling to the floor with a punch to the jaw after 12 seconds of milling and the New Yorker stayed down until the count of eight. A blow to the right temple felled him for the last time.

Johnson entered the ring weighing 195 pounds and Thompson scaled 188 pounds. Thompson opened with a left for Johnson's face. The latter countered with a blow to Thompson's heart that sent the New Yorker back. With lightning speed Johnson's right hand shot out straight as a piston rod against Thompson's jaw and his opponent went down in a heap. Twelve seconds only had elapsed. Eight was counted before Thompson arose.

Thompson, shaky, but willing, closed in as an attempt to clinch. The Iowan's right hand crashed against his left temple and he sank to the floor—knocked out. A brief 20 seconds saw the end of the fight.

KILLILEA AND WILSON HAVE DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP

Boston, March 26.—Marty Killilea, who has managed Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion outside of New York state, during Wilson's ring career, announced tonight that he and Wilson had dissolved partnership. Killilea said that the move was made at his own suggestion, and against the champion's wishes.

"Johnny and I are parting the best of friends," he said. "Don't run away with the idea that that boy can't fight, as some people like to say. Wilson's a great fighter. At the middleweight limit he will knock out Greb or any of these fellows. But they never gave him a chance."

Killilea said he was going into business in Boston. He was leaving the fight game, he said, because he was disgusted with the way Tex Rickard and the New York boxing commission handled the game."

SNOW PREVENTS PRINCETON NINE FROM PRACTICING

Princeton, N. J., March 26.—With the opening contest of the season with Villanova scheduled for Wednesday, flurries of snow here this afternoon prevented Princeton's baseball squad from holding practice out of doors. Early this afternoon Coach Clark took his outfielders to University field, but found the condition of the ground poor and recalled the squad.

The team will play the University of Virginia Friday and on Saturday will meet Georgetown in Washington.

TORONTO CANCELS GAME WITH BROWN FOR JUNE 9TH

Providence, R. I., March 26.—Because the University of Toronto baseball team has not been able to schedule enough games in New England to make an invasion of that territory during the coming season, it has cancelled its game with Brown university for June 9, according to information received today by Manager McCormick of the Brunonian nine.

NORTH AND SOUTH GOLF REACHES THE SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., March 26.—Miss Bessie Collett, of Metacomet, national and North-South women's golf champion, Miss Marion Hollins, of Westbrook, former national title holder, Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, Ohio, Ohio state champion, and Mrs. K. C. Allen of Winnipeg will meet tomorrow in the last round of the semi-finals of the North-South championship tournament.

Miss Collett, who today defeated Miss Frances Stebbins of Brookline, will oppose Miss Fordyce, who won over Miss Sarah Fownes of Pittsburgh, and Miss Hollins, who defeated Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, will play against Mrs. Allen, who won from Mrs. Charles Dulles of Fox Hills.

In today's play, Miss Collett in her match with Miss Stebbins, disposed of the first eight holes in 56 and won on the twelfth green, 3 up and 6 to play. Miss Collett spoiled her chance to break 40 on the outward journey by taking a 5 on the short ninth hole.

Mrs. Hollins defeated Mrs. Barlow up and 2 to play, in the feature contest of the day. In the course of the 18 holes, Miss Hollins visited 10 traps and went into the woods five times, but reached the turn in 44 and was even fives when the match ended. She showed equal facility for playing into and out of trouble. She won the first, fourth and seventh holes in par figures and lost the sixth to Mrs. Barlow's 4, leaving herself 2 up at the turn. Mrs. Barlow conceded the tenth, after taking three to clear a trap, and each of the next six holes were halves.

Mrs. Allen won over Mrs. DuBois, ousted Miss Fownes, 3 up and 7 to 2 up and 1 to play. Miss Fordyce delayed.

RICHARDS AND HUNTER MAY COMPETE AT WIMBLEDON

New York, March 26—Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., two of America's "first ten" in tennis ranking, may go abroad this summer to compete in the British championships at Wimbledon, it was learned today.

Hunter and Richards, it was said, are considering the trip but have reached no definite decision as yet. Richards has never tasted England's historic turf but Hunter displayed sensation form there in the world's championship of 1921, losing a five-set struggle in the semi-finals to B. I. C. Norton, the South African, who went through to the challenge round where he was beaten by William T. Tilden, 2nd, present American titleholder.

Hunter will defend his title as national indoor champion in the tournament beginning here the last of this week. Richards, a former indoor titleholder, also is entered in the singles and will pair with Hunter in the doubles.

KEARNS SAYS DEMPSEY HAS THREE BOUTS IN VIEW

Chicago, March 26.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, stopping here today on his way from New York to Los Angeles to confer with the heavyweight champion, said that three fights had been tentatively arranged for Dempsey and that he was now on his way to the Pacific coast to discuss the offers.

Offers have been received, he said, for gates with Luis Firpo, the Argentine fighter, Jess Willard and Harry Wills. Not only have the offers been received, Kearns said, but there was assurance of a promoter who will stage the bouts, and a location has been found for at least one. He would not discuss the location, stating that a conference with Dempsey would be necessary before positive statements were made.

Kearns said that Dempsey was anxious to fight and indicated that Dempsey might enter the ring shortly after the Floyd Johnson and Jess Willard meet in New York on May 12. He said that plans were being considered which would result in Dempsey being seen in action twice during the summer and fall. Kearns left for the coast tonight.

PREDICT FINALISTS FOR DAVIS CUP CONTEST

New York, March 26—Manuel Alonso, and his brother Jose Alonso, stars of last year's Spanish Davis cup team, who have arrived in the United States to take up business careers, predicted today that France and possibly Spain or the British Isles would be the finalists in the European zone competition in this year's Davis cup contest.

The Alonsos said they expected to leave for Allentown, Pa., within a few days to arrange business plans and probably would take up residence in Philadelphia. They plan to join one or more Philadelphia tennis clubs and to participate in American tournaments during the coming season, including the national championships at Germantown, beginning September 10.

They do not expect to return to Spain before the spring of 1924 when they will practice on hard courts preliminary to entering the Olympic games championships at Paris in July.

BATTERY B DEFEATS THE FAST WHIRLWINDS

With Lightning Fenton, the star of the game, Battery B turned back the fast Whirlwinds by a score of 37 to 32 Monday evening at the state armory. Fenton featured with a record of 3 putouts in 3 innings. Willie Hanger also showed a wonderful brand of ball. For the Whirlwinds their third sacker and shortstop featured. The battery took the lead in the first inning and was never headed.

PETER THE GREAT, FAMOUS SIRE, DIES OF PARALYSIS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25—Peter the Great, famous racing sire of the stable of Stoughton A. Fletcher, died today following a stroke of paralysis. One of the greatest money earners on the track during his racing career, the famous trotter, who held a mark of 2.07 3-4, was retired several years ago by Mr. Fletcher. Peter the Great sired 549 standard track performers, which is said to be more than twice the number sired by any other racing stallion. He was 28 years old and was purchased by Mr. Fletcher in 1916 for $50,000.

FIRPO MATCHED TO FIGHT FARMER LODGE ON WILLARD-JOHNSON CARD

New York, March 26.—Louis Angel Firpo, South American contender for the heavyweight championship, has been matched with Farmer Lodge, of Minneapolis, for a 15-round contest at the Charity Boxing Show on May 12 in the Yankee stadium, Tex Rickard announced today. This bout will precede the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson encounter.

Lodge was picked as Firpo's opponent from a field of several candidates, including Jack Renault, of Canada, and Bob Roper, of Chicago. Roper, it was understood, was practically signed for the bout until William Muldoon, chairman of the state athletic commission, interfered and barred him on the ground that he was not a suitable match for the giant from the Argentine.

Lodge has gained little recognition in heavyweight ranks to date but he is a rival of Jess Willard in size, weighing around 235 pounds, and has earned something of a reputation as a "jaw-breaker" as a result of fracturing the chins of two opponents with knockout punches. He broke Paul Sampson's jaw in the second round of a contest at Madison Square Garden in 1921 and later administered the same punishment to Cliff Kramer in the third round.

The westerner has boxed Billy Miske twice, losing once, by a knockout in the fourth round of a bout in 1921, and also met Dan O'Dowd and Fred Fulton. He lost a fight to Carl Morris, erstwhile Oklahoma "white hope," when he broke his hand in the ninth round. Lodge is 6 feet, 3 inches in height and has an unusual reach of 83 inches.

Rickard has completed a card of four bouts for the Yankee stadium show, all of which will witness heavyweights in action. Young Bob Fitzsimmons, son of the former titleholder, has been matched with Harry Drake, English light heavyweight, for six rounds, while Carlos Scaglia of the Argentine, light heavyweight sparring partner of Firpo, will make his American ring debut in a four-round encounter with Charles McKenna, of Greenwich Village.

PITTSFIELD TO START WARMING UP APRIL 16TH

The Berkshire Eagle has the following to say regarding the Pittsfield team that will train here during the early part of April:

"Definite arrangements have been completed as the result of which the Pittsfield baseball club will do its training at Norwich, Conn.

The matter had been under consideration and negotiations had been on for several weeks, but not until now have all arrangements been completed.

Pittsfield players will make their headquarters at the Wauregan hotel, the best hotel in the city, and practice and games will take place on the fair grounds. This field is enclosed and is capable of accommodating a crowd much greater than will ever attend games there.

Ordered to Report.

The Pittsfield players were today notified to report at Norwich on Tuesday, April 10. A stay of two weeks will be made there. Present plans call for at least two games—Sundays, April 15 and 22—in Norwich. Negotiations are also on for one and possibly two games, on Thursday, April 19—Patriots' day. It is also possible that a game may be played on Saturday, April 21. The players may return to Pittsfield on Monday, April 20, and practice will be held on Wahconah park the following day if the field is in condition.

It is hopeful that Wahconah park will be in shape for the opening league game on Wednesday, April 25, when the reorganized Worcester club will be the attraction. There has been a great amount of snow on the field and if necessary some of this will be removed with a view to getting the field in playing condition as early as possible.

Can Make Auto Trip.

Playing preliminary games at Norwich on Sundays will permit Pittsfield fans to make the trip by automobile. Norwich is between 50 and 60 miles from Springfield, there being a fine road between the two cities. A numbe rof Pittsfield fans have already arranged for parties to make the trip.

The city of Norwich has had nothing but independent ball in recent years. And fast independent ball was what was given the fans by the Knights of Columbus last season.

It was back in 1907 that Norwich last saw minor league ball. The city was then represented in the Connecticut league. The following year the Norwich team was transferred to Meriden. Later it was sent to Northampton.

Eddie Bridges With Norwich.

"Eddie" Bridges, now a resident of Pittsfield, was a member of the Norwich club during the years 1905-6-7. The club was a pennant winner in 1906. The team had been transferred to Northampton when Bridges was secured by the Pittsburgh National league club. Later he was with the Boston Braves.

During the years that Bridges was with the Norwich club, the team was managed by Jack Tighe and Fred Crollius, the latter a noted Dartmouth athlete. Herman Bronkle, now manager of the Waterbury club, was playing with Waterbury, and "Bill" Rodgers, the new manager of the Albany club, was also in the league in 1907. Paddy O'Connor, the manager of the Hartford club, was catcher for the Springfield club in 1905. John Hummell was then playing second base for Holyoke. "Bill" Luby, now an attorney in Meriden, Conn., was a pitcher on the Springfield club, and "Marty" O'Gara, now a member of the police force at Dalton, was a twirler on the Meriden team.

John Golden, who later played with Pittsfield, was a member of the Norwich team of 1907, Jack Hannifin, who umpired in the Eastern league in 1921, was with Norwich in 1905."

MOORE LOOKS LIKE SURE WINNER OF SKATING EVENTS

New York, March 26—Joe Moore, metropolitan skating champion, virtually clinched the middle Atlantic skating championship title tonight by winning the two events of the second day of the series, the half-mile and mile races and boosting his total to 100. Paul Foreman, Iceland A. C., and Bobby Hearn, New Rose, A. A., were tied tonight for second place with 36 points each.

Moore won the half-mile in 1:38 1-2, finishing seven yards ahead of Foreman and Hearn who crossed the line at a dead heat. Moore then won the mile in 3:36 4-5, two feet ahead of George Pickering, Ice Boat and Yacht Club. West Becker, Iceland Club, was third.

In the point score Roy Schwamkamp, Morningside A. C., and Pickering are tied for third place with 20 each and Becker and Sam Goldberg, Belmont Street Club are tied for fourth with 10 points each.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Lakeland, Fla., March 27.—A trip to certain American League managers with pennant asperations:: When your pocket schedule informs you that series with the Cleveland Indians approaches, groom your best pitchers, see to it that all your athletes abstain from coffee and other insomnia-producing beverages, and polish off your sinside plays. For Tristram Speaker's nine may be hard to beat this year.

Because it is a reconstructed team, and because there are b. b. machines in the league that we believe will run more smoothly day in and day out, we shall not predict anything big for Cleveland—perhaps one might call the Ohio nine a "dusky nag" at that. But when you have watched the Indians put pep and punch into their practice work in Lakeland, and appreciate what a fine spirit exists among the manager and his pals, you know there are tough days ahead for some of the clubs that expect to finish "1, 2, 3."

Last August Speaker realised that he must change the personnel of his diamond company if he expected to do a winning business in the future. He decided that he needed fresh and younger men in four positions. And the result of Spoke's deliberations was that he chopped from his salary roll four famous veterans—Stuffy McInnis, first baseman; Jack Graney and Joe Wood, outfielders, and Les Nunamaker, catcher. Larry Gardner, third baseman, was retained, but as utility infielder and coach.

In order that he might get the catcher and third baseman he wanted, Tris requested his financial backers to slip the rubber from the bankroll, which they did. Glenn Myatt, of the Milwaukee club, who led the American Association in batting in '22, averaging .370, and who was rated the best young backstop in the league, was the first and most important purchase. He cost 'bout sixty-five thousand smackers.

To the Kansas City club of the same league were shipped $35,000 and players to acquire Lutzke a .329 batter and a lad who has the hands to get the bad hops as well as the good ones at the torrid third base corner. Homer Summa, who led the Texas League in batting with an average of .362 and who was coached by Bob Bescher, former Red outfielder, until he chased flies and runs based with all the dash and class that Bob once showed, did not cost a fortune, but Spoke thinks he will be well worth piles of jack after his first season with the Indians.

Now there you have the three principal purchases which were made by the Cleveland reconstructionists. Each one of the trio is a hard hitter who will add greatly to the offensive strength of the Indians. Myatt, who bats left-handed, will divide the backstopping with Steve O'Neill, right-handed sticker. But his uncanny way of getting under foul flies and his powerful and true throwing to bases make it certain that Glenn will be rated a regular catcher, which means that Speaker will direct what all managers crave, but few possess—a two-catcher team.

Convinced that Guisto, on first, will deliver 100 per cent. and that Lutzke on third will do likewise, Chief Spoke is not giving much thought to reservists. He has signed Wamby Wambsganss to second and Joe Sewell to shortstop. Wamby is twenty-nine, but still youthful in activity and spirit. Sewell is only twenty-three and should have a fine future before him. They were the regulars in the positions last campaign. Joe hit .299; Wamby was further down the line, but his blows were timely.

Stephenson will again be the all-round utility man for the infield, with Gardner ready to relieve Lutzke at third if that should become necessary. Frank Brower, who was obtained by the Indians in a trade with Washington, can do a good job or first-basing in an emergency. Spoke is not giving himself one moment's concern over his infield.

And, as previously stated, with Glenn Myatt and Steve O'Neill both top-notch back-stoppers, giving the Ohio A. L., entry a two-man catching team; and, with Luke Sewell, brother of Joe and an energetic lad with bright prospects, as the third maskman, the pivot position on the defense will be capably handled at all times.

Chief Speaker, a thirty-five-year-old with gray hairs, declares that he will play the season through, barring a meeting with misfortune. Not one of the athletes in Lakeland is hitting the ball harder, fielding better, or training more diligently than Spoke—though he has all the managerial burdens to carry on his shoulders. Jamieson, who hit .322 last year, will be the second sat in the garden. The kid Summa will round out a nifty trio, the one possible fly in the cream being the fact that all bat left-handed.

Then again, there is Joe Connolly, last year with Little Rock, who swings the right way and who had a mark of .322 in the Southern Association's pennant quarrel. Brower will be regarded as a substitute outfielder, but he hits from the left side of the plate.

If Speaker has a worry—one would not suppose he had to watch him scampering around out there on the ball field—it is over his curving corps. He has fourteen hurlers at the Lakeland camp, but at least five of them were youngsters with little training and not ready to be measured for major garments. And his veteran stars, upon whom he must depend for the psychological pitching punch, are wavery (does that word register?).

Stan Coveleskie, whose throws break because he uses saliva, had neuritis or some arm ailment last year and his record of seventeen wins and fourteen losses did not come up to what was expected from him. For one reason or another, George Uhle and Guy Morton, the other right-hand veterans who are on the 1923 staff did not turn in what Spoke thought was the right percentage of triumphs over defeats in the early part of the season. The three are slinging the apple competently at the conditioning camp. Will they do it in the games that count?

Sherry Smith is expected to be the star performer in the left-hand division Spoke is allowing Sherrod to hurl the baseball in the way that is natural for him—a thing that Smith says he was not permitted to do in Brooklyn. After Cleveland got Sherry last fall, Speaker remembered his work in the world's series of 1920 and thought him worth a trial—the southpaw pitched and won a hard game. He has possibilities for '23.

A Delight
That millions have discovered
Whiter, cleaner, safer teeth

Look about you—note the pretty teeth you see. Note how people smile to show them.

Think what added beauty those pearly teeth have brought.

Millions now clean teeth in a new way. You will use it when you know. This is to offer a ten-day test so you may find it out.

That dingy film

Teeth are coated with a dingy film—that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why tooth troubles were almost universal.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

So dental science sought for film combatants, and eventually found two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two great film destroyers were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Now it has come into world-wide use, largely by dental advice.

Other effects

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are vital tooth protectors. Soapy tooth pastes weaken them. That's one reason why they failed. Pepsodent multiplies their power.

Watch the change

The way to know is to make this test. Judge by what you see and feel. It will be a revelation.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will realize how important this is to the people in your home. Cut out coupon now.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

He brought out a saucer of honey.

At the Old Duck Pond

The old duck pond is free from ice,
And so is the bubbling brook,
And Granddaddy Bullfrog is once again
Through his spectacles, taking a look,
For all through the winter, down in the mud
He has slept like a Rip Van Winkle,
But it didn't take long for him to wake up
When he heard the blue bell's tinkle.

"Hell!" said Little Jack Rabbit as he came to the old duck pond, after leaving Busy Beaver, as I mentioned in the last story.

"Hell yourself," answered the old gentleman frog, wiping his spectacles on the tail of his coat. "Goodness me, but you've grown to be a pretty big bunny!"

Then he put on his spectacles again to see if he had made a mistake, but he hadn't for the little rabbit was three or four months older since the old frog had last seen him and why shouldn't he have grown? Goodness me, if he hadn't, I should be so worried I'd send for Dr. Quack, the famous duck doctor, to find out what was the matter.

"How are all the folks at home?"

"Pretty well, thank you," replied the little bunny. "Uncle Lucky has a touch of rheumatism in his left hind toe, but mother is very well."

Just then, all of a sudden, Teddy Turtle crawled up the bank with his little shell house on his back.

"You didn't expect me to cuddle up in a snow drift did you?" asked Teddy Turtle. "The mud at the bottom of the old duck pond is the best winter resort I know of," and he crawled away, for I guess he wanted to have the roof of his house mended, or maybe painted.

Well, anyway, after that, the little rabbit hopped along and pretty soon he saw Timmie Meadowmouse on the Sunny Meadow. A dark speck appeared way up in the bright blue sky, so he didn't stop to say a word but hopped into the Shady Forest, for he knew what the black speck was way up in the sky, ever so high. It was Robber Hawk and Little Jack Rabbit was too wise to say out in the open when Hungry Hawk was around. Oh, my yes, indeed and yes again.

Well, the little bunny hadn't gone very far when he came to where the Big Brown Bear lived. Right in front of the door, sitting on a bench in the sun warming himself, was Mr Bear.

"Well, well, well," he said, "I'm glad to see my little rabbit friend again," and he went inside and brought out a saucer of honey, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Doctors Say Colds Come From Germs
KILL THE GERMS WITH VAPOR-EZE

The way to get rid of a cold is to first get rid of the germs that causes it, by using Sterling's Vapor-Eze. Simply rub it on the throat and chest at bed time. Then, as you sleep, the healing, germ-destroying antiseptic vapor enters every air passage and penetrates right down to where the cold is lodged, killing the germ and breaking up the cold.

Sterling's Vapor-Eze is the quickest and safest relief for bad colds in head or chest, because it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and breaks up the congestion at the same time that it destroys the germ which causes the cold.

Sterling's Vapor-Eze is absolutely harmless. Do not stay stuffed up and miserable when relief is certain. Be sure to get the genuine Sterling's Vapor-Eze from your druggist. A 25 cent jar will do the trick. Look for the name "Sterling's."

THE SANTIAGO CONFERENCE.

The opening at the Pan-American conference of Santiago, Chile, assumes much of the setting required by such gatherings, but the meeting of these delegates has a special object to further define the relationship of the American republics and to bring them to the closest understanding. If such a thing is possible, the Pan-American conference should be more important than any of its predecessors. It will be held at a time when the United States is in a commanding position, and even though there has been a considerable reduction of our prestige from the high point it reached during the World war, we are still the most powerful nation in the western hemisphere.

This country has endeavored to take an altruistic attitude toward the smaller American republics. Its chief task has been, primarily, of a moral nature. It has declined to be the instrument of pressure for the settlement of disputes and even though there has been a considerable feeling of resentment in some quarters, there has not been a single instance where our judgment could be truthfully said to have been influenced by the possession of the power to enforce it. We have had no territorial designs and we have not attempted to dictate to them in the matter of their internal affairs. We have had opportunity to use our position to our own advantage and have refused to do so. We have striven to be helpful and friendly in every way that we could without infringing upon the rights of others.

It is only natural that there should be a desire on the part of all the nations of North and South America to work together for their own good. The closer they are bound together and the greater the faith in the purpose of each other the better and the results certain to be. It is also probable that there should be this disposition for better relations and greater cooperation than for any other of many years to come. In the guiding influences of outside diplomatic machinery. It has taken a long time to get the right atmosphere discussed to this matter but if it is accomplished through this and other conferences that have been held it means much to the peace of mind and development of the continent in the western hemisphere.

CROSSING ACCIDENTS.

In view of the fact that it undertaken a safety department for educating to the minimum the number of accidents and fatalities on its system, the report of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for the first year of special interest. Not only does it show that there with a reduction in both the number of persons killed and those injured at railroad crossings but it is maintained that the auto drivers are showing greater respect for the danger at such points.

Experience is a great teacher, even if it does require a considerable time for the lessons to reach some individuals, and it seems to have been getting valuable consideration from the statement made by the B. & O. road. In consideration of the facts set forth in the report for 1921 it is to be remembered that there was greater vehicular traffic at crossings than in previous years, due to the greater number of autos, and yet in spite of that there were but 64 fatalities and 171 persons injured while in 1920 the figures were 77 and 198.

It is however pointed out that while the drivers of pleasure cars are showing greater care the same cannot be said for the truck drivers. Many cases were due to the fact that the drivers of trucks came upon the crossings without realizing that a train was approaching, and when it was seen the machine was quickly abandoned. And yet how many showed the lack of precautions at such points is indicated by the figures which show that there were 74 instances where autos were driven against the sides of the locomotives or cars.

Care is the first requirement at railroad crossings on the part of the drivers of vehicles. Propelly distinguished with signs or signals there is little excuse for the many accidents and yet the records show that they continue to occur in spite of warnings, signals and a clear view of the track.

Efforts to educate the drivers seem to have accomplished something, but they must continue for a long time before all the avoidable accidents are eliminated.

THE END OF THE IOWA.

Not every battleship is permitted to play as conspicuous a part even as the old Iowa, which now rests on the bottom of the ocean off Balboa, sent there by the guns of bigger and better ships.

The Iowa was an old ship and yet it had not grown old without plenty of action. The Iowa was in its prime in the days of the Spanish war. It was then that the country was manifesting the same pride in it that it does today in the last word in a battleship. Just how much faith Fighting Bob Evans had in that vessel a quarter a century ago is indicated by his claim that it alone could lick the entire Spanish navy. It wasn't called upon to do that trick but it did its part. It not only went through

It has not been called upon to render such conspicuous service since that time, but it has [illegible] figured prominently in many [illegible] tests, dogs reaching the [illegible] made it an absolute ship. The Iowa was fitted with much [illegible] radio control. It was still [illegible] was used in testing [illegible] and torpedoes. And on the [illegible] was used as a target for the [illegible] of the United States fleet. There was no figuring that [illegible] the projectiles fell within a [illegible] that had been made. And when [illegible] just what did you suppose [illegible] was demonstrated beyond [illegible] effective. [illegible] Iowa would [illegible] target than there was [illegible] fleet would sink. It was the end which found [illegible] navy pondering the proper [illegible] a fighting vessel. And [illegible] was made with [illegible] the monolith which [illegible] it was unanimously [illegible] that the American navy had steadily improved as the years have passed. Many are there who will hope, however, that there will never be reason for using our powerful warships for any other than both a demonstration purpose.

GOOD PROGRESS.

Whether there are conditions which affect other legislatures than in this state, good results are being obtained from the law making bodies in a number of commonwealths this year. Not only have they accomplished their work but others are showing excellent progress and the promise is that the legislative sessions will be short compared with some in previous years.

Connecticut is one of them. The general assembly got down to business at once. It agreed upon the limited provision of sitting Fridays for the purpose of expediting business. The committees have cleared up almost all of their hearings and while many bills remain to be reported on the business has been handled promptly.

Likewise it has also been noted that no unnecessary time has been devoted to hearing and debating bills which stood no chance of becoming laws. Hearings have been followed by prompt and unanimous action for the joint rules committee reports have received the approval of both bodies of the legislature.

There is a marked contrast to that previous sessions when the legislative machinery has not worked as smoothly and businesslike. The result is that while there yet remains a number of important matters to be acted upon the indications are that the business will be completed and the 1922 session of the legislature will be ready to adjourn by the end of another month. Such a manner of dealing with the work before it never fails to create a good impression among those for whom the work is being done. The disposition to waste neither time nor money meets the present day requirements.

COKE AND COAL.

Now interest in the fuel situation is bound to be developed as the result of the proposition that has been made by Henry Ford to get the full value out of coal. Mr. Ford has bought extensive coal fields and it is his idea to have those using the coal on reconstruct their plants so to get the benefit of the gas and oil in the coal and yet leave the coke for consumption elsewhere. His idea is to use the coal twice and thus overcome much waste and do much in the way of relieving the fuel situation.

The idea is by no means a new one. It is the same plan that has recently been advocated in Canada. Where thoughts are being directed to making the dominion less dependent upon this country for its coal supply, and that is just what would be done in this country.

Many there are who have tried the use of coke for fuel. There is no question but what it furnishes an intense heat. Some figure that it is too great and quickly burns out heaters and stoves unless given proper attention.

There is a possibility in the idea which is bound to get greater consideration at this time because of the difficulties that have been experienced in connection with getting a sufficient coal supply. Steps are already being taken with a view to preventing any further shortages, but it is evident from the plans that are being perfected by Mr. Ford and urged also in Canada that entire reliance is not being placed upon such arrangements.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Each day brings us nearer to the time when the reduced trolley fare goes into effect.

The man on the corner says: Fly ventilators are going to be needed but it is too early to worry about it.

Those who commit crime when out on parole probably have the idea that that is what they were released for.

When the Baltimore police report that 30 per cent of the missing girls have bobbed hair, what's the inference?

When Borah puts so much confidence in the credit of soviet Russia many people will display just that much less in him.

Prof. Einstein probably includes it among his new discoveries when he says the league of nations doesn't amount to anything.

When Senator Borah talks about a third arty he doesn't expect it will be inferred that he is launching a boom for La Follette.

If the rum running traffic is going to seriously interfere with transatlantic shipping the operation of liners might as well be stopped.

Wisconsin has decided to abolish its national guard. But LaFollette wouldn't permit the organization to fight anyway, so perhaps the wise course has been followed.

Ford is to use coal twice. Many a householder does it now and prevents a good percentage from going to the dump. Making cake and sifting ashes may differ but waste is prevented in both instances.

"Is something troubling you?" inquired the harassed husband, who had come home and found his wife disconsolately slumped down in a corner of the davenport, giving an imitation of a woman in deep thought.

"Probably," admitted the slumped-down wife after a moment's consideration of the question. "But I don't know for sure. All I know is there was something happened today that disagreed with me, and I'm going to find out what it is before I get up from here. I'm not going to move a muscle until I remember what it was that made me feel so terrible. Don't you dare say a word to me, either, for I'm liable to snap your head off if you do. I'm going to sit right here and think and think and think until I remember what it was that disagreed with me, and then I'm going to get up and do something about it. Now, don't say another word to me, for I'm going to think!"

"Not till you tell me what's the matter with you," declared the husband, who was beginning to get peeved at his wife's attitude. "I'm not going to think at all

QUOTES COURIER ADV. IN LINCOLN MEMORABILIA

In a little volume, Lincoln in New England, from the pen of Henry Ford Douglass of Hartford and issued last year by the Essex Institute, author includes all information from the Norwich Weekly Courier of Thursday, March 9, 1860, in describing Lincoln's visit to this city.

The advertisement and the following letter: GREAT REPUBLICAN RALLY—Hon. Abraham Lincoln of Illinois Will Address the Citizens of Norwich next Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

The body of the adv. read: The Republican committee feel to be able to accept Breed hall for the occasion; but as it is undergoing repairs at present and they may possibly fail to procure it, arrangements will be made whereby the greatest possible number will be privileged to hear the great Western orator, of which announcements if necessary, timely notice will be given.

"All parties are invited. The Republicans are not afraid or ashamed to avow their principles or to bring them up for the consideration of their political opponents."

"If Breed hall is secured (and we believe it will be) the galleries will be exclusively devoted to the accommodation of ladies."

In the account of the meeting Mr. Eggleston says: The town hall was filled to its utmost capacity by the audience that assembled on the appointed evening to listen to Mr. Lincoln. He was escorted to the hall by the "Buck" club and the chair was occupied by Hon. Joseph G. Lamb, first vice president of that organization, in the absence of its president, H. B. Starkweather, Esq., who was confined to his home by sickness. A delegation was expected from Danielson, and the opening of the meeting was delayed in the hope of its arrival. Mr. Lincoln had already commenced his speech when this delegation of over one hundred entered the hall and all was confined to places while it was treated with three cheers from the audience.

LENGTHENS TIME FOR HUMAN FOSTER CONTEST

Announcement is made that the Humane foster contest being conducted under the auspices of the Connecticut Humane Society in the elementary and junior high schools in Connecticut will close Friday, April 20th, instead of on the earlier date mentioned in the notice forwarded to the schools. The superintendent of schools, principals and teachers are being invited to cooperate in getting the posters on display in each city. Superintendent Hannam Society, 56 Washington street, Hartford, by April 20th.

Prizes amounting to $275 besides a large number of special or honorary mentions will be distributed by the society at the close of the contest. The copies is open to the children of all grades in the elementary and junior high schools. Posters submitted should illustrate the idea of kindness to animals or human being, or point out in some way how wrongful inflicted upon them may be corrected. Drawings may be worked in any material, pencil, crayon or water color, and from the lowest graded those from colored paper will be accepted. No posters will be received which pictures cut from magazines or periodicals are used. The society reserves the right to retain all posters and asks that the name of each child with address, age, grade and school be included on the back of the drawing. Consideration will be given in awarding prizes to the fact whether the particular school has this advantage of a supervisor of art or the work submitted has been done by the pupil without the advantage of a drawing teacher.

PECKHAM TAKES LEAD, COMING FROM SIXTH PLACE

Low scores were features in the play of the week Side Pinochle club Monday night, Peckham with the high score of 7,270 jumping from sixth to first place, putting A. Jordan into second place. Pettis remained in third place and Haskell in fourth. Schuler dropped from fifth to ninth place.

From all indications next Monday night will see many shakeups in the standing, as Pendleton, who is in seventh place, is but 400 points behind Peckham, who is leading. The other five players between are bunched, only a few points keeping them in position.

The scores of Monday night follow: A. Jordan 6,216, Dr. Lewis 5,170, Pettis 5,295, Haskell 5,065, Schuler 4,972, Peckham 7,270, Pendleton 7,030, E. Peckham for Parker 7,000, Stevens 6,286, Underwood 6,730, Bailey 5,935, Dr. Boyton 5,509.

Standings are as follows: Peckham 35,695, A. Jordan 35,638, Pettis 34,535, Haskell 35,615, Dr. Lewis 35,560, Parker 35,530, Pendleton 35,290, Underwood 34,705, Schuler 34,505, J. Jordan 34,350, Bailey 33,165, Dr. Boynton 30,135.

Dr. Houghton X-ray technician at the William W. Backus hospital, on Monday evening gave the nurses and officials of the institution a very interesting lecture, accompanied by many stereopticon views, of his many trips through New England and New Brunswick.

Dr. Fred Warner, house physician at the hospital, with the assistance of Mr. Houghton and his stereopticon has during the past winter given a series of illustrated lectures to the pupils of the training school on the early and modern methods of nursing. These lectures have been most interesting and instructive to the student nurses.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

After being presented in a justice's court in the town of Brooklyn Monday evening Edward Lovely of Brooklyn was bound over to the superior court to await trial on a charge of breaking and entering. Lovely was charged with breaking into the house of Miss A. M. Poleys of Providence, while the place was unoccupied, and stealing certain pieces of unique and valuable leather and beaded work that were the handiwork of Sioux Indians and which were presented to Miss Poleys by her mother. State Officer Albert H. Fields, in charge of the Danielson barracks, arrested Lovely here and recovered the stolen articles.

The state highway up on Stearns Hill on the Providence route, continued to break through under the weight of heavy trucks and several of them had to be towed out of difficulties up there during Monday. Touring and other pleasure cars were negotiating the weakened places without any great difficulty and traffic was not, as a whole, materially delayed by the shaken condition of this stretch of road. State highway forces were working steadily to get the road back into good condition and filled in the places where the truck broke through, crushed stone being used for this purpose. Reports from the surrounding country on Monday were that dirt roads were steadily drying out and were in vastly improved condition over Friday and Saturday, though they are not to be ventured on with anything but light automobiles as yet.

Robert Fields, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fields of Brooklyn, was taken to Day Kimball hospital at Putnam Monday to have a needle removed from his foot. The foot was X-rayed after the boy arrived at the hospital and the needle located. Difficulty was experienced in finding it even after the X-ray had been taken, but it was stated Monday afternoon that the tiny bit of steel will be taken out.

Within sight of his home, probably only 500 to 600 yards distant, W. E. Litch, at the week end, found the state highway blocked with a stalled truck and other vehicles on Stearns Hill and, after letting Mrs. Litch out to walk the short distance to their home, had to drive back to Chop Mist Hill, R. I., thence to Chepachet and from there to Putnam and home, a distance of 45 miles, to get his car into his garage, not daring to venture into the mud on any of the country roads to take a shorter route home.

In the warning for the annual borough meeting which is set for April 1, there will be a clause asking for authority and an appropriation to construct another link of the borough sewer system—the proposed section to extend along Mechanic street from a point near the property of Arndt Bretschneider northerly to a point near the Barry Young property. This proposed section would serve a considerable number of dwellings in that section of the borough. It is likely also that the meeting will consider a clause asking that action be taken to provide for certain repairs to the public library building. These repairs are understood to be urgently needed for the proper preservation of this nice structure. Officers of the borough will be elected at this annual meeting.

Open water is now showing for the first time in nearly four months at Alexander's lake, where the ice has begun to break up in small areas on the eastern shore and at other points on the pretty body of water, which has been solidly frozen over since the early days of December. The great percentage of the surface of the lake is still covered with ice and it is not likely to have all disappeared by the first of the month, a late date for this lake to clear up.

Another of Killingly's woolen manufacturing plants—the Davis and Brown, on East Killingly—posted notices of an advance of wages by 12 1-2 per cent. April 30, on Monday. This plant has about 70 employes. With the advance announced at this mill all of Killingly's woolen and worsted plants will have met the increase in wages announced last week by the American Woolen company.

Mrs. Alfred L. Read, who was called to Deland, Florida, when the death of her father was impending, is remaining there for another week or more, when she will come north with relatives who will accompany the the body. Mrs. Read was ill for several days after her arrival in Florida, but has recovered from an attack of the grip.

Special programs of Easter music will help beautify the Easter Sunday services at various churches in Danielson. Choirs are giving special attention to this music, which in some instances has been under rehearsal for several weeks.

This is a holiday week for students of Killingly High school. The school is closed for the regular Easter recess and will resume sessions on Monday of next week. Some members of the faculty of the school are spending the vacation periods at their homes in other towns and cities.

Any trout fisherman who has even a spark of enthusiasm can tell you right off the reel and without any hesitation whatever that the opening of the fishing season is just five days away. In fact, they could have told you the exact number of days to the great day any time during the past six weeks. There is one fly in the ointment for many lovers of the sport, however, as April 1, comes this year on Easter Sunday, so these anglers will not get out to the brooks until some time after the first of the month.

In cotton manufacturing circles in pression that an advance in wages in this territory there is a strong improbability in the not distant future. This is not definitely promised at this time but it is being discussed and anticipated in view of the fact that the woolen and worsted mills have been advancing their scales, which are now materially higher than the rates of pay prevailing generally in the cotton industry.

Over on the new state highway near the Congregational church at South Killingly water has been flowing out of a manhole on the underground cable line of the American Telegraph and Telephone company and doing some damage to the highway, though no material injury is noticeable on the surface. What is going on underneath remains in doubt. This heavy flow of water apparently is following along the underground line of ducts. At the worst period of the flow the manhole was filled and the water geysering out around the cover to the height of a foot.

Even members of women who are deeply religious have one eye on the pretty Easter hats that are creating such a furore during this closing week of the millinery season. This is a busy week for the milliners, though the Easter season is unusually early this year.

It was stated Monday that Rural Carrier A. W. Logee's automobile is about the only motor vehicle that is negotiating some of the country highways included in the route out of the Danielson postoffice.

An alarm from Box 13 called out the Fire Department at 7.40 Monday evening to control a blaze in the southerly end of the basement of the Davis block on Furnace street in a tenement occupied by Amadee Varieur. L. S. Kennedy resident just across the street attacked the flames with two fire extinguishers soon after a blazing oil stove was thrown out and materially helped to hold the fire in check until the firemen arrived. They quickly quenched the fire which did only a small amount of damage.

The trout fishing season opens next Sunday, April 1. As an event in the annual calendar of diversions it looms large for an ever increasing number of men fishermen who like to try their skill and wits against as wily and gamey a fish as can be found in the fresh waters of Northern New England. This week the brooks are being patrolled to keep off the few who would steal out and fish ahead of the season. In the meantime those who are content to await the coming of April 1, are giving their time to getting rods and reels in order, to selecting new lines and other equipment needed for the season so near at hand. Fine displays of fishing tackle shown in town are receiving the attention of trout fishermen. April 1 coming on Easter Sunday this year means that many who would go out on the opening day of the season will restrain themselves until their first opportunity thereafter.

Putnam lodge of Elks has an important occasion scheduled for this (Tuesday) evening. The session will mark the passing out of office of those who have directed the affairs of the lodge for the past year, to give place to newly elected officers. In addition there is to be initiation and a social evening with professional entertainers.

Prohibition was the subject discussed at Sunday's meeting by the Men's club, and the subject was followed with close attention. Attorney Howard C. Bradford led the discussion, participated in by a number of those in attendance. The subject as it applies to Putnam particularly received some attention, but the club took no official action nor passed any vote or resolution pertaining to the local situation.

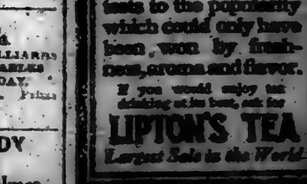
There is a possibility of reports coming out of committee in the legislature this week on the bills providing for allowing bathing and fishing in Alexander's lake. Whether these reports are favorable or unfavorable remain to be seen, but in any event they are being awaited with intense interest by large numbers of this and adjoining towns. Whether fishing and bathing privileges are granted in this body of water this year by the legislature remains to be seen, but in case they are not the assurance was given Monday from an influential source that the fight will be continued in the next session of the legislature and as much longer as may be necessary to secure privileges urgently demanded by the public.

While in this city Monday morning James F. Lacey, formerly proprietor of the Chickering hotel and more recently of Pomfret inn, which was destroyed by fire the past fall, said that he is far advanced toward re-establishing himself in Pomfret. He is now occupying the Harrison estate for many years one of the show places of Pomfret. This place is being fitted for use as an inn and will be opened some time in May.

Up at Marionville, where the city of Putnam has under way an extensive undertaking to give Putnam pure, filtered water a roof was being put on the structure under course of construction Monday. Supt. C. D. Sharp of the water department says that the work is steadily progressing, but delays in shipments of materials, some of which are coming from a southern state, may hold up completion of the work until mid-May or the first of June. The work the city has undertaken will cost many thousands of dollars, but assures Putnam people of a fine supply of pure water in ample quantity to meet the needs of the city for years to come.

With uninterrupted work, the end of this week will mark the disappearance of the St. Onge block. The roof and second story of the building has disappeared Monday at the close of work an awful remainder to be done will require no more than a few days. The taking out of this block gives the locality where it is situated a peculiar appearance, but this will be more than compensated for by the building there of a fine new structure for the Putnam Savings bank.

The immediate vicinity of Putnam seems to have fared better as to escaping badly damaged state highways during the past few days than have many other centers of population in Windham county. No such serious breakdowns have been noted hereabouts as occurred at Danielson, at Plainfield and between Hampton and Brooklyn. The highways hereabouts have not escaped injury with the breaking up of winter, but they are in condition for use without negotiating real bad places.



Avoid Substitutes

Those who have not seen the $100,000 addition to St. Mary's parochial school have an agreeable surprise awaiting them, for when they first view it they will be impressed with the beauty of the structure, especially as to its features on the westerly side. The building is not only substantial but as well ornate and has various attractive devices in limestone and other ornamentation. The walls are up practically the full height and the entire work will have been completed, it is now anticipated, and ready for occupancy when another school year opens in September.

In the city court Monday morning a fine was imposed on a Worcester man, charged with having operated an overloaded truck within the limits of the city of Putnam a few days ago. His appearance in court was due to the activities of the state police. Incidentally, now is a good time for all truck drivers of trucks to carefully observe the restrictions as to loading them. Much trouble is being experienced with state highways, due chiefly to heavy trucks, so an overloaded one will be certain to mean the appearance of the driver in court.

The special services at St. Mary's church during Holy will will include the usual Lenten service this (Tuesday) evening, the services distinctive to Holy Thursday, the Good Friday services, morning, afternoon and evening, the Easter Saturday services, among the most impressive of the Lenten season and the festival services of Easter, when there will be special music and other features honor the Resurrection.

Anselm Mayotte past, American legion, is busy with arrangements for the observance of Memorial day. The post has taken charge of the arrangements for these observances in Putnam the past few years. It has not been definitely decided who the speaker of the day, but it is hoped that Rev. Boynton Merrill of the Old South church, Boston, will accept an invitation that has been extended him. During the war Rev. Mr. Merrill was a United States navy chaplain and upon being released from the service became pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city.

Rapid work is being done by the Providence contractor who has in charge the excavating work being done for the Adams Manufacturing company at what is known as the Nightingale property on Main street. Only short hauls are necessary for the trucks that are removing the dirt, which is dumped where a fill is being made on the property. Steam shovel is steadily at work and will have the excavation work finished in short order.

A cantata, The First Easter, will be given next Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church by the choir. The Easter concert will be given at noon next Sunday following the morning service.

At the Congregational church the Easter cantata will be from Death to Life. It will be given by the regular choir assisted by a number of other singers.

PLAINFIELD

Although stormy, there was a large gathering of friends and neighbors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Barstow on Friday evening when a surprise party was given Mr. Barstow on his birthday. A splendid musical program was rendered by H. H. Halloway, mandolin; Joseph Shippy, violin; H. E. Barstow, piano, and Mrs. Arthur Moffitt, violin. There was dancing and a general good time which all enjoyed. Mr. Barstow was well remembered with gifts and was also presented a large birthday cake made by Mrs. Moffitt which was covered with little candles aflame with light. The refreshments consisted of coffee and cake.

The every member canvass for current expenses was conducted by the Congregational church on Sunday afternoon. A lunch was served by some of the ladies in the vestry, Mrs. John Kingsley in charge. After lunch there were 13 teams of men who visited the homes in the parish, reporting back to the church at 6.30 with excellent results. The work was not quite finished and will be completed the first of the week. Walter Lathrop, treasurer, thought the work would be more successful even than it was a year ago. The boxes of envelopes will be ready for distribution next Sunday.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER PLACE IN MONTVILLE IS SOLD

The beautiful summer residence property in Montville, at the head of Haughton Cove, which was developed a number of years ago by the late Charles L. Hubbard of this city, was sold on Monday to Mrs. Kittie M. Penhallow of New London. The sale was made by John A. Moran, real estate broker, for the estate of the late Walter T. Phipps of Providence. Mr. Phipps bought the place three or four years ago from the Hubbard estate.

It is understood the place has been valued at approximately $30,000. The sale to the New London purchaser included all furniture in the master's house and the several cottages on the place. The Hubbard place, which was known as Lasata, was one that never failed to attract the attention of those passing on the Norwich and New London turnpike. The property consists of the large master's house and three cottages, the whole somewhat is shut off by shrubbery and spruce set back from the road from which it is shut off by shrubbery and spruce trees. The land covers 25 acres with several thousand feet of frontage on the cove, where there is a 250 ton ice house. The houses are steam heated and electric lighted. All are completely furnished, the master's house containing billard rooms. Valuable water rights go with the property and the farm and garden land are ample for all garden and farm crops that can be used.

Mrs. Penhallow will occupy the place for a summer residence.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27.—Ernest Schleifer, of New London, who was tried in the police court a week ago for urging strikers from the shops of the road to acts of violence, appeared in the court today, for a further hearing, but his counsel did not accompany him and he was held for trial in the superior court at the May term in a bond of $2,500. The surety for him, O. F. Cranberg, deposited with the court United States bonds of the value of $2,500 and Schleifer was released.

Schleifer is accused of having endeavored to secure persons to wilfully place obstructions on the railroad tracks of the New Haven company with the intent to throw locomotives or cars from the tracks and to obstruct cars in motion; he is accused of endeavoring to injure the public peace, security and safety and good order by inciting persons to perpetrate divers felonies or crimes that are akin to felonies. The exact language that Schleifer used is charged against him in the complaint, so that the railroad company did not mean to let the case go by without having all the information in its possession to press it with.

It is claimed that he sought to have assault committed against men who were at work for the railroad. It is not known who is paying the expenses of Schleifer in this trial and that in which he was similarly accused at New Haven and where he was similarly accused at New Haven and where he was held for the superior court in that county, but it is intimated that the labor union to which Schleifer belongs is to pay the bill for the attorneys.

It is understood that the attention of the Connecticut delegation in congress will be called to the opportunity the government now has of procuring a site for a federal building in New London by the purchase of the Williams property, and it will be represented to them that the government cannot only secure such a building as will be a money-saver, but that the expense of the site will not be nearly as much as the two pieces of property it now owns here can be sold for.

New London lent a helping hand to the town of Waterford last evening when it sent the Niagara chemical apparatus to Station 5 together with the Allen hook and ladder and saved from destruction the house of one Markow which was ablaze. The Niagaras put the contents of two tanks of chemical on the blazing structure and also used a stream of water. The fire seemed to have started in the pantry, but as there was no one living in the house how the flames could have originated is a mystery.

The fire started at 7 o'clock and the apparatus had done their work and was back in the city before 8. The town of Waterford will pay the expense of the New London apparatus doing the work for there is an arrangement between the two towns that any expense shall be borne by Waterford. The use of motors has made New London such a handy source of succor for the town that the situation averts the necessity for Waterford to have a fire apparatus there.

Only a very few times in the course of a year is New London called on to help and the arrangement that secures help at a small cost is a good one for Waterford to make. There are few small cities that have the fire fighting facilities that New London has. The city does need an aerial truck, however, and it is hoped to get that desirable piece of apparatus in the near future.

Dr. John N. Dimon will be arraigned in the police court this [illegible] complaint that alleges [illegible] of granddaughter in [illegible] of Burton Partlow [illegible] three weeks ago. The [illegible] will enter guilty or he [illegible] his counsel demur to [illegible] of the prosecutor and [illegible] probable be held for trial at [illegible] May term of the superior court. [illegible] was taken from the Lawrence hospital, where he has been since the day he ran down Partlow on Bank street, opposite Golden street, and crushed him against the building and the window of a store there. Partlow sustaining a fracture of the skull, to the police station today under arrest, and his liberty was secured till tomorrow on a bond of $5,000 on which George H. Beck and Louis Eifenbein became the sureties.

M. R. Sterling of the state police, motor vehicle department, was in New London today.

John, alias Darby O'Brien, of School street, Groton, was prosecuted today in New London for operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. John refuted the charge that was made against him, but he was convicted and was fined $100. He appealed and furnished a bond of $200 that he would appear in the court of common pleas whenever his case was called to try show there that he is not guilty as alleged. He has been driving a car some seven years.

Sunday he met Larry Jakobsen, another resident of Groton, and the pair came to New London. They finally got to the residence of Henry Luck, which is down in the section of Maple avenue and close to the tracks of the New Haven railroad. There the pair had a few drinks of what Luck called kimmel and which he claims he had before Mr. Velstead said that no one should have the stuff that contains more than half of one per cent. of alcohol. Henry made the mistake of telling Captain Roach of the railroad police that he made the kimmel himself though he had told the court that he bought it and could not remember who he bought it from as the purchase was made so long ago.

There was another discrepancy about the testimony in the case for Jakobsen declared that he and Jack met a friend out in the country and that he gave them a bottle of wine. O'Brien has a cut on his left cheek bone that is covered in plasters, but he says he did not get that from the auto accident but from a fall he sustained in the darkness when he sought to move away from where the machine was.

The Howell home which was badly damaged by fire Sunday morning may have occasioned the blaze that damaged it by reason of having a defective chimney. It is said today that the occupant of the house consulted a chimney builder a few weeks ago and got a price to repair the same, but when the figures were announced the price was so high that Mr. Howell would not have the work done.

The master degree was worked on a few candidates at Brainard temple last evening and Wednesday evening the royal arch degree will be exemplified.

William Andersen, a man 61 years old, was found dead in his home in the rear of 649 Main street yesterday. He had suffered a shock the night before, but there was no one with him when he died.

The Yale candy kitchen on Bank street was robbed of a small sum of money Sunday night. The proprietor left a window in the rear unfastened and through this entrance was effected.

Mrs. Dora Jones has made inquiry from the local police as to the whereabouts of her son, William, who she says last reported to her that he was at work in a large bakery in New London.

A harrow has been at wyork today on Montauk avenue cutting up the road that it may be rolled down and put into condition for summer use.

The power boat Aunt Edie brought some of the cargo of the stranded steamer Texan, ashore at Block Island, to this port today. The major part of the cargo is to be brought here as soon as it can be salvaged and loaded upon barges.

Autoists report the roads leading to this city to be in terrible condition where there is no cement laid. They say the mud is very deep and that travel is difficult.

At the meeting of the city council this evening it was decided to allow Manager Willard, representing parties in Groton to continue to operate the Groton-New London ferryboat under the terms now existing with the liabilities resting upon the city of New London. Mr. Willard is, however, to submit a statement of the receipts and expenses of operating the boat to the city manager each month that the city may know just what is doing. The session of the council was short and then the members held an executive session at which it is understood several suggestions from the director of law as to be considered.

Manager Willard did not carry out his expressed intention of placing an orchestra on the boat Sunday, and it is said that somebody or several somebodies informed him that the scheme would not be a paying one and the project was abandoned—cut out until warmer weather shall come, anyhow.

GALES FERRY

The funeral services of George W. Palmer of Ledyard were held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Phebe L. Norman, at Allyn's Point, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends from Norwich, New London, Windham and residents of the town of Ledyard, where Mr. Palmer's home had been all his life. Rev. W. D. Woodward of the Methodist Episcopal church of Gales Ferry conducted the services and spoke from these words: Prepare to meet thy god; also the words Be ready. Burial was in the Palmer cemetery, with committal service by Rev. Mr. Woodward. The bearers were four brothers and nephews of Mr. Palmer—Harry Norman, New London; Percy Norman, Allyn's Point; Stephen Norman and J. Edmund Norman of Gales Ferry. There were beautiful flowers.

The relatives and old time friends of Dr. Dwight Satterlee of Los Angeles, Cal., received letters from his wife, Mrs. Satterlee, from there the first of last week stating that Dr. Satterlee was seriously ill at his home there. Dr. Satterlee's illness began with a cold about three weeks ago, and hemorrhage of the arteries developed. Blood transference has been resorted to and he is in a very weak condition. Dr. Satterlee is a native of Gales Ferry and his boyhood days were spent here at the Satterlee homestead. He is a brother of the late Johathan Satterlee and Charles A. Satterlee. Dr. Satterlee is 86 years of age this month. He was a prominent surgeon during the Civil war days, having enlisted from Gales Ferry early in the war as assistant surgeon in a Connecticut regiment. Later he was placed in charge of Point of Rock hospital in Virginia. At the close of the war Dr. Satterlee settled in Dunlap, Iowa, and there he acquired much property in real estate. In later years Dr. Satterlee removed to Los Angeles, Cal., where the family has resided for some years.

Noyes B. Allyn, collector for the permanent fund of the Gales Ferry M. E. church, continues to receive memberships in the Live Wire club for the benefit of the fund. Mr. Allyn has recently received $10 from a former business partner of his in Hartford, with 32 names in membership in the club, and has also received membership from a New London friend.

Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop, who has been the guest of Mrs. Charles S. Starr in New London, returned to her home at the Ferry on Friday.

Mrs. Donald Irwin and young daughter Barbara, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., arrived Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Aplin, in the village.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church met at the home of the president, Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, at Woodlawn farm, on Thursday afternoon.

The Long Cove auxiliary of this society met at the home of Mrs. Everett Bruce, of that place Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Lutwhiler is president.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes, who purchased property on the village street here recently, have begun improvements on the house, the work being done by men from Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hoxie of Windham attended the funeral of Mrs. Hoxie's cousin, George W. Palmer, at the home of Mr. Palmer's sister, Mrs. Phebe G. Norman, at Allyn's Point on Friday afternoon.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, March 26—Heavy selling for both accounts brought about another sharp reaction in today's stock market. Higher call money rates and speculative apprehension over the outcome of the meeting of the governors of the Federal Reserve board in Washington this week were outwardly attributed as the reasons for selling pressure, but the numerous sales of large blocks of recent speculative favorites indicated liquidation by pools which had become discouraged by their failure to attract an outside following.

Opening prices were heavy in response to the selling pressure emanating from traders unwilling or unable to meet the weekend margin calls. The subsequent rally was attributed to short covering by the professionals but when this was not followed up, the offering of stocks increased and the market again turned heavy. Operators on the long side seemed disposed to await the conclusion of the reserve board conference before extensively extending their commitments.

At the close of business tonight the averages showed, that approximately half of the year's extreme gains had been forfeited in the last week with many industrials being quoted 4 to 10 points below their high figures of the year.

California Petroleum was the individual feature and one of the few outstanding exceptions to the reactionary trend. Sales of this stock totaled approximately 50,000 shares, the price touching 104 1-8, a new high record for all time, but easing at the close to 102 7-8, where it was up 4 1-4 on the day. Buying of this issue was based on the official announcement that current assets were more than twice as large as current liabilities and in excess of amount of all indebtedness combined, and on speculative expectation of a stock dividend in the near future.

Net losses of 1 to 2 points were recorded today by such industrial favorites as Baldwin locomotive; Republic, Crucible and Gulf States Steels; Kelly-Springfield and U. S. Rubber; Pan American "A", Sinclair, Cosden and Pacific Oils, American Can, American Woolen, Pullman, Carburetor and many others. Speculative disappointment over the showing made in the first February railroad earnings reports caused heavy liquidation in that group.

Beechnut also moved against the current trend, establishing a new peak at 84 1-4 and then slipping back to 82, where it was up 1 5-8 on the day. Most of the buying is reported to have come from "shorts".

Call money opened at 5 1-2 per cent, the highest renewal rate in some time, and advanced to 6 during the noon hour, closing at that figure. The time money market was quiet with a few short maturities being arranged at 5 1-2 per cent, the maximum asking price. Although the ruling rate for prime commercial paper is still 5 per cent, there is an increasing volume of 5 1-4 per cent. paper.

Wide fluctuations in French francs were the feature of the foreign exchange market. Opening quotations were 8 to 10 points lower but the early loss was recovered and the price ran up to 6.60 1-2 cents, a week-end increase of 16 1-8 points. Demand sterling improved slightly to just under 4.39.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 26—The spectre of higher money rates continued to hang over the bond market today with the uneasiness rendered more acute by speculative fear that the Federal Reserve board of governors' meeting in Washington might lead to another increase in the rediscount rate. Prices sagged throughout the list with the establishment of new low records for the year by the second, third and fourth liberty 4 1-4s, and a violent 19 point drop in Dery & Co. 7s on reports of new financing as the day's principal features.

There were a few outstanding exceptions to the reactionary trend, notably Serbian 8s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, and Union Tank car 7s, all of which closed about a point higher. Except for a drop of 1 1-8 in Mexican 5s, the recessions in the foreign group were limited to fractions. The net losses in the U. S. government bonds ranged from 1-32 to 10-32 of one point.

Disappointment over the relatively poor showing of the first February railroad earnings statements stimulated the liquidation in the railroad division, although good buying support was forthcoming and losses, with the exceptions of "Katy" prior lien 6s, which dropped 1 3-8 points, were held to fractions. Industrials eased in sympathy with the reactionary trend of stock prices, U. S. Rubber 5s and Donner steel refunding 7s being the conspicuous heavy spots.

Total sales (par value) were $11,664,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 26—With enlarged receipts at primary terminals and with an increase of the United States visible supply total, wheat today had a downward tendency in prices, the May delivery in particular. The close was unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 1 5-8 lower; May $1.18 3-8 to $1.18 1-2 and July $1.14 5-8 to $1.14 3-4. Corn lost 1-4 a 3-8 to 5-8, and oats 1-8 to 1-4. In provisions the outcome was 5 to 10c advance.

Selling which was led by houses with eastern connections began to take effect from the outset in the wheat market, and resulted finally in carrying values down to the lowest level the May delivery has reached in several weeks. The new crop deliveries failed to show as much weakness as May, although field reports as a rule were bearish. Much of the selling of May appeared to be liquidation on the part of holders, the declines bringing into play numerous stop loss orders.

Absence of any extensive fresh European buying of United States wheat acted as a handicap on the bull side of the market, and so too did a lack of the aggressive speculative demand which was recently something of a feature. Little notice was taken of advices that exceptionally dry conditions prevailed throughout Australia and of gossip that wheat planting in Canada this year would be reduced 2,500,000 acres.

Corn and oats declined in sympathy with wheat, notwithstanding a decrease in the visible supply both of corn and oats.

Packers selling made the provision market slow in responding to a rise in Hog values.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week in Norwich there has been considerable progress made on building projects now in hand and several new projects have been started and several building permits issued. Included i nthe new buildings is a large garage for Hyman Goldberg at 79 3-4 Thames street. This garage will be of concrete and brick and will be 92x67 1-2 feet. Mr. Goldberg also plans to alter the front of his present store.

John H. Pickering has been granted a permit to erect a two-apartment house on Boswell avenue. The house will be of frame construction with concrete and brick foundation and will be 28x48 feet and two stories high. There will be six rooms and bath to each apartment. Henry Pukallus has the contract.

Fowler and Rathbun have been granted a permit to build an addition to the house of Lorenza L. Armstrong at 48 Ann street. The addition will be of frame construction, 10x16 feet.

Henry F. Ulmer is to alter and add to the present barn in the rear of 269 Broadway. The construction will be of cement and frame.

Maud Allard Whitmarsh is to erect a frame garage, 10x18 feet at the corner of Reynolds and Division streets.

Henry Pukallus is to alter the present garage on Prospect street. There will be a concrete floor put in and the exterior will be shingled.

The work of remodeling the old Chelsea boat club is practically complete. The lower floor has been made in to a very attractive dance hall and the second floor has been made into a spacious lodge room. A large veranda will be erected in the rear.

The work on the eight-apartment building for Alex Pasnik near the Chelsea boat club building is being rushed along. The foundations have been laid and the brick walls have been started. Several of the window casing have already been set in place.

At the Disco block the exterior work is practically complete with the exception of putting in the windows. Work is being done on the interior at the present time.

Other projects have been rushed along during the past week of mild weather and the prospects of much building during the present are bright.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 9 sales of real estate as compared to 17 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $31,900 and $71,550.

There were 7 sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to 8 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $23,890 and $28,600.

State Situation

The total number of building permits issued this past week in the larger cities of the state is smaller than during the same week of last year. There are a great many plans for new structures in the preliminary stage at present, and there is every reason to believe that this year will see the average amount of new construction work in Connecticut if all conditions remain favorable. During the past week, 179 permits were granted as against 194 last year and 235 in the same week of 1921. Cost of construction work this week amounted to $632,023, comparing with $706,984 in 1922, and $1,033,087 in 1921.

ROCKVILLE

The contract has been taken by the H. Wales Lines Co., Meriden, for the erection of the new Work district here, as their figure of $107,500. The building will be of brick construction, one story and basement, and will contain 12 classrooms and auditorium seating 400. There will be additional room for a kindergarten, principal's room with office, teachers' rest rooms, and individual class coat rooms. Geo. Wendheiser is chairman of the building committee. The plans are by Architect W. B. Chambers, New York.

PUTNAM, CONN.

Charles E. Seder has purchased the Hopkins property on Main street. Mr. Seder plans to build a three story fireproof structure on the site. It will have a frontage of 80 feet on Main street and will run back 110 feet. The cost will be about $75,000.

NORWICH TOWN

The intermediate society of Christian Endeavor, of the First Congregational church met at the chapel Friday afternoon and pasted post cards. Afterwards they enjoyed games and a delicious supper. The supper committee was Doris Browning, Elizabeth Avery and Rose Durr. The committee on games comprised Louise Avery, Grace Wheeler and Dorothy Heath. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, and George F. Hyde were guests of the society.

The Saturday Night Pinochle club was hospitably entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant of Town street, last Saturday evening. When scores were counted at the conclusion of the game, Mrs. John Kingland stood high for the ladies' prize, which was a dainty china bon-bon plate, while Dr. John Boynton was awarded a neat set of book marks for attaining the highest score for the gent's prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyant were to entertain the club on Saturday evening, March 10, in honor of Mr. Wyant's birthday, but because of illness in the family of some of the members the regular game for that night was called off. In recognition of Mr. Wyant's birthday, his friends planned a surprise for him, which really did not materialize until the club met last Saturday evening. In behalf of the other members of the club, Frederick Houston presented Mr. Wyant a handsome gold mounted meerschaum pipe with amber stem. The much appreciated gift was acknowledged with thanks by the estimable host. During the evening Mrs. Wyant served a tempting oyster supper with relish, also cake and coffee.

Mrs. Wyant was hostess on Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Pinochle club, held on Main street, Norwich.

At the Sunday morning worship of the First Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, preached from Luke 19-38. Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord; peace in Heaven, and glory in the highest.

Mrs. James B. Aldrich was the efficient leader of the Young People's Christion Endeavor meeting held at the usual hour. The topic was Educational Missions at Home and Abroad. Acts 19:8-20. Mrs. Aldrich was assisted in the first part of this impressive meeting by Miss Inez Edmiston who announced the hymns, and Miss Effie Ladd who read the Scripture lesson.

This was followed by evening sermon by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, who spoke from the text, Matthew 21:15-16. And when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying, Hosanna to the Son of David; they were sore displeased, and said unto him, Hearest thou what these say? And Jesus saith unto them, Yea; have ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gremley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainerd, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tremley and infant child, all of Mystic, motored to Norwich Town on Sunday afternoon and called on Mrs. Brainerd's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs Charles H. Lamb.

The funeral of James B. Banning was held Monday morning at 8.30 from his late home on Wightman avenue. At 9 o'clock, in the Sacred Heart church, the rector, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, celebrated a requiem high mass.

Miss Elizabeth A. Malone, organist, was in charge of the music during the mass. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang Pie Jesu, and for a waiting hymn, Face to Face. As the body was being borne from the church the choir sang Lead, Kindly Light.

In the large attendance were relatives, neighbors and family friends. There were several choice floral offerings. The bearers were six personal friends, Bernard Meehan, Timothy O'Hearn, Louis Lynch, James Filburn, Timothy Fields, of Norwich Town, and Francis Hanrahan, of New Jersey.

Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, Greeneville, where Rev. Father Brennan read the committal service. Hourigan Brothers were the undertakers in charge of the arrangements.

There have been local rains within the last 24 hours in the southern states and in portions of the middle Atlantic states and local snows in the lower lake regions and in portions of the north Atlantic states, elsewhere fair weather has prevailed. The indications are for mostly fair weather and Wednesday in the Washington forecast district; the temperature will rise in the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys, the lower lake region and in the Atlantic states north of Virginia Tuesday, but colder weather will again overspread middle and northern portions east of the Mississippi river Wednesday and Wednesday night.

About fifty local people were recipients of a notice from the collector of internal revenue, asking for information why they did not file a tax return for the year 1921. In a number of cases, the people had filed returns, and in many cases they were not liable under the law, but by far the greater part of them find themselves face to face with a penalty because of a misunderstanding or neglect. Although the government allowed a married man or head of a family, an exemption of $2,500, it required him nevertheless to make a tax return if his net income was over $2,000. Local people did not understand this in many cases, believing that an income of $2,500 was necessary. Others who have been called on the carpet by the collector are heads of families, although single, who did not make a return because their income was not $2,000, while the government rules that a tax return must be made by all single persons who have a net return of $1,000.

A solemn requiem anniversary high mass was sung at Sacred Heart church Monday morning for the repose of the soul of the late Mrs. Joseph Belair. A large number of relatives and friends attended the service.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget O'Keefe, widow of the late Patrick O'Keefe, was held Saturday morning from the home of her stepson, John Keefe, on South A street. A solemn high mass of requiem was sung at Sacred Heart church, the pastor, V. O. Belhereur, being celebrant, Rev. Frederick Cobedan, of St. Mary's church, Greeneville, deacon, and Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, assistant pastor sub-deacon. The bearers were Timothy Sullivan, Daniel Shea, James Daley, Grimshaw Hurd, James West and James Hanlon. Many relatives and friends who had known the deceased during her long life in the village attended and the floral forms were many and beautiful. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Edward Authier has resigned his position as loomfixer in the No. 4 Weaving department of the Ponemah mills.

William Lepine is moving from South Fifth avenue to the house on South A street just vacated by Mr. and Mrs. John Gravelin and family.

LIGHTERS BRING LUMBER SHIPMENTS; RIVER TOO SHALLOW FOR SCHOONER

The need of a deeper and wider channel in the Thames river has been clearly illustrated during the past few days, when several lighters loaded with lumber have come up the river to the Edward Chappell company to unload in the east channel. Two lighter loads arrived on Friday of last week, the third arriving Monday.

A member of the firm, Monday, when asked about the lighters being used, stated that it was because no schooners could be secured that can come up the river with cargoes of lumber. Some years ago schooners could be chartered to bring full loads to this city, but today the small schooners have entirely disappeared and when the local company needs lumber it must go in with several other dealers in purchasing a big shipment.

These shipments are taken either to New York or New London by schooner, then placed on lighters which carry them to their final destinations. The Thames river channel today is too shallow for a schooner of any size to come up to the wharves and lumber cargoes must be brought up in lighter loads.

A deeper channel of 16 feet would permit a schooner to come up to Norwich as in past years, thus doing away with the trouble and great expense caused by transferring the shipments at New York or New London.

Every year, for some years past there has been a steady decrease in the number of schooners that come up the Thames river, until today, none can make the trip, as the channel has slowly filled up until it is no longer deep enough to permit the passage of schooners that can make the trip on charter by local companies.

It is because of this situation so clearly shown during the past week, that the local chamber of commerce backed by manufacturers and merchants in this district have been asking that the Thames river channel be deepened to 16 feet.

Not alone are the lumber and coal industries affected, but it is alleged that shipping from Norwich would show a large increase immediately upon the completion of the work of deepening the channel, and Norwich for years to come would be safe as a seaport city, thus saving higher freight rates that are bound to come in a few years when the channel becomes too shallow for any boat of medium draught to navigate, and the city becomes classified as an inland city.

If you are a constipation victim you need Bran that is ALL BRAN

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is so delicious and inviting that thousands of families use it constantly to make enticing bakery batches, such as bran muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc.; they eat it as a cereal; and many sprinkle it on their favorite cereal, its nut-like flavor having a fine appeal.

Many more thousands of people eat Kellogg's Bran every day of their lives because it has permanently relieved them of constipation and the dangers of dreaded diseases that constipation leads to. If you are suffering with constipation you need ALL BRAN—Kellogg's Bran—with its permanent corrective qualities. Foods that are part bran can never give the desired relief because they do not contain sufficient of the elements that Kellogg's Bran naturally contains.

When you know that constipation heads directly to Bright's disease and other ailments, there is no time to be lost in experimenting. Kellogg's Bran, delicious in its patented cooked and krumbled form, becomes an immediate necessity. If it is eaten regularly (two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with each meal)—it will relieve constipation permanently! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran. It will free you from proprietary pills and cathartics which are an system-racking and almost as dangerous to health as constipation itself!

Serve Kellogg's Bran regularly. Watch the health of your entire family improve. It is wonderful for children. Kellogg recipes are printed on each package. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

R. C. PLAUT WRITES UPON REACHING RIO DE JANEIRO

Rutherford C. Plaut of this city, who left here late in February for a trip to South America, has reached Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from which he wrote March 5 of the summer seas over which he has been sailing, while Norwich has been blanketed under snow.

Dear Ad: Here we are—almost 5,000 miles from New York. Ten and a half days ago we left Hoboken and, ye gods, it was cold. Today we crossed the Equator and it needs a strong adjective to describe the degree of heat. The day we left New York the thermometer registered 21 degrees above zero at noon, and I dare say that by now, you, who are fortunate to have coal in the cellar, have had plenty of exercise in shoveling it and sifting the ashes.

This round world of ours may, or may not be, a small world after all. It all depends upon how you look at it, whether or not one observes it from Norwich, say, or as a small boy lost at Ocean Beach. One thing is a cinch, and that is that "day by day, in every way," it's getting smaller. The time was when a trip to California was considered an immense undertaking, when a trip around the world furnished a conversation for a lifetime, but people cross the continent now to see a world's series ball game, a horse race, or a prize fight. Winter travel has become immensely popular, whether it is to get away from shovelling snow or shovelling coal or not. Perhaps it is an eagerness to explore climes. In winter travel, there is a larger scope than in summer. That is the way I figure it out. Of course, all people are not fortunate enough to have Long Island Sound at their back door or relatives who invite them to spend the summer at Ocean Beach. In summer everyone seeks the cool spots—not "the high spots," but in winter some prefer the tropics, others Canada with its winter sports from New York to Honolulu and from Rio de Janeiro to Canada. "You pay your money and you takes your choice."

Now, I know you want to know what we have been doing all these days. We have been on the go every minute. It is an ordinary experience to board an ocean liner and be deposited in one week in Liverpool, England, or Cherbourg in France. It is, however, an unusual one for a North American to board a commodious steamer for a sea voyage of several weeks to our Southern Continent. Especially is it unusual when one leaves the U. S. when the temperature is ranging from ten degrees below zero, with the necessity of winter garments, and finds oneself, three days out of New York, in the warm Gulf Stream, with the tropics in anticipation and summer clothing in demand.

In our party are Miss Carrie Cadden, Miss Minnye Cadden, Julius Cadden, and myself. We sailed from New York on the Munson Line's comfortable "Western World." As we stood on deck, waving a last goodbye to my sister and Hugo Wasserman, who were thoughtful enough to brave the elements of that day, we drifted down the Hudson River, full of ice, passing the great skyscrapers, the Statue of Liberty, etc. We waved a farewell to th Palisades, with the snow-capped columns, and we realized that we were leaving the February winter of the U. S. and were started on our voyage to the Southern Continent and a summer climate. While the Statue of Liberty was still bestowing her silent blessing upon us, the liberty loving American were gathering in the comfortable smoking room and drinking toasts to the snowbound inhabitants of Dry America.

The trip—so far—has been ideal, and we have gone to bed and slept soundly for ten consecutive nights (at least, I have slept soundly.) At no time was there a sea of sufficient roughness to cause on the slightest discomfort. I'll take that back. When we were off Hatteras, I heard Cadden remark that it was tossing worse than "Johnnie Byrnes' ship" in the "Eight Bells" show. The sun shone almost continuously. After the third day, it was possible to sit on deck at all times with light wraps or no wraps at all, and we were fanned by a cool breeze that was always present. So far, the climate has been like a perfect June day at home, and at any time we could supply ourselves with the "good eats" which were afforded by a well equipped boat, which was sailing on a sea that was always wet. Considering the ideal weather conditions and our splendid boat, with enclosed, broad decks, with much space to exercise, with comfortable chairs, with music in the lounge, a well-stocked smoking room, salt and fresh baths, swimming pool, dancing, golf, tennis and movies, capping it all with comfortable, real, beds and an unusually clean table, nothing more could be desired.

I didn't write you, but our passports were at the custom house, awaiting our arrival. "But that ain't half of it." We went to the office of the Uruguayian consul and when we entered a lazy attendant took out his watch and informed us that we were seven minutes late, but for a double fee he would V I S E our passports, so we settled. Next we went to the Argentine consul. A sign on his door gave forth the information that at 9 a. m. the office would open, ready to do business, and we waited until 10.30 a. m. and then they opened up the door for business. For what should take him five minutes to do, and for which he gets $2.50 per passport, he says, "Come tomorrow," and you do it, too. The Brasilian consul's office was run in a more businesslike manner. We left our passports at ten in the morning and received them at 2.00 p. m. That was not so bad.

Talk about a horse shoe. They were selling pools on the boat, guessing on the number of miles the boat would make on the first day's run, and who do you think picked the 270 berries? J. W. Cadden. Can you beat it? The fellow who said, "To him who has—gets," is right.

The Misses Cadden are enjoying each and every day. Minnye was sick for a couple of days. She said she had a cold. I guess she overate. A good many did, I know.

Equator day was a great day. Clouds obscured the sun and a brisk breeze came from the southwest. The temperature ranged from 70 degrees to 80 degrees and it was delightful on deck for loafing. I spent most of the time reading and writing. At 11 o'clock the ship's whistle blew and we all rushed to the rail to see the equator. The evening before the captain had had a call from Father Neptune, saying that he would hold court on rear deck at 11.30 a. m. and that all who had not been initiated should be prepared to join the guild. Accordingly, at the appointed hour, a band was heard. Fife and drum were leading a procession, in which were Father Neptune, with long flowing robes, hair and whiskers, his wife, a beauty with a beard, the doctor and barber, appropriately garbed and carrying necessary instruments of their professions. Following were big, stout athletes who were delegated to subdue the obstinate. The ceremony took place at the side of a large swimming tank of sea water and here the uninitiated were ducked. A number of our passengers—men and women—were put through the following paces. They were formally introduced to Father Neptune and his Lady. Then a warrant was read by the prosecutor and sentence was passed. The doctor used his stethoscope, thermometer, and tooth forceps, about ten times the usual size. Their mouths were painted with iodine, they were made to eat soap and drink tobacco sauce. They were all shaved and lather made of a paste, containing flower and water, was used, and no mercy was shown. My two aunts were initiated and were not spared. It was interesting and it was rough play and ruthless. He who resisted wished he had not. At the captain's dinner, all who are entitled to will receive a diploma and become members of the great Neptune family and will be privileged to cross the equator at any future time unmolested. That evening they held a masquerade ball, and I tell you, Ad, it was some event. You never saw such makeups. Wait until you see the pictures I have of it.

March 5th—Well, well, well. Here I have been in Rio de Janeiro for four days. Yes, four hot days in Brazil. Did you ever give it a thought? Brazil is larger than the United States, including Alaska, and sixteen times as large as France. It has a form of government similar to the U. S. and has 21 states in its union. It has absolute equality in all forms of religions, but all except 100,000 are Roman Catholics. The population is 24,308,269, and 11,335,674 are females. The Portuguese predominate and the Portuguese language is the language.

We are all fine, Ad, and your telegram was received O. K, but I thought I would get one today. I am going to mail you this much, as a steamer is sailing for N. Y. tomorrow.

Give my regards to all.

BALTIC MOTHER SUPERIOR CELEBRATED GOLDEN JUBILEE

An unusual event was celebrated last Wednesday, the Feast of St. Joseph, when Rev. Mother Francis, superior of the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic, completed her 50 years of service in the vineyard of the Lord. The occasion was duly honored by the Sisters and students of the academy.

At 9 o'clock a high mass was celebrated by Rev. William O'Brien, pastor of St. Mary's church, Baltic. The Sisters and students attended in a body. The music of the mass was beautifully rendered by the Sisters' choir. At the conclusion of the mass the students' clear, sweet voices rang out in joyful tones the Magnificat. Father O'Brien delivered an appropriate sermon, congratulating the venerable jubilirian. He gave a brief survey of the life of Mother Francis, bringing out with great effect her noble sacrifice and deeds, and explaining the nature of the religious life and what it meant to follow it. He thanked the jubilirian for her work for the church and advised the Sisters and students to follow in the footsteps of their worthy model.

At 2 o'clock in the assembly hall the high school students rendered A Choral Dance Cycle paraphrased from the ballet music in Faust by H. W. Loomis. Dressed in bright costumes which harmonized with the springlike decorations, the grade pupils characterized spring and summer. The students were highly applauded for their painstaking efforts.

In the evening at 8 o'clock a continuance of the day's celebration took place. An opening song in greeting to the jubilarian was followed by an address delivered by Arlene Healey of South Manchester, at the same time presentation of baskets of beautiful flowers by two of the primaries. This was followed by a drama entitled Pontia, by Rev. F. Felix. The pupils taking part are indicated in the following cast:

All the players were applauded and congratulated for their well enacted parts by the many visitors and friends present. The drama concluded the day's program.

On the following day a delegation representing the Baltic Alumnae association arrived at the academy bringing gifts and the felicitations of the members of the association, who gratefully appreciate the large part that Mother Francis has played in the advancement of the alumnae and the school.

The visiting alumnae were hospitably entertained. The academy pupils during the evening presented a delightful program of songs, recitations and instrumental music, all of which reflected great credit upon the careful training that the faculty of the school give their pupils in things aesthetic as well as practical.

Dear Reverend Mother: We are assembled here today to do honor to a glorious event, one that marks the fiftieth anniversary of your coming in to the service of Christ, and His church. That, this occasion is one of unusual rejoicing, the splendor and pomp displayed here demonstrate. That the rejoicing is heartfelt and sincere the efforts of your friends, of Sisters in religion, and of pupils young and old to make this day the happiest of days for you, testify.

In fifty years you have touched life, dear Reverend Mother, at many points. You have seen the rise and fall as it were, of conditions social and political; you have made many friends; you have lost many friends, in the sense that many have passed away who are looking upon you today from a brighter home we trust, invoking blessings on this occasion. You have witnessed from almost its very inception, the expansion of this Academy from comparative insignificance to its present flourishing condition. You have worked intensely at the duties assigned you, beginning when a mere girl to use the tact and fortitude required by your holy state. God kindly blessed you with the prime characteristics of a religious, so helpful or rather, so essential to those engaged in work for souls.

Young and energetic, shrewd in management and unhampered by disappointments, in the early days you were appointed to be one of the founders of St. Joseph's Convent in Willimantic. One of those generous souls who left home and country to gain all for Christ. The virtue, wisdom and deeds of those beautiful lives helped to stabilize Catholicity in that city. Your coming refreshed and renewed the good old faith borne there by noble pioneer priests; borne also to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Superiors recognizing your sterling worth, thought it advisable to transfer you to another field, to a position where activities would be more varied, and where you might bring home to the minds of girls seeing higher education, the truths of holy religion. At the same time you were to train them in secular learning. How you succeeded time has told. We may easily ascertain the facts of your success by observing the lives of members of the early graduating classes of this Academy. Many of these girls are now models of Christian womanhood. They look back with reverence upon their training while clinging to its enduring results. Ah, yes! how many girls have passed through the halls of this institution directed by you on their way to assume a place in the life of church and country. Your kind and gentle manner, always that of the unassuming lady, linked with a firm control held the pupils in a respectful attitude, yet, no Sister was more welcome in the recreation hours nor more congenial in the classroom than their esteemed mistress, Sister Francis. Pupils felt that what you strove to develop in them you lived, and far beyond the power of our words to tell is the unrecorded, vast and far-reaching influence which you exercised on all who came around you. Even to the parents of the children did this sweet influence extend. No doubt that influence engendered the present confidence held by those who entrust their children to Sisters of this Academy.

Hand in hand with good Mother Carola you toiled to mould and form Catholic youth and in fact, at times you were the dear mother's hand itself in removing mighty obstacles always met with the beginning of an Academy and in strengthening and encouraging the pupils to meet the trials and dangers of life.

We turn over another page of your admirable life, and behold you with the eyes of our imagination in England, home again in your own country and in charge of a large institution, there where a marvelous expansion of activities demanded an able director. As superior your wide circle of friends was enlarged. During the great world tragedy of the late war you bore the heat and burden of an anxious day. They speak in glowing terms of your administration there, and we know that the broad Atlantic is not considered when they wish to reach you, their trusted friend of a loving remembrance.

And today we see you, dear Reverend Mother, officially appointed to guide the destinies of this Academy. To us is given the honor of placing on your brow the golden crown of fifty years. The crown is of earthly gold it is true, and earthly gold is dross, but this earthly gold is symbolic, telling of the treasures that never perish, where the moth never enters nor does the rust consume.

Would that we might not fall short of giving an adequate picture of your lovely life! But as the beauty of the King's daughter is within we dare not tread on that sacred ground. It does not, however, take a vivid imagination to judge of the heroism of your life, a life not too robust which God made use of to prove His ability to bring strength out of the weak things of this world.

Life to you, dear Reverend Mother, has even seemed a novitiate to eternity. Hence the profound seriousness of your views, nothing being of any value which did not rest on the life-giving foundation of Catholic principles.

Huge tasks, minute details appealed equally to you as a part of your stupendous life work, and give us a reflection of your noble life. "It is the things that we do not see that make the world go round," says a brilliant Franch writer.

Receive today our heartiest congratulations, lovingly offered by us, your children. We know, that in voicing our own sentiments, we are also expressing the wishes of your former children. How they would like to be in our places many letters have told! How happy they are to have you celebrate this jubilee in our glorious country our words cannot tell.

After labor, it is pleasant to receive praise, and it is human to relish it. The law of life is labor—it is a solace to mankind. May it be given you, Dear Mother, to labor yet many years, and to energize the work of this institution by bestowing on your dear Community of Sisters and their pupils the wise direction of your guiding hand.

Contributions are coming in to the treasurer of the Connecticut Library Association for the restoration of the University Library at Louvain, Belgium. This is in accord with the general movement throughout the country sponsored by the American Library Association.

The Germans have made reparation to the library in the form of a considerable number of books and other countries have made generous contributions of books. The need for the library building is more keenly felt with each accession of books.

Anyone desiring to contribute to this fund and thereby assist in the labor of love undertaken by Americans for one of the Allies who suffered most in the World War may leave such contributions at the Public Library to be forwarded to Miss H. States He Wouldn't Be Without Tanlac

Albany Citizens Says Famous Medicine Overcome After Effects of Grip In Short Order—Feels Fine.

"Now that I am acquainted with Tanlac I'll never be without it. On my very first bottle I enjoyed my first real night's sleep in a year, and today I feel like a new man," is the positive statement of John A. Purcell, 219 N. Pearl St., Albany N. Y.

"For a year or more I was a long way from feeling like myself. I was all run-down, my appetite was lax, my nerves were so on edge I was unable to sleep, and during the day I felt weak and all tired out. A few months ago I had the grip and that made things worse. Just when I needed strength for my work I was losing it all the time, and failed to find anything to help me.

"But the Tanlac treatment gave me a keen appetite, I can eat anything, and that weak, tired-out feeling has left me. I have gained six pounds, my work comes a lot easier and I'm always boosting Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

CAST GROWS IN CASE OF THE DOROTHY KEENAN MURDER

Major Draper M. Daugherty, Only Son of the Attorney General of the United States, is Quoted as Saying He Had Visited the Model in Her Apartment—District Attorney Hopes Mr. Daugherty May be Able to Aid Development of Theory That the Broadway Butterfly Had Been Used by Blackmailers to Bait Their Traps.

New York, March 27—Ferdinand Pecora, assistant district attorney, tonight confessed a letter to Major Draper M. Daugherty, only son of the United States attorney general, requesting that he lay before New York authorities all the information he possessed concerning a blackmail conspiracy involving Dorothy King Keenan, and John Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia, son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury.

The district attorney declined to reveal where he addressed the letter to Daugherty, saying he had been given to understand the young man wished to keep his whereabouts secret.

Mr. Pecora also declined to discuss a report current at criminal courts, that Stotesbury was preparing to offer a substantial reward for the apprehension of the model's slayer.

Mr. Stotesbury, according to information said to have been received from Philadelphia, was preparing to come to New York to discuss the case with Mr. Pecora. He had been in constant communication with the district attorney's office, it was said, by telephone and telegraph since Mitchell's identity as "Marshall" had been made public.

The name of the man who had made demands on Daugherty, Mr. Pecora said, had been furnished him but he declined to reveal his identity or his connection, if any, with the present investigation.

He reiterated his belief that Miss Keenan had been slain by a person or persons involved in the plot to blackmail Mitchell. The robbery motive, he said, had not been entirely discarded.

The police, it was said, had turned their efforts to trace a negro who worked a short time at the apartment house and had left the city after the murder. Two detectives were sent to New Brunswick, N. J., in the search.

Attracted by newspaper stories, quoting Daugherty as saying that he had visited the model in her apartment, and once had given her a check, Assistant District Attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Coughlin both evinced a strong desire to question the young clubman.

By examination of him they hoped to get additional facts to link with those supplied by John Kearsley Mitchell of Philadelphia, son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury and reputed to be an elderly admirer of the slain girl, in an effort to develop the official theory that a ring of blackmailers had been using the Broadway butterfly to bait their traps.

Daugherty was not available at his club in this city, and from Atlantic City, where he was reported to have gone, came word that he was not registered at any hotel there. It was pointed out that if Daugherty was in New Jersey, he could be legally compelled to come here and tell his story, but New York investigators expressed strong hopes that he voluntarily would appear before them.

Meanwhile the report went the rounds that Mitchell, who joined his wife at Washington today while she was speeding north with her father in a private car, soon would be questioned again by the district attorney's office, but at the district attorney's office it was said no further appointment had been made.

Mr. Pecora took official cognizance of the statement appearing in this morning's papers from Frederick E. Goldsmith, attorney for Albert E. Guimares, another admirer of Miss Keenan's referring to the challenge from Goldsmith to attempt to connect his client with either the murder or the blackmailing. Mr. Pecora said:

"No client either of Mr. Goldsmith or any other lawyer in this or any other case with which I have any official connection will ever get the benefit of a premature arrest if I can prevent it. Arrests will be made in my cases, not at the convenience of the suspected persons or their counsel, but only when sufficient legal evidence has been acquired to justify them."

"No smoke screen of any kind has been thrown up to protect Mr. Mitchell," continued Mr. Pecora. "On the contrary, in a general way all of the facts gleaned from Mr. Mitchell, and from other persons who have been examined that would cast any light upon Mr. Mitchell's relationship to the Keenan case, have been made public.

"I note that Mr. Goldsmith states that his client Guimares objects to 'those insinuations made against him' by me. In all of the statements which I have made to the press in which I have expressed any opinion or theory as to the motive or responsibility for the crime, I have studiously avoided mentioning the name of any person suspected by me or by the police as the perpetrator of the crime.

"It is true that I have stated information has come to me tending to show that a person for a long time prior to her death sought to induce Dorothy Keenan to enter into a scheme to blackmail Mr. Mitchell. I have not, however, revealed the name of such person. It would be interesting to know why Mr. Goldsmith and his client Guimares are so ready to conclude that Guimares is the person to whom my statements are intended to relate."

DID MRS. MITCHELL GREET HUSBAND WITH OPEN ARMS

Washington, March 27.—A score of newspapermen were foiled today in their attempt to witness the meeting between J. Kearsley Mitchell, the Philadelphia millionaire connected with the Keenan murder case in New York, and his wife as she passed through Washington from Florida today. They thought they saw Mr. Mitchell board the private car of his father-in-law, E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, in union station but later developments about convinced them there had been a mistake in identity.

Some of the reporters boarded the train themselves as it pulled out for the north with the blinds in the Stotesbury car drawn and the doors closely guarded. During a stop in Baltimore, they reported to their offices, Frances, Mr. Mitchell's young daughter, darted from the car, looked eagerly up and down the platform, and cried out: "Isn't daddy coming?"

This led the reporters to believe that Mr. Mitchell, after all, was on the train.

Just as the train started to leave, according to reports received here, a man, resembling Mr. Mitchell, ran out from the shadows and hopped on the steps of the Stotesbury car. After the train had arrived in Philadelphia, however, the correspondent of one Washington newspaper telegraphed that Mr. Mitchell met his wife and father-in-law when the car was detached in the Philadelphia yards, preparatory to being shunted to Mr. Stotesbury's country estate. Mr. Mitchell and his father-in-law, the message said, were seen on the rear platform smoking cigars together.

The man who boarded the Stotesbury car here, identified at the time as Mr. Mitchell, was greeted at the doorway by Mrs. Mitchell who held out both of her arms to him. Previously Mr. Stotesbury, hatless and coatless, had grasped his hand cordially and escorted him to the car steps. Doors of the car were immediately closed, and efforts of newspapermen to obtain information were futile.

Many of the reporters were unable to get near the car, station police and officers in plain clothes keeping them outside the gates. Newspapermen said they rarely had sought news under greater difficulties, and declaring there were more police on the job at union station than are there when the president passed through.

STOTESBURY PARTY HAS ARRIVED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, March 27.—The private car of E. T. Stotesbury, with Mr. and Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell supposedly aboard, arrived here shortly after 4 o'clock. Later it passed Wayne Junction and went up the Chestnut Hill branch of the Reading railroad to the country estate of Mr. Stotesbury at Whitemarsh, north of Philadelphia.

Two maids left the car at the Twenty-fourth and Chestnut street station of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and went to the Mitchell town house on Rittenhouse square.

FUNERAL OF BERNHARDT IS TO BE IMPRESSIVE

Paris, March 27—(By the A. P.)—The body of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will be removed at noon Thursday from her late home on the Boulevard Periere to the church of St. Francois de Sales, in a nearby street, and thence conveyed to the cemetery of the Pere-Lachaise, the last resting place of hundreds of France's famous people of all times.

It will be one of the most impressive funerals of a great public figure since that of Victor Hugo in 1885. Hugo's funeral was under the auspices of the government; Bernhardt's will be at the expense of the city of Paris.

Poverty is given as the reason that Bernhardt will not be buried in Belle Isle, where many years ago she had a tomb dug in the solid rock. It is explained that shortly before her death, pressed, always, for ready money, the actress was obliged to sell the house with the land at Belle Isle, and it is suggested now that at some future time permission be obtained from the new owner that the body be transferred there.

A rented villa in a Paris suburb, which was to have been her summer home, replacing Belle Isle, is bright with fresh paint. On the gate is inscribed as the villa's name Bernhardt's motto: "Quand Meme," which is likely to remain as a memorial of the tenant who never lived there.

It is suggested also that the theatre bearing her name, which is municipal property, should retain the name as a memorial, regardless of future tenants.

ALIENISTS FIND NICOLA SACCO IS NOT INSANE

Boston, March 27.—The report of the Boston Psychopathic hospital alienists on the mental condition of Nicola Sacco, the convicted murderer who was sent there for observation of his sanity and for treatment when his 31 day fast prevented appearance in court, was made to Judge Webster Thayer of the superior court and to opposing counsel today.

It was reported that the alienists found no reason to believe Sacco insane.

The report indicated, it was learned, that Sacco attempted suicide by striking his head against the chair, but regretted his act after he was overpowered by the guards.

The conclusion of the report as to his mental condition, it is said, were that although he was not insane he was under occasional spells of intense emotionalism.

END OF LITIGATION OF THE JAY GOULD ESTATE

New York, March 27.—Because of the serious illness of George J. Gould at his villa in France, his co-heirs to the millions of the late Jay Gould today, through twenty-three law firms representing them, signed a pact which ended the long-drawn-out litigation involving administration of the Jay Gould estate.

Incorporated in the pact was a certificate of health dated Oct. 19, 1922, and signed by Dr. Charles H. Miller of Hyde Park, London, which stated that George J. Gould "has high blood pressure and thickened arteries; there is consequent trouble with the action and power of his heart and disturbance of his nervous system."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Lenine's Condition Unchanged.

Moscow, March 27.—The attending physicians deport no change in the condition of Nikolai Lenine, the soviet premier, during the period from March 23 to yesterday. Yesterday the temprature rose to 99.7 degrees and this morning was 100.4 which is nearly two degrees above normal. At the same time the patient's pulse was 108 and resperation 30, both considerably above normal.

REDERAL RESERVE BOARD TO CURB FOOD OF RUMO[illegible]

Washington, March 27.—The [illegible]eral board in conjunction with [illegible] governors of the twelve reserve banks meeting in semi-annual conference here moved today to curb the flood of rumors concerning possible changes in the board's policies and reports of contemplated increases in the rediscount rates by the banks.

In answer to more than one hundred telegraphic inquiries, the board categorically denied "any rumors with respect to its intentions or actions," and informed one and all that it would make its own statements when such were required. The message invited inquirers to supply the board with information regarding the source of the rumors, adding that it would not waste its time in denying "all idle rumors."

The board answered each inquiry individually with the following message:

"We should be greatly obliged if you and others who have telegraphed would supply the board with the source of your information. The federal reserve board wishes to say with all possible emphasis that so far as it is concerned there is no basis for any rumors with respect to its intentions or actions.

"When the board has anything to say with respect to the credit conditions or policies of the federal reserve system it will itself make the announcement and no one else is authorized to speak for it. The board cannot undertake to deny any idle rumors nor should it be charged with them."

REILY NOT INVOLVED IN CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS

New York, March 27—Governor E. Mont Reily today cabled from Porto Rico asking the publication of a despatch from United States district attorney Wells, saying:

"Governor Reily is in no way involved in the contempt proceedings now before the federal court as published in the state. This story was not even published in the daily papers here."

The publication referred to was apparently a despatch from San Juan on March 9 stating that contempt proceedings were heard by Federal Judge Odlin, naming several insular officials, not including Governor Reily and returned while Governor Reily was absent in the United States.

Governor Reily forwards another despatch, signed by District Attorney Arrillaga, saying that "the article published from here some time ago that Governor Reily had been indicted by a grand jury is positively false."

ACTOR HART TO PROVIDE FOR INFANT ASA KEYES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—William S. Hart, motion picture actor, accused by a young woman of Boston of being the father of her child, executed a trust to pay $50 a month for the support of the infant, Asa Keyes, the chief deputy district attorney said today. The accusation was made Dec. 6, 1918, and the details came to light in a story printed today in the Los Angeles Examiner. The name of Hart's accuser was withheld.

HART DENIES PROVISION FOR SUPPORT OF CHILD

Los Angeles, March 27.—Denial of paternity of any child other than the son of Mrs. Winifred Westover Hart, and denial of any trust or provision for support of any child other than this, the son of his present wife, was made today by William S. Hart in a statement he made public through his attorney.

Lord Robert Cecil States His Mission

[illegible] York, March 27.—The cause of the league of nations is the cause of world peace, declared Lord Robert Cecil, foremost British exponent of the league, who arrived here today on the Majestic for a month's visit to the United States and Canada.

Lord Robert said he came to popularize and promote the cause of the league and to smooth out misunderstandings of its functions and work held by the greatest nation which has not yet joined the international body.

"I should like to see America join the league," he said, "but I am just as strong an advocate of Germany's entrance. In my opinion, Germany would be admitted if she applied. I also would be glad to see Russia come in. It is my impression she would also be admitted if she applied properly and it would be better for her and for the rest of the world if she were a member."

Lord Robert said he would begin his lecture tour in New York tomorrow, speaking first at a private luncheon and later at a dinner at which he will meet owners and editors of national weekly and monthly publications. Later he will speak in Philadelphia, Buffalo, Ottawa, Montreal, Des Moines, Iowa, Chicago, Louisville, Ky., Richmond, Va., Washington and Boston, returning to England on April 27.

"The movement in favor of the league," Sir Robert asserted, "is growing rapidly abroad. The league has functioned without America and can function without her, but it would be a great thing for America and for the rest of the world to have America a member."

He declared he was in favor of America's entrance into the world court as advised by President Harding recently and said such a step would be of great advantage to the league, of which the court is a subsidiary organization and to the cause of world peace.

The league already had satisfactorily settled four important international disputes, he said. They were the dispute between Finland and Sweden over the Aaland Islands; the disputes between Germany and Poland and France and England over Upper Silesia; the dispute over the Albanian sovereignty; and the matter of Austrian finance. The league, he declared, had saved Austria from ruin by providing a loan of 26,000,000 pounds from ten countries and by insuring Austria's protection from external aggression.

But, Lord Robert pointed out, the most important achievements had been in the direction of fostering international legislation of a humanitarian nature which the league had successfully fostered. The permanent secretariat of the league, he added, was one of its most important features and insured its uninterrupted activity.

PRESIDENT HARDING ORDERS SUGAR PROBE

St. Augustine, Fla., March 27.—Investigation by the United States tari ffcommission of the relation of the tari rates on sugar to the present increased sugar prices was ordered today by President Harding, the inquiry was requested by the president in the following telegram addressed to Thomas O. Marvin, the chairman of the tariff commission:

"Have the tariff commission make an immediate inquiry into the relation of the sugar tariff to the current prices of that commodity. It is difficult to believe that the duty on sugar can have any part in making the abnormal prices which prevail, but if the commission finds there is any ground for believing the duty to be even partially responsible, I shall be ready to proclaim a reduction in duty as provided by law."

The presidential order, it was explained, will result in enlisting another official agency in the government's endeavors to ascertain responsibility for the gradual increase in sugar prices starting early in February, when sugar was selling at five and six cents a pound retail, as compared with present quotations running as high as 12 cents.

The department of commerce for several weeks has been studying the sugar situation and several days ago Acting Attorney General Seymour announced in Washington that the department of justice is making an inquiry which would continue until responsibility was fixed.

Mr Harding was said to be determined that the government shall do all in its power not only to prevent further increases but to bring down the present quoted prices should they be found unjustified.

Another conference for July 1 was arranged to discuss subsequent importations.

Illicit use of narcotics was not a major topic of discussion at today's conference, which was confined to consideration of the necessities of the federal drug professions for narcotics, of which the supply has been greatly reduced by the recent embargo.

HOPES THAT GERMANY WILL YIELD BY THE END OF MAY

Premier Poincare of France So Informs the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies—French Authorities at Dusseldorf Have Discovered a Secret German Customs Bureau—25 German Officials and a Number of Shopkeepers Have Been Arrested.

Paris, March 27.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare, appearing before the finance committee of the chamber of deputies today to give an account of the situation in the Ruhr, said he had great hope that Germany would yield "by the end of May."

The premier had with him figures giving the amount of coal and coke shipped from the occupied district but demanded from the deputies a formal engagement not to divulge such figures as he would announce. The socialist deputy Bertho, whom Poincare recently termed "an abominal scoundrel," during a heated debate in the chamber refused to pledge himself to secrecy, so the premier withheld the figures.

An official account of the premier's appearance before the finance committee says that M. Poincare did not conceal that to date the economic results from the viewpoint of realization of guarantees had been of slight importance; only prolonged and stable occupation would permit, owing to the ill will of the German government, realization of the programme for the operation of the occupied districts so as to regulate the problem of reparations.

M. Poincare, according to this account, said that the great German manufacturers who were the soul of German resistance, had tried on several occasions to open direct conversations with the French government, but the latter would only listen to official propositions from the German government itself. He added that the French and Belgian governments were fully agreed upon retaining guarantees until their credit was fully paid and that evacuation would be proportional to payment. The abandonment of Essen, for example, could be considered only when the entire settlement of reparations had been effected.

The premier indicated that the railroads in French hands constituted the best of guarantees. He could not reply to a question as to whether the expenses of the Ruhr occupation would be included in the cost of the armies of occupation, as negotiations were proceeding with regard to that between the allies.

Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was arranged several months ago, it was stated at the Stinnes offices today, and their conversation was wholly concerned with the German magnate's purchases of American and Canadian ores and his current relations with the American steel industry which are being extended in various directions.

In government quarters it was declared that neither Chancellor Cuno nor Foreign Minister Von Rosenberg were apprised of Herr Stinnes' intention to make the trip, and it was emphatically declared that he was given no official commission or authority to discuss the reparation question.

WAGES AND HOURS DISPUTES IN BRITAIN

London, March 27 (By the A. P.).—A considerable portion of the British industrial world is seething with wages and hours disputes. Conferences were held in London today of farm laborers, coal miners, seamen and railwaymen, all discussing these questions.

The farmers' strike has been further extended, but it is still far from general. At the same time the possibility of a prolonged strike at present, the important time for farming work, is viewed with general regret.

Miners' delegates from all the coal fields met to discuss the demand by the South Wales miners for the termination of the existing wages agreement, on the ground that half a million colliers are earning less than fifty shillings weekly. The meeting revealed much difference of opinion, and the discussion was adjourned until tomorrow.

The question of high railway rates is considered by both the agricultural and mining industries as having much to do with the present difficulties, and Sir Eric Geddes, speaking in Manchester today, stated in behalf of the Federation of British industries and traders generally that a request had been made to the railway companies to reduce railway rates to 33 per cent. above the pre-war level. The railway rates now are 75 per cent. above pre-war times.

The shipowners' demands for a reduction in wages were discussed by the national maritime board, representing both owners and seafarers.

The question of reduction of wages also was discussed by the railways' central wages board, but as there has been no appreciable fall in the cost of living during the month of March wage rates will probably not be changed.

There is a deadlock in the building trade, a conference of which has been fixed for tomorrow.

COMPROMISE IN BOSTON BUILDING TRADES DISPUTE

Boston, March 27.—A compromise in the wage dispute between the Building Trades Employers' association and workers affiliated with the United Building Trades council was accepted tentatively at a conference today at city hall. The conference committee of the Employers' Association agreed to increase the wages of the workers from $1 an hour to $1.05 an hour for 1923, and to $1.10 on April 1, 1924 in a two years agreement"

E. A. Johnson, secretary of the Building Trades council, who acted as secretary of the union committee, said that the compromise was acceptible to him, but that his committee was not authorized to sign a setlement agreement and that it would be necessary to report the offer to the various unions. He added that a report would be made to Mayor Curley and the employers' committee at a meeting one week from today.

The workers recently requested that when the present contract expires on April 1 a new contract calling for $1.12 1-2 an hour be signed. The employers refused to agree, and a deadlock resulted

ALLIES READY TO RESUME LAUSANNE NEGOTIATIONS

London, March 27—(By the A. P.)—Turkey will be informed within the next forty eight hours that the allies are ready to resume the Lausanne peace negotiations. The allied delegates, who for the past week have been examining the Turkish counter-proposals to the allied peace terms, finished their deliberations this evening after having drawn up a reply to Ismet Pasha's letter of March 8.

It is understood that the allies agree to make no fundamental changes in their original peace proposals to the Turks. What other modifications have been made are of form, rather than substance. One of the delegates told the Associated Press correspondent that when the conference was resumed the Turks would find the allies in complete unity on all questions.

The French delegates will leave for Paris tomorrow; the Italians will leave Thursday.

SOVIET EDITOR PRAISES BORAH, CONDEMNS HUGHES

Moscow, March 27.—(By the A. P.)—While no soviet statesman has yet expressed a view on Secretary Hughes' pronouncement of last week in regard to the relations between the United States and Russia, the official newspaper Izvestia declares the American secretary of state has returned "to the position of America in the days of the Vladivostok and Archangel intervention."

The pronouncement was delayed in transmission but upon its receipt was given first page position by the Izvestia which prints the full text. Assuming to state the view of official circles, the newspaper says:

"If delivered in 1918 it would not surprise, but in 1923 it sounds like a sharp dissonance—an anachronism. In effect, Mr. Hughes returns to the position of America in the days of the Vladivostok and Archangel intervention, the only difference being that he now declares he does not want to intervene in the internal affairs of Russia, but with reference to non-recognition, boycotting and blockade, and the misrepresentation of the real state of affairs it is just the same."

The newspaper is unable to attach importance to "Hughes' lofty words of humanitarianism toward the Russians," as, it declares, he himself says recognition is a question of economics in which humanitarianism has little part, and Russia does not conceal her economic difficulties.

"We must conclude," it adds, "that Mr. Hughes, instead of wanting to help in the restablishment, holds to the principle: When one falls down, push him farther. He proposes conditions of help forestalling the possibility of agreement. Despite his verbal refusal to intervene in our internal affairs, he in reality demands radical reconstruction of the inner regime so as to duplicate the bourgeois states."

The Izvestia's editor insists that Russia has met, and will meet, the obligations which she recognizes, but her position on the war and pre-war debts was thoroughly set forth at the Genoa and Hague conferences.

He declares that Secretary Hughes expresses "the yesterday of American diplomacy, while Senator Borah and his followers will express the tomorrow," and concludes:

"Russia does not think that Hughes and his group will succeed long in retarding the progress of the economic reapproachment of Amercia and the the soviet federation.

DRASTIC ENFORCEMENT LAW IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., March 27.—Carrying out his campaign pledge that he would try to drive saloons out of Pennsylvania, Governor Pinchot tonight signed the administration prohibition enforcement bill shortly after it had been passed by the house of representatives. The measure, which passed the upper branch of the Pennsylvania legislature is described as a most drastic enforcement measure.

The measure, which deals solely with the use of intoxicants as beverages, defines intoxicating liquor as anything "found and determined from time to time to be intoxicating by act of congress. It makes it unlawful for any person to manufacture, sell, offer for sale, furnish, transport, possess or deliver within or for import into or export out of the commonwealth any intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

Penalties provided for violation are not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 fine, or imprisonment of not more than three years or both.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
11 Church Street Telephone 1042

Rev. Harold W. Tillinghast, the recently resigned pastor of the Mansfield Center Congregational church is to bring suit against Archibald W. Buchanan, Sr., a member of the church and church committee, to the amount of $10,000 for alleged slanderous utterances. The suit which is an aftermath of the resignation of the pastor, will be brought through Mr. Tillinghast's attorney, a Middletown lawyer. Included in the charges is that Mr. Buchanan had stated on two occasions that the plaintiff said he "bought his sermons" or words to that effect, the statements being made in the presence of witnesses, who were members of Mr. Buchanan's Bible class. The papers in the suit are with Deputy Sheriff A. J. Greenalit and Monday night he placed an attachment on the defendant's automobile which was later released on a receipt furnished by the defendant. It was reported Tuesday afternoon that Mr. Tillinghast was out of town.

It is not known whether Rev. Mr. Tillinghast has made charges that the alleged statements were the cause of the loss of his position or whether they defamed him in any way to tend to cause trouble between him and his pastorship.

Tuesday morning, Abe Davidson of Norwich made the purchase of a tract of land on Main street with a frontage of 102 feet and a depth from 160 to 166 feet, consisting of two adjoining lots. One was 62 feet frontage and was owned by Hyman Israel of this city and Abe Reinstein of Village Hill and the other of 40 feet frontage was purchased from Joseph Giraca. The property which was purchased for a theatre site is part of the old Frank E. Sayles estate, north of the Stone Row, which was sold about a year ago by Samuel Chesbro for the estate. The newly bought property is bounded on the west by land owned by William H. Lincoln, who conducts the Elmshade gasoline service station and on the east by property owned by John N. Gilman.

It is Mr. Davidson's idea to furnish Willimantic with a modern theatre building. After securing an option on the Giraca lot, Mr. Davidson found that the plans for the building called for more space and he then secured an option on the Israel and Reinstein lot. His intention is to start work on the new structure within ten days as his plans are practically completed.

The theatre will be of brick, with a frontage of about 92 feet to contain four stores forty feet deep, with possibly a lobby in the center twenty feet wide leading into the theatre which will seat 1200 people. There is to be a balcony but the main seating capacity will be on the main floor.

Foss was called upon and in fitting words he expressed the sentiments of the Willimantic club and extended the club's congratulations to "Val."

A shower of gifts, many of them humorous and a number for Mrs. Murphy, were presented by the following and were accompanied by timely remarks: "Jim" Fullerton, "Jim" Bath, Frank H Foss, Aime Martineau, C. Blanchette, "Ray" Parker, John F. Ahern, Frank M. Smith, "Gus" Greene, George W. Hickey, Professor Richard Dodge, Harry W. Standish, Charles W Hill.

Hugh McKenna of Hartford was present as a guest of Henry Congdon and William E. Jackson of the New London club and Walter R. King were guests of the club. Secretary Hill read the minutes of the previous meeting and also a communication from District Governor Donald H. Adams, which stated that the newly organized Wallingford Rotary club had been accepted by International Rotary. Don also wrote in regard to the sending of a few delegates to the charter meeting of the Wallingford club, which will be held on Wednesday, April 11, in that city. It was also announced that the Putnam club had been accepted and that the president of that club wished to confer with the local club in regard to the holding of a charter meeting about the middle of April. On a motion by Frank Foss it was voted that President Val set a date and get together as many local members as possible to confer with the Putnam men.

The secretary read another communication in regard to the increasing of the club dues from $3.00 to $3.50 and Secretary Hill who will be the delegate at the June conference of International Rotary in St. Louis was instructed to favor the proposition.

Frank H. Foss then spoke on the installing of a budget system for the local club and it was voted to instruct the treasurer to prepare a statement of finances to be used by the directors who will be elected next month.

The meeting was adjourned by the usual singing of one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.

A delightful banquet was held Monday night in the town hall at South Coventry by members of Earl W. Green Post, No. 52, American Legion and other ex-service men, the affair being under the auspices of the Post.

There were about 50 men present. A delicious menu was served under the supervision of Sergeant Thomas Kennedy. C. Howard Daniels, commander of the post, acted as toastmaster of the evening. Included in the speakers who were heard were Judge George H. Robertson and Senator (Dr.) William L. Higgins, first captain of the Nathan Hale Home Town, Clerk Louis W. Daniels, Representative Louis A. Kingsbury, Captain William A. Wolfe and Ernest Woodward.

The funeral services for William F. Robarge were held Tuesday morning from the late home, No. 40 Whiting street, and were followed by a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. The mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor of the church. While the body was being borne into the edifice, the choir rendered "Nearer My God to Thee." A number of solos were sung during the services. The remains were taken to St. Joseph's cemetery and placed in the receiving vault where a committal service was recited by Rev. J. J. Papillon. The bearers were Mayor Charles A. Gates, Francois X. Caisse, Alderman Frederick Roy, Henry Desormeau, Fred Leclaire and Alfred Legace. The funeral arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse Corp.

Miss Mary A. Hatch, aged 69, died early Tuesday morning at her home in South Windham. She was born in South Windham, February 1, 1854, the daughter of Jonathan and Alma A. (Armstrong) Hatch and is survived by one brother, George Hatch of South Windham and several nieces and nephews.

Still another change in the plans of construction for the proposed Salvation Army citadel on Walnut street has been holding up the work of building. It was originally planned to make use of part of the frame work of an old building which stood on the site, as a reinforcement for cement and stucco, but the permit for building was revoked by Wade U. Webster who was then chief of the fire department. It was then proposed to build the walls of brick or cement and now the question of using tile has been brought up, and estimates for the construction of the walls either of brick, cement or tile, will have been forwarded to Col. McIntyre at Boston. It is stated that as soon as Mr. McIntyre has reached a decision the work of building will be rushed to completion.

Four miles out of camp the machine became imbedded in the mud and he was forced to abandon it and walk back to the camp and in the early hours of the morning he secured six yoke of oxen with tackle blocks fastened to high trees and after adding eighteen horses to the pulling he saw the automobile being pulled out of the mud.

Mr. Phillips stated that he plans to remain in camp as long as the roads are in their present condition.

In the place of recommending $40,000 for improvements to the heating plant at the state normal school at Willimantic, the legislative committee on education will probably recommend about $10,000 to install a separate heating plant for a building in the school group, which cannot now be heated by the general school heating plant, because the heating plant is on a higher level than the school building which it is desired to heat.

DRINK WATER FREELY IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Also Take Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WINDHAM

The local correspondent was misinformed and wishes to correct the statement made last week regarding the auto accident in which Alfred Abbe and Eden Cook were concerned. The car was not run into by a truck, as stated then, but the accident was caused by getting into a hole near the trolley track in Manchester. The car, which belonged to and was driven by Mr. Abbe, was overturned and both men were thrown out but not injured. The windshield was broken and fender bent. STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Gavitt, Oliver Gavitt, Edward Sullivan and Thomas Saunders. Mrs. Rathbone had been in feeble health for some and suffered a shock, living only a few days. POETRY

THE SONG OF THE HERMIT THRUSH

Dusk on the autumn river, faint and chill,
Wan dusk and solitude
In the dumb wood.
The day's whole store of light and color spent.
Oh, hush, be still!
Listen! what is that melody upsent
Beyond the darkened hill,
Outpoured upon the edge of desolate night
In sudden ecstasy?—
A clear chord broken with beauty, then a lilt
Of rapture. . . . Then a precious note adrift
On the sheer silence; sadness and delight
Joy and old pain, pure peace and memory,
And all the lonely loveliness of earth
In one ineffable cry.
Tears, and deep tenderness, and dreams of men cherish,
And, in the same sweet breath,
Courage high-flung—the certain, soaring faith
That love can never fail nor beauty perish
Through chance or change of death.
Sing on O hidden bird!
The river darkens and the shadows grow.
O lone voice crying in the wilderness,
Cry yet again, again—exquisite, slow,
That merciful word
Our hearts had ached to utter and did not know.
—Nancy Byrd Turner, in McClure's.

THE GUM CRAZE.

Chewing gum! Everywhere!
How the scent pervades the air,
Breath of the vanilla bean,
Peppermint and wintergreen,
How they come
In the gum,
Mingled with petroleum!
Maggie sticks it in the mirror;
Willie leaves it in the chair,
Gertrude likes to have it nearer,
Bites off some and keeps it there.
Chewing!
Chewing!
Chewing!
Chewing!
Men and women, old and young,
Nothing doing
Except chewing.
Till our jaws are fairly wrung
With the awful fascination
Of this wholesale mastication.
At the playhouse, at the church
You may find it without search.
On the chair it seeks retreat
To the floor it clings your feet.
Baby smears it everywhere,
On your shirt front, in your hair.
There's nearly choking to death
And the end is short of breath.
The convicts sick and glum
All laid out by chewing gum.
What are people coming to?
What's the country going to do
If we keep all connection
And make one great motion
And do naught on earth but Chewing?
—"Bluender" Johnson, in Washington Star.

N. Y. COMMISSION RULES CHAMPS MUST ACCEPT FORMAL CHALLENGES

New York, March 27.—Another drastic step to force boxing champions into action was taken by the New York state athletic commission today when it adopted a rule compelling titleholders to go through with matches for which they have been formally challenged before taking part in any other contests in this state.

Refusal of a champion to accept a challenge under these conditions, it was added, would result in forfeiture of his title claims in accordance with provisions of the Walker boxing law which compels champions to defend their honors against challengers within six months.

Three outstanding challenges, now on file with the commission, are affected by the latest decision, it was said. They are: Carl Tremaine of Cleveland against Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion; Sailor Friedman, of Chicago, against Benny Leonard, lightweight champion; and Harry Wills, New Orleans negro, against Jack Dempsey, heavyweight king.

The commission characterized its action as a declaration of war against ring champion who persist in ignoring the challenges of logical contenders for their titles.

Two champions—Johnny Wilson, middleweight and Johnny Kilbane, featherweight—already have lost their status as champions, so far as New York states is concerned, by failure to comply with the challenge provisions of the boxing law.

The commission today granted a license to Eugene Criqui, French holder of the European featherweight title, who came to the United States to box Kilbane for the world's featherweight championship in a bout planned by Matchmaker Tom O'Rourke, for the Polo Grounds on June 2.

No reference to the fact that Kilbane now is under official ban here was made by the commission in granting the license, nor was any effort made. It was said to clear away obstacles that have beset the Kilbane-Criqui match.

NATIONAL BALLOON RACE SLATED FOR INDIANAPOLIS

Washington, March 27.—Indianapolis has been awarded the national elimination balloon race, it was announced today at headquarters of the National Aeronautic association. The contest will be held between June 5 and July 4 and the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be utilized as a balloon field.

Entry of fourteen American balloons, the association said, is assured. The first, second and third in the contest will be the American entries in the international balloon race at Brussels in September for the James Gordon Bennett trophy.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

Orlando, Fla., March 28.—Pat is standing pat. Which statement, properly interpreted, means that Patricius Moran was rather well satisfied with the young men who labored for the Cincinnati Reds last year; is confident that, with a fair percentage of the breaks in 1923, John Joseph McGraw's Giants will be aware of the fact that Ohio is in the United States and has an entry in the National League flag chase. Patricius had much to contend with this spring. Two star pastimers were spending the winter wielding pensolders. One of these, Jacob Ellsworth Daubert, finally signed a contract and then was flattened by pneumonia it may be a month or more before Jake can play. He may be too weak to do himself justice all season. That is tough, for while Daubert is an ancient and this may be his last season Moran thought Jake would help to make it a championship year.

The other athlete who had the correspondence fever, Edward James Roush, is almost certain to grow corn and chickens on his Indiana farm. Eddie may be the greatest outfielder in the National league—Patricius doesn't think so at that—but the directors of the Connecticut club who arrange the payroll do not value the outfielder's services at $25,000. As a matter of fact, they regard him as a temperamental chap, never quite satisfied; therefore not likely to bolster up club morale.

However, the chief cause for concern in the Orlando camp of the Reds has been one John Benton, commonly called "Rube." It was no fault of the Rube's that he was giving Patricius and the municipalities of Cincinnati in Ohio and Orlando in Florida sleepless hours.

The southpaw pitcher was carrying a loaded fountain pen in his vest pocket and demanding an opportunity to use it on a contract, and he did, thanks to Landis. But—well, every person who reads baseball news and comment is posted on the Benton case.

Benton Will Be Big Asset.

With Rube Benton the Reds will surely give John Joseph McGraw many unpleasant afternoons. Such good judges of pitching talent as Sherwood Magee and F. Otto Knabe, who were in the American Association, where the Rube won twenty-two games for St. Paul last season, said that in his entire career the big left-hander never before had shown such stuff. In the opinion of folks who know their baseball, Benton should be good for not one less than twenty-five victories—and twenty-five victories is twenty-five victories in any league.

Eliminating Benton, Patricius Moran, who has no peers as a tutor of pitchers, would be occupying the pretty seat. He will command as veterans from the '22 campaign, five hurlers who form about as nifty a quintet as one may find on one team. Four are right-handers; one a left-hander.

Pete Donohue, rated second in effectiveness last year and who won eighteen and lost nine; John Couch, who turned in sixteen wins and was charged with nine defeats; Frank Keck, who landed only seven victories in '22, but who Pat thinks will be good for double that number and then some in '23, and Adolfo Luque, whose defeats nearly doubled his triumphs last campaign, but who is flinging the apple in old-time form this spring, make up the tried and true right-hand curvers.

The southpaw king is Eppa Jeptha Rixey, who, in the matter of games won—which is some matter—led the left-handers in the league last year. Eppa's slate showed twenty-five victories and thirteen defeats. Eppa demurred a tiny bit when he read his contract with the care and thoroughness that befits a college graduate and professor. However, he was not very serious in his objections. A manager who has that six feet six inches of pitching skill on his roster is indeed fortunate.

Pat Well Heeled With Catchers.

Cincinnati has no catching worries. With Ivy Wingo, a maskman who has the experience of many hard-fought campaigns, and Jene Hargrave, who both at bat and behind the plate was one of the talked-about youngstrs last season, Patricius has a two-catcher club. Luts may remain No. 3 catcher, but Sandberg, who came from the International, where he led the backstoppers defensively and hit well, has made an impression on his boss and all who watched him at the Orlando preparing ground.

The Red outfield does not suffer by comparison with any in the Heydler circuit, even when the dollar-chasing Roush is absent. Harper, Duncan and Burns form a trio that go about their work brainfully (which is a good word) and enthusiastically. Harper's batting average in '22 was .339; Duncan's was .327. Burns, even when he was one of McGraw's favorites, did not always hit in the .300 set—his average last season was .285—but he does his share fo the team nevertheless. George stole thirty bases last year, which made him one of the leaders in that once-important attacking division.

Bressler will remain the first utility gardener for the Reds. Hock, who is fast and who played the outfield and batted prettily for Atlanta in the Southern association last campaign, is likely to be kept around for emergencies. Pat likes the action of the boy.

Before we leave the outfield, as it were, we desire to give it as our opinion that if Eddie Roush parked his suitcase in the San Juan hotel in Orlando and informed Mr. Moran that he was anxious to swing a bat and chase flies for Cincinnati, Patricius would not refuse to extend the right hand in hearty welcome. A young man who is almost sure to hit better than .350, and who admittedly gives his all to a team when the figures on his pay check are satisfactory, is never treated like a step-son by his manager.

Daubert Strong Hitter.

If one were selecting an infield on batting strength, as shown by the averages, he would ponder over that of the Reds. Daubert hit .333 and led the first basemen in fielding, playing in every game of the season. Pinelli hit .305 and also took part in each one of the 156 games, being the top man in put-outs and assists at the third-base position.

Bohn, at second, hit .274—that is not disgraceful, by any means, since the young man is a crack-a-jack defensive laborer. But Caveney, the shortstop, did not hit the ball safely 100 times in 118 games—his percentage was .228. And the lad did not show so well in the fielding averages either.

However, Pat Moran is a manager who pays little attention to averages. If a player is batting, fielding or pitching in a way that pleases Patricius, he may stand last in the league in the average list and remain the most highly prized member of the Red organization. Of course, the Cincinnati general appreciates that a man who is going at top speed in any department of the game is likely to be among the leaders in the percentages.

GLENNA TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST MISS HOLLINS

Pinehurst, N. C., March 27—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., national and north-south women's golf champion, will defend her north-south title tomorrow against Miss Marion Hollins of East Islip, N. Y., former north-south champion, in the final round of the tournament here.

In the semi-final matches today, Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, Ohio, state title holder, 5 up and 4 to play. Miss Hollins defeated Mrs. K. C. Allen of Winnipeg, 2 and 1.

Miss Collett went out in 42, and at the turn led Miss Fordyce by 3 up. The champion brought her match to a brilliant conclusion with an eagle 3 on the 552-yard fourteenth hole.

PRINCE OF WALES THROWN FROM HORSE IN RACE

London, March 27—The Prince of Wales was thrown today at a water jump in the army point-to-point races at Arborfield, but was unhurt.

Wales was riding Prince Henry's horse and had taken the water jump in splendid style on the first round, but the second time the horse balked at the bank and plunged straight into the water, which is several feet deep.

The prince was thrown into the boughs of a willow tree on the opposite bank, but scrambled back to rescue the horse which was plunging about in water up to its neck and rapidly sinking in the mud. The prince, unaided, pluckily seized the horse's head and brought the animal out amid the cheers of hundreds of spectators.

LODGE IS DECLARED UNSUITABLE OPPONENT FOR SOUTH AMERICAN

New York, March 27—The New York state athletic commission today announced it would not permit farmer Lodge of Minneapolis, to box Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight, at the Yankee stadium on May 12. The commission ruled that Lodge was not a suitable opponent for Firpo and ordered that a selection be made from Jim Herman, of Omaha, Neb., Jack Renault, of Canada; and Jack McAuliffe, 2nd, of Detroit.

Throwing a bomb into plans arranged for the heavyweight show at the Yankee stadium May 12, the New York state athletic commission today barred Farmer Lodge, Minneapolis heavyweight, as an opponent for Luis Firpo, South American champion, in a match carded on the same program with the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson encounter.

"Bob Roper of Chicago, a little fellow by comparison to Firpo, first was picked to meet Firpo," Mr. Muldoon explained, "but he was eliminated when we objected. Now they have selected Lodge, a big fellow who has nothing but his size to recommend him. They expect to draw close to 100,000 people to the show at the Yankee park and I'm going to insist that it be a good one and not a 'frost', in which case the commission would take the principal blame."

KIRKWOOD AND RICE WIN FROM HAGEN

Hagen had a score of 37-32—69 for the eighteen holes and Kirkwood had a round of 34-35—69.

Winkler has announced his intention of entering Lafayette.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Smoking while in uniform has been banned during the playing season of the Cleveland Indians.

Passaic, N. J., high school basketball team undefeated in 118 games depend largely on overhead passing for field goals and victories.

When Abadane, eight-year-old bay gelding, pased a mile and 40 yards in 1:39 2-5 he lowered the world's record, held by four horses, of 1:42.

Montreal soccer football officials favor sending a Canadian eleven to the British Empire sports to be held next year.

Cincinnati has cut loose two more young pitchers. Alan Clarke, who has had several tryouts with the Reds, and Jimmy Hargrave have drawn their unconditional releases.

The University of California gained $150,755 through its football team last fall. In the period from June 1 to December 31, 1922, sports paid the institution a total of $200,932.

Jimmy Smith, formerly of the Phillies, will play shortstop at Salt Lake this season alongside of Oscar Vitt the old Red Sox and Tiger third sacker.

J. H. Taylor and Alex Herd, crack British golfers, will visit Italy next autumn and on September 1 will open the new 18-hole course of the Menaggio and Cadenabbia club.

Jack Barry, former big league star and coach of baseball at Holy Cross, and P. Walter Fay has purchased property in Harding and Milk streets, Worcester, for $100,000 as site for a big garage.

Harry Martin and Young Montreal, the two Providence bantams, will settle the question of supremacy between them when they battle over the 12-round decision route at the National A. C., Mariesville, R. I., on April 4.

It is understood that Bill McCarron, who was recently released to Bridgeport by Brooklyn, will not report to Gene McCann. McCarron is decidedly peeved to think he was sent to a Class A ball club.

Nat Rogers is having little difficulty in obtaining work for the two Silver brothers, Joey and Marty. These lads are willing workers, especially Joey, who is cutting quite a swath among the six-round youngsters.

Young Manty seems to be on the road to losing his New England title. Jack Lawlor trimmed him Friday night and Billy Murphy of Lowell is expected to take his measure this week—and the title as well.

The Stevens bill abolishing the New Jersey Boxing Board, has been passed over Gov. Sizer's veto and Comptroller N. A. K. Bugbee has been named to have charge of the sport in the Skeeter state.

Hans Lobert, coach of the Army nine, has reported to West Point for duty. The Army men have been in the open for the past few days and are fast rounding into condition for the opening game on April 4 with Boston College.

Paul Demers was defeated in the first bout of his come-back performance by the clever "Red" Chapman at Fall River. Chapman pawed his way to a victory by using his left hand and refusing to fight in the clinches.

Attempts to match "Red" Chapman and Jimmie Cooney for the American Legion show in Holyoke, April 6 have not been successful for the Boston Hebrew demands that Cooney make 124 pounds and this the Irish battler will not attempt.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among the scribes that "Hank" Lavallee is a fine prospect but needs more development before he can make the big league grade. Lavallee has been bothered with a sore arm, which also has handicapped his work with the Yankees.

Pittsfield has one outfield position set with the announcement that Bosse had signed his 1923 contract. Leefield is open to all prospective candidates, while nothing has been heard from Howie Baker, right fielder in 1922.

Everett Nutter, comedian outfielder, who jumped the New Haven club last season and Bill Reckus, another outfielder, who had a tryout with the Hartford team in 1922, have signed with the Mahoney City (Pa.) semi-pro club. Reckus was with the Mahoney team last season. Jack Onslow, former Providence catcher, is manager of this club.

Gene McCann has received word from John Gillespie, former Cincinnati pitcher, that the twirler has accepted the terms offered by the Bridgeport club and will send along his signed contract. McCann expects much from this hurler this season.

Joe Burton, the highly-touted Michigan welterweight, was handed a neat lacing by Mixer Mitchell, of Syracuse, in their twelve-round quarrel at Amsterdam, N. Y., last Wednesday evening. The up-stater made a good showing, while the Westerner was a disappointment to the fans.

Baker is getting old and one report during the winter had it that he was trying to obtain a berth on the Bridgeport police force with the idea in mind of giving up active league playing and joining a semi-pro club around the Park City this summer.

Binghamton, Elmira of New York State and Scranton, York and Williamsport, Pennsylvania. It is not known yet whether Wilkesbarre will enter a team, but three or four other Keystone state cities have asked for a franchise in case Wilkesbarre does not care to enter.

The proposed New England and Atlantic Leagues have "blown up" but the New York State circuit is going right ahead with plans. President John H. Farrell has called a schedule and final organization meeting for Binghamton, Monday. One or two schedules Mr. Farrell has submitted will be adopted.

Whatever other clubs, majors or minors, do, Tom Watkins, of the Memphis Southern League team, means to try out the plan of numbering players this year. Each player will wear a number on his uniform corresponding to a number on the score card—and Mr. Watkins promises the score cards will be 100 per cent. perfect.

Frankie Conroy, the Philly bantam is having his troubles breaking in at local clubs. The other day it looked like he was in with Tommy Lynch at Freeport, but something cropped up and another card was arranged. Conway, however, is not discouraged and is hoping he'll finally get stared around here.

George Weis has arranged a touch schedule of exhibition games for his Travelers. New Haven will play a series of contests with Virginia League teams while in the south. On returning north New Haven will meet Yale at Weiss Park, Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14. The following Sunday Bill Donovan's men tackle the Red Sox. Toronto is in New Haven on Monday and Tuesday of that week. The team undoubtedly will be busy with games Wednesday, Friday and Saturday with a contest on Sunday, April 22, with the Athletics.

THE COUNTY FORESTRY ESSAY CONTEST.

As a stimulant to greater interest in forestry and the solution of forestry problems much is to be said in commendation of the essay contest which is being conducted by the Connecticut Forestry association. By such a method it means the creation of widespread attention and the development of keen interest in the various phases of the subject.

Put forth for the benefit of the boys and girls of New London county under the age of 16 the contest should develop not only a good natured rivalry but a study of conditions and a closer touch with the situation as it exists and a better realization as to what it ought to be.

Connecticut has a real forestry problem, and for its solution more than the interest of the children is required, but in all educational efforts excellent results are certain to come from getting the ideas firmly implanted in the minds of the young. What they store away through reading or studies stays by them for long years to come, and the foundation established through such a contest can be relied upon to bear fruit in the future.

Whether the effort is patriotic, humanitarian or educational, interest that is created among the children makes excellent returns. They are the citizens of tomorrow. There are certain problems that are sure to be passed along to them, or that they can expect to have a hand in solving. Thus the better fitted they are to deal with them through early acquaintance with the fundamental facts the better are they going to be able to do their part.

While the forestry association is doing so much commendable work in keeping the forestry situation to the front it is not overlooking the possibilities that lie in the children. With boys and girls aroused, for one reason or another, increased interest in certain problems has thereby been awakened among their elders.

The boys and girls of New London county should develop a keen profitable healthy and informative essay contest concerning forestry subjects for many weeks to come.

THE SUGAR CASE.

Those who are ready to make attacks upon the administration, whether justified or not, have been making the most of the misrepresented situation concerning sugar production.

When the department of commerce issued its report concerning the world survey relative to sugar production a resume of it was made by a news agency outside of the department and a statement given to the country. In that statement only part of the report seems to have been taken into consideration. That part was that for the past year the production of sugar throughout the world showed a decline. It was a fact, however, that there was a sufficient amount held over from the previous year so that even though the 1922 crop was smaller than 1921 the amount of sugar available was hundreds of thousands of tons in excess of the 1921 consumption figures.

This incorrect report was not put forth for the purpose of misrepresentation. It was unintentionally made to create a wrong impression. The result was that those who were cognizant of what a sugar shortage would mean made the most of the situation, and sugar commenced to climb. Even though there was more than the world's requirements, as measured by the previous year, the unjustified talk of a shortage had gotten in its work. Prices were being forced up under shortage influences when as a matter of fact there is more sugar than the world requires and there will be a surplus to carry over again.

With attacks being made upon the department of commerce for something for which it was not responsible, the news agency that issued the wrong report has wisely made its explanation and exonerated the department. Those, however, who are looking for an opportunity to criticize, whether justified or not, have not accepted the misinterpretation and through their misrepresentations have continued to place the fault where it doesn't belong and gives a wrong impression of the entire situation. They are barking up the wrong tree.

PROPERLY REBUKED.

What must be regarded as a fitting rebuke to those who were responsible for it, even though it may be claimed that it was intended as a joke, was the refusal of Justice Sutherland of the United States supreme court and Justice Stafford of the district supreme court to attend a fraternity banquet in honor of the former to which all invited had been virtually asked to bring liquor.

This meant, if it meant anything at all, that it was to be a wet party in honor of a member of the supreme court, and those attending, including two high judges, were asked to violate the law of the land.

While it is explained by those responsible that the reference to liquor was humorously and ironically intended, it cannot fail to be realized that bad judgment was used. Such invitations could be expected to provoke no other response from the judges. At its best it was an attempt to ridicule the law in which it could hardly have been expected that they would participate.

What a position it placed those in who are pledged to uphold the law. Even if the attempt at a joke at the expense of the Volstead act had been so regarded by the judges, it can be readily seen how their presence at such a gathering could have been misrepresented after it was all over.

As long as the Volstead act remains a law it is entitled to respect and should be enforced. The position of a justice of the highest court in the land cannot be expected to be one thing while on the bench and something else when out of the court room. Perhaps those who issued the invitations did not expect that, and it is to be hoped they didn't, but it seems to have been necessary for them to have found it out through unexpected publicity in order to avoid such extremely bad taste in the future.

IS WILSON IN CONTROL?

By the death of Senator Nicholson of Colorado two interesting developments have followed. His removal will reduce the republican majority in the upper house of congress, since the appointment of his successor for the period until the next election is held will be made by the governor of Colorado, a democrat. That means that a democrat will be selected without any doubt.

But quite important otherwise is the position which former President Wilson appears to be taking in connection with the selection of this new senator. Governor Sweet is a loyal party man and he has some political bills to pay. Because he feels obligated to former Governor Adams it would be quite natural that he should want to name Alva Adams Jr., as senator to represent the state.

Whatever his wishes may be, and immediately after the death of Senator Nicholson was reported, Woodrow Wilson placed before him the request that he name Huston Thompson, a member of the federal trade commission, and one to whom the former president feels politically indebted. It thus becomes a question not only whose political debt is going to be paid but whether the former president has gotten back to leadership of the democratic party. That he took a prominent part in the effort to defeat Senator Reed was readily understood as a flareback from his experiences while president and the same might be said of his opposition to Senator Vardaman, but when he seeks to have a senatorial appointment made to suit him he stands forth in a different light. Has he taken up again the reins of leadership, or is it just an itching to do so? Governor Sweet is placed in a peculiar position and his action will for that reason be watched with keener interest.

SARAH BERNHARDT.

Well beyond three score and ten, Sarah Bernhardt made the same determined fight for life that she did in behalf of her profession. She has played her last role, but throughout her career she created a fame that is bound to stand as a lasting memorial.

She was an emotional actress whose work had won worldwide recognition. To claim that she was the greatest in her class is not exaggeration. She was in a class by herself as a woman and an actress. Her heart was wound up in the stage. She gave her life and a large part of her earnings to it. It was her desire that she might die in the harness and to the very last, even though it appeared to be against the best interests of her health, she was preparing for new productions and new roles. The indomitable will was ever manifest through her career. She was fired by an enthusiasm that had no letup and in spite of her years she retained the youthfulness of face and figure and was able to enact the youthful roles with the same clever display of talent long past the years when others would have found it an impossibility.

It was in France that her long and brilliant career was started. It is there that it came to a close, but throughout the world there are great numbers who have been inspired by her at and the loss occasioned by her death will be felt on both sides of the Atlantic. Will there be others who can really and fully take her place?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

March may be trying to do its worst but its time is limited.

Ice in some rivers has moved as rapidly as it does in certain ice boxes.

The man on the corner says: After all dollar gas might bring greater highway safety.

When North Carolina boasts of having more textile mills than any other state how long before it will exceed any other states production?

A Brooklyn boy shot in the eye may never see again. It is a terrible penalty to exact of another for a little wild pleasure with an air rifle.

With a law against fireproof coal in Massachusetts, it is to be hoped that efforts are not made to dump such tabooed material back into Connecticut.

Perhaps the higher prices of sugar haven't served to create a false market any more than the predictions by LaFollette as to how high the sweet stuff might go.

The removal of the temporary honor roll in anticipation of a permanent one elsewhere does not detract in the least from the appearance of the city hall.

Landlords are penalized for not taking in families with children. And possibly they figure that cheaper than taking a chance of getting a family that does nothing but destroy.

When the mayor of Worcester vetoes a bill increasing salaries, including his own, and declared "the drain on the taxpayer is heavy enough without increasing it," he may have displeased those looking for increases but he made himself solid with the people.

"All that I ask from my family," began the nervous housewife in despairing tones, "is that they should display intelligence. I don't demand bursts of brilliance or current topics to camp on, our front doorstep writing up our extraordinary accomplishments—the most I do mean, the mayor ought to order out the band if any one of you three ever learns anything you happened to want!

"Since you have been home on your vacation, Hoopstone, I have cramped whatever I have been doing at the moment and found some 893 articles necessary to your life and happiness which were all lying around in plain sight!

"When you decided to save money and build the new back steps yourself I had that sinking feeling which comes before the worst. And I was a true prophet.

"'Where's the hammer?' you demanded right away. 'And I am sure there was a square around the house somewhere unless you have used it for a trellis in the garden! And are there any large nails? Wasn't there some putty left from that window in the basement which I fixed a month ago? I put it in a can, but I can't find the can. I might as well paint the boards as I beg them—where's the paint brush? Do you remember where that turpentine was put that I had in a quart bottle? It had a catsup label on it. I left the saw somewhere last fall—where is it? Are there two old boxes the same size that I can rest boards on? Haven't I got a pair of old shoes somewhere?'

"That is precisely the way you acted, Hoopstone, when your shoes all stood in a perfectly plain row on the shelf in your closet and every scrap of your clothes hung on hangers right before you! And the tools were all in the toolchest! But you positively couldn't find them! I sleuthed out your pipe after you had tramped up and down the house for hours aimlessly pulling things apart and over and to pieces and spilling flower vases and yanking tissue paper off my best hat—and the pipe lay all alone on the top of the little smoking stand, where a child of 6 would have seen it!

"Five times have I sat down to write a letter and five times have I got up to lead you to (1) a clean towel—in the linen cupboard in the bathroom, where clean towels have been since we moved into this house; (2) your razor—exactly one inch removed from the spot where it usually lies; (3) the last new magazine—on the top of a pile on the reading table with its name in five-inch letters shouting at you; (4) your cuff links—on your chiffonier in the center of things, shining like headlights right at you; (5) the whiskbroom—hanging on your closet door, where it always hangs. But none of these articles could you find, let alone see!

"And Veldyne—it has been thirty-two times that you have rushed into the house wanting to know where the most unlikely things were—a half yard of the gingham from a last year's dress, the extra tennis balls, your gold thimble that Aunt Lizzie gave you and which you never used, the hair nets you bought two weeks ago, the address of the girl you liked so much at that house party last winter, your white belt, the black darning silk, some more hairpins and your satin pumps.

"Your brother Herkimer has been just as bad.

"'I can't find my best tie,' he objected. Said tie I found lying on top of his pile of ties in the drawer. 'I can't find any soap in this bathroom!' The soap was a dozen deep in the front of things on the supply shelf, where he has been taught to look for them since he was 2. 'I can't find the Cresswell in the cellar!' There was a brief silence, then, 'Oh, that! Why, I sold that to the second hand book man!' The man was standing upon it. I didn't sell me, my fountain pen, my watch and where in thunderation is a hammer?

"No prize official of deserving business ever uncovered so many hidden mysteries as I have these last few days and I begin to think that you can call for help just because you like to see me in action. It couldn't be possible that any grown-up person was so absolutely blind and helpless! And from now on you can just find your own things, because I'm through! I have a few years yet to live and several things I want to do and if this keeps up I won't have time—"

"Before we cross the deadline," interrupted her husband in subdued tones, "won't you please tell me, Arethum, just one thing—where can I find somebody who will tell me where things are when you won't?"

"I guess there's no use," the nervous housewife said, more despairingly than ever. "What is it you can't find now, Hoopstone? I'm perhaps looking right at it!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William Nelson Cromwell, who has donated 400,000 francs toward the building of a museum for the Legion of Honor in Paris, is a famous New York lawyer who of late years has passed much of his time in France. He is himself an Officer of the Legion of Honor, this distinction having been conferred upon him several years ago. During the late war, he was generous in his donations for relief work and was particularly interested in helping the blind soldiers of France. At the height of his career as a lawyer, Mr. Cromwell was, in many respects, the most remarkable figure at the American bar. Aside from his other claims to celebrity he possesses the unique distinction of having received the most enormous fees ever paid for legal services. Many of these fees were in connection with the organization of industrial corporations, but his largest fee—said to be in excess of $1,500,000—was for carrying through the transfer of the Panama Canal to the United States.

Wives of Famous Men

Rutherford B. Hayes defeated Samuel J. Tilden in the exciting election of 1876 and became the 19th president of the United States. He was a lawyer, soldier and statesman, and his popularity was demonstrated before his election as president. The fact that he was three times elected governor of his state proved how capable he was to control public affairs. His wife, Lucy Ware Webb, was in her way just as popular as her husband.

Lucy Webb was born in Ohio, the daughter of a Chillicothe physician. In 1852, when she was just 21 years old, she married young Hayes, then a captain in the army. Mrs. Hayes was noted for many attainments, and was the fortunate possessor of a rare beauty which was spiritual as well as physical.

Her graciousness and charm, most pleasant to behold, admirably fitted her for the role of an army man's wife, as well as for the even more taxing duties that fall to the mistress of the White House. She carried herself with a dignity commensurate with her situation, and yet was not guilty of the slightest hauteur or stiffness.

During the Civil war Mrs. Hayes devoted most of her time to aiding the wounded soldiers of the Union army, and was directly responsible for many of the comforts they received.

She was deeply opposed to the use of liquor in any form, and even went so far as to refuse to have any served in the White House. For this innovation she was censured by many, but those who praised her for her principles were in even greater numbers.

The charming personality of Mrs. Hayes made her esteemed and beloved by those with whom she came in contact, and she had a host of friends. Her portrait, on view at the White House today, was added to the collection by an association of prominent ladies of the time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Went Beyond Jurisdiction.

Mr. Editor: I see on page four of the issue of the 26th that Mr. Main is worrying about the encouragement of a certain unpopular type of lawbreaker, but he does not explain why he disregarded the law in going beyond his jurisdiction which limited him to 30 days and $7. It is clear that if he had bound him over to the superior court that court could have given him six months and $100, but when after serving some time on the erroneous sentence the case was brought to Judge Avery, I raise the question, and I would like some of the lawyers to enlighten us, whether the judge was not barred from doing anything but what he did—from giving such a sentence as he might have been inclined to if the case had been properly brought before him? The United States Constitution says: "Nor shall any person be subject, for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; . . . nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law." Will the lawyers tell us whether any of this applies to such a case so as to prevent Judge Avery from giving the man any further punishment?

Chapter 142, section 1 of the public acts of 1917 has been at all times defied in the Preston town meeting by a set of pharisees of the sort that are always unmerciful on the small unpopular type of thieves; if the purpose of this is not to steal from somebody I fail to see the use in it. Franklin did not agree with Mr. Main that heavy punishments tend to lessen small thievery, but if we are going to be severe I would go for the big ones first.

GEORGE N. WILCOX.

Stories That Recall Others

Most of It

Auntie had come to stay and little Mary, with some pride, was showing a jumper she had knitted herself.

"And did my little niece make this all herself," asked auntie.

"Nearly, auntie—all but the hole you put your head through, and that was there before I started."

Generous Son

Habits of industry formed in youth, quoting an old adage, remain with one through life. To work all through life is some people's ambition. Others, however, would retire early—too early, in fact—would retire before they begin.

When John persisted in giving play the better of the argument when his father wished him to work, the fond parent reproached him severely.

"Boy, what do you mean by loafing on the job?" he said with heat. "Get busy and do something."

"Ain't I busy?" son responded. "Yes, busy doing nothing."

"Well, I don't want to work. I hate work."

"Hate work! Why, work is a pleasure to me."

"Well, dad, you can have all the pleasure you want."

Weak Women Gain Strength When Backache Warns Kidneys Are Weak

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe trouble with my kidneys, which caused me much suffering. I was weak and nervous, often had dizzy spells, and could do but little work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your advertisements decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I can now do my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. HALL, 839 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or disarrangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved these symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Overhead Runs Away With Sound Practice.

Keep down the overhead! This is one of the watchwords of any successfully conducted business, and it should apply with equal force to the individual.

Too many persons plunge into individual expenses that are not warranted by their incomes. Too much rent, too much for clothes, too much for luxuries and non-essentials, too much for amusements and too many of the thousand and one little items of expense that are so easily incurred in this complex modern life of ours. This is how overhead runs away with sound practice in personal affairs.

A mistake is often made in considering individual incomes as profits. As a matter of fact, our only individual profits are what we save. Therefore, if we would increase these profits and get ahead more rapidly we must reduce our expenses. Of course, we should always strive to increase our incomes at the same time, but we should not depend on the latter as the only means of increasing our savings.

If you were to ask any good business man today what the overhead of his business amounts to he could tell you instantly. Yet how few individuals could without considerable figuring tell the amount of their personal overhead!

There is a growing tendency toward humanizing business. There should be a corresponding tendency toward more businesslike methods in individual practice.

More of the home in business and more of business in the home. This might to good advantage be made a universal motto.

If you hope to get on in the world, and secure the independence and comfort that comes with the accumulation of material possessions, watch your overhead.—American Thrift Society.

TO END DEPOSITIONS OF RAILROAD SHOP STRIKE

New York, March 27.—Representatives of the federal government and Frank L. Mulholland, counsel for the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor, today reached an agreement to end tomorrow taking of depositions to be used in Chicago May 2, when the government will seek a permanent injunction in connection with the rail shopmen's strike called last July.

The proposal was made by Mr. Mulholland, who stated that he would be willing to have presented schedules certified by officers of the various roads giving the data on the number of strikers, extra guards, condition of rolling stock, and strike costs. It was provided, however, that these schedules should not include any evidence regarding specific acts of unlawfulness on the part of strikers.

Further testimony regarding alleged acts of violence was given today by representatives of various roads, while steamship officials and supply dealers were called to describe delays in shipping ascribed to the strike.

EASTERN CONN. POWER CO. $3,000,000 BOND ISSUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Boston, Mass., March 27.—A news item of interest to an important part of New England and also to New York is that of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., offering $3,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds maturing in 1948. The proceeds of these bonds will provide funds for the extension of the company's steam plant at Montville, Conn., a short distance south of Norwich on the Thames river. This steam generating plant was built in 1918, and upon the completion of the extension now under construction the plant will have a generating capacity of 32,500-k. w. with building large enough for additional generating capacity. The proceeds of these bonds will further provide for the purchase of the securities of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas & Electric company, and the Lyme Electric Power Co., and for the retirement of the company's floating debt caused by the purchase of the Putnam Light and Power Co.

By reason of the new construction and the acquisition of these other companies the Eastern Connecticut Power Company is in a more commanding position for furnishing electric light and power throughout the southeastern and eastern parts of Connecticut. The territory served has a population of about 165,000.

The management is in the hands of persons of experience in public utilities enterprises and the relations between the company, its customers, the general public, and the company's employes are mutually cordial and satisfactory.

ACCEPTING THE ACADEMY PLAN

By a show of hands that was unanimous the twenty-two members of the citizens' advisory council who attended a second conference with the town school board Tuesday evening indicated to the school board that it was their opinion that the only prudent solution to the high school situation was the acceptance of the Norwich Free Academy plan.

The plan referred to involves the appropriation of $50,000 to the Academy, which would raise the wings of its present building one story and divide up the two big assembly rooms into class rooms, estimating this would take car of about 200 or 250 more pupils and take care of the situation for five years or so. The Academy would charge the town about $80 per pupil.

President Walter F. Lester of the school board, who presided, called for the show of hands at the end of a general discussion of the subject in which all who had not previously expressed a definite opinion were called upon.

Immediately after the show of hands he declared a twi-minute recess in which he conferred with the members of the school board and then announced to advisory council that no further meetings with them would be necessary.

At the opening of the meeting, President Lester reported on some answers he had had from Principal H. A. Tirrell of the Academy to inquiries put to him. They were all personal opinions, Mr. Lester said, as Principal Tirrell had not had time to call the Academy trustees together. Among Mr. Tirrell's answers it was stated that he said he did not believe there could be public representation on the Academy board of trustees, but he thought the Academy management would be ready to cooperate with two citizens appointed by the town school board to coordinate the high school with the grammar school system.

President Lester read a letter from F. W. Cary of the advisory council which brought up the subject of representation of taxpayers on the Academy board and what guarantee there could be for the Academy that the town would continue any arrangement that might be made.

As to the latter question, President Lester said he had sought legal advice from the members of the council and he called for opinions from the several lawyer members. W. S. Allis said he could not think of any legal plan. Judge N. J. Ayling was of the same opinion. Arthur M. Brown believed it was not possible for the town meeting today to bind for the future, but thought this was a case where the Academy would have to trust to the good sense and good faith of the voters and the town would have to trust the Academy to maintain the educational standard. Judge A. F. Libby suggested that the only way would be for the town meeting to vote to pay in instalments.

Dr. A. B. Meredith Speaks

Dr. A. B. Meredith of Hartford, state commissioner of education, was called on by President Lester to give his views after studying the situation since last week's meeting.

Dr. Meredith declared that, desirable as the intermediate school plan might be, he recognized it would not meet the situation here. The practical course seemed to be to accept the Academy plan. He suggested, however, that the Academy curriculum ought to be so changed as to bring it to the standard of a modern comprehensive secondary school, as distinguished from the excellent college preparatory curriculum, which it has maintained. It should have more of the practical arts courses for the boys and the girls, making a very definite application of the education it gives to the condition into which its pupils are to go. By dividing up the two big rooms and providing six or seven more teachers it could care for 200 to 250 more pupils. It is desirable and necessary too, to have a closer articulation between the Academy and the grammar school whereby pupils completing the elementary grades should pass into the Academy.

The state allows school boards to buy education and that point presented no difficulty in the Norwich situation. The cost is not prohibitive here as the average in the state is $112 as compared with what the Academy offers for $80. The Academy plan is preferable to building a parallel high school plant.

Calls on Advisory Members

President Lester then called on the members of the advisory council who had not previously recorded an opinion.

Rev. J. Harlow Graham stated that he thought we needed to know whether such adjustments as had been suggested could be made with the Academy.

Robert W. Perkins spoke of the information that Mr. Meredith had given and he thought it was all a matter of administration and he believed, from knowing the Academy trustees, that it would be possible to get together with them for the needed adjustments.

Charles A. Saxton expressed himself as favoring the Academy plan as the only feasible one, but he would like to see a brand new building this fall. He had faith in the Academy trustees.

F. B. Ricketson said he was in favor of the Academy plan and thought a five year period would be a reasonable time for any arrangement. He suggested setting aside $20 per year for five years above the $80 cost, which might furnish a fund to be turned over to the Academy.

Rev. A. H. Abbott took up the phrase "buying its education," which he said was a clarifying element in this situation. The buyer does not control the goods but the seller must take into consideration the desires of the buyer. He was pleased with the willingness of the Academy to do just what the school board had done in calling this conference with citizens and he now favored alignment with the Academy with such modifications as the discussion of the situation had developed.

Judge A. F. Libby said he favored the Academy plan and believed it could be worked out to the satisfaction of the Academy and the town. He spoke of the possibility of certain town or city officials being ex-officio members of the Academy administration. Economy is also a factor for the town in the Academy plan, saving much overhead expense to the town.

F. H. Pullen was for the Academy plan and would like to see the town have two representatives.

M. E. Jensen declared he believed the Academy, trustees and principal would do all the town expects it to and he was heartily in favor of the Academy plan.

Wallace S. Allis said he thought the independent high school is eliminated by the expense and, while the intermediate high school appeals to some, it doesn't seem to meet the situation to relieve the high school. It comes back to the Academy plan and seems to point to accepting this whether the town has representation or not. But the Academy management is really responsible for it heeds the public voice.

Mrs. W. K. Tingley said she favored the intermediate plan but after hearing Dr. Meredith she was in favor of the Academy plan.

Arthur M. Brown also said he recognized the intermediate school plan did not solve the situation and Dr. Meredith's explanation showed very clearly that the adoption of the Academy plan was the thing. He believed the Academy would meet the educational wishes of the town and let each trust the other. Let the Academy manage the education without a town representative among the trustees.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling also favored the Academy plan and said he did not think the matter of representation of great consequence anyway. It is perfectly feasible for town board to contract for a term with Academy trustees to furnish education. Perhaps there might not be a legal obligation, but it would be a moral obligation that would not be repudiated.

S. B. Palmer also spoke of the assistance given by Dr. Meredith's statement and he thought the only thing now was to co-operate on the Academy plan for the present. Still he liked the idea of town representatives among the Academy trustees whom the citizens could "slam" as they could not the trustees of a private corporation.

Mrs. F. L. Farrell said she was heartily in favor of the Academy plan as most practical and economical and she hoped there could be a development of the domestic art department.

John M. Lee declared he was in favor of the Academy plan, having learned that the Academy had expressed, as he believed they would, their willingness to co-operate with the town. While not entering the discussion now, Mr. Lee said he hoped some day something of the intermediate school could be worked into our school system.

Miss Louise C. Howe said she had thought very favorably of the intermediate school but she favored the Academy plan, and the meetings had been so illuminating she wished such meetings could be held every year to talk over school questions.

Others to reiterate their adherence to the Academy plan were C. R. Butts, Dr. J. J. Donohue and H. M. Lerou.

F. W. Cary said he thought any representation ought to be kept out of politics. The Academy might present its budget to the town school board for approval.

State Would Pay.

Dr. Meredith told the meeting that if it was desired to provide courses in home economics and agriculture, the state had the money available and would pay the expenses of such courses. Ten high schools in the state are now taking advantage of this offer.

SHOP MEETING ADDRESS UPON THE KINGLY CHRIST

In this week's noon shop meeting at the Richmond Radiator Co. plant, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, Rev. C. H. Ricketts spoke Tuesday upon The Kingly Christ, giving one of the most interesting talks of the series. He based his remarks upon that Sabbath day in Palestine when Jesus rode into Jerusalem and the waving of palm branches and the shouts of the people, who cried "Hosanna to the Son of David. Hosanna to Him that cometh on the name of the Highest. Hosanna to the king that cometh in the name of the Lord."

Of the significance of this first Palm Sunday, Rev. Mr. Ricketts said in part:

This question has often arisen: Did our Lord's followers understand the historical meaning of these words? The presumption is that they did not. The salutation of Jesus here as king is a quotation from the prophets Isaiah and Zechariah, but as only the rabbis, scribes and other learned men understood the Scriptures, we can hardly suppose that the rank and file had these prophecies in mind when they saluted Jesus as King. It was a fact that the Jews expected the Messiah, but they utterly repudiated the idea that he should come in the humble way he did. So that we can hardly expect that these lowly peasants were moved by religious impulses in ascribing to Him kingly honors.

What then was the motive? May very reasonably be asked. This can be answered by considering their earthly circumstances. They were for the most part wretched, poor because of a despotic government. The hand of Rome rested heavily upon them. It was far different when they were an independent, self-governing people. But after they had fallen prey to the grasping empire of the west, through the extortion of the tax-gatherers, they were practically robbed of their possessions. Hence they longed for someone strong enough to smite this hand of oppression. Now they knew Jesus to be powerful. They had seen Him heal the incurably sick. In their sight He had cast out devils; He had cleansed the leprous body, and had even raised the dead. What greater power than this could any man have? He who could successfully conquer death could just as easily now smite the cruel red arm of Rome. Therefore they cry: "Blessed is the King who is sent to us by the will of God."

Of course our Lord knew that the prediction in Isaiah and Zechariah of the coming king referred to himself. He was the foretold Messiah or the Old Testament, a fact which the Jews have persistently rejected. It is right at this point where we see the greatest disagreement between the Jews and Jesus. They looked forward to the coming of a Messiah who should be a great temporal lord, far outshining the regal splendors of Solomon. Jesus looked upon Himself as the predicted Messiah who came not as a mighty earthly king, but as a spiritual monarch, whose throne would be established in the hearts of men. Again and again did he say, "My kingdom is not of this world." Unless we look upon the reign of Jesus as spiritual then His triumphal entry into Jerusalem was a most ridiculous farce. There was not the pomp and splendor that attends the coronation of a fourth rate prince. It was simply done that prophecy might be fulfilled that this Messiah should be prophet, priest and king. Jesus alone combined that three-fold office.

Now if we will put the attributes of Jesus alongside of the demands of the kingship we will see that Jesus was the ideal king.

First. He must be a man of decided upright character. If he is notoriously bad, he will merit just what he will receive, the contempt and indignation of his subjects. Christ was kingly in character. No intelligent criticism has ever been made of the goodness of His personality.

His attitude was that of one who had always breathed the atmosphere of holiness.

Second. A real king must be a man of high mental caliber. A crown unevenly set with jewels is a mockery if it covers up nothing but lead. The scepter put into the hands of a weakling, whether physical or mental, is nothing more than a rotten stick. It is here where the greatest objection to an hereditary monarchy comes in. The mere fact of being born in a palace, and having a king for a father does not save one from being a non entity. And the number of non entities who have succeeded to the throne is simply tragic. We sometimes overlook the mental power of Christ because of the great men of his age. While he stands alone in his moral grandeur, the world had had Plato, Aristotle, Demosthenes, Julius Caesar, Alexander the Great and others. Jesus was as imperial in mind as in soul.

A real king must be tactful, kind and generous. Frederick the Great was mentally superior to any monarch of his times, but so utterly tactless as to be in hot water all the time with somebody. How tactful was Jesus when speaking of the tribute to be given to Caesar, and of doing good on the Sabbath day. The history of the world shows that the greatest rulers have been kind and generous. Julius Caesar, the greatest of them all, was taunted with "having a heart as tender as a woman's." Was it not here where Immanuel was most conspicuous? "He did not break the bruised reed nor quench the smoking flax." Let us then join the procession of kings and princes, popes and cardinals who have laid their crowns before Him "lost in wonder, love and praise."

DOUBLE SURPRISE PARTY FOR TWO BIRTHDAYS

A delightful double surprise party was tendered Saturday evening at the Buckingham Memorial to Mrs. Orrin M. Price and Mrs. Henry J. Clement for their birthdays. The party was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Laturner and 16 friends of the couple were present.

During the evening Mrs. Price was presented a handsome leather handbag and a box of chocolates and Mrs. Clement also received a leather handbag and a box of linen handkerchiefs. Whist was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The whist prises were won as follows: First, Mrs. John Lavallee; second, Mrs. Peter B. McKelvey; third, Mrs. Orrin M. Price.

NORTH CAROLINA OFFICERS WITH EXTRADITION PAPERS

Jackson, arrived here Tuesday night with extradition papers for Frank and Pratt Risley of Wilmington, who have been in the Norwich jail since their arrest in this city over a week ago. One man is wanted for transportation of liquor and the other for abandonment of his child. The men are brothers.

The North Carolina officers will present their papers today and take the men back to Wilmington.

HUNTER'S AVENUE MUDHOLE TRAPS NORWICH DOCTOR

Dr. E. J. Brophy, who had a hurry call to Taftville about midnight Tuesday, and took Hunter's avenue as a short cut to his destination, landed in a mudhole with his machine, which took him over an hour to get out of. But for finding another machine with chains to haul him out, he might have been there yet. He warns automobilists against trying to use this street.

ROUND TABLE PROGRAM ON INDIAN SUBJECTS

The Norwich Round Table met on Tuesday evening with Mrs. Emma C. Bixby of 26 Iliss place. Each member responded to the roll call with a quotation about the Indian in song or story, all of which was greatly enjoyed. The papers of the evening were read by Miss Bessie M. Grant, whose subject was Indian Lore, and by Miss L. Angie Stanton. During intermission refreshments were served by the hostess.

Market Conditions.

The fruit and vegetables that are the center of attraction this week include celery (well blanched), spinach, Florida and Iceberg lettuce, potatoes and oranges. The live poultry market is quite active this week due to its being Easter week. Heavy fowls are the center of attraction. Premiums above the regular market quotations are being sought for and in a good many instances are reached. The butter markets have taken on a healthier tone. Tub butter is being pretty well cleaned up here on the markets from day to day. The supplies of lower to medium grades are running a little short this week. Higher quotations are expected to take place soon. At present the supply and demand are about equal. There is expected to be heavier buying along these lines during the week. Fancy lambs are supplied in good quantities to the markets and are in good demand. Native eggs are ruling lower on the markets here. Thirty cents is about the average price at present.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Following a prayer service at the Perkins home on Maple street on Tuesday at noon, funeral services for Mrs. Mary Putnam Perkins, widow of James Perkins and a great-great-granddaughter of General Israel Putnam, was conducted at Old Trinity church, Church street, by Rev. Albert Jepson, rector of St. Alban's church, and attended by many relatives and friends. The choir of St. Alban's church assisted at this impressive service held in the very edifice where early settlers in Kingswood Manor worshipped — among them the ancestors of Mrs. Perkins, and there was much about the service to link in memory the present with the distant past. The body was laid at rest in Old Trinity churchyard, where sleep scores of those whose family names are inseparably associated with colonial days in this territory—in the shadow of the old church and the towering trees that surround it.

The bearers were A. H. Arrington, George O. Thomas, Alfred L. Reed, E. H. Keach, Sidney F. Marland and F. E. Bitgood. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A current issue of a trade journal devoted to textile matters prints the following relative to Lemuel J. Coburn, creator of industrial place, which has developed into Connecticut Mills:

Los Angeles, Cal.—Lemuel J. Coburn, president of the Pioneer-Pacific Worsted Co., has announced the purchase of 25 acres of land as a site for the company's $2,000,000 worsted mill. The remaining 360 acres, which were sold for a consideration of $900,000, will be opened as a new community to be named "Coburn." It is announced that the work of improving the property for residential and business purposes will be started as soon as the engineering details are completed. The total expenditure involved is to be more than $3,000,000, of which $350,000 is to go for tract improvement alone. The property was purchased by a syndicate composed of Mr. Coburn, Othar Jensen, a Watts banker, and the W. Ross Campbell Co., local realty firm. Detailed drawings for the new woolen and worsted plant are now being prepared by Hamm & Grant, Inc., local industrial engineers. Mr. Coburn declared that the syndicate and the worsted mills are individual institutions and that the Pioneer-Pacific Co. is only interested in the community development of Coburn in so much as it affects the location of the mills.

Local stockholders of the big corporation have received notices of the annual meeting of the Connecticut Mills, to be held in Boston, at the office of the Connecticut Cottons company, on Tuesday of next week.

Among other things, the meeting will fix the number of directors for the ensuing year, select a committee of three stockholders who are not directors to employ an auditor for the ensuing fiscal year, and act upon the matter of approving contracts, acts and doings of the executive committee and consider other matters that may properly come before the meeting.

Friends here have received notice of the death at Wareham, Mass., of Mrs. Mary Scott Bodfish, wife of E. C. Bodfish. Mr. and Mrs. Bodfish were residents of Danielson about 25 years ago, Mr. Bodfish being the proprietor of a store in the Exchange block. At Wareham he has for years conducted a general store and had interests in the large cranberry growing operations near that territory. Mrs. Bodfish was born April 6, 1866.

Tuesday afternoon at his home in the Sparks district of Killingly, where he had spent his life, funeral service for James Louis Brown were conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church. A. P. Burns sang at the service, to which relatives and old-time friends from many sections of Killingly came. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, Danielson. The bearers were Harley S. Place, George W. Jacques, Luther Smith and Charles Hulett. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

At the church in Hopkins Mills funeral services for Philip Curtis were conducted by Rev. G. B. Cutler of the Rockland Christian church, assisted by Rev. Ephram Allen, pastor of the North Scituate Advent church. Burial was in Hopkins Mills cemetery. The bearers were John Curtis, Lewis Curtis, sons of the deceased, and A. W. Lowell and Marshall Hopkins, Jr., sons-in-law. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

Tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon the public will have an opportunity to hear speaking and singing by a group of boys from the Caney Creek, Kentucky, Community center at a meeting to be held in the Methodist church at 3 o'clock. In addition to the addresses they are to make the boys will sing some of their mountain home songs. This meeting is purely of educational interest. There will be no propaganda of any nature and no admission charge or solicitation of funds. The visiting boys will sing and speak at the Danielson graded school Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, exclusively for the pupils.

Although the season for use of such fuel is rapidly drawing to a close, there will be live interest in the announcement that heavy shipments of hard coal are en route to Danielson. One dealer says he expects the arrival of at least nine carloads within a few days. But even of greater interest than this is the prospect of decidedly lower prices than the peak rates charged during the early part of this year, when residents of Danielson in some cases paid as high as $20 the ton, buying in less than a ton lots. It is likely that coal will be obtainable here in generous quantities soon after the first of the coming month for $15 or $15.25 per ton.

Alert youngsters are now scanning the waters for the first run of suckers in the Assawaga and Quinebaug rivers. It is near the confluence of these streams at Main and the foot of Franklin street that suckers have been speared in the early days of spring for many, many years. The present date seems a bit early this spring, but boys are ever hopeful and they have been watching the streams for several days. It is recalled that this same locality was a favorite spot for getting salmon a hundred years ago, before the Quinebaug was spanned with dams and became such a polluted stream as it is today.

Special attention to spiritual matters will mark the remainder of this week for thousands of residents in this section of eastern Connecticut. This is the eve of Holy Thursday, one of the solemn feasts of the church calendar. For a great many Good Friday will be a day of abstinence from labor and devotion to religious concentration. And then with Holy Saturday comes the end of the Lenten season—and Easter, with its paschal music and joy of the Risen God.

Albert Sayles, long a resident at East Killingly and for many years engaged in business in that place, is very critically ill at his home there. His condition was so serious during Tuesday that his recovery seemed in doubt.

During all of Tuesday the temperature consistently remained only a few degrees above the freezing point and with the sharp wind that prevailed the day was particularly uncomfortable.

In the superior court at New London Tuesday John F. Lewis of this place was defendant in an action for damages growing out of an automobile accident in which his car figured during 1921. Mr. Lewis and some of his witnesses from Danielson were in attendance.

Not a few residents of Danielson recalled Tuesday that they are numbered among the hundreds of thousands of many lands who saw Sarah Bernhardt during her years of triumph as an emotional actress.

Brooks have receded only slightly from their very high levels of last week and high water is the promise for the trout fishermen who venture out with the opening of the season.

Special music for the services of the day and Easter concerts will be features of the services at various churches in Danielson next Sunday.

Honore Marrotte is ill at his home on North Main street and has been under the care of a physician for several days.

Several parties of Danielson people who have been spending the winter in the south have written that they are about to leave for home and may be expected here within a short time.

PUTNAM

Mrs. Adelaide Esther Durfee, 85, widow of Lucius Durfee, died Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. Nikoloff, on Pomfret road, near the Day Kimball hospital. Mrs. Durfee, a native of South bridge, had been a resident of this city for many years. Her husband, who is remembered as the leader at one time of the Mechanics band of this city, was engaged in the blacksmithing business. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Durfee leaves one son, Ralph.

Mrs. Douglas Fenwick of New York, a sister, has been appointed administratrix of the estate of John G. Johnson, who died during the present month in Florida. Mrs. Fenwick, a resident of New York, is in this city this week giving attention to arranging for the settlement of the estate. It is understood that Mr. Johnson left no will and that his estate will be divided between his two sisters and two brothers.

Manhasset Manufacturing company has notified the employes of an advance in wages approximating 7 per cent. This advance is not to be confused as being related to advances recently announced to become effective on April 30 in woolen and worsted mills in the territory, but is granted in equalizing the wage scale on a basis of great liberality to the workers at the big plant. The concern manufactures automobile tire fabric and its product is rated as among the very best qualities produced in this country.

Judge L. H. Fuller visualized for one with whom he was in conversation Tuesday morning that little part of Putnam's business section where the St. Onge block is being torn down, to make space for a new banking building, as it was back in 1866, when he came to Putnam, and as it was a few years before he came to this city—in the period, probably from 1855 to the close of the Civil war.

Few people living in Putnam today recall that a hill crowned by a brick school house stood directly in the rear of the St. Onge building and what was the old Congregational church, next adjoining the St. Onge block to the north and now occupied on the street floor by the business places of David Flagg and Ralph Smith.

Both the hill and school have disappeared—have been gone in fact for more than half a century. Judge Fuller said Tuesday that he never saw the school, only the foundation on the hill remaining when he came to this city, but strange though it may seem it was through his activities that a painting of the school is in existence today and held by one of Putnam's old families.

No picture of the old school being known to exist, Judge Fuller obtained detailed descriptions of it from Putnam people who had been familiar with it, had drawings made from their descriptions, submitted them to those who had known the building, made suggested changes, and finally when the drawings seemed to picture the old school as it was had the late Thomas Thurber make a painting from the drawings. The painting today is very valuable from a historical standpoint and would never be recognised by but few residents of this city as depicting a section of the very heart of the city as it was in the days when it was known as Pomfret Factory.

A beam that unexpectedly slipped out of place and struck one of the wreckers working on the St. Onge building on the head, knocking him cold, was an incident for those watching a crew tear down the St. Onge block Tuesday morning. "All in the course of the job," was the only comment of the injured worker soon after he had revived and resumed his work as though nothing had happened.

Thompson voters are on tiptoe of interest over the special town meeting scheduled to take place in that town tomorrow (Thursday.) The attendance is certain to be heavy. Mechanicsville, a manufacturing village of that town, wants a $35,000 appropriation for a four-room school building and in this desire the village supporters of the plan will get aid from voters living in other sections of Thompson. In this town without a debt there is a well organized and strong opposition to the plan nad as late as today it appears to be a toss up as to what the meeting will do.

William Rafferty, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rafferty of Grove street, who is to be graduated from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis in June, has been assigned to the battleship Utah. The Utah is in dry dock at the navy yard in Charlestown, Mass., and is undergoing extensive overhauling and repairs as well as having new guns placed upon her. Midshipman Rafferty, will, therefore probably be in Charlestown most of the summer, with an opportunity to spend many week ends at his home in Putnam.

Automobiles have been ordered in such quantities by Putnam agencies that their local storage capacities have become, in some instances, overtaxed and it has been necessary to go into surrounding towns to secure quarters for keeping new cars until such time as they can be delivered. One local agency has hired an old mill at Woodstock for storage purposes, while another local concern has cars stored in Danielson. These stored machines will go out with a rush in the next 40 days, during which period it is expected that it will be especially difficult to obtain prompt deliveries from the manufacturers. Still another dealer had a carload of automobiles at Willimantic Tuesday, awaiting unloading, these machines for delivery in this city.

The futility, as a general rule, of calling fire apparatus from this city to neighboring towns in emergency cases is clearly apparent unless there is an ample supply of water for the local apparatus to work with after arriving at an out of town fire. In some cases, where a very prompt response is possible, chemicals may suffice to control a fire. But modern fire apparatus needs a big supply of water to function efficiently, and this is seldom available where fires occur in outlying territory.

Buyers that were representative of various towns in eastern Connecticut attended the auction sale conducted by Witter brothers of Danielson on Thursday at the farm place of C. D. Arnold of Putnam.

It was stated by on driver here Tuesday that some companies operating fleets of heavy trucks are voluntarily restricting their service for a time owing to the condition of state highways and this and neighboring states, because stalled trucks mean trips on which there are losses instead of profits.

Strand Theatre

"Oathbound" is the attractive title of a William Fox picture, starring Dustin Farnum, which is the feature at the Strand theatre today and Thursday.

The story written by Edward J. Le Saint, is said to be a thrilling tale of river pirates on the Pacific coast. The scenes are laid along the river front at Santa Barbara. The central figures are a millionaire ship owner, his brother, who has fallen into the hands of crooks, and the millionaire's wife. Around this trio develop a story of crime, courage, cowardice and cupidity which should afford fine opportunities to an actor of Dustin Farnum's ability.

The star's leading woman is Ethel Grey Terry. Kid McCoy, ex-prize-fighter, and Lefty Flynn, the former Yale football star, are also in the cast.

Coming next week Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood.

Broadway Thursday, Friday and Saturday

There will be the fine B. F. Keith audeville acts and Katherine MacDonald in "Money—Money—Money" for the week-end attractions.

The title of the latest Katherine MacDonald picture tells that an up-to-the-minute topic has been selected as the theme, "Money, Money, Money!" which opens at the Broadway theatre on Thursday is the seasonal debut of Miss MacDonald. It is her first production for First National release in 1923.

Thermopolis is the scene of the story. A small mid-western town that is just developing its "ultra smart set." Katherine MacDonald perfects the character of Priscilla Hobbes, whose family's old-fashioned reticence about society causes her no end of unhappiness. According to the story by Larry Evans, the big scenes in this production should occur when Priscilla steps on the gas of her high powered roadster and plunges the machine through a blinding storm in an effort to save her father from disgrace.

Looking at the latest fashions and selecting several gowns at the same time as she was making a scene for her new picture was the pleasant task assigned Marion Davies recently while making her Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture, "Adam and Eva." As a wealthy society girl, Miss Davies goes shopping and beautiful models, who might well grace a Ziegfield chorus parade, display the most stunning new models.

"Adam and Eva" was adapted to the screen from the successful stage comedy written by Guy Bolton and George Middleton. While quite a change from her tremendous production "When Knighthood Was in Flower," which scored such a success, Miss Davies steps gracefully from the royal robes of Princess Mary into the gingham dresses of "Eva." The story concerns a society girl, who becomes manager of a farm in order to retrieve the family fortunes. T. Roy Barnes is leading man in "Adam and Eva," which will be the feature at the Strand theatre Thursday. Robert Vignola, who made "When Knighthood Was in Flower," directed.

A Hula Honeymoon is the comedy attraction having been made in the Hawwaian Islands and is an artistic treat as well as a fine comery. Other subjects include an up to date news.

TWENTY-ONE "GOLDEN RULE" BILLS ARE REJECTED BY THE HOUSE

Hartford, March 27.—The bills known as the "Golden Rule" bills that were tabled in the house last week after an unfavorable report by the judiciary committee were taken up today. They were introduced by Senator Golden at the request of the National Women's party and numbered twenty-one in all. They covered subjects that have been advocated by that association. They comprised matters concerning rights of surviving husband and wife; husband's presence no defense for a wife's crime; right of husband or wife to sue each other; offenses against the marital relation; legal existence of a woman; damages and personal injuries to a married woman; contracts between husband and wife; equal rights in occupation; concerning adultery; bonds by married women; declaring children born out of wedlock legitimate.

The bills were explained by Representative J. Mortimer Bell of Salisbury. He was frequently applauded, the women members joining as he noted some of the radical points of the several bills. He declared that the committee was convinced that there was sufficient law now on the statutes to take care of the questions involved in the several bills and in concurrence with the senate the bills were rejected.

The house also concurred with the senate in rejection of all bills that were rejected in that body last week.

Claim Over Mystic Bridge.

The claim of Peter Hummocher of Mystic for damage caused during the building of the new bridge at Mystic was not favored by the claims committee and the bill was rejected.

Norwich Water Bonds.

The bill passed by the house today, having passed the senate last week, concerning the issuance of bonds by the city of Norwich for an amount not exceeding $150,000, bearing interest not exceeding 5 per cent. The bonds are to be of serial form and five thousand dollars are payable one year from date of issue and five thousand dollars each year thereafter until the full amount of the issue has been paid. The bonds are not to be sold at less than par and the funds realized from the sale shall be used for a note of the city heretofore issued for the redemption of certain bonds that have been issued from the water department which become due Jan. 15, 1923. They are to be known as water funding bonds of the city of Norwich, issue of 1922.

The bill extending the time for which the People's Light and Power Co. and the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric Co. may accept amendment to their charter reads: The time within which The People's Light and Power Company and The Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric Company may accept the amendment to their charters contained in an act authorizing the merger of The People's Light and Power Company and The Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric Company, approved March 19, 1919, is extended until six months from the passage of this act.

SOUND TESTIMONIAL EVIDENCE showing the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women is constantly being published in this paper. The strongest recommendation any article can have is that borne by the persons who use it. Once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair, but now restored to the joys of health, from a grateful heart multitudes of women write letters of appreciation to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass. Such evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women should induce every suffering woman to try it.

The house was called to order at 11.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair. Unfavorable reports were received from the committee on appropriations on House Bill 589 for adult education carrying an appropriation of $150,000.

House Bill 590 for the transportation of children, $150,000 and House Bill 596 for education for special classes, $60,000.

Bills authorizing Waterbury to issue bonds to build Rutledge street bridge. Changing the time of holding municipal elections in the city of Stamford. Concerning the cutting of brush along the highway. Purchase of Mt. Carmel as a state park. Creating a fuel commission in the city of Waterbury and authorizing a municipal coal yard in Meriden, were rejected. House Leader Buckley said that he thought the people had had enough of government control. The discussion on the Stamford bill brought some caustic remarks from Mr. Madigan of that city and he was sharply called to order by the speaker. Leader Buckley also rose to a point of order. The vote being doubted a standing vote was taken which resulted in the unfavorable report of the committee being sustained by a vote of 113 yeas and 53 nays. The negative vote came largely from the democratic side of the house.

The cities and boroughs committee made favorable reports on House Bill 354 amending the charter of the city of Willimantic, concerning the police department. House Bill 615 concerning consolidating school districts in Middletown.

A favorable report was made on the bill allowing Trinity college to erect a tablet on the east end of the capitol building. These were all placed on the calendar for printing.

TAYLOR HILL BARN BURNED TO GROUND

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, March 27—A barn on the Babcock farm on Taylor Hill was burned to the ground, Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock. Two horses and two young heifers were burned and several cords of wood that were outside. All the outbuildings and the house caught fire, as a high wind was blowing. The fact that the borough chemical truck arrived on the scene saved the house from burning. When the fire alarm blew, all the autos on the street and men who could do so, started for the farm. When the first autos arrived, the house was on fire, and the men carried pails of water and got the furniture out of the house, working at top speed to save the other buildings. If the chemical had not gone, the house would have burned, as well as the barn. The farm is owned by Sam Krasofsky, who lives there with his wife and two sons. In the summer it is a boarding place for New York people. Mr. Krasofsky said he saw a man, whom he knows, but did not give his name, go into the barn and come out. In a few minutes he saw smoke and running to the barn found it ablaze inside. The place is insured for four thousand dollars, which will not nearly cover the loss. It was an hour and a quarter before the recall was sounded.

Doctors Say Colds Are Contagious Get Rid of the Germs With Vapor-Eze

Medical men of all schools now agree that colds are contagious and that they are caused by germs. To get rid of a cold and prevent it being caught by every member of your family, you must first get rid of the germs that causes the cold. Sterling's Vapor-Eze is the germ-destroying antiseptic that penetrates deep down into the air passages, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and gives the quickest and safest relief for bad colds in head or chest by breaking up all congestion and killing the germ that does the mischief.

And Sterling's Vapor-Eze is absolutely harmless and easy to apply. Simply rub it on the throat and chest at bed time and place a little of this healing, antiseptic ointment up the nostrils. Be sure to get the genuine Sterling's Vapor-Eze from your druggist. A 25 cent jar will do the trick. Look for the name "Sterling's."

MARKET SHOWED RECOVERY

New York, March 27.—Stock prices made a sharp recovery in today's market after a five day reactionary period. Further selling took place during the morning but this was easily absorbed and prices turned definitely upward in response to the appearance of fresh buying power in some of the recent speculative favorites, which in turn brought about extensive short covering, accelerating the rise.

While Wall Street has been filled for several days with unconfirmed rumors concerning the outcome of the meeting of federal reserve governors in Washington, these reports were definitely disregarded by professional interests in today's trading. Many market observers have contended that the recent reaction was the natural result of an over-bought condition but the rumors which were to the effect that another increase in the rediscount rate would be ordered and that the Washington conference would issue a warning against credit inflation undoubtedly received attention from traders who ordinarily seek causes for price movements outside the market.

Oil, steel and equipment shares took a prominent part in the recovery, gains of 1 1-2 to nearly three points being recorded by such stocks as U. S. Steel common, Bethlehem B., Republic and Gulf States Steels, Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, Bosch Magneto, Stewart Warner, Pan American A and B, Phillips Petroleum, Iron Products, Mack Truck, Willys Overland Preferred, Maxwell Motors A, Tobacco Products, Reynolds Spring, Punta Alegre Sugar and Mathieson Alkali.

Impressive strength also was shown by the Market Street Railway preferred issues, each of which advanced over four points and by Mariand Oil, more than 30,000 shares of which changed hands, the closing price of 58 1-2 representing a net gain of 2 7-8.

California Petroleum was conspicuously weak, closing 3 8-8 lower at one hundred and a quarter, indicating that the recapitalization plan had been very discounted. Chemical shares also were heavy at the start but they recovered most or all of their losses before the close.

Trading in railroad shares was relatively quiet and irregular, the changes for the most part being of a fractional character.

Call money opened at 5 3-4 per cent, and advanced to 6 in the last hour. The high rate was attributed to the withdrawal of funds from this center by interior banks incidental to the first quarterly settlement. The time money market continued quiet with a limited number of loans for two and four months securities being made at 5 1-2 per cent. The ruling rate for prime commercial paper continues at 5 per cent.

While French francs still showed a tendency to fluctuate, today's movements were in narrower limits with the closing quotation of 6.57 cents representing a net loss of five points. Demand sterling also eased fractionally to $4.68 1-2. Other changes were small and unimportant.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 27.—Net losses again greatly exceeded net gains at the close of today's bond market but there was a growing belief that many issues were at or near levels where good buying support would be forthcoming. Establishment of new low records for the year by virtually all of the U. S. government Liberty bonds was again the feature of the day's trading, the net losses ranging from 2-32 to 16-32 of a point.

Foreign bonds held fairly steady. Serbian 8's advanced nearly 2 points on a small turnover and moderate improvement was shown by the Mexican issues eased slightly.

A gain of 2 1-4 points in Cerro de Pasco 8's, and losses of 1 1-2 and 2 1-4 points, respectively, in Sinclair Pipe Line 5's and Punta Alegre Sugar 7's were the outstanding changes in the industrial group.

Liens of dividend paying roads were the hardest hit in the railroad division, Northern Pacific prior lien 4's dropping 1 1-2; Atchison convertible 4's, 1, and Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5's, 2 1-4. Some of the speculative mortgages, such as Missouri Pacific refunding 4's and Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1-2's, each off a point, also were reactionary, but the issues generally were held to fractions.

Total sales (par value) were $14,167,000.

Public offering will be made in a few days of another large issue of equipment trusts by one of the big eastern systems. Announcement also was made today that the Standard Gas & Electric Co., will offer shortly a $6,000,000 issue of 6 1-2 per cent. convertible gold bonds.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 27.—Heaviness regarding indications of delay to spring wheat seeding tended to bring about higher prices in the wheat market today. Closing quotations were firm at a net advance of 7-8 to 1 1-4 cent with May $1.19 1-2 to 1.19 5-8 and July 1.15 3-4 to 1.15 7-8. Corn gained 5-8 to 1 1-2; oats 5-8 to 1-2 a 5-8, and provisions 12 a 15 to 20.

Reasons for apprehension as to the outlook for spring wheat seeding were said to be furnished by low temperatures northwest and by predictions of continued cold in that section. It was said also that less than the usual amount of summer fallowing and autumn plowing in the spring wheat states had been accomplished, and that scarcity of labor made any threat of seeding delay a serious matter. Aside from prospective seeding difficulties, too, the general trade was from the outset inclined to look for an upward swing in prices, the market having been on a decline continuously for three days, and a dearth of offerings being evident except at a material advance.

Word that export business in wheat was fairly brisk and that Italy was in the market for durum helped to lift values. Furthermore, some buying of future deliveries here was said to be against a good sized order from Greece. On the other hand, little notice was taken of sales of wheat to go into storage here or of buying of wheat to be brought to Chicago. Favorable crop reports from the winter wheat territory were likewise almost ignored.

Better shipping demand here for corn, together with talk of a late spring gave independent strength to prices of corn and oats.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the values of hogs and grain.

NORTH STONINGTON

Lightning struck the residence of George A. Thompson at the north end of the village, near the grange fairgrounds, about 6 o'clock Friday evening. Entering by the chimney, the bolt wrecked the entire south part of the house, lifting a portion of the roof, rending the ceilings, breaking down partitions, knocking out the front stairs and shattering the windows into hundreds of fragments. Some of the furniture remains intact, while other pieces were broken and twisted.

When struck, the house took fire, but through the efforts of neighbors, aided by the rain, the flames were soon extinguished. No one was in the house, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, with their younger daughter, being at the home of their married daughter, Mrs. George H. Stone, where they have been passing the winter.

Mr. Thompson is ill with heart trouble, with little prospect of recovery. The house was insured through a Norwich agency. About 200 visited the scene of the disaster Sunday.

TO CRIMINAL SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27.—Dr. John N. Dimon was arraigned in the police court this forenoon, charged with having by running his automobile upon the sidewalk on Bank street, opposite Golden street, on the 3d of March, feloniously "made an assault upon one Euggie Partlow of Groton" and inflicted injuries upon the said Partlow and "did give to Partlow certain mortal fracture of the brain and contusions" from which said Partlow "languished and languishing, did die," and that therefore Dr. Dimon did "kill and slay" said Partlow.

Dr. Dimon was represented by counsel who demurred to the complaint. Probable cause was found and the accused was held for trial at the May term of the superior court. His bail was fixed at $5,000, and this he furnished with Louis Eisenbein as surety on the bond.

It is understood that Dr. Dimon has gone to Springfield, where he will spend the time till he appears in the superior court. Dr. Dimon was in cheerful mood in the police court and seemed not to have any fear that he would be held when the case is heard by a jury, if it gets to that point in the proceedings that are brought. Dr. Dimon is understood not to be a member of the city or the county medical societies.

He is said to own a house on Montauk avenue jointly with another. His practice has not been large in recent years, but neighbors say that he receives an annuity of something like $70 a month from the estate of his mother, who died years ago on Long Island.

A grass fire this afternoon on Pleasant street, off Riverside avenue, threatened to do damage to nearby property. Niagara apparatus was called there and did the trick of subduing it.

Actually the police claim that there is less dealing in liquor, or what goes for liquor, in this town than there has been at any time since the prohibition law became effective. Once in a while the police stumble upon law violators in this respect, and prosecution results, but there are but few cases before the court generally speaking. Most of the stuff is said to be hawked in automobiles, and these the police cannot follow nor trace.

An instance of this was a few evenings ago when an auto with several persons in it, coming down State street, dropped a couple of bottles on the pavement, where they broke and were a menace to other autos that traveled over the street. The police were near at hand but not close enough to get the number or to apprehend the parties riding in it so that it might be ascertained whether the bottles were thrown from the auto or whether they dropped by accident. It could not be ascertained whether the bottles contained liquor. It is not likely the occupants of the auto were carrying them for ballast nor for the purpose of conveying water.

Merchants and others are grumbling because the weather does not warm up. The temperature was as low today as it has many days during winter and a strong easterly wind gave the atmosphere a chilling effect that made it necessary to hustle to be comfortable out of doors.

Several members of the Masonic fraternity are being hurried through the various degrees of the chapter, the council and the commandery, that they may be eligible for the Shriners by the time the annual conclave is held next summer.

Nicholas P. Robinson is in Springfield, where his brother is seriously ill. He has been gone from his business a week or more.

Mitchell court, it is believed, will soon undergo the improvements which have so long been awaited there. The court runs easterly from Montauk avenue and has been without sewer or sidewalks since it was opened as a court, though the city has used it as a street. A proposition has been before the city council and commissioners were at one time appointed to assess benefits and damages for the proposed improvements, but that was as far as the steps toward making a bonafide street went.

Now an arrangement has been agreed upon by which it is understood the work will begin as soon as the frost is out of the ground to permit the work progressing. A sewer is to be laid along Montauk avenue to connect with the sewer at the corner of Montauk avenue and Hobron street, and sidewalks will be laid in the court. Then the highway will be macadamized or otherwise provided with a surface that will wear and be such as the city will approve of.

Mrs. L. Tracey Shenfield is in Lawrence hospital to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

It is announced now that the budget for this city, a document showing the appropriations for the various departments, will be ready for submission to the council for approval at the meeting next Monday.

New London must do something soon to get new manufacturing industries in this city or go behind in its enterprises. There has been no new industry other than the factory on the site of the former naval buildings on Jefferson avenue and the erection of the mill on Garfield avenue in a long time, while little industries have dropped away gradually.

The mud in Oneco avenue, near the Connecticut college, is so deep that it is impossible to operate autos through it. Monday night D. Walter Blake found the mud to be more than his Ford could get through, so he abandoned his car in the highway and left it there all night. Today the police department was notified that an auto had been left in the road all night and was still there this afternoon. So an investigation was made, when the fact that the machine could not be moved through the mud was learned.

Niantic had an unusual experience the latter part of last week, for about $1,000 worth of beer was destroyed after it had been confiscated. The beer was the load that a truck was carrying through the village on the way from New Haven to Meriden. Mishap befell the truck and then officers of the law stepped in and seized the stuff. The driver was arraigned before Marion R. Davis, a justice, and he was fined. Saturday the confiscated beer was dumped into the street.

STEAMER TEXAN BROUGHT TO NEW LONDON

New London, March 27.—The steamer Texan, which went ashore on the north side of Block Island in a dense fog, and which remained there at Clay Head several days, was floated today and is now in this harbor, having been towed in by the tugs of the Merritt-Scott company. The vessel's bottom is considerably damaged, but she will be taken to New York at once and repairs will be made. The vessel may proceed under her own steam as she has been patched and is believed to be capable of making the run.

Much of her cargo is aboard the craft, though some of it has been taken off and is in storage at the state pier here. A considerable quantity of the cargo that was damaged was thrown overboard and much of it was picked up by fishing vessels and has been brought here for sale. Some of this flotsam and jetsam has been found not to be much damaged.

The power boat Aunt Edie was the first of the vessels to arrive, she reaching here yesterday. She was followed in with power boats that had skees, etc. If the weather permits, the Texan will leave the harbor tomorrow. If she does not leave then, she will await favorable weather.

You won't have to coax 'em to eat it, it's so palatable.

Makes them strong, healthy, vigorous. Develops them faster, feathers them out better, matures them earlier. Don't be satisfied with taking our word for it—PROVE it yourself.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

JACK RABBIT VISITS AROUND.

Now, let me see what the little rabbit did after he ate the honey which the Big Brown Bear gave him in the last story. Oh, yes, now I know. He hopped away and by and by he came to the tree where Squirrel Nutcracker had his home. There sat that nice, old gray squirrel, on a branch.

My, but he was sleepy!

"I'm glad that sunny spring is here,
For winter time is very dear,
And one can't always sometimes go
To take a scamper through the snow,"

said the little bunny to Mrs. Squirrel as she looked out of her window.

"I'm busy cleaning house, but tell your mother I'll be over to see her very soon," she answered.

Then, Little Jack Rabbit hopped away and pretty soon he saw Mr. Hedgehog, who had just come out of his hole in the ground. My, but he was sleepy and some of his bristles were covered with dry leaves. You see, he lines his bed with them when he goes to sleep in the autumn and they keep him just as warm as blankets keep little boys and girls.

"Gracious me!" said Mrs. Hedgehog. "I'm glad it's really Spring for I made a mistake some time ago and came out too soon. Then, shaking off the dry leaves, he trotted off and after that Little Jack Rabbit hopped away and by and by he saw Peter Possum and Sammy Skunk and Oh, dear me, they were rubbing their eyes and blinking away because they had slept for many a day. Dear me, there goes my typewriter making up a line to rhyme, but I can't help it. Perhaps it's because it has a brand new ribbon on and feels happy.

"Hello," they said, for they were mighty glad to see him again, for perhaps they thought that he might have been caught by Danny Fox or Mr. Wicked Wolf during the cold winter months, but he hadn't, as you know, although he came very near it, many a time, goodness me.

"I'm glad to see you once again," said the little rabbit, "maybe I'll see you more than once again now that Mistress Spring is here with her bluebirds and robins and primroses and crocus," and he hopped away, for he just couldn't stand still this lovely spring day, for all the wood seemed calling and the Little Balmy Breezes singing:

"Come and play, this lovely day,
For all the snow has gone away,
And Mr. Merry Sun is bright
And twinkles with a golden light.
And pretty soon, Old Farmer Shields
Will run his plough along the fields."

Just then, all of a sudden, Uncle Lucky tooted his horn, for the old gentleman rabbit was out for a ride in his Luckymobile and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Judge Vincent of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island has handed down his decision in the case of Addison S. Archie and Leah C. Archie vs. the Hudson-Essex company of Connecticut. Judge Vincent's opinion says that the trial judge in the superior court erred when he allowed the case to go to the jury who awarded damages to the defendants in the amount of $750. The question of agency was a factor of the case at the time Frank O. Barber, a salesman for the Hudson-Essex company was driving his family from Watch Hill to Westerly when his automobile collided with a Ford sedan owned and driven by Mr. Archie who was accompanied by his wife at the time.

Judge Vincent held that Barber was not acting for the Hudson-Essex Co., at the time of the accident and consequently they could not be held liable.

R. E. Jones spoke on the brooding and rearing of chicks, and on poultry as a business, giving figures showing that with 1,000 chicks there should be a profit over expenses of $1,000 yearly, and with 2,000 chicks, of $2,800, and with 3,000 chicks of $4,600, which should be over and above the expenses of caring for them, also the poultryman's living.

Mrs. A. M. Gilchrist and A. H. Benton of Andover spoke on getting established in the poultry business. The meeting was attended by about 50 persons, and the speakers were all very interesting.

The milk truck which usually arrives at the Center about 6 a. m. was unable to make the trip from Chestnut Hill on Saturday and Sunday mornings because of the muddy roads. Farmers with milk waited at the Center on Sunday from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. before a truck came taking their milk and giving them the empty cans. They were oblised to wait instead of leaving the milk at the depot, as no empty cans had been left for them on the previous day.

At the Sunday morning service Miss Maud Latham was granted at her request a letter of dismissal to the Broadway Tabernacle, New York. Rev. Mr. Owen preached on St. Matt. 9: 36, "He was moved with compassion." He said the people asked who Christ was and compared him to Jeremiah, who always felt compassion for them as our Lord did and who was the most Christ-like character in the Old Testament. He referred to Jeremiah, the 23d Psalm and our Lord regarding the compassion manifested to mankind, and said that there was not much compassion in the world but we should trust in God for it. Mr. and Mrs. Royal Webster of Manchester were present at the service and Mr. Webster sang effectively The Palms, by Jean Faure.

BRIEF STATE NEWS

Warehouse Point.—The recent warm rains have given tobacco growers an opportunity to take down the balance of tobacco hanging in the sheds to have it stripped and prepared for the warehouses before they close.

Meriden.—Louis Girard, 57 years old, proprietor of a restaurant at No. 119 State street, who was arrested on a charge of violation of the prohibition law, pleaded nolle contendere in the police court and was fined $100 and costs.

Norfolk.—Mrs. Albert E. Curtiss gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus P. Curtiss on Terrace View for Miss Grace C. Brown, who is son to be married to Harold C. Parker of Thomaston.

Simsbury.—Present indications are that the acreage of tobacco in this valley will be about the same as last year. The snow has melted rapidly the last few days and farmers are beginning to prepare the sash for the seed beds.

Middletown.—The Frissel Fabric Co. will build a new one-story factory, 60x200 feet, on land on Silver street, recently bought from the Jasper Tryon estate. The building will be of brick and cement.

Derby.—Former Mayor James B. Atwater is resting comfortably at the Griffin hospital after an operation. The ex-mayor was stricken about a week ago and Friday entered the hospital, the operation being performed Saturday.

Shelton.—Arthur H. Beardsley, connected with a prominent building concern, and about 50 years of age, was bound over to the superior court by Judge Joseph G. Shaptro in the city court. Beardsley was charged with assault on 10-year-old Carlo Falco.

FOR SALE—In the town of Griswold, Conn., 2 miles from Jewett City and 1-2 mile from the well known and quaint little hamlet of Pachaug, is located the Frank Terry farm. The owner, one of the most successful farmers in the town, who is retiring, has given us the exclusive sale of this property. We wish to make this statement in regard to the merits of this farm and will say that it is considered as one of the best and most profitable farms in New London county. We personally recommend it to either the sincere farm buyer or to the city man seeking a desirable summer home. It is on high ground, with good drainage, and the view is exceedingly pleasing, near state road, postoffice, church and school. The land is very productive and consists of 115 acres, well divided. NORWICH TOWN

A Stir in the Community, was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon, at the First Congregational church, Sunday morning. The text chosen was Matthew 21:11. "And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee."

Ralph H. Marsh conducted the meeting of the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor society, held at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. At this meeting, Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn gave an address on the Passion Play, before a full house, showing many post card views of the different scenes and persons in the play. Her message was intensely interesting to both old and young. A rising vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Vaughn at the close of her address.

Monday evening in the First Congregational chapel, fourteen boys assembled to meet the troupe committee recently appointed to investigate whether or not it would be advisable to organize a Boy Scout troupe in Norwich Town.

The boys were addressed by Frederic H. Wyant, who is to be scout master; Ralph H. Marsh the assistant scout master; also Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, a member of the committee, all of which spoke enthusiastically of the scout movement and its many pleasures and virtues. The result of the meeting was, that all the boys present signed up for membership, and it is anticipated that several more will join the troupe at the next meeting, Friday evening, April 6. The meeting on Monday evening, was simply the initiatory meeting for the boys, formal rules and regulations to follow later.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, was the speaker Tuesday evening, at the Taftville Congregational church, at one of the series of Lenten services arranged by the pastor of the latter church, Rev. Edwin F. Crowdis.

This (Wednesday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Miss Mary E. Bacheler and Thomas H. Bacheler of East Town street, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey will conduct a neighborhood Lenten service.

During this (Passion) Week, at the First Congregational church special services have been arranged by the pastor. On Thursday evening in the church, there is to be a union communion service with the First Methodist Episcopal parish uniting. The pastor of the visiting church, Rev. James B. Aldrich will have a part in the service with Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, and the deacons from both churches will assist the ministers in the Celebration of the Lord's Supper.

Easter Day services will be held in the Congregational chapel at 7:30, on Friday evening, with Rev. Mr. Bailey officiating.

DR. DAVID A. PITT IS NOON MEETING SPEAKER

Dr. David A. Pitt, of the Central Baptist church was the speaker at Trinity Methodist church Tuesday at the noon service. He announced as his theme the age-old question, "What Think Ye of Christ?"

Mr. Pitt said in part: Three attempts were made to trip Jesus Christ into disadvantage before the people by three different groups on Tuesday, the day of controversy of the last week of His life. The first question was a direct challenge of His authority. To this He replied by a question concerning John the Baptist's authority, which question the challengers dared not answer.

The second attempt, that made by the Pharisees, was on the question of tribute to Caesar. This Jesus met by a reply so clearly conclusive that the questioners were silenced.

The third attempt, that by the Sadducees, in the well known story of the woman with seven husbands offered as conclusive proof of the foolishness of a personal immortality Jesus met by a simple lucid statement of the nature of the spirit of heaven.

From these three encounters with the hecklers of His day, Jesus came off so signally victorious that we have the laconic record that no man durst ask Him any more questions. Do we do justice to the mentalacumen of Jesus in our estimates of Him, the speaker asked.

These victories of Christ over the disputatious detractors suggest the problem of evaluations of Christ. Four answers were suggested and commented on by Dr. Pitt as replies to the question, "What think ye of Christ?" (1) The answer of the rank and file of the people which was, "He is one of the prophets." (2) The answer of Christ's intimate associates which is, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." (3) The answer of Christ's own estimate of Himself which seems to have marked points of accord with the estimate of His intimate associates. (4) The verdict of history. Whereas history often reverses the judgments of former generations, as notably in the case of Napoleon, this not been the case with Jesus. There is warrant in the verdict of history for the words of Dr. Geo. A. Gordon that "the character of Christ is the surprise of the centuries, the last hours of time must have their romance the further unfolding of His majesty and the perpetual delight of the everlasting future must be the evergrander discovery of His significance." "The detractors of Christ," said the speaker, "have failed to win a following, or to promote a lasting philanthropy or to launch and support a dynamic programme of redemption for submerged groups or backward races."

The meetings continue through the week with luncheon at 12 and the half-hour service at 12.30. Rev. C. E. Dunbar of the First Baptist church speaks today (Wednesday).

PICKER ROOM FIRE AT FALLS AVENUE BUILDING

Box 14 was rung in Tuesday morning at 10.55 o'clock for a fire in the picker room at the Max Gordan & Son Corp., on Falls avenue. When the firemen arrived smoke was pouring out of the building and things looked good for a lively blaze. The firemen laid a line of hose and soon had the blaze out. Bales of cotton were opened, however, to make sure that no fire remained in the building.

The fire started from one of the picker machines and men in the employ of the company immediately notified the fire station. Harry Messler, employed by the company, rang in the box. It is believed that the damage was slight, most of the loss being in cotton, wet by the water thrown onto the blaze. The recall was sounded at 11.07 o'clock.

PROSPECTS LOOK POOR FOR EARLY TROUT CATCHES

With only a few days between now and April 1st, the day for the opening of the trout season, local anglers are shining up their rods and looking about for the best places to dig night crawlers. The snow and ice is pretty well melted away but the brooks are running high and it looks as though trout fishing would not be of the best for some time to come.

High water in the brooks and the temperature of the streams will not keep the anglers away, however, and April 1st will see many of them out in an endeavor to bring in the first speckled beauty of the season.

HAS THREE GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE SHE SEEKS

Habitual intemperance for more than five years prior to March 1, 1920, desertion on March 1, 1920, and intolerable cruelty since Aug. 2, 1914, the date of their marriage, are grounds alleged by Mary M. Alves of this city for divorce from Joseph Alves, formerly of Norwich, now of parts unknown. She asks that her name be changed to Mary M. Hubbard. The suit is returnable before the superior court in April with Hiberd R. Norman as counsel for the petitioner.

BERT LUCAS PARADES WITH DENVER ELKS

Herbert W. Lucas, of this city, who has been in Denver during the past week on his western trip, writes The Bulletin from there of Elks' parades he has taken part in, the sights he has seen and the interest he has taken in attending the trials of bunco steerers in a Denver police court.

His letter follows::

My friends here owning a big limousine, I have just been on a 100 mile auto ride. I was out to the largest U. S. general hospital in the Uniter States. It covers acres and acres of ground and there are thousands of soldiers out there. We went out to a place called Brighton. The road is 40 miles, straight stretch, wonderful roads out here as in California. I also went out to Littleton, a beautiful little town, near the foothills of the Rockies.

There are some bunco steerers out here, believe me. I have been up to the West Side court and heard the evidence. A fellow called Len Reamey turned state's evidence. His story, as told on the witness stand was one of the most remarkable ever told in a court of justice in the United States. Millions of dollars are said to have been taken from their victims by the Denver gang of which Lou Bluge and A. W. Duff are the alleged heads.

Reamey in his testimony connected Duff with the fleecing of a number of victims, mostly small town bankers or wealthy farmers from the east, in Colorado for a summer vacation. He said Duff was the man that hired the bunco workers and divided the spoils. His testimony related specifically to the way the gang buncoed (one) William Griffith, an aged Walnut, Iowa, farmer and C. E. Haskell of Haskell, Okla. David Yeznce, who afterwards appealed to the police, but obtained no satisfaction, died a month later of a broken heat. It was in this case that Reamey said it cost the confidence gang $9,000 to square the police. Yezmer had lost $19,000.

Telling how Griffith was buncoed out of $20,000, Reamey testified that after working in California, Florida and Utah in 1920 he came back to Denver and saw about going to work. He said he saw Duff at the "lookout," which he explained was the place where "steerers" "spielers" and "tailers" watch for a "steerer" to come by with a "sucker." The "steerer" would raise his hat, he said, and that was a signal the "steerer" had a "sucker" in tow.

Asked what his duties as "steerer" were, he said, "I'd look about the main streets, the railroad stations, and the hotels for a man that looked good, pick him up and signal for a spieler. Then the taller would shadow the victim to see that he wasn't being followed. The prosecution introduced the written contract entered into between it and Reamey before the trial began. It is as follows: If you will promise me immunity in all cases filed against me or which may be filed against me in connection with any act prior to Aug. 24, 1922, I agree to turn state's evidence and tell honestly and fairly all I know about all "con" men who have been operating in Denver. I agree to remain in jail until the last case in which I may be called as a witness is disposed of. If I lie and do not testify fairly and honestly, this agreement is to be null and void. Reamey said the game that was played on Griffith was called the pay-off game, because the bunco men paid off the victim several times before he was out of his bank roll.

This the bunco men called against the wall. The victim in this game didn't even see fake exchange. They are just told there is an excxhange and then are beaten out of their money. In another case two brothers from Montana were beaten out of $6,500. There are several other cases being tried similar. I go up every day to hear the case. Some days you can't get in, it is so packed.

The big auto show opened up Wednesday and it was a fine show. They held a big parade on the opening day. I attended Friday evening, 25,000 people were there that evening. The prediction here is that auto makers are struggling to keep pace with the demand. There will be two buyers for every car available this spring here. I had two complimentary tickets given me. The electric effects were beautiful and the music was grand.

They are making a truck here in Denver called the Plain, 4 wheel drive, made by the Plain Motor Co. To substantiate the wonderful claim made for this truck they gave a demonstration on Ruby Hill, Florida street. It's almost straight up in the air. I went over and saw the demonstration. They had 3 tons on the truck. They went right up the hill and then they had 20 men on it besides the 3 tons that were on it. I never saw any truck go up such a steep hill. They offered to give the owner or manufacturer of any truck $2,000 in cash if his truck will equal the performance of the Plain truck; also offered $2,000 to the owner of any rear-driven truck provided his truck empty will equal the performance of the Plain with a load of two and one-half tons. It is a wonder in hill climbing. They sell for chassis $4,250 f. o. b. Denver, capacity 3 tons.

I had the pleasure of hearing Paderewski the great piano player, Monday evening. He was received by a record crowd and with great enthusiasm. I did enjoy it immensely. I am taking in all the places of amusement.

The people here have been taking a vote on the street cars on whether the men could smoke on the two rear seats. It was six to one in favor of smoking on cars. (The cranks sure were defeated.) I have had the honor this last week of being in two street parades. The Elks marched from their home to the auto show. Saturday evening and today Monday, March 19th, the Elks are giving a real large circus with elephants, camels, and a regular circus, 20 clowns. I was in the parade, believe me, some parade, seven bands. Well, it was two miles long. I wore a cap and had a cane. I tell you we did get a big hand all along the line. The Elks here are a great bunch, believe me. I attended the circus one evening and it was grand, two shows, 7 and 9 evening. It sure was some circus, good as Ringling Bros.

I met some Elks from all over, as all stray Elks were invited to be in the parade. I guess there must have been 2,000 Elks in the line. They have turned people away from the Auditorium where it is being held, it's so popular.

I have been to some great shows here, especially vaudeville and moving pictures. The Denver Gas and Electric building is one of the finest electric lighted buildings I ever saw. It is a beautiful thing at night. Curtice street, the street of the movies, is a dream. As far as lights go New York hasn't anything on it for being illuminated. It's swell.

Saturday we had a blizzard here and today the thermometer registered zero. So you see Norwich has nothing on us out here for cold weather. Since I came here we have had five snow storms but the snow melts very quickly as we are one mile high here I had hard work to breath when I first came here but I can breath now very well. This is on account of the high altitude. I am getting used to it. I took in the Georgia minstrel, three acts of vaudeville and two pictures at the Empress theatre and only paid 25 cents for the best seat in the house. Things are very reasonable here. I have told you about all there is in my visit here as I am leaving Sunday evening at 6 p. m. for Seattle, Washington, and my visit ends here after a beautiful time in the good old city of Denver and with mighty good friends. There is one thing sure out here, you will find some great friends here. No better anywhere than in the west, "Believe me."

I went over on Sixteenth street and Williams street to a big fire last evening, the Zook and Moffitt Motor Co. garage, 25 autos destroyed. Henry Steiner and family of Norwich lost his beautiful Oldsmobile touring car.

GALE-FANNED FIRE IS CONSUMING THE NANTASKET BEACH AMUSEMENT RESORTS; U. S. INFANTRYMEN DOING GUARD DUTY

All Hotels in the Vicinity of Paragon Park Have Been Wiped Out—The Atlantic House, One of the Largest Summer Hotels on the Shore, Has Been Destroyed—Firemen Are Resorting to Dynamite to Stay the Flames—Help Was Called From Brockton, Rockland, Marshfield, Weymouth, Hingham, Quincy and Cohasset—Loss is Estimated at $750,000.

[illegible] Mass., March 29.—The police the night were on Cohasset apparatus [illegible] that the [illegible] to turn its attention to safeguarding its own, as North Cohasset, [illegible] Paragon Park [illegible] been guarding its own, as North Cohasset, [illegible] Point. The Atlantic House, one [illegible] under fire from embers flying on the [illegible] of the largest summer hotels on the shore was the first to go after the Paragon Garden at Paragon Park. The Villa Napoli, one of the well known hotels was on fire, last night.

The water supply, obtained through a pumping station at Hingham, was inadequate. While firemen stood idly by, unable to do anything to stop the flames, dynamite was sent for in an attempt to stop them in that way. Unless the flames could be stopped at the Atlantic House, the southern extremity of the strand, it was feared that Hull would be burned out to the Cohasset line.

The new town hall, built at a cost of $300,000 and the Damon public school, both within a furlong of the Atlantic House to the south, were besieged by small fire and the Atlantic House itself was kept in constant danger by incipient fires. Houses on six streets were burned or burning at midnight.

The section covered by the flames at that hour roughly was about one-third of a mile square. From the first section on which Paragon Park and auxiliary amusements were situated, the flames had spread to the south to Center Hill, burning to the west as far as the Villa Napoli, which it was thought would be saved. To the north, the Nantasket House, and pavilions were just beyond the limits of the fire.

The fire started in or near the bandstand in Paragon Park. Workmen have been engaged in pre-season repairs there. It was thought some of them may have left a fire burning, that was whipped into conflagration by the wind which this evening blew [illegible] gusts that had gale force at times.

The flames early passed the limitations of the local fire department and help was called from Brockton, Rockland, Marshfield, Weymouth, Hingham, Quincy and Cohasset. As these firemen from seven cities and towns, however, were handicapped almost hopelessly by the lack of water. With the ocean roaring a few feet to the east of them, they had to stand by their apparatus while dynamite was sent for. Bucket brigades were out of the question so strong was the wind. The flames ate their way back fifty feet against the wind when the tinder-like structures of roller coasters, bowling alleys, dance pavilions and like places fired up.

It was decided to try and make the fight with dynamite just north of the Atlantic house, at a point between that hotel which tops Center Hill and the state bath house.

FIRE WAS BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL AT 1.15 A. M.

Hull, Mass., March 29.—The fire which laid waste much of Nantasket Beach last night was brought under control at 1.15 a. m., today. Paragon Park, the amusement center was almost entirely overrun by the flames and about 75 houses and cottages were destroyed. All the hotels and the new town hall were saved. The loss was estimated at about $750,000.

TWO COMPANIES OF U. S. INFANTRY ON GUARD

Hull, Mass., March 28.—Companies F and H, of the 13th Infantry Regiment, regular army, stationed at Fort Revere in Boston harbor, went to Nantasket Beach tonight and stacked arms on the outskirts of the fire. The soldiers stood guard over the piled belongings of those who had to leave their homes. Two soldiers, Privates George M. McArriston and Norman D. Newton, file closers in the rear of the marching column, were knocked down by an automobile. McArriston was considered seriously hurt.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR SARAH BERNHARDT TODAY

Paris, March 28.—(By The A. P.)—The body of Sarah Bernhardt tonight rested in the famous rosewood casket lined with white satin which was made at her order thirty years ago and in which she frequently was photographed while on her foreign tours.

Abbe Leuil, cure of the church of St. Francois De Sales, where the funeral services will be held tomorrow noon, said the last prayer over the great artiste today. Then she was lifted from her bed and placed in the coffin, where a room has been transformed into a chapel.

Gerghardt is still clad in her white satin dress, over her face and hair a fine lace veil has been drawn. On her breast is pinned the Cross of the Legion of Honor, and around her neck is a ribbon holding the gold locket containing the picture and lock of hair of her son, Maurice, which she always wore.

The casket will be taken to the church tomorrow morning at eight o'clock and after the services the funeral procession will go to the cemetery Pere Lachaise, where the body will be placed in a simple but massive vault, without decoration and bearing only one word: "Bernhardt."

The Paris city authorities had hoped to hold the services in some great church such as La Madeleine, but Bernhardt's wish was to be as simple as possible and her preference was for the relatively small church which she attended while in Paris. There will be no orations at the funeral, in compliance with her wish, but her desire for "many flowers" is certain to be gratified by the the public.

James K. Hackett, the American actor-manager, has been invited by the city of Paris to attend the funeral of Mme. Bernhardt. As the representative of seven American and British theatrical organizations, Mr. Hackett today sent flowers tothe bier of the actress. Cards attached to the flowers showed their donors to be the Lambs club of New York, the Actors' Equity Association, the Players' club of New York, the Bohemian club of San Francisco the Actors' Association of Great Britain, the Shakespeare Society of Stratford-on-Avon and the British Drama League.

HEIRESS TO $40,000,000 WEDS NEWSPAPER CARTOONIST

Pasadena, Cal., March 28.—The wish of Miss Deliora Angell, heiress to the $40,000,000 fortune of John W. Gates for a quiet wedding was fulfilled at noon today when she plighted her troth to Lester Norris, newspaper cartoonist, of St. Charles, Ill.

The Altadena home of R. F. Angell, father of the bride, where the ceremony was performed, was surrounded by guards. Only relatives of Miss Angell and Mr. Norris and a few chums were admitted to the home.

Rev. Robert A. Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian church, read the marriage service. Miss Angell, attended only by her nine year old sister, Roberta, flower girl, was gowned in a plain white satin dress and carried the conventional shower bouquet of roses and lilies.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Norris left on a motor trip through California. They were "very happy," they said, over the culmination of their romance, which was begun in their childhood days in Illinois.

BRITISH RAILWAY AND BUILDING INDUSTRIES

London, March 28 (By the A. P.).—Important decisions were taken today by the railway and building industries which may involve serious stoppages. The builders' and employers' conference resolved to instruct members throughout the country to enforce in the middle of April an extension of the working hours for summer time from 44 to 47 and reduce wages on a scale already rejected by the men in a ballot. This will mean a general lockout, unless the ministry of labor can successfully intervene, and also an awkward dilemma for the government, which is being constantly attacked for its failure to provide necessary housing accommodations.

The delegates to the conference of the national union of railwaymen have decided to support the shopmen in resisting the claim of the railway companies to the right to withdraw the remaining six shillings of war bonus. The delegates have instructed the executive council to call a national strike if necessary.

HEADLIGHTS APPROVED FOR USE IN CONNECTICUT

Hartford, March 28.—Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel today announced a revised list of headlights which have been approved for use in Connecticut effective April 1. The list also shows the Connecticut devices that are approved for use in Massachusetts, and while there are 65 types which are legal in this state, only 46 have been sanctioned in Massachusetts.

EARL OF CARNARVON HAS SUFFERED RELAPSE

London, March 28.—The Earl of Carnarvon has suffered a relapse, according to a Cairo despatch to the Times. His temperature has risen.

FRENCH SEIZE PRUSSIAN STATE-OWNED VINEYARDS

Duesseldorf, March 28.—(By the A. P.)—The French authorities today began taking over the Prussian state-owned vineyards along the Moselle river, according to the Deutsche Rheinische Volkszeitung. The paper says the seizure includes vineyards, buildings, wine cellars and bottled wines.

There are thousands of acres of vine-yards owned by the government along the Moselle where it runs into the Rhine.

The town of Mettmann, near Elberfeld, was surrounded today by French troops and tanks. The French demanded that the Mettmann officials give the names of the Germans responsible for the shooting and wounding of a French major in the foot several days ago. Traffic to Mettmann has been entirely cut off. The interurban street cars running between Duesseldorf and Elberfeld are stopped at the outskirts and the Mettmann passengers are obliged to walk across the town.

Boston, March 28.—Within an hour after his arrival here from Chicago today in charge of federal officers, Frank L. Taylor, who for three weeks held the position as president of the Warren National bank at a salary of $50 a week, was arraigned in United States district court, charged with embezzling more than $200,000 of the bank's funds. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $10,000. Bail was not furnished.

Taylor insisted that Abraham Goldman, principal stockholder of the Warren bank, who is held in Chicago and who is charged here with aiding and abetting in the embezzlement, was innocent.

THRONGS PAID TRIBUTE TO REV. FRANCIS J. CUSHING

Torrington, March 28.—Hundreds of people thronged St. Francis' church here last night and this morning to pay a final tribute to the Rev. Francis J. Cushing, who died Monday night at New Haven, where he was stationed at St. Brendan's church. The officers of the solemn requiem high mass today were: celebrant, the Rev. William A. Gildea, Torrington; deacon, Rev. Dr. Laughlin, New Haven; sub-deacon, Rev. James Kane, Danbury; master of ceremonies, the Rev. William Flynn, Hartford.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John M. Holcombe.

Hartford, March 28.—Mrs. John M. Holcombe, wife of the president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company and well known as a member of patriotic societies, died suddenly at her home on Spring street today just after returning from an automobile drive.

Mrs. Holcombe was Emily S. Goodwin, before marriage, a descendant of one of the earliest and most prominent families of New England. She was in the eighth generation from Ozias Goodwin, one of the first settlers of Hartford. He came from England to Boston in 1632 and to Hartford in 1639. She was born in Bristol, Conn., in 1852. She was a charter member of the Connecticut Society, Colonial Dames of America, and had served as president. She was instrumental organizing the Daughters of the American Revolution in this city and as its regent pushed to completion the "cleaning up" of Gold street, and the restoration of the ancient burying ground which bordered it. She was also responsible for the pain which resulted in the restoration of the old state house.

Mrs. Holcombe leaves her husband and three children, Harold Goodwin Holcombe, John Marshall Holcombe, Jr., and Marguerite Holcombe and four grandchildren.

DAUGHERTY TELLS OF ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL

New York, March 28.—The limelight of public interest, which has shifted from character to character in the Dorothy Keenan murder case tonight was focused on the identity of the man who Major Draper Mc Daugherty, son of the United States attorney general, today said, had threatened to blackmail him because of his acquaintance with the model, unless he got him a job with the department of justice.

Daugherty, appearing voluntarily before Assistant District Attorney Pecora, discussed at length with him his acquaintance with the slain girl, and then, avoiding reporters, vanished after giving the prosecutor the name of the alleged blackmailer.

This name Mr. Pecora kept to himself. The only hint that he would give newspapermen was that the man in question already had been questioned by the police in connection with another matter.

Reporters encountered the same difficulty interviewing Daugherty as they did when the mysterious "Mr. Marshall"—the girl's elderly admirer later revealed as J. K. Mitchell, Philadelphia capitalist and clubman—was the central figure in the drama.

M. Pecora, who for days has shielded Mitchell from the press today took the same precaution to see that Daugherty's wishes to avoid interviewers were fulfilled. The latest witness was whisked in and out of the criminal courts building, and his meeting with Mr. Pecora held in the office of another prosecutor.

Daugherty, who was seeking what he a friend who [illegible] was to reveal, had discussed with Mr. Pecora about 45 minutes. At the end of the conference, Mr. Pecora said he had confirmed newspaper reports of his casual friendship with Miss Keenan and the attempt made by telephone to blackmail him. The blackmail angle was what particularly engaged the prosecutor's interest, he said, though the girl was seen by blackmailers who failed to make her cooperate in a plot to unleash on Mitchell.

MAIL ROBBER RECAPTURED; WOUNDED IN PISTOL FIGHT

Atlanta, Ga., March 28.—Gerald Chapman, who engineered the $1,000,000 Leonard street mail robbery in New York in 1921, will again don a uniform at the federal penitentiary here.

Frank Gray, who with Chapman made a sensational escape from the big institution early yesterday, was sleeping tonight in a cell at the penitentiary. Chapman was rapidly recovering from wounds at a hospital in Athens, Ga., and authorities there said early tonight he will be able to leave the hospital in two days.

Chapman was serving a 25-year sentence, while Gray was serving five years. Yesterday morning they overpowered a guard in a hospital ward of the prison, sawed through a steel grated window, made rope ladders from bed sheets and slid to the ground, some 30 feet below. Two high walls failed to stop them and they soon were off the government reservation.

Early today a conductor on a northbound freight train put the two men off his train near Colbert, Ga., and on reaching the town he notified W. P. Butler, town marshal. The policeman went out to meet the men.

As he approached the men and commanded them to halt they immediately opened fire on the officer which was returned. Chapman, feeling desperately, fell with three bullet wounds. Gray surrendered and her his pistol "hung" and refused to fire.

Chapman was convicted of being the leader of a gang that halted a mail truck leaving the city hall station of the New York postoffice and made off with bags of registered mail approximately $400,000 in money was recovered in a wooden box under a tree in Long Island after the arrest of members of the gang.

Commons "Shy" on The Ruhr Question

Members Fail to Induce the Government to Take a Stronger Line on the French Policy.

London, March 28 (By the A. P.).—The debate this evening in the house of commons on the Ruhr question, which had been much anticipated as possibly indicating a new line of British policy, lacked much of its expected interest.

This was due first to the absence of Prime Minister Bonar Law, who is still suffering from a mild throat affection; second, to Premier Poincare's renewed declaration against any mediation, and probably also to the possibility that something may develop from the current conferences in Milan between Premier Mussolini of Italy, Foreign Minister Jaspar of Belgium and others, arising from Hugo Stinnes' visit to Italy. Even had the British ministers some idea of a new policy, they would probably hold their hand pending the outcome of these conferences.

All these considerations taken together did not prevent Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, former Premier Asquith, J. Ramsay Macdonald and Sir Edward Grigg, who opened the debate tonight, from strongly criticizing the French policy and trying to provoke the government into taking a stronger line. Their efforts, however, were unsuccessful. Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, who replied for the government, took precisely the same line that the prime minister has taken on previous occasions.

Mr. Baldwin compared the situation in Europe to the beginnings of a great industrial strike and said exactly the same temper was exhibited, a temper which would brook no interference.

"If we were so to conduct our conversations with our allies as to lose their confidence and make them feel that we were taking an attitude of hostility, our whole powers, which I believe will later be immense, would be dislocated," he declared.

He added that the government was in close touch with the allies and the other countries concerned, and he was convinced that, by following the policy he indicated, the French would recognize, when the opportune moment come for any intervention, that the British had been perfectly straightforward throughout and they would also be accepted by Germany as honest negotiators.

Wage Increase For Cotton Workers

Pacific Mills, Lawrence, and Amoskeag Mills Have Granted a 12 1-2 Per Cent. Advance.

Boston, March 28.—To the wage increases already granted to upwards of 50,000 woolen mill operatives in New England there were added today advances to about 25,000 workers in cotton mills. These advances marked the first action by cotton manufacturing interests to meet the higher wage levels set by the woolen mills and came while the worker of Fall River, a cotton center employing 36,000, are involved in two separate sets of wage demands by rival unions.

In the past advances by cotton and woolen groups as large as those now on record for the revision upward have almost invariably been followed by a general increase in the textile industry. Such action would affect approximately 250,000 persons at the present volume of operation, with in most cases is normal.

The big center of Lawrence with only a few exceptions among its mills, was placed on the higher wage level through announcement by the Pacific mills, makers of both cotton and worsted goods, that it would grant a 12 1-2 per cent increase to its 8,000 employes. The American Woolen Company's several plants in Lawrence were the first to declare higher price lists, and the Arlington mills, the third principal operating factor there, joined the movement yesterday. New Hampshire was brought into line by the Amoskeag Manufacturing company's announcement that its mills at Manchester, employing about 13,500 persons, would be placed on wage schedules 12 1-2 per cent higher April 30. The Amoskeag plant is among the largest devoted principally to cotton products in the world.

A few minutes after the industry learned of the action of the Amoskeag company, the Nashua Manufacturing company, operating the Jackson and Nashua mills with 4,000 operatives, posted notices of an advance, the amount of which was not stated.

Several smaller mills, mostly makers of woolen goods, also notified employes that they were meeting the ne wstandards, but the cotton manufacturers of New Bedford and of Rhode Island were understood to be awaiting the outcome of the negotiations in Fall River, while those in Maine were considering their situation in the light of the advances in New Hampshire today.

U. S. INTERCEDES WITH SOVIET RUSSIA TO SPARE LIVES OF CATHOLIC PRELATES

State Department Has Officially Conveyed to the Soviet Government Its Desire That the Death Sentence of Archbishop Zepliak and Monsignor Butchkavitch be Annulled—Pope Pius Has Asked for the Release of the Catholic Ecclesiastics in Moscow on the Ground That They Are the Pope's Subjects—Revolutionary Tribunal in the Volhynia District Has Sentenced 84 Persons to Death—Group Was Convicted of Assisting Armed Attacks on the Red Forces.

Washington, March 28.—The state department has taken steps, it was officially announced late today, to convey to the soviet government, through the American ambassador at Berlin, the "earnest hope" that the lives of Archbishop Zepliak and Monsignor Butchkavitch of the Catholic church, under sentence to be executed tomorrow in Moscow, "may be spared."

Decision to take action in regard to the executions planned by soviet authorities was announced in the following formal statement:

"With reference to the report of the death sentence passed on Archbishop Zepliak and other Roman Catholic ecclesiastics in Russia, the department of state has taken steps, through the American ambassador in Berlin, to give expression to the humanitarian interest of the American people, and their earnest hope that the lives of these ecclesiastics may be spared."

Earlier in the day protests against the executions had been received by the department from the Catholic club of New York city.

POPE ASKS SOVIET GOV'T TO RELEASE HIS SUBJECTS

Rome, March 28.—(By The A. P.)—Pope Pius has asked the soviet government of Russia to liberate Archbishop Zepliak and the other ecclesiastics convicted in Moscow on the ground that they are members of the Catholic heirarchy and the Pope's subjects.

The negotiations in favor of Archbishop Zepliak and the others have been entrusted to Prof. Walsh, formerly a member of the American relief commission in Russia and now head of the pontificial mission for relief in southern Russia. Prof. Walsh was continually assured by the soviet government that, in case the trial could not be avoided, and capital sentences would not be carried out. Similar assurance has been received since the trial.

News of the stay of sentence for the convicted ecclesiastics has somewhat calmed the apprehension at the Vatican, which hopes that the question may yet be satisfactorily concluded.

Pope Pius, when in Warsaw as apostolic visitator, obtained the liberation of Monsignor Ropp, who was accused of a similar offense, by setting forth that the latter was a member of the Catholic heirarchy and therefore a subject of the Pope.

In following a similar course in the present case, the Holy See does not raise any question of politics or nationality, merely maintaining that the soviets should recognize that the condemned prelates are members of the Catholic heirarchy. Therefore the Vatican asks that they be recognized as subjects of the Pope and requests their liberation in the name of the Pope.

CONFERENCE ON COSTS OF THE RHINELAND ARMY

Paris, March 28 (By the A. P.)—The question of the reimbursement of the United States government for the cost of the maintenance of the American army on the Rhine was brought somewhat nearer settlement today at a lengthy conference between Eliot Wadsworth, the American representative, and the financial representatives of the allied powers. Big dierences, however, are still preventing ofcomplete agreement.

The allied proposition gradually is becoming more definite. They are determined that payments to America shall be made only out of German reparations; but they still are deuating the method for valuing and transforming into cash reparations which Germany may make in merchandise, as it has been settled that the United States will accept only money.

Insistence by the United States that army payments should be prior claim on reparations, as in the case of the allied army expense, is being partly met. The allies proposed today priority for the first four of twelve annual payments aggregating $225,000,000 should apply only to 25 per cent of the reparations received during those years. Another difficulty is the allies' reluctance to pay interest on deferred payments.

MARINE OBSERVERS VIEW A SIZEABLE RUM FLEET

Highlands, N. J., March 28.—Marine observers today again took exception to the statement of E. C. Yellowley, acting prohibition director for New York, that no sizeable rum fleet was standing off Ambrose channel.

With visibility better than it had been for several days, three steamers and seven schooners could be seen at the regular maritime market place, while seven miles southwest, at a point ten miles off Long Branch, was observed a three-masser, apparently waiting for customers.

In spite of a choppy sea and a thirty-mile wind, several small boats mingled with the fleet. The British steamer Ister, formerly the yacht Nahma, owned by Robert Goelet, appeared to be doing good business, being visited by a small yacht and two small boats of the runner type. A tanker which arrived early in January and has been at anchor at the same place ever since, also was receiving visitors. Cruising from mothership to other ships were a steam lighter and large motorboat, apparently delivering food supplies.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 28.—(By the A. P.)—Charles E. Ruthenberg, co-defendant with William Z. Foster, charged with advocating criminal syndicalism, and witness for the latter in his trial, admitted on the witness stand today, after first denying it, that he had written an article saying the workers must "adopt extra parliamentary means" including "use of armed force to overthrow the government of the United States."

Ruthenberg's fourth day on the stand was marked by a severe examination by O. L. Smith, assistant attorney general of Michigan, who attacked the witness' qualifications as an expert on communism.

"Tell us whether or not you have at any time in a written article advocated the overthrow of the government of the United States by force," the attorney general asked.

"I have already explained——," Ruthenberg began when Mr. Smith interrupted and demanded a "Yes" or "No" answer.

"No," the witness said.

Mr. Smith produced a copy of the October 1921 Communist, secret organ of the communist party during its underground existence, and asked Ruthenberg if an article signed "Delson"—his party alias—had not been written by him. The witness acknowledged the authorship.

COLCHESTER

Prayers were said for the eternal repose of Terence Martin of Providence, a former member of St. Andrew's parish.

With Palm Sunday is begun Holy week. From the earliest days of the church this has always been a solemn week. Every day used to be a holy day. All business and public work ceased, sins were given up, debts were forgiven and all of this in gratitude to the Redeemer. Other times bring other customs, but over and above all hovers all-important duty of this week. Avoidance of worldly dissipation, concentration of thoughts on the tragedy of the crucifixion, prayers for grace and thoughtfulness. This week the church follows closely in the footsteps of the Divine Master during the last days of his mortal life and on the last three days of Holy Week she in fact reproduces before our eyes the events of the passion, death and burial of the Saviour of mankind. These three days together with Easter day stand out above all others in the year.

Holy week morning this week at 8 o'clock.

Confessions Wednesday at 4 and 7. Tenebrae mass Thursday a. m., 7.30 o'clock.

On Thursday there will be devotions to the Blessed Sacrament all day until 9 p. m. Congregational devotional prayers and evening prayers at 7.30 p. m.

Good Friday—Adoration of the cross in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Offerings Good Friday are for the Holy Land.

Holy Saturday ceremonies begin at 8 o'clock. Easter water may be obtained after mass. Blessing of food then or at any time during the week.

Lenten fast and abstinence and Saturday noon at 12 o'clock.

Ladies of the parish are requested to help Saturday in cleaning and dusting the church.

Easter Sunday high mass at 10 o'clock.

Envelopes for the Easter Sunday collection were given out. The Easter Sunday offerings are for the support of the diocesan charities.

The theme of Holy Thursday mass is the Passion—the washing of the feet by Christ. The institution of the Blessed Sacrament. The introit or first prayer of the mass speaks of the Passion; the gospel speaks of the washing of feet—the epistle—the institution of the Blessed Sacrament. There is singing and the organ—at the Gloria the bells ring out joyously, then silence of organ and bells until the Gloria of Holy Saturday. The church is in deep mourning. Wooden clappers replace the bells—wooden to recall the wood of the cross—wooden clappers to recall the earliest days of the church when there were no bells—when the Faithful made quiet assembly at the clapper signal. After the mass a procession follows. The Blessed Sacrament is brought to the repository at the side of the altar—a memorial procession to remind us that Jesus, after the Last Supper went out to Mt. Olivet accompanied by His Disciples.

On Holy Thursday the holy oils used by the church during the year are blessed.

After mass all lights in the church (save that before the place of reposition) are extinguished and then there follows the denuding of altars. The Antiphon is recited, "They parted My garments and upon my vesture they cast lots," followed by the 21st Psalm and prayer. The altar represents Christ—this ceremony recalls the stripping of Christ.

If You Need a Medicine
You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

"FLU" GERM DISCOVERED

Dr. Simon Flexner, Director of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, announces that germs of Influenza have been identified through experiments on animals. This germ impairs the lung tissue so that it is no longer able to destroy the common bacteria of the nose and throat that causes bronchitis and pneumonia.

Kill the germ with Sterling's Vapor-Ese, the healing, soothing, antiseptic salve that penetrates deep down into the pores, kills the germs that caused the cold, relieves congestion and acts as a restorative to irritated and inflamed mucous membranes.

Sterling's Vapor-Ese does its work easily, quickly and without delay. It is also absolutely harmless and easy to apply. Simply rub it on the throat and chest at bed time and place a little of this healing, antiseptic up the nostrils to relieve any stuffed up condition. Then, just breathe your cold away. Be sure to get Sterling's Vapor-Ese from your druggist. A 25 cent jar will do the trick. Look for the name "Sterling's."

FIRPO GETS DECISION OVER LOGAN IN FOUR ROUND EXHIBITION BOUT

New York, March 28.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight and conqueror of Bill Brennan, won the decision over Jim Hibbard, of Buffalo, in a four round exhibition bout foe the benefit of the American committee for devastated France tonight.

Firpo showed much speed and decided improvement in boxing. Although the boxers wore 8 ounce gloves, Hibbard, a new comer in the heavyweight class, was badly battered at the end of the bout. The Argentinian did not uncork the full power of his punches.

Eight other bouts were held, all staged under the direction of Miss Anne Morgan, chairman of the committee.

DRAWINGS MADE FOR METRO TENNIS TOURNEY

New York, March 28.—Six Metropolitan tennis stars were seeded today in a field of 67 players drawn for the national indoor singles championship starting next Saturday on the courts of the Seventh Regiment armory. The entry list was seven less than the record established last year.

Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., the defending champion, was seeded in the lower half of the draw with Frank T. Anderson, of Brooklyn, 1921 titleholder, and Herbert L. Bowman, New York state champion. In the upper half, Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, No. 3 ranking star and indoor titleholder in 1919, was seeded with S. Howard Voshell, of Brooklyn, 1917-1918 champion, and Percy L. Kynaston, of Rockville, N. Y.

An international tinge was added to the tournament by the entry of Kelo Okuno, Japanese resident of New York; Augustus Stone, of Roehampton, England; and P. C. Hart, of Canada. Princeton, Rutgers and Columbia were among the colleges represented. Play in the doubles will not begin until next week.

PRINCETON NINE OPENS SEASON WITH VICTORY

Princeton, N. J., March 28.—Princeton's baseball team opened the season today by defeating Villa Nova, 7 to 2. Inclement weather resulted in an agreement by both teams that the game should go but seven innings. Coach Clark used three pitchers, Carney, Caldwell and Townsend.

The feature of the contest was a three base hit by Smith in the opening innings when three Tiger players were on base. Villa Nova did all their scoring in the sixth inning when they bunched four hits off Townsend.

MEN'S NORTH AND SOUTH PLAY TODAY

Pinehurst, N. C., March 28.—The largest and strongest field that has ever taken part in the men's north and south open championship tournament at Pinehurst will tee off tomorrow for the first 36 hole round of that event, on the number three course. Pat O'Hara will defend the title won last year, against the onslaught of fifty of his colleagues, comprising most of the leading professionals of the country and headed by Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Jock Hutchison and Jim Barnes.

No Change In Bowling

Milwaukee, Wis., March 28.—(By the A. P.)—The leaders in the singles and doubles events of the American Bowling congress tournament remained unchanged throughout the day's hammering of the pins. Jimmy Smith, Milwaukee, former world's champion bowler, made a strong bid for entrance into the first five in the singles when he totalled 683 on games of 213, 237 and 237. Smith had hard luck in all three of his games, leaving eight strikes and drawing two splits.

The highest scorers in the doubles were those of H. Driechler and G. Miller of Milwaukee, with 1,348 pins to their credit.

PRINCE OF WALES BETS WITH ANOTHER ACCIDENT

London, March 28 (By the A. P.)—The Prince of Wales' love for steeplechasing is beginning to cause public anxiety, owing to the frequency with which he meets mishap. Wales himself, however, makes light of the sacks.

The Evening Standard today says wide comment has been provoked in society circles and that the feeling prevails that the prince's advisers should persuade him, in view of the responsibility of his position, to confine himself to hunting, leaving the jumps for other people.

The heir apparent had another mishap today when, participating with Prince George in the Melton steeplechases and riding in the Ladies' plate, his mount, "Little Christy," was brought down by the balking of another horse at the seventh fence. After making six unsuccessful attempts to get his mount over, Wales gave up.

The prince also for the first time competed against professional jockeys in an open race, and came in fourth after a narrow escape from being unseated.

TAFTVILLE SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY AT ANSONIA

Although Ansonia was drawn to play against Taftville in Taftville on Good Friday, they have made special inducements for the Taftville soccer team to go to Ansonia on that day, offering $100 and half the gate receipts. Secretary Robert Brooks has accepted the offer, and the game will be played in Ansonia instead of on the Providence street grounds as had been scheduled. After their lively victory last Saturday, the local boys are feeling in great spirits and feel sure that they can duplicate their last Saturday's record with one just as good. A large number of fans from Taftville and surrounding villages will probably accompany the team.

HOW COULD HE FUMBLE WITH HAND LIKE THAT?

Walter (Rube) Lutzke, new Cleveland third baseman, has a hand more like a scoop shovel. Here are the measurements:

Tip of forefinger to base of wrist, 11 5-8 inches.

Tip of little finger to tip of thumb, fingers spread, 12 1-2 inches.

Width of palm, 5 5-8 inches.

DODGERS ACQUIRE GREAT PINCH HITTER IN FOURNIER

In Jacques Fournier the Brooklyn Dodgers obtained one of the best pinch hitters in the National league. Last season Manager Hickey called on the first baseman to pinch hit in 19 games. Fournier delivered five hits, one sacrifice and drew five passes. He drove in four tallies and his batting mark as a pinch hitter was .417. Manager Robinson of the Brooklyns was after Fournier for a long time and he will be the Brooklyns' regular first sacker when the season starts.

HOW TO CHEAT SPITBALL RULE

Despite the fact that the spitter in the American league is taboo, except for veterans who were using it before the restraining legislation was passed, more than one illegal spitter was thrown in the league last year.

The "cheaters" in point do not touch their fingers to their lips to anoint the ball, as is the custom; they rub their fingers across their perspiring brows, get all the moisture they want, and then cut loose.

Naturally they get the same effect as if the saliva had been used. It is no easy task for the umpire to catch them at it unless warned in advance.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to the Bulletin)

Leesburg, Fla., March 29—Where the Phillies of 1922 will find themselves on the percentage ladder when the pennant campaign is ended no person on this earth has any license to predict. They are not likely to be first; they are even less likely to be last, and they are quite likely to make a lot of trouble between the two extremities.

There are several reasons why the National League club of the City of Brotherly Love has become colorful; has developed a fighting spirit that bodes no comfort or rest for the enemy. First and foremost among these reasons is a young man with a protruding chin that indicates belligerency—Arthur Fletcher. A graduate of the McGraw school and a believer in the efficacy of the word f-i-g-h-t as the slogan for a ball club, the Phillies' new field director has a team that will be the surprise of the league, so far as "zip" goes.

No longer will the Phillies accept a punch in the right eye and say: "Friend, you have overlooked my perfectly good left optic." A sock in the eye or on any tender part of the anatomy of the Fletcher-inspired athletes this year will mean trouble aplenty for the socker.

How much the Phillies have with which to fight successfully is problematical. But that they will fight with all the resources at their command, and with courage and enthusiasm, is the surest thing on this planet. For the man who tries to jazz his way through a season with the watchful eye of Arthur Fletcher constantly upon him will be all-fired sorry.

The old spirit is in the air at Leesburg, where the Phillies are preparing for the campaign. Not since the days of C. Sebastian Doolin and Patrick Moran has there been such a let-us-at-'em attitude. Fletcher is not a "rider" of athletes. He is not a clubhouse orator of the Rickey type. But he says what he has to say briefly, and when that lower jaw is set and sticks out like the electric "stop" signal of a motor on a dark night—well, take it from one who watched the effect, those Phil b. b. bullies jump.

Holke Brainy Player

Therefore, we shall now present the second reason why the Phillies will look heaps better to baseball customers this year. It is the revamped infield. Walter Holke, on first base, is another player who studied is the McGraw school and who fits in with Manager Fletcher's ideas perfectly. Holke, purchased from Boston, is not a star in the making. He is a veteran who has been through many hard campaigns and who knows the ways of the baseball world. He fields well, bats hard and timely and uses his brains and his heart in conjunction with his hands and feet.

In fact, at the spring camp Holke was regarded as the man who had added most to the club in the way of spirit and morale. The most widely advertised among the new toilers is J. Heine Sand, who arrived from Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League with a $40,000 price tag attached to him. Heine may prove to be the find of the season. It is too early to present a fair and impartial verdict.

Captain Goldie Rapp at third base needs no introduction to National League people. He never has been a leader in the average lists afield or a'bat. But what Fletch thinks of him as an aggressive ball player and a player among athletes is shown by the fact that the first official act of the new manager was to name Goldie captain.

Frankie Parkinson, the hard-working second-sacker, rounds out the Phils' regular infield. The fact that Parkie led all second basemen of his league last year in chances accepted (as well as in errors) proves that he is in there every minute. And his hitting is satisfactory.

All baseball folks know that the Phillies have an outfield trio that ranks with the best. Curt Walker, who batted .337; Cliff Lee, whose average was .323, and Cy Williams, who slapped out twenty-six home runs in getting for himself a percentage of .508, will do the gardening offensively and defensively in a manner that will satisfy Fletcher, and would be pleasing to several other big league managers.

Henline Can Wield Old Bat

No National League club has the superior of Butch Henline as a maskman. That lad, playing in 135 games, batted .316 last season. And he exudes pepper to such a degree that opponents always have the kerchief ready for an epidemic of sneezes when they stand in close proximity to him at the plate. If Lady Luck is kind to Fletcher, and bars the gate when old Isaac Injury approaches the back-stopping baron, there will be no occasion for Art to worry one iota about his catching job this year.

Mickey O'Brien, small in stature, but with a good arm and the ability to hit, who comes from the Portsmouth club of the Virginia League; Jimmy Wilson, who caught good ball for New Haven in the Eastern League last year, and Charley Connelly, from Kansas City, are the three mittmen who desire to understudy Henline. All have something to recommend them.

But if Henline improves until he is the greatest catcher in the big leagues beyond a shadow of doubt, and his assistants prove exceptionally capable, there must be pitchers who can baffle opposing batsmen and hurl the complete nine innings if the Phillies are to climb the b. b. ladder. And there is the rub!

Lee Meadows, a mighty clever curver despite his spectacles when his right arm is loose and free from aches, is not complaining this spring. And when Lee is smiling and throwing the apple each day at the spring camp there is hope. If Meadows is right, as he may be, Fletcher will have cause to be merry.

Jimmy Ring and Wilbur Hubbell are what might be referred to as gluttons for punishment. No person will dare to say they did not go to the hill often enough last year—Ring won twelve and lost eighteen; Hubbell won seven and lost fifteen. And Wilbur had to overcome the effects of a pitched ball which cracked his skull. Huck Betts was farmed to Salt Lake last year, but may be ready to go in fast company this year. The same may be said of Jess Winters.

But among the left-handers are two, possibly three, men who are prized by Fletcher. These are Lefty Weinert, Lerton Pinto and Clarence Mitchell. The latter was obtained from Brooklyn. Uncle Robbie thought he was sending the Phils a used pitcher who might be developed into a first sacker or utility outfielder because of his hitting. Art intends to use Mitch as a pitcher first.

Pete Behan, who was loaned to the Hamilton club of the M. and O. League last year and won twenty-one games, and Ralph Head, who won sixteen games for the sixth-place Hartford club of the Eastern League, are other right-handers who may be wipe by the time Pat Regan finishes with their daily training camp lessons.

Jamaica Kid, colored light heavyweight, will have it out with Tut Jackson in a return match of 12 rounds to be decided at Springfield, O., April 4.

Lack of natatorium facilities is the chief handicap of the swimming squad. The fund required to complete the swimming pool in the Michigan Union building still lacks $15,000.

William Kukelik, a former Cleveland West Tech man, gained the distinction of being Ohio State's best all-around athlete in the indoor intramural festival held recently at State.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, is attempting to arrange a game with a major league club in an effort to obtain a left-hand pitcher before the season opens.

Ocean City has a new seashore tennis organization with 24 courts and an English pro. An unusual invitational tournament will be held in July bringing leading players from all parts of the country.

Fergus Reid, Jr., center on the Yale hockey team, who suffered serious injury to his right eye and a broken nose when he was struck in the face by the puck in a game with Princeton will recover without ill effects.

Eddie Oyer, versatile athlete from Rice Institute of Houston, is being touted in the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals as a possible George Sisler. He can play various positions, can pitch, hit and is fast of foot.

Everett Scott, brilliant shortstop of the New York Yankees, will reach his goal of playing 1,000 consecutive games early in the 1923 campaign unless some unforseen slip of fate intervenes.

Benjamin Block, of New York, whose horse Morvich, won the Kentucky derby last year, is planning to capture the big race this year with Aspiration, which was bought for his account by Jack Baker.

Thomas L. Morris of Pittsburgh, who imported the bull terrier, Gwent Graphite, completed his American championship at Harmsburg show. He also won two English championship certificates.

Mlle. Lenglen does not intend to revisit America. She can't stand the climate for one thing and furthermore she contends that English players are better than Americans, so why come to America?

Jack Dempsey won't box on a flat guarantee basis any more, and he has a most excellent reason for it. He lost $300,947 on the Carpentier fight because he fought on a guarantee instead of a percentage basis.

The daschund world is exercised over the long-haired variety of the breed, which is evident since the war. Fanciers of the smooth daschund have petitioned to have the long-haired ones registered in "any other foreign breed."

Joe Jeannette, one of the great colored heavyweights of 12 or 15 years ago, has been licensed to serve as a referee in New York. He is the first colored man to be thus honored, and, it is understood, will officiate at colored clubs.

An English cricket team composed of players from Oxford, Cambridge, the Foresters and including one of two members of the British Parliament, is due to arrive in Canada the latter part of August. They will tour the Dominion.

An odd fact in connection with John Schutz, wrestling coach at the Naval Academy for the last eight years and the most successful mentor of college wrestlers in the country, is that he has never wrestled a bout in competition in his life.

Commodore Jarvis of the Royal Canadian Yacht club of Toronto has entered his schoner yacht Haswell in the New York Bermuda race June 13. It promises to be one of the feature races of the year, as 20 crafts have entered.

There have been so many changes in the Red Sox since last year that it is difficult to get a true line on their 1923 strength. The only thing certain about them is that they can't do much worse than their 1922 combination.

Jack Renault, heavyweight champion of Canada, who offered to fight Luis Firpo for nothing, has been matched to box Martin Burke of New Orleans in a 10-round setto at the Motor Square Garden in Pittsburgh, April 2.

Foreign women representatives of tennis have been invited to compete in the United States this year for the Wightman Cup. This trophy was donated several years ago by Mrs. Wightman but has not been competed for since it was offered for international competition.

Fred Schemanske, Detroit sand lot star last year, is certainly a great prospect. Cobb thinks after one year of seasoning the big fellow will be ready to return to the Tygers. Gillman is another hurler who is a great prospect. Cobb thinks after one year markable knuckle ball.

Pancho Villa, former flyweight champion, won an easy decision over Willie Darsey of New York in a 12-round bout at the State Armory at Waterbury Saturday night. Peter August, lightweight champion of Connecticut, won a hair-line decision over Elino Flores in a brisk bout.

Johnny St. Angelo, who was traded by New Haven for Outfielder Nate Maihos of the Wilson, N. C., club, isn't tickled over joining his new outfit and is out with the announcement that he would prefer semi-professional ball rather than play in the Virginia League.

Following the footsteps of his countryman, Georges Carpentier, who came to this country and captured the world's heavyweight championship several years ago, Eugene Criqui of France, holder of the European featherweight title, arrived here Saturday aboard the liner Paris in quest of pugilistic laurels here.

The youngster—he's 20 years of age—expects to fill out, but as he is, he is said to have a lot of steam in his bones.

Old man hard luck has stepped right up and caressed the Brown baseball team on the spot where it hurts the most. With the first game of the season only two weeks away it looks as if the Brunonians would not be able to get in more than a week's practice before that game with Connecticut State.

The aim of Claude Jonnard, young Giant hurler, at San Antonio this spring is the development of a curve ball. The Giant youngster has a fast ball which is second to none in the National league, but efforts to induce him to throw a hook now and then have produced disappointing results in the past.

Invitations from Sweden and France for American teams to visit those countries this year were declined by the U. S. N. L. T. A. for the purposes of concentrating efforts on a European invasion in 1924, when leading men and women tennis players of this country will take part in the Olympic tournaments in Paris in addition to other Continental events.

Can a good golfer be a good curler? It may never have occurred to you, but anyway the question was answered at a recent two-rink match of golfers of the Country club and the Senneville club, both in Montreal. Each golfer was also a member of either the St. Andrews or Thistles Curling clubs and teams were tators agreed that it can be done successfully.

Harvard's baseball team may visit Japan in July in case the University of Waseda shall be able to entertain the team at that time. The Japanese challenged the Crimson for a series of 14 games in Japan and asked that they leave this country in May, which is impossible. Only word that a later date is agreeable will cause Harvard to accept.

The Yale baseball squad, twenty-two strong with coaches and trainers left New Haven Saturday for sunny climes aboard the Colonial Express. Bernie Tommers, the coach, is taking seven pitchers, three catchers, one first baseman, two shortstops, two third basemen and five outfielders. The squad will arrive at Macon, Ga., tonight and will play the first of seven games with Oglethorpe university on Tuesday.

by DAVID CORY

A Hurry Call For Doctor Quack.

When Uncle Lucky toots his horn
On his speedy Luckmobile,
There isn't a person dares to stay
Within a mile of the broad highway.
For goodness me! Those wheels of steel
Go round and round, like a big pin wheel.

And now, let's wait a minute while I think just where we left off in the last story, for I got so excited when my typewriter made up this little poem that I almost forgot Uncle Lucky was coming down the street in his Luckymobile.

Well, anyway, as soon as Uncle Lucky saw Little Jack Rabbit, he said: "Jump in and take a ride with me." And after that they drove away and pretty soon, not so very long, they came in sight of Dr. Quack's house, the famous duck doctor, you know. There he stood on the front porch with his little black bag in his hand.

"Haven't you heard?" asked the good doctor.

"Of course, not," said the old gentleman rabbit. "Do you think I'm asking questions for fun?" but before Doctor Quack could answer, the telephone bell rang inside the house and Mrs. Quack looked out of the door and said:

"Jump into the Luckymobile," said the old gentleman rabbit 'and we'll take you there in less than five hundred short seconds."

"Goodness me! How they did go and it wasn't long before they came to the bridge that crossed a little river just this side of Mrs. Mousie's house. But, Oh dear me! Just as they got there, the bridge fell down and Uncle Lucky had to put on the brakes so hard, that before anybody could say "Winky Pinky" the Luckymobile stopped just like that, and out went Dr. Quack with his little black bag, into the river.

"Never mind me," he called back, "I can swim," and he paddled for the other shore like a ferryboat over to Brooklyn when Grandpa was a boy, and pretty soon he waddled up to the bank and knocked on Mrs. Mousie's door. No sooner had he given her a green cheese pill and three drops of peppermint water than she was well enough to play upon the piano, and she would have played the Victrola only she couldn't find any needles and that was because her little grandson had driven them into the floor with a big hammer. Wasn't that too bad! And now, as I have no more space to tell you about the two little rabbits you will have to wait until tomorrow morning to hear what happened after that.

HIGHWAY BUILDING.

For the purpose of enlightenment a conference of state highway executives was called by the governor of Pennsylvania. The idea was to get together and discuss road building from its various angles for the benefit that might be derived from the experiences and practices of others. It was not a conference that could do anything more than set forth ideas. If they were found to be worthy of adoption or passing along, well and good. There was a chance to help the other fellow and the possibility of getting worthwhile suggestions.

As the result of the exchange of viewpoints it is noteworthy that the 11 state highway executives reached the unanimous conclusion that the construction of roads and the selection of routes ought to be entirely separated from politics. It is not a new idea, but one which gains strength wherever there is experienced the bad and costly results of politics in connection with the solving of highway problems. Serving political demands rather than the best interests adds to the difficulties of obtaining that efficiency in connection with road construction that those who pay the bills have a right to expect.

When the conference also directs attention to the importance of maintenance work in connection with the construction of highways it points to a vital matter. Better roads have meant the expenditure of vast sums of money and yet unless attention is given to the upkeep of such roads while they are showing the results of wear that expenditure is to a large degree wasted and the ultimate cost of repairs made much greater than need be.

And when it comes to the question of maintenance there is always emphasized the value of building the best type of roads and the prevention of much waste through the investment in those of the permanent type, while a proper oversight and protection is insisted upon for all kinds.

THE SHIPOWNERS' ADVICE.

When the shipping board is told by the shipowners' association, whose advice was sought, that the government ought to get out of the business, dispose of its vessels that are worth selling at such a sum as can be obtained and scrap the rest, it is unquestionably blunt advice given from the standpoint of ship operators and for the purpose of ending the losses that are being occasioned by the government operation of the merchant marine as well as the competition which private owners are now experiencing from government activities.

It is possible to look upon it also as a reflection of the refusal of congress to act upon the ship subsidy measure, which would have treated American shipping in much the same way that other countries give encouragement to the operation of ships. The advice cannot be regarded as unexpected. It may reflect the views of the big ship owners but it deals with only one angle. The owners are telling what they believe as ship owners ought to do. They are not concerned over the matter of a merchant marine. There are other handicaps in the way of their business, including existing laws which make it difficult to compete with foreign shipping, but they would like to see government competition end and they see how it could be ended and economy effected for the government under their proposal.

From the standpoint of the government and the shipping board there is the question of a merchant marine which must be reckoned with. It cannot be thrown overboard after such large outlays. We cannot dispose of our ships at a forced sale and still have a merchant marine to call upon in case of an emergency. We have too vivid a memory of the scramble for ships only a few years ago to disregard that.

Nevertheless it is well to know how the shipowners feel and to understand what they would do if they could deal with the situation solely as shipowners. It is one side of the situation which may offer some aid in determining the future course of the board which has more ships on its hands than it knows what to do with.

M'ADOO BUCKS WILSON.

Even though there have been evidences of a break between former President Wilson and former Secretary McAdoo in the past, it is possible to regard it with more certainty now as the result of the fact that the latter has urged the governor of Colorado to appoint a son of former Senator Shafroth to the junior senatorship from that state, following the appeal by Mr. Wilson that the governor name his friend, Huston Thompson, as the successor of the late Senator Nicholson. Whether they are working against each other in connection with the control of the democratic party, it is certain that they are not working hand in hand. The very fact that both have made such strong appeals in this direction gives basis for the feeling that they are not working along similar channels, that Mr. Wilson is not building up a McAdoo machine and that Mr. Adoo is not supporting the indicated desire of his father-in-law to dominate the party.

As the situation develops the governor of Colorado must disappoint someone. He isn't going to be able to fill this vacancy and satisfy all who make requests for the naming of their particular friends. Perhaps he welcomes this interest in his responsibilities, and perhaps he doesn't. He may take the view that he is thoroughly competent to do his own choosing, that he knows his Colorado and he knows who should be named for the good of the democratic party in that state.

With two party men of prominence, whether striving for leadership or not, endeavoring to pull wires for the man they want, it is certainly made easier for Governor Sweet to decline to appoint either and name the man he desires, especially if he is, as is understood, favorable to someone other than urged by the two appeals from the east.

With Messrs Wilson and McAdoo dipping into the situation in Colorado others may be encouraged to do likewise until it becomes a merry contest among those from without the state seeking to tell Colorado what to do. The quicker the governor settles the matter the quicker will he escape what many would consider an undesirable sarcone.

UNCOLLECTED VICTORY NOTES.

It seems a bit hard to realize that there are those owning $86,000,000 worth of Victory notes that were called for redemption three months ago who have failed to collect their money, even though the interest stopped last December 15. It may indicate a realization of the fact that the government is good for it when they need the money, but the desirability of overcoming the loss that is involved through permitting the money to lie idle ought to manifest itself.

If there is a lack of confidence in other investments, or a lack of understanding as to the method of procedure to take advantage of them, the beneficial results of collecting the notes and depositing the money in well established savings institution ought not to be disregarded.

Even if there is a partiality for government securities, it should be remembered that there are Liberty bonds and other government issues that the money could be invested in so that it would be bringing some return instead of remaining dormant like the buried talents.

Except that the government is unable to clear up the transaction it suffers no loss. Of the total amount not yet cashed there may be many of the bonds that have been lost or destroyed and from which nothing will ever be heard, but those who are holding bonds that have been called for no reason whatever probably do not realize that of the total unpaid notes they are losing about $10,000 in interest each day. The money should be at work instead of remaining idle. As it is now it isn't helping the government.

PERSECUTION IN RUSSIA.

Appeals from many sources are ding directed to the soviet government in Russia for the purpose of preventing the execution of the prelates of the Catholic church who have been sentenced to death. What effect they will have remains to be seen, but even if their lives are spared there is no mistaking the attitude of the bolshevik government against religious leaders a and churches. In this instance it happens to be the representatives of the Catholic. At other times it has been certain dignitaries in the Russian Orthodox church, while it is equally well known what the sentiment has been toward the Jews in Russia for a much longer period.

Soviet Russia may take the position that it is not seeking recognition from others, but whatever its desires on that point it cannot fail to be realized that it is not improving its prospects with other nations when it takes such a stand and indicates that the religious activities are going to be directed by the bolsheviki or blood is going to be spilled.

Whatever may be said about the improved conditions that exist in soviet Russia, and how changed it is from the early days of bolshevism, it becomes evident that it is not being borne out when the world is being notified of such persecutions.

In view of the persistent refusal of this country to recognize soviet Russia it is uncertain how much influence the efforts of this government may have in stopping the executions, but it is certain that the manifestation of such an attitude on the part of the soviets only strengthens the opposition to the recognition of that government.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Some people can never see the justice of being obliged to pay back the money they borrow.

That New Jersey town treasurer who returned 60 per cent of his salary is a man after the heart of Worcester's mayor who vetoed an increase in his own salary.

With Philadelphia's morgue receiving 200 victims of poisonous whiskey in three months, and the latest report showing five in a day, it is readily seen what defiance of prohibition will do.

How hard it is to correct a little slip is shown in the case of sugar. A resume of the commerce department's report failed to take into consideration the excess from the previous year and even though immediate steps were taken to change the report it helped to boost sugar and all kinds of false ideas concerning the situation.

"I know what's the trouble with Concertina Flapp," said the girl whose hair simply would not stay in curl. "She has delusions of beauty. If you have delusions of grandeur they put you in a sanatorium, but for some reason they do not confine cases like Concertina's. I don't see why!"

"Why everybody says she's a pretty girl," objected the young man who was beginning to fall for Concertina.

"I don't like her nose," sweetly offered the dear little thing who had had hopes of the young man up to this time. "Of course, her eyes are rather nice, although blue eyes always fade out so—and it is just a shame everybody thinks she blondes her hair! I am almost sure she doesn't! And since she took to that purplish rouge she is kind of startling to look at if you have quiet tastes. Otherwise I should say Concertina was rather pretty."

"It would be all right if Concertina would be content to exist as merely pretty, which she is," pointed out the girl whose hair would not stay in curl. "But she is convinced that she is beautiful, and that throws everything out of gear. If you are really beautiful that is enough and you don't have to bother about anything else. When a girl is beautiful the whole world breaks its neck to do things for her—and Concertina insists on that attention, continually raising rows. She is surprised at its failure to materialize—just as Queen Victoria would have been had she failed to find a chair directly as she was accustomed to doing, without looking around to see whether it was safe.

"It would not be so bad if Concertina did not insist on people's knocking their heads upon the ground three times whenever she passed. She walks into a crowded room with the air of gracious expectation of gasps of surprise and adoration and when the population keeps right on with their bridge or gossip or their magazines she has to take it out on somebody—"

"I wonder!" burst out the impressionable young man, who had begun to fall for the young person under discussion. "Do you know, last night when I went up to her just after her arrival at the club she nearly bit my head off, but I thought it was because I was too abrupt in my haste."

"Don't you ever think it!" promptly cautioned the dear little thing, who had hopes of him. "It was just her shocking temper—why, didn't you know about Concertina's temper? When things don't go to suit her she makes the welkin ring! I think it—"

"Whenever Concertina sits down on a chair-longue," pursued the girl whose hair refuses to stay in curl, "she has visions of Mme. Recamier. You can see it in her eyes. The trouble is that nobody else can see the resemblance, and she can't very well hoist a placard. Fancy how annoying to be playing a character which nobody recognizes! Just as she is imagining she looks like a water lily some rude individual is apt to remark casually that she has too much powder on her nose, and, for goodness' sake, wipe it off! It is just impossible to imagine Recamier mopping off her perfect countenance and the whole situation is practically ruined.

"Any woman could tell when she arrived three hours getting into her costume and had nearly cracked the mirror by its steady use. In other words, she expected to knock 'em dead when she floated in. And all that they did was to say, 'Hello, Concertina,' and go right on raving about the girl who was visiting the Picklesmiths and who had made a real sensation! I just know she's read somewhere about the compelling power of beauty —and that's why she goes around waiting for hers to compel and having hysterics in the bosom of her family because it doesn't!"

"Blonds never wear well, anyhow," dreamily remarked the dear little thing with hopes of the young man, patting her own raven locks. "Poor Concertina is beginning to show her age. Why, where are you going, Mr. Stemper?"

"Er—I had a sort of date to drop around and see Concertina this evening," the young man admited. "I wouldn't want to disappoint her—that is, she said when I asked that maybe she would be in, so I think I'll be going on!"

"Well!" snapped the dear little thing who had hopes of him when the door closed, "there certainly are some men who would go around the block to find a hangman's noose and run their necks into it." —Exchange.

Wives of Famous Men

Marie Laurent, Wife of Louis Pasteur.

When Louis Pasteur, the famous French scientist who discovered how to sterilize milk without boiling it, was only 27 years old he accepted the professorship of chemistry in Strasebourg. He didn't know, when he went to that city, that a great deal more than a means of livelihood awaited him there. As one of his biographers puts it, "Friendship met him at the threshold and Love was waiting for him just across it."

Pasteur knew Marie Laurent only a month when he sent his formal proposal of marriage to her father, who was the rector of the academy. The quiet and pure simplicity of the Laurent home appealed to him, for it reminded him of his own home in Arbois. Pasteur was a very ambitious young man, which is most clearly shown in his letter of proposal:

"• • • All that I possess is good health, good principles and my position at the university. • • • My ambition is to return to Paris when my scientific work shall have given me a reputation."

We do not wonder that a man who realized his material limitations and was willing to devote all his efforts to make a success of what he had chosen as his life work should have reached such a high place among the world's scientists. But his wife's part in his success was as important as his own. Without her, he could never have accomplished what he did, for she not only helped him where she could, but she removed material cares from his path. Without her he would have broken down under the tremendous strain to which he subjected himself unsparingly. In writing of his career it is necessary to write of them as one, to tell of his life is to tell of hers. And his success was her crowning glory. She lived only for her husband and his career. They were ideally happy and although she loved him passionately she never once demanded that he give her any of the time which he decided should be devoted to science.

Pasteur lived to be 73 years old and of these 46 were spent with his wife. All the wonders that he wrought for humanity were discovered after he was married, and he frequently said that every one of those great achievements was as much Marie Pasteur's as it was his own.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Satisfaction with the election of Miss Ada L. Comstock, present dean of Smith college, as president of Radcliffe college of Harvard University, is expressed generally by the faculty and friends of that institution. Miss Comstock became widely known in academic work in 1909 as the first dean of woman at the University of Minnesota. Since 1921 she has been president of the American Association of University Women. A native of Moorhead, Minn., she studied for two years at the state university, then transferred to Smith college, where she graduated in 1897. In 1899 she received a master's degree from Columbia University. She then returned to the University of Minnesota, and in 1909 became a professor of English. In all of the positions she has filled Miss Comstock has shown much ability in organizing and advancing the educational interest of women.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Urges Proper Marking of "Deserter's Grave" in Lebanon.

Mr. Editor: "Way down south in the land of cotton, old times there are not forgotten," and memory bells chimed, sweetly, as I perused The Norwich Bulletin of March 5th.

Born in Lebanon, one cannot fail to be interested in the dear, old historic town and "Joe" Stedman has for years, been making research along its lines of history.

We are not surprised at his present attempt to have a monument erected over the "French deserter's" grave, whose name was handed down as "Lowjerr." However, I do not vouch for that. Rev. James Fitch, who labored among the Indians, with Captain Mason was one of the prime movers in settling Lebanon, Connecticut, and secured it for the Bible Lebanon, as, at that time, "Lebanon Green" was well wooded with cedars.

He was the fifth great-grandfather of the Rev. L. E. Livermore, late of Lebanon, whose mother's name was Stacy Fitch. His interest in Lebanon was very great and he maintained the attitude of pity for the "French deserter."

He said, "It is not probable that he would have left home and native land and cross the sea and fight for our country if he were not loyal."

"That he would never for any petty reason have crossed the boundary line, as a deserter.

So confident was he that he merited grateful remembrance, that he corresponded with parties in France to learn more about him.

While failing to gain anything tangible, he still held his resting place, as of one whose aim was to save our nation.

He felt his grave should have a monument.

Some may remember a long letter in a New York paper, written many years ago, by Jay Edwards, former of Norwich, whose father kept a book store about where the Porteous and Mitchell Co. now have their store.

Mr. Edwards was a near relative of Judge Hebard's wife, of Lebanon. He told him the "deserter's" story and about Prudence Strong.

Miss Hebard, before marriage, was Miss Strong and Prudence—the fair maiden—was her relative. She never supposed "Jay" was going to put it in a New York paper, and very unpleasant she felt when it appeared, and I know she would, were she living.

Miss Hebard was a warm friend of mine, and I know would I admire.

While Mr. Hebard received the confidence perhaps it may prove helpful in securing some kind of a marker for "Lowjerr's" grave.

It seems as though over the line concerning some lawyer has gone of the French forces, a secret, for the time being, for their temper, which being otherwise interpreted cost him his life.

When sentenced to be shot, he gave the papers to Miss Prudence Strong, his fiance.

She placed them over her heart and hastened in a heavy snow storm to the four ounce in Lebanon, to secure his pardon, of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, George Washington called him "Brother Jonathan."

She pled his cause as love impelled to, and added, "I had papers here, that he was confided to me that would prove his innocence."

An officer advanced as though he would take them from her, and instantly she darted up the stairway and secreted them safely.

Papers were found there when the Sons of the Revolution took possession of the war office. Some were in fine condition—others mutilated and still others in fragments.

The desired ones were not found. Rats and mice had made havoc since the Revolution.

Returning to Gov. Trumbull, after hiding them, she again implored the governor to pardon her soldier lover. Gov. Trumbull granted her request, and gave the pardon to a soldier, to deliver to the executing officer, telling him to first escort Miss. Prudence home, through the blinding storm and darkness of the night.

On reaching there she served him some "hot flip" to prepare him to go out again in the tempestuous element.

On leaving her he was overcome by the drink he had indulged in and failed to deliver the pardon.

Before the sun rose next morning, Prudence was a happy maiden until the long rays began to slant athwart Lebanon Green, when she heard the report of a gun; instantly, as though her heart had been the target, she instinctively felt her lover was shot! Her fears proved all to true.

It is not for us to try to portray her grief. Those who have loved and lost, can imagine how her joy was exchanged for mourning.

When Lebanon was marked with historical guideboards they made a futile attempt to mark Louyen's grave. Indeed, the marker is not even on his grave!

Those who imparted correct information were some of Lebanon's oldest inhabitants, such as Judge Hebard, Miss Julia Mason, Timothy and Eliza Ann Jackson, also an aged colored man, named Edward Gardiner—nicknamed "Maj. Garner."

There are daughters of the Jackson family, a short distance from the grave, to whom the spot has been pointed out, by their parents and is deemed authentic.

Hence the following: Standing at the entrance of the Thayer driveway, facing the east, diagonally from your left hand across the street, on the east bank of the street side, is a small pile of stones, there rests one whom we have came to believe was noble and brave.

Although the present marking is over a larger pile of stones, by the road side, with the appellation of "Deserter's Grave" it will prove a mislead for all time, unless the public arouses to mark the right spot!

Lebanon has done much to guide the "history-hunter" in his research, and may they not fail of this one interesting spot being well marked for the rising generations to visit.

If Gov. Jonathan Trumbull deemed "The Deserter" worthy of pardon cannot a suitable marker be erected to his memory?

Stories That Recall Others

The Flapper Knew.

Something had happened. Someone has been injured. A crowd gathered around a fallen man on the sidewalk. He writhed and then stiffened, exhibiting the symptoms of a person having an epileptic fit.

"Naw, he's a Bulgarian," corrected a flapper, disgustedly shifting a wad of chewing gum the better for argument.

An Effective Compliment.

She is a most agreeable and attractive young business woman, who has fallen into the habit of giving all sorts of presents to the paper boy. One day she gave him a pair of warm gloves, and he racked his brain for suitable thanks for her.

Finally he said: "Lady, I'm glad the likes of you is an old maid. If you were married and your boys sold papers, and being anything like yourself, the rest of us kids would have to go out of business."

The business woman says that was the best compliment she ever received.

What's a Coil, Anyway?

Proving the oft repeated assertion that a flivver will go regardless of whether it has an engine. A proud owner—for the moment chagrined—limped into a service station and begged repair remedy. He suggested coils and the man tested all four of them. Then he started the motor and it ran, but a bit unevenly. He inspected various parts and scratched his head in perplexity. A grin appeared and the repair man ambled over to his bench and replaced the two coils he had forgotten.

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said at last that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and give it all the praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a persistent and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c

TRYING TWO SUITS JOINTLY AGAINST DANIELSON MAN

Before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning trial was begun in the suits of Simon Green of New London for $4,000 and Margaret M. Purtell of New London for $10,000 against John F. Lewis of Danielson. The suits follow an automobile accident and are being tried jointly.

Green claims that on the night of Aug. 23, 1920, between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock he was driving his Overland sedan automobile toward New London when at a point in the southern part of the town of Montville, his machine was struck and capsized by an automobile of the defendant. The plaintiff alleges that he was thrown out and severely injured about the head, body and limbs and his automobile almost wholly demolished.

Mrs. Purtell who was a passenger in the Green machine was thrown out after the collision. She claims that she received severe external and internal injuries.

The defendant denies the allegations of the plaintiffs and has a counter claim of $700 against each of the plaintiffs alleging that the Green car struck his machine while it was being carelessly driven at a fast rate of speed. The plaintiffs deny the counter claim.

Attorneys John C. Geary and Arthur T. Keefe are counsel for the plaintiff and Attorney C. H. Hull appears for the defendant.

The jury selected to try the cases is as follows: William F. Murphy, John F. Cullen, William H. Faltourte of this city, Cyrus Avery, Carroll H. Bliven, Rollin R. Burrows and George R. FIVE COMMISSIONERS SHOW AFTER OPENING MAIN ST. STATION BIDS

Bids to purchase the Main street fire station, which had been advertised for sale by the fire commissioner, were opened by them Wednesday night at a meeting held in Chief Howard L. Stanton's office at the Central station. The three commissioners, Alderman Assen R. Gruver, Councilman Edward Crooks and W. M. Aldrich, were all present with Chief Stanton, and all declined to give any information as to the bids that had been submitted.

The commissioners said they had nothing to say until they had conferred with Mayor Milo R. Waters and Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., which they expected to do today (Thursday.) They spoke of not knowing whether the bidders were prepared to make deposits to cover their bids, but admitted that no deposits had been called for as a condition of bidding, in the advertisements for bids.

Asked how many bids had been received, they said there were "several," but would not indicate whether this meant half a dozen, more or less.

Asked what the range in prices offered was, their answer was that it was "considerable," but would not say at what figure the began or where it ended.

The Main street fire station is carried in the fire department inventory at $15,000 and is entered in the exempt property tax list at that figure.

Whatever the price realized from its sale, there promises to be a lively contest on what use shall be made of the money. The use to be made of it will have to be decided by a vote in a city meeting in which advocates of the various plans will be lined up in battle array. At least three different factions are said to be after the money.

The resident of Greeneville will be found making a demand for it as they have already put in a petition to the common council that at least part of the money be used to buy a piece of modern apparatus for the Greeneville station. Residnent of the Falls have also petitioned for some of the money to be used for a station and apparatus in that section.

There are others interested in seeing the street department get some of the money, mentioning the need that this department has for a new road roller which would cost $6,000. One city official said Wednesday that if this sum were appropriated for the street department for a road roller, he believed there would still be enough left to buy the apparatus for Greeneville.

MORE BILLS REJECTED THAN HAVE BEEN PASSED

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, March 28—A compilation issued today by the legislative reference service at the state library shows that more bills have been rejected than passed by the general assembly.

The figures include all bills and resolutions acted upon up to this morning's session.

Final action has been taken upon 674 bills, a few more than half of those introduced. Of these 162 senate bills and 274 house bills have been rejected. 104 senate bills and 135 house bills have been passed.

A bill passed today is intended to provide perpetual care of the graves of all veterans, providing that towns and cities shall appoint a person to look after this and pay the expenses.

Chairman Fenton of the committee on military affairs, stated that it had not found graves were neglected in many of the cemeteries in out of the way places and the state and town should see to it that on Decoration Day the graves of our veterans should be placed in a neat condition. The bill was unanimously passed.

Another bill passed increases the number of supreme and superior court judges to eighteen.

Another bill that is of interest to every veteran, passed this morning in the house, reads that "in every public department and upon all public works of this state any honorably discharged soldier, sailor, marine, yeoman or nurse who served in or with the army, navy or marine corps of the United States in time of war, shall be preferred for appointment and employment. Age, loss of limb or other physical impairment, which does not in fact incapacitate, shall not disqualify such person, if he possesses the other requisite qualifications.

Another bill passed in the house is one that will allow town taxes to be paid in two instalments.

An act that is intended to beautify the bare stretches of road that exist where new hihways are sonstructed is the object of the following act passed today. The bill was introduced by Mr. Pierpont of Ridgefield as follows: "Within two years from the completion of any trunk line or state aid highway, the highway commissioner shall cause shade trees to be planted along the bounds of such highway outside of city, borough or village limits, at intervals from thirty to fifty feet, wherever, in his opinion, physical conditions make it practical. Such trees shall be the property of the state.

SHERIFF TAKES WILMINGTON MEN ON EXTRADITION

Frank and Pratt Risley of Wilmington, N. C., who have been in the Norwich jail for more than ten days past were on Wednesday delivered to Deputy Sheriff John H. Howe of Wilmington by Chief George Linton, who had the men brought from jail to police headquarters where their baggage has been held since their arrest.

Sheriff Howe had requisition papers for the two Wilmington brothers and he left with them for New London to catch the federal express, expecting to stop over in Washington on the way. It is 598 miles from New York to Wilmington.

Sheriff Howe had with him the 15 year old son of Sheriff Jackson of Wilmington, a youth 6 feet tall, who saw New York for the first time on his trip here. Asked by Chief Linton if he didn't think New York was quite a place, the young fellow replied, with a rich southern twang, "I reckon it is, but you don't see much of it. You're too much underground."

One of the Risley brothers is charged with transporting liquor and the other with abandoning his child. They were arrested here where they were found living with two women who were not their wives.

NOTICE OF MOTION TO HAVE VERDICT SET ASIDE

Judge A. F. Libby and T. M. Shields filed notice on Wednesday to have the verdict in the case of Moses Klingon vs Colchester Farm Products Co. set aside on the claim that it is against the law and the evidence.

The case was finished and a verdict reached in the superior court at New London Tuesday night, awarding Klingon $4,140.03, and was accepted by Judge Avery.

In the verdict the sum of $3,312.17 was assessed against Isaac Neiseber, H. Gilman, Max Cohen, B. London and Harris B. Minske, and the balance must be collected from Abraham Jaffee and Samuel Gellert.

The first verdict of the jury was against all of the eight defendants, but Judge Avery would not accept it, but said they could find against the Colchester Products Co. On the final verdict the Colchester company was excluded by the jury.

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Luserne A. Fowler of Westfield, Mass., observed their golden wedding anniversary Monday afternoon and evening. They have made their home on the Southwick road, for many years where Mr. Fowler conducts a large farm and is engaged in tobacco raising.

Mrs. Fowler is a native of Birmingham, England. Mr. Fowler was born in Southwick. They have two sons, Leslie F. Fowler of New London, Conn., and Raymond F. Fowler of Southwick.

Probably Not Badly Injured

Figni Lakuski of 464 North Main street, the 3 year old boy who was struck on North Main street Tuesday night when he ran across in front of the automobile of John Carcoran of Taftville is believed not to be badly injured, according to report from the Backus hospital.

WINTER REFUSES TO RELINQUISH IT GRIP

People in Norwich who had put away their heavy underclothes last Friday following a summer-like day wished they had refrained from doing so Wednesday when old man winter came back with a rush just to remind the citizens that he was able to stage a comeback even though the style advocates said itwas a time for Easter bonnets and spring suits.

The thermometer hovered at about 13 degrees above zero in the morning and it stayed cold all day. At noon the mercury, by forced marches, had made the point of 32 and it looked better, but soon afterwards was forced to give ground rapidly. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a blinding snowstorm came tearing into the city pushed by a wind that was exceeding the speed limits by far. The mercury dropped several degrees during the storm and more than one person had things to say either aloud or to himself about "Spring, beautiful spring."

The snow flurry lasted only about a half hour and then cleared but the temperature continued to fall and by 6 o'clock had reached 15 degrees above zero according to thermometers exposed to the wind. Late in the evening the mercury was still trying to sneak back into the little bulb at the bottom of the glass and readings said it was only 10 above zero at midnight.

Weather reports give promise of a warmer weather by this (Thursday) afternoon and Friday.

Autoists stated that the road everywhere were frozen stiff and deep ruts cut into the highway during the recent warm spell made travel difficult and extremely hard on tires. No matter which highway the autoist took leaving the city road conditions were said to be the worst experienced in many a year, and there seemed to be little hope of the travel being better until several weeks of warmer weather ensued.

One man who came down from Central Village Wednesday night said that if he had to make the trip over again, he would leave his automobile in Norwich and go by train as he figured it took more value out of his car to make the trip, than the price of a round trip fare on the trains.

BAKERY OVEN STARTS FOREST STREET FIRE

A break in the oven caused a fire Wednesday night at 7:31 at the bakery shop of Abraham Weisz of 201 West Main street that for a time looked as though it would be of large proportions. Engine No. 5 was called out by telephone when the fire broke out and had a line of hose playing on the fire when the bell alarm was sent in from Box 14, corner of West Main and Forest streets. Upon the arrival of additional companies, another line of hose was laid and the fire was soon put out. The damage was slight, consisting mostly of damage to the ovens, baking utensils that were placed near by, and scorched rafters and ceiling.

The fire started when the ovens were lighted in preparation for the night's baking. A part of the oven caved in and wooden utensils near by, used to pull the loaves of bread from the oven, caught fire and the blaze jumped to other parts of the room. The location of the bakery was such that it was some time before water could be thrown into the source of the fire, but as soon as this was done the blaze was ended.

The building is a one-story brick structure situated behind a wooden frame building and there are wooden buildings on all sides only a few feet distant. With the high wind, had the fire broken through to the outside of the building the firemen would have had a different blaze to contend with. The building is owned by Peter Davis and was not damaged to any extent.

BOTTLE FROM STONINGTON DRIFTS TO VINEYARD HAVEN

A bottle containing the address "Santa Claus, Postoffice Box 301, Stonington, Conn.," was picked up Monday at Vineyard Haven by Percy L. Burt, son of Otis E. Burt, manager of Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler's farm in West Tisbury.

The note in the bottle explained that it had been cast overboard in Long Island sound, just off Fisher's Island. The bottle contained two advertising coupons as "remuneration" for the writing of a letter stating that the bottle had been found. Young Burt wrote to the address Monday night and expects an answer in a few days.

DOG LICENSE TIME; TOWN CLERK HAS TAGS

Canines in Norwich by the first of May must be sporting license tags for 1923 or the owners will be subject to a fine. The tags have arrived and this year are of heart shape. The town clerk will issue them from now on to the first of May at the usual price of $1.25 for male dogs and $10.25 for females.

In 1922 the number of dogs licensed in Norwich was 1,550 and it is expected that fully as many will be needed to supply the four-legged population of Norwich for 1923. Town Clerk Holbrook asks that dog owners coming for licenses for 1923 bring their old licenses with them.

First Copy of Chelsea Courier

Henry Tiede of Groton possesses a copy of the Chelsea Courier, published by Thomas Mabbard of the Norwich Chelsea society, dated November 3, 1796. The paper is the first number of the first volume and is in a good state of preservation. It was found in a closet in the Miller farm house at Quarker Hill, where he formerly resided and he is preserving the paper as a specimen of early American journalism.

CHARLES A. SAXTON IS CHOSEN ROTARY PRESIDENT

At the annual business session of the Norwich Rotary club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel, Charles A. Saxton was elected president by the board of directors and was chosen by the club members present. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Dr. Marion Waymouth; secretary, Clarence A. Speer; treasurer, Hugh P. Wales, sergeant-at-arms, Harold Chapman; directors, Dr. Marion Waymouth, secretary, Clarence A. Speer, treasurer, Hugh P. Wales, sergeant-at-arms, Harold Chapman, Charles A. Saxton, Adelard Morin and Dr. Nelson Weymouth. The other directors were Greeneville Fire, vice president; Dr. Marion Waymouth, secretary, Clarence A. Speer, treasurer, Hugh P. Wales, sergeant-at-arms.

When the newly elected president was escorted to the chair, in a brief speech, thanked the club for the honor conferred upon him, and expressed the hope that he could live up to the good records set by the former occupants of the club members in keeping the club up to the high standard that has prevailed under the past officers.

It was announced at the meeting that the attendance contest that has been in progress since the first of the year had been won by Team No. 3, Alex McNicol, captain. The winning team had only six absentees during the three-months' period while the losing team had 17. During this period there have been three 100 per cent. meetings.

The musical part of the meeting was under the direction of Joseph C. Worth. The new song sheets were distributed and many of the latest song hits were tried out. The members of the school advisory council that were present led by Henry A. Tirrell rendered a selection in pleasing harmony. Henry J. LaFontaine was made a member of his usual fine solos. One new member was extended the right hand of fellowship by President Park.

While the voting was being done for the directors the meeting was turned over to James L. Case, chairman of the Business Methods committee. Mr. Case announced that there would be a discussion on Rotary's influence Upon Efficient Salesmanship, in introducing the speakers of the day Mr. Case said that of the many benefits which Rotary offers to its members, none is more important or of greater value than a consideration of ways and means of producing Better Business Methods. Rotary International has carefully studied this branch of Rotary activity, and at its suggestion occasionally programmes for such purposes are prepared and planned for local clubs. Throughout the country today hundreds of Rotarians are discussing in one form or another. Because of the fact that salesmanship is a most important factor of the business life of every member of this organization, your local committee has arranged for a discussion of this subject, and your consideration of "Rotary's Influence Upon Efficient Salesmanship" will be the topic for this meeting. Your attention will be asked from the standpoint of (a) the "man on the road," (b) from the viewpoint of a merchant, and (c) also as to the attitude the public bears to the question. There are fundamental principles which underlie successful salesmanship, and if, as a result of this meeting, each member present carries away some of the suggestions which will be made by those who will address us, then this meeting shall not have been in vain. The ideals for which Rotary stands, have a direct bearing upon the subject, and in so far as we all apply them in our practical everyday business life, will our sales be increased and our customers receive the service to which they are entitled.

It is not my purpose, continued Mr. Case, to enter into any discussion of the subject, Russell Clapp will speak for the traveling salesman, Adelard Morin for the local merchants, and the attitude of the public will be presented by Henry A. Tirrell, one of our most honored honorary members. I trust that the programme will be received in the spirit in which it is presented, and that the real desire and purpose of your "Business Methods" committee may be accomplished. "Better Salesmanship Means Better Business" should be a slogan of every member of the Norwich Rotary club.

Russell A. Clapp was the first speaker and discussed the subject from the standpoint of the traveling salesman. Mr. Clapp said that every man on the road should have a definite schedule and selling plan. If he is a Rotarian and believes in the principles of Rotary he will realize Rotary and Rotary inspires confidence. It also saves a waste of time, you are accepted by the buyer immediately and do not have to resort to treating or talking on the buyer's pet hobby or any other means to gain his confidence. But Rotary should not be used as a lever in a business way. Rotary embodies all the known principles for good nad it certainly inspires confidence in the trade.

Adelard Morin spoke on Rotary in Business from the merchant's viewpoint. Mr. Morin said that when a merchant opens his doors he assumes the privilege of trading with the public. He also assumes the responsibility of giving the service that is due the public. In the old days merchants labored, under the impression that they were doing the public a favor, but today that has changed and it is seen that it is the public that is favoring the merchant. Every merchant should have the motto of Service Above Self. You do not know when a slight service rendered will be rewarded in a business way. Service is one of the best investments of the merchant today.

Speaking from the viewpoint of the public Mr. Tirrell said that salesmanship was a word that was largely misused. We speak of selling ideas, principles and other things. Salesmanship is the ability to exchange value for value. It is hard to give to the world what it really needs, the world wants value for value. The idea of exchanging value for value is fast surplanting the old way of "let the buyer beware." In any honest transaction the aim should be to give value for value received. The old Yankee art of horse-trading was a game of wits rather than a strict business transaction. Honesty is the best policy is a slogan generally accepted by business today. Rotary is trying to do a little more, it is trying to link the Golden Rule with business. The man can not be a good salesman and a successful one unless he is first a man and a square man.

The speakers were given a hearty vote of appreciation for their splendid talks. A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers and also to George W. Carroll for the souvenir ash-trays that each Rotarian received.

The noonday meeting next Wednesday will be omitted as the usual Ladies' Night will be held in the evening.

SETTLEMENT IN RESERVOIR WOOD CUTTING CASE

It is understood that terms of settlement have been reached in the suit brought by the city of Norwich against Ignatius J. Murphy and Walter W. Lang for $20,000 damages over the wood cutting operations at Fairview and Stony Brook reservoirs several years ago.

What the terms are, attorneys interested in the case would not disclose Wednesday, but said it was practically certain that the case would not come to trial as an agreement had been determined upon, but the city has not yet received any money on the settlement.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Announcement was made Wednesday afternoon by a representative of Carpenters and Joiners' local, No. 623, which includes the journeymen carpenters of Killingly and neighboring communities that wages of these artisans will be advanced on May 1 from 75 cents to 87 1-2 cents per hour. This will restore the scale in effect until a reduction was made in 1921, when there was a nation-wide slump in business and is in line with the present upward trend of wage scales in many lines of industry. The carpenters, in agreement with contractors, accepted a reduction in wages in 1921, in order to adjust the scale to a downward movement of prices in effect during that period, but the situation has so materially changed during the past year that a return to the former scale has seemed necessary and advisable and so notice was given Wednesday that the old rate is to be restored.

Turbulent to the point of violence, March proceeded during Wednesday to demonstrate that it has not been without cause that its reputation for being lion like was obtained. Low temperature, gales and darkened skies, with a wild snowstorm as a special feature of the day—one of the most uncomfortable of the year.

At Woodward's Wednesday morning the minimum mark set by the thermometer was 12 degrees above zero. This was not particularly low, but the cold was made especially difficult to endure because of the prevailing high wind. In the brief period that the snowstorm endured the conditions resembled those experienced during the famous March blizzard of 1888.

Limbs were torn off trees in the borough and throughout the surrounding country and more or less damage done to lines of communication during Wednesday, when the gale was the most severe for months.

Announcement was made Wednesday of the marriage at the Congregational parsonage here Tuesday by Rev. Walter B. Williams of Miss Alice Hill, daughter of Mrs. Frank Eldridge, and Hollis Young. Both bride and groom are residents of the South Killingly section of the town. Mr. Young, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, is employed in Armington's store in Danielson.

There is local interest in the fact that a syndicate of bond houses with headquarters in New York, Boston or Hartford, have announced an issue of $3,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. This issue will produce funds to be used in part in paying for securities of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company and the People's Light and Power company of Danielson recently taken over by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, which has its general offices in Norwich and supplies gas and electricity to many communities in his section of eastern Connecticut.

Cmeo Says Wincarnis Did It

"When I was able to walk around, the doctor said it would be a month or more before I would get back strength. I had pains on both of my sides and around my heart. One evening my brother saw an advertisement of Wincarnis and my mother got me a large bottle.

"By the time I had finished the bottle the pains on my right side were gone. I continued to take Wincarnis and soon the pain on my left side and around my heart disappeared and I quickly became well and strong and was feeling fine long before the time the doctor had said it would take me to get well. All my friends asked me what it was that I was taking that made me look well so quickly."

WAGE INCREASE FOR GROSVENORDALE EMPLOYES

Putnam, March 28.—Notices of advance in wages will be posted this (Thursday) morning at the big mills of the Grosvenordale company, employing 1,300 hands in their plants in the Grosvenordales.

The amount of the advance will not be stated, but it is understood that it will be approximately the same as that recently announced in the worsted woolen mills in this territory. The advance will be effective April 20.

The Grosvenordale company, the largest concern of its kind in this section of eastern Connecticut, is the first of the cotton manufacturing concerns to announce an advance. Agent J. F. Reardon said Wednesday evening that he was very glad that his company was in a position to make an advance in wages and the employes are certain to be delighted when they hear of it this morning.

combination of causes, numbered among them being a decrease in the valuation of live stock and a lessening in number of animals and also depreciation on hundreds of motor vehicles owned in the town.

A shortage of labor is already forecasted for this spring and summer in Danielson and vicinity. With the town's manufacturing plants operating as successfully as they are at present and with higher wage scales in sight and with some of them seeking additional employes, it is not likely that there will be the usual warm weather exodus to follow out of door occupations during the milder periods of the year. This fact will reduce the supply of outside labor and will have a tendency to put a premium upon it. Actually, present indications are that the labor market hereabouts will not be materially different during 1923 in Danielson than was the case during the years of the World War.

Frank E. Young, veteran letter carrier of the force at the Danielson office is off duty as the result of an injury sustained during the icy period. Mr. Young slipped and strained himself severely while covering his route on the West Side. He remained at work for a time, but the injury has proved to be so severe that he has been off duty for a fortnight, Arthur Choquette substituting for him.

Reports given at the annual spring meeting of the Baptist church on Tuesday evening were in every instance and in every sense encouraging. Postmaster Raymond Allen presided at the meeting and Frank Stinson was clerk. The reports showed that all bills of the church have been paid and that a balance remains in the treasury. In each instance reports from the various church departments and societies showed balances in the treasury.

There is little change in the official board of the church from the personnel of last year. In the case of the deacons, E. E. Wilbur was retired at his own request and Everett Colvin was elected in his place. Frank Stinson was reelected clerk and Walter L. Dixon was re-elected treasurer. The board of trustees is changed only in that it has been increased to five members, Raymond Allen being the new member. Raymond Allen was reelected superintendent of the Sunday school and Clinton Cleveland was named as head usher.

Charles Gilligan, 53, died Wednesday afternoon at his home here after an illness of about two months duration. Mr. Gilligan was a native of Providence, born May 14, 1869. He has been a resident of Danielson for a number of years and also lived in Goodyear for a time. For time the family was resident in Washington, D. C., later returning to Danielson. Mr. Gilligan was a textile worker and before his last illness had been employed at Plainfield. He leaves his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Eugene Martin of Washington, D. C., and a step-son, Irving Madden, of Danielson.

Lenten congregations will attend the Holy Thursday services at St. James' church today.

A mission is to be given at St. Joseph's church in Dayville shortly after the close of the Lenten season.

Miss Helen Cronin, student at St. Vincent college on the Hudson, returned to her home here Wednesday to spend the Easter recess.

Miss Dorothy Burton has returned to her home from Washington, D. C.

Earl Bartlett and Richard Reeves, who have been spending the winter in Florida, have returned to Danielson.

Because the case was not reached on Tuesday, J. F. Lewis and local witnesses in the automobile accident case in which he is the defendant returned to New London for attendance at the superior court Wednesday.

There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion in remembrance of the last supper at the service at St. Alban's church today.

Out of Goodyear comes a proposal for the organization of a six or eight team baseball league—an Industrial league made up of teams representing manufacturing plants at the opening of this year's season.

PUTNAM

Purchase of the Putnam Light and Power company some time ago and the more recent purchase of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company are given as reasons, among others, for a $3,000,000 bond issue just announced by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, which now controls the electric lighting and power service for the public all through this section of eastern Connecticut. The bonds to be issued are to be of the first mortgage type, bearing 5 per cent. interest and maturing in 1943.

A statement appearing Wednesday explains that the proceeds of these bonds will be used to provide funds for the extension of the Eastern Connecticut Power company's plant and to purchase, among other things, the securities of the Danielson and Plainfield company and for the retirement of the company's floating debt created by the purchase of the Putnam Light and Power company. The eastern Connecticut territory served by the company has a population of 165,000. Cotton, wool and other textile trades predominate in the territory.

A syndicate in which New York, Boston and Hartford bond houses are included will market the bonds, which are to be offered at 91, and will yield about 5.70 per cent., it is stated.

State Attorney Charles E. Searls, who is, with Mrs. Searls, spending a few weeks at Camden, S. C., says in a letter received here Wednesday that he is enjoying his stay in the south and was made particularly happy on the occasion of his 77th birthday, when flowers from other guests at the hotel were presented to him and birthday messages of good will came to him from friends in this city. Mr. Searls writes that Mrs. Searls is in improved health and plays a round of golf every day.

Putnam lodge of Elks has granted a petition of its Webster members to withdraw from the local organization in order that they may form a new lodge of the order in Webster. Through the courtesy to the Webster brothers, Putnam lodge will sustain a net loss of not more than 40 members, it was stated Wednesday morning, and it is anticipated that this loss will be quickly overcome. The majority of a class of upwards of 40 initiated here Tuesday evening are Webster residents, so that the new lodge, to be instituted in the near future, has a fine nucleus from which to build up a fine lodge. A membership canvass is now under way in Webster.

Several hundred persons responded to the invitation to visit the State Trade School in this city Tuesday evening, when the annual open night session was held. Scores of the visitors were representatives of the town of Thompson and there was attendance from other surrounding towns. All departments of the school were in operation. The visitors appeared to be especially interested in the mechanical crafts and textile departments, but no little attention was paid to the exhibits showing what is being done by the school to teach young women the ins and outs of domestic science, how to trim hats, make garments and do a score of other practical things that count for so much in the home—and out of it.

The State Trade school has been splendidly developed in this city, and such occasions as the annual visitors' night seems certain to have a marked effect in spreading a knowledge of what fine things the school is doing and, consequently, attracting an increased number of students.

There is local interest in the announcement that Hamilton Holt, noted publicist, and a summer resident of Woodstock, is coming from New York on April 19, to address the annual meeting of the Hartford Get-Together club at the Hotel Bond. Rev. Azarius Z. Conrad of Boston is to be the other speaker. These two well known educators and authorities on international affairs will discuss The Interests and Obligations of the United States in the European Situation.

In a civil action disposed of in a justice's court over which Percy P. Tourtellotte presided in the town of Thompson Almon C. Jackson of Oxford was awarded judgment to recover $3 and costs of $18.42, the matter having to do with a claim by Mr. Jackson that George F. Bates of Thompson did not carry out entirely his part of an agreement relative to a second-hand Ford truck taken in part payment for a new Ford truck which Mr. Jackson sold to Mr. Bates on November 8 of last year.

Mr. Jackson alleged that he sold Mr. Bates the new Ford truck for $600, of which sum $500 was to be in cash and the remaining $100 was to be offset by a used Ford truck which Mr. Bates was to turn over to Mr. Jackson. At the time the deal was made the used truck was equipped with practically new Ford tires, the plaintiff claims, but when Mr. Bates delivered the truck at Mr. Jackson's place it had old and worthless tires, Mr. Jackson alleged. Mr. Bates denied that he agreed to deliver the used truck with the new cord tires on the rear wheels.

The March lion raged and reared Wednesday, becoming more violent as the day wore on. He appeared to be in a terrible state of mind about something along about three o'clock when the sky darkened and a blinding snowstorm started to drive out of the northwest, hurled along by the power of a 50-mile gale. This demonstration was not long drawn out, but sensational while it did endure. As a sign of spring, it was most people's idea of nothing at all. The temperature was down to 10 above zero Wednesday morning and a high wind prevailed throughout the day, increasing to gale force at times. Incidentally, the weather didn't hurt the coal men's business, but it was rather tough on the sellers of spring hats and gowns.

Rapidly mounting building costs now looms up as one of the anchors dragging against the carrying out of Putnam's big building program, which was full of promise a month ago. A man interested in one proposed business structure was quoted Wednesday as stating that estimates on this particular building have increased $5,000 in the last 30 days, and that the trend continues upward. Present construction costs are so heavy that there appears to be little chance of meeting them and thereafter getting a reasonable return on the investment after taxes and upkeep costs are considered.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from colds, pains and disagreeable symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron from your food merely passes through you without doing you any good—you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped to make rich red blood—it comes from the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

In decided contrast to the wintry weather, the travelers on the trolley south marvel at a man husking corn in the fields. The shocks have stood there all winter. The question is whether he is rushing the season to fool the weather man. If so, evidently said weather man is peeved, if the gales of icy wind and snow on Wednesday are any evidence.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Said to be one of the most delightful pictures in which Marion Davies, beautiful Cosmopolitan star in Paramount pictures, has ever appeared is "Adam and Eva," which comes to the Strand theatre today for three days. Its scenes range from the fashionable home of a capitalist to a farm where much of the action finally develops.

"Adam and Eva," adapted for the screen from the famous stage comedy by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, was directed by Robert G. Vignola, creator of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," also starring Miss Davies. In support of Miss Davies is an excellent cast, including such well-known players as T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis, William Norris, Percy Ames, Leon Gordon, Luella Gear, William Davidson, and Edward Douglas.

One of the most striking and beautiful scenes ever filmed is the Venetian carnival scene in "Adam and Eva." This scene brings into play all the atmosphere of Venice, including a festival barge, a fleet of six gondolas and a Venetian canal. The carnival scene was taken at the beautiful Laddin's Rock Farm, near Stamford, Conn., where the opening scenes of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" were filmed. Its construction cost more than $40,000. During the "shooting" of this scene, Miss Davies and her supporting players worked four "days" from sunset to sunrise, this particular action of the picture calling for nothing but night scenes.

A novelty comedy is also featured. This comedy A Hula Honeymoon, was actually made in Honolulu at the Beach of Waikiki. It not only has more than the usual number of laughs, but is a scenic treat as well.

A news is also scheduled.

Breed Theatre

Once more Dustin Farnum has proven that he is an actor of great capabilities. This was made manifest last night at the Breed theatre where his latest picture, "Oathbound," was shown. The photoplay is a William Fox production, and is a real thriller.

Farnum is cast as a millionaire shipowner whose vessels are being raided by river pirates. For several months the depradations have been going on when the owner himself decides to take a hand in the capturing of the crooks. The chase which follows, in which two of the speediest motor boats on the Pacific coast engage, is one of the most spectacular scenes ever flashed on the screen here.

Kid McCoy, whose right name is Norman Selby and who was at one time a leading pugilist; Maurice "Lefty" Flynn, who a few years ago was acclaimed one of the greatest of football players and who has since become a successful screen actor, and Ethel Grey Terry are members of a strong cast supporting the Fox star.

"Oathbound" will be the feature at the Breed theatre again today and other pictures on the bill include Movie Chats and a Sunshine comedy.

Robin Hood Opens at the Breed Sunday

To the character Robin Hood in Douglas Fairbanks' newest photoplay sensation for United Artists' release, entitled "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," the star and producer has given of his best. As Robin Hood he is the embodiment in all ways of that notable personality of eight hundred years ago as we of this ultra-modern day would understand and appraise him, while the production itself, coming to the Breed theatre next week, realistically presents the vivid color and stirring atmosphere of that romantically adventuresome past.

"Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" represents a real literature of the screen, genuine and historically accurate in costume and setting, and truthful in every small detail as well as in important basis.

It blends facts and fantasy, history and legend, and combines the glories of poetic and artistic beauty with an authoritative interpretation of the spirit of romance and adventure prevailing in the Twelfth Century.

It gives a vividly real impression of the romance, the conflict of emotions and the aspirations which made so memorable the period in which "Richard the Lion-hearted" ruled.

It presents a clear vision of the fundamentals that actuated the leaders of thought and action of a time when the spirit of chivalry dominated as never before nor since.

It visualizes the drama of life and its living when Robin Hood was confronted by supreme tests of his admirable valor in behalf of the Maid Marian, and the downtrodden, unfortunate victims of a feudal age.

It gives, above all, the utmost in entertainment replete with all those qualities of enthralling drama, breathtaking suspense, and wholesome relief, diverting humor.

It is a scenic replica as nearly accurate as humanly possible, presenting a re-creation of life and its environments in those days of knighthood.

It presents an historical background gleaned with defness from all available records in months of the most exhaustive research and abroad, that ever has been devoted to any cause.

Broadway Theatre

Money is the root of all the evil that goes toward providing dramatic interest in the latest Katherine MacDonald photoplay which is the current attraction at the Broadway theatre.

"Money, Money, Money!" is the title of the production, and Miss MacDonald explains the reason for the unusual title in the role of Priscilla Hobbs, who, as the daughter of a struggling manufacturer, leads her father, through her social ambitions, into signing a note, for $20,000 in anticipation of a big legacy. The legacy proves to amount to about $12, but while the money lasts the splurge that Priscilla makes causes no end of talk in the little midwestern town of Thermopolis. It is when the money begins to go that the plot takes on new interest, and Miss MacDonald is called upon to deliver the very best of her emotional talent.

NEW LONDON FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT TWICE WEDNESDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 29—The residence of Dr. Harry M. Lee was in danger of destruction this evening about 7 o'clock when the Niagara fire apparatus was called there after the doctor had done all that he could to subdue the fire. The blaze originated from the furnace which had made a leaky chimney so hot that the soot and the woodwork were blazing. Dr. Lee had used three lines of garden hose on which there was a pressure of 60 pounds, but he could not subdue the fire. The Niagara apparatus speeded out there in a few minutes and soon two tanks of chemicle did the work that water failed to do.

The fire this morning in the Levgrone building on Golden street was a fortunate one in many respects—fortunate for the owner and the occupants of the structure that it was discovered before the flames got much of a start and doubly fortunate for the tenants that they were not driven into the freezing temperature that prevailed. The fire started in Miller's pool room adjoining the Coffey & Co., market and wholesale beef house, from a cigar or cigarette that was thrown away lighted. The alarm brought all the apparatus of the fire department except the Ockford and the Pequot hose companies and the firemen got to work in a few minutes after the alarm was given and remained at work nearly an hour.

The building is one of the street landmarks. It was formerly a public hall on the upper floor where public entertainments were given some 60 years ago. The lower floors were occupied as stores. The hall came into fame in one night when Washington Cooker delivered a lecture there on "Cork". He had the whole town talking about him after that. Mr. Levergone altered and completely remodeled the building and it is now one of the large tenement houses and store properties of the section.

Osprey Rebekah lodge, the oldest in the city and one of the oldest in Eastern Connecticut, celebrated its 50th anniversary last evening with a supper and the entertainment of the state officers of the Rebekah assembly. The state president Mrs. Thoms of Waterbury was present as a guest of the lodge—as were Mr. Lovett of Willimantic, Miss Ethel Burrows of New London and Mrs. Etta Finch of Groton, the latter the deputy for the New London and Norwich district. The feast was served at 6.30 and in the evening there was a reception for the state officers.

Addresses were delivered by Wallace B. Johnson, who until he resigned a fortnight ago had been the secretary of the Odd Fellows' Home corporation for a generation; Past Grand Masters Mirsch and Burrows, both of New London and Samuel Prince of the Uniformed Rank of the order. Mrs. Thoms was presented a very handsome bag and Mrs. Finch was the recipient of a ring from the Rebekahs. It was 12 o'clock when the guests left the hall delighted with their entertainment.

F. D. Woodworth and wife of Grot- on, enthusiastic members of the Grange of that town are to make their home in that part of the town of Lyme known as Hamburg hereafter. They have purchased a farm in Hamburg and intend to live there. Their friends in Groton grange arranged to make the last class of Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth at Fairview an occasion they would remember so they journeyed to Fairview last evening and with refreshments which they brought provided a liberal feast. Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth were presented a silver sandwich tray by their friends, Irving E. Crouch making the presentation in behalf of the donors.

Capt. Charles A. Pinney, after se- ration from the police force for about three weeks because of an operation for hernia, is back at his desk again but is still weak for he had dropped some 25 pounds of flesh.

There seems to be a kind providence watching over the destinies of us all. If it that fact is not always so obvious as it was last night when two men were found in danger. One of the pair, Samuel H. Bliver, was found drunk and down in a shed on the railroad property alongside railroad tracks where cars were apt to be shunted at any minute. He told the court he was a farmer at Quaker Hill and that he got his liquor from a stranger. The court didn't take any stock in that story for it did not seem likely that a stranger was looking up a fellow to induce him to take a drink. After sentencing him to jail for 30 days the court suspended the execution of the sentence with the warning that if he returned to the court during the next half year he would go to jail for a stay that would keep him off the farm for some time.

ernment and in the service. He is only 29 years old so Richard W. Mansfield was appointed his guardian during the trial. Cudworth was very drunk and was asleep on the railroad tracks at the foot of John street on Water, his head resting on the rails when he was found. Judgment was suspended in his case with a dose of good advice accompanying it.

John C. Staplins, a wood chopper at Montville, employed at the Hogue farm, has been reported missing to the New London police. He has been gone two weeks and Mr. Hogue is alarmed as to his safety. Staplins has friends in New London and he has relatives in East Lyme, but so far as is known they are ignorant of his whereabouts.

George Farley, a lad eight years of age was caught by an automobile operated by William C. Cook as the boy crossed Washington street. Mr. Cook took him to the hospital where he will be kept for observation a few days.

It is indicated now that the docket of the superior court at its May session will be one of the smallest the court has had. The Dr. Dimon case will be one of the most important the court will have to deal with! State Attorney Hull is disposed to make the term short if hat can be done, for it saves the state a good deal of money.

The streets of the city and the roads approaching it are in wretched condition at present, but the weather is such as forbids the work of repairing them. All the roads on the outskirts of the city are declared to be several inches deep in mud. Niagara fire apparatus when it returned from Waterford this evening after a run to that section showed mud much deeper than the tires and they are six inches deep.

Several changes will be made in the duties of police officers now that Capt. Pinney has returned to his desk. His absence necessitated changes among the officers as Lieut. Beebe was also on the sick list.

A week from tomorrow will be the anniversary day of the city of New London.

There were many dismissals of patients from Lawrence hospital today. These patients were able to go to their homes: Mrs. Joseph Caracause of Ocean avenue, Mrs. Max Munsch of Bank street, Mrs. Arthur Tyler of Main street, Robert Swallow of Stonington, Mrs. Edith Robinson of Montville, Mrs. George Williams of Westerly.

William A. Craig, an eccentric character who was committed to the Norwich state hospital some months ago, took informal leave there today and is believed to be in this city. His daughter has asked the police to apprehend him if they find him.

Today was one of smiles and frowns. Rain, sleet and snow fell during last night and today there were durries of snow that turned the mind from Easter clothes, much to the regret of the merchants as well as of those who meant to keep up with the times in dress. But the weather isn't always to be as capricious and in a few weeks we may be finding fault with the heat. The person who wanted an "old fashioned" winter experience it during the period from January to date.

It turns out that the fire at the cot- tage on Ocean avenue last Sunday morning was not at the house of Frank J. Howell, but at the cottage known as the Apple Tree cottage, occupied by Preston O. Sutphen and family nearby. Mr. Sutphen is an official of the New London Ship and Engine company. Mr. Howell has had all the experience he desires from fire for he was burned out when he resided on Granite street. He is congratulating himself that he was only burned out Sunday in the newspapers. His friends will congratulate him for the same reason.

Dismissals of patients from Lawrence hospital as follows were made today: Miss Esther Grover of Ocean avenue, Gladys Riddell of Prospect street, Mrs. Alice Clay of Tremont street, Mrs. Stephen Sweeney of Cottage street and Mrs. Rosario Nigrelli of Mystic.

Former Mayor Ernest E. Rogers is making a reputation in the state senate for as chairman of the appropriations committee he does not propose to submit to any wild spending of the state's funds if he can prevent it. He has served notice on the members that the revenue of the state will not permit of all the appropriations that are asked for and that as a result there are to be adverse reports coming from the committee. Mr. Rogers said that the bills already offered that ask for appropriations call for an expenditure of something like $62,500,000 whereas the revenue of the state is estimated at not more than half that sum.

It does not take a financiere to recognize that some of the appropriation bills must be turned down and the committee proposes to do that work in a most thorough manner. Senator Rogers has had a business experience and he has not changed his mind that to do the business for the state is to accomplish it in the same way he would do it for himself.

HOUSE LEADER ASKS COMMITTEES TO REPORT ALL UNFINISHED BUSINESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 29—House Leader Buckley requested today that the chairmen of all committees report to the house next Tuesday the number of bills remaining in committee and the probable time it would take to finish their business.

The house was called to order at 11.15 with Speaker Nickerson in the chair.

The house concurred with the senate in rejecting bills concerning petty cash funds in state institutions, bonds of state officers, capitol grounds, teachers' certificates, state parks and forests, probate bonds by national banks.

House bills rejected concerned, exempting town from state tax, remission of admission tax (two bills).

On disagreeing action with the senate the bill treating to passing rates in hotels and inns was recommitted to the judiciary committee.

On unfavorable report from the committee on forfeited rights the petition of Louis Sternlieb of Norwich was rejected. The house chairman in making the report, stated that the committee had given serious consideration to the motion and was of the opinion that the short time since his conviction and the character of the crime did not warrant the committee in making favorable report.

The same committee voted in favor of the restoration of rights to Charles W. Rogers of Vernon.

The petition of Cornelius Doran which had been unfavorably reported and tabled was recommitted to the committee. House Bill 432, concerning the sale of seeds was reported favorably by the committee on agriculture and was placed on the calendar.

Bill authorizing the borough of Jewett City to issue bonds was on motion from financial committee, placed on calendar for printing.

Concerning the distribution of the receipts of the city of Danbury. Authorizing the South Fire District of West Hartford to lay a tax for the collection of ashes, garbage and refuse matter. Accepting the land and buildings known at Fort Hale in New Haven as a public park and providing for care and control thereof. Including in the trunk line system the highway from Norwich to Hadlyme. Including in the trunk line system the highway from Berlin to New Britain. Including in the trunk line system the highway from Unionville to Farmville. Concerning the medium of administration in elementary schools. Including in the trunk line system the highway extending through the towns of Tolland, Ellington and Stafford. Amending an act including in the trunk line system certain portions of the highways in New Haven county. Amending the charter of the Young Men's Christian Association of Ansonia. Little Red School House

The "Little Red School House" bill, Senate Bill No. 31, was rejected in the senate. The bill was tabled on Tuesday and this afternoon Senator Rogers made an ineffectual attempt to have it taken from the table.

Senator Turnbull, after a recess, moved that the house reconsider its action in refusing earlier in the day's session to take the bill from the table. The motion was carried.

Senator Rogers said the bill was known as the "Little Red School House Bill". Its aim was to provide school transportation for children. He said the passage of the bill would create an expense of $135,000 and there was the possibility that other towns than those provided for in the bill would make application for transportation funds. In that way the state treasury would be thrown open to every one. He said it was the purpose of the appropriations committee to keep in mind its responsibility to the taxpayers of the state. It has been suggested that a commission should be appointed to consider the school question of the state and to report to the next general assembly. The policy of the state was to "pay as you go," and the committee on appropriations observed that policy.

Senator Bakewell admitted the responsibility of the committee on appropriations to the taxpayers but the general assembly had a great responsibility and that was its responsibility to the children of the state. There was no compulsion to close the one-room schools. He would not urge at that moment the rejection of the report of the committee on appropriations.

Senator Trumbull said the finance committee believed that the policy of the state should be "pay as you go." He was opposed to raising money by bond issues, if it was necessary to raise more money it would be necessary to discover other sources of taxation.

Senator Bidwell said he came to the general assembly with a feeling of hostility to the program on education matters. But he realized, as a member of the committee on education, that something must be done to improve the educational system of the state. The increase in the estimate of appropriations for education was only $111,347 in a total of $4,000,000. There was no better way to spend money than by providing. The increase was only about 2 per cent.

Senator Bills said that unless the appropriation bills were attended to there would be a state of chaos in the legislature. They were all tremendously in favor of spending a large amount of money on education.

Senator Bidwell said it was just as well to take a vote on the bill at the present time.

RECOVERY IN STOCK MARKET.

New York, March 28.—Elimination of speculative fear of another increase in the rediscount rate by the federal reserve board's statement yesterday brought about a further recovery of prices in today's stock market. Gains of one to three points were quite common during the morning but many of these were cancelled or substantially reduced later when professional interests disposed of stocks purchased at the lower levels to support the market.

Speculative interest in the rise was dimmed somewhat by the failure of the New York Central directors to increase the regular quarterly dividend as had been expected. New York Central closed one point lower at 96 with most of the other shares in the railroad group moving irregularly within narrow limits. Considerable interest was manifested in the February report of the St. Paul system, which showed net operating income for the first two months of $2,424,156, an increase of $3,767,372 over the corresponding period last year, which showed a deficit.

New high records were made during the session by a number of stocks the most important of which were Marland Oil at 56 1-4; Phillips Petroleum at 48 7-8 and Union Bag and Paper at 77 1-2, but all of these prices were shaded at the close. Brooklyn Rapid Transit Common Stock dropped $4 a share, a new low record for all time, and an overnight drop of one point, in further reaction of speculative discouragement over the reorganization plan which involves an assessment on the common stock.

One of the features of the late trading was the bad break in the Virginia Carolina Chemical issues which was founded on rumors of poor business conditions. The common dropped to 19 1-4 and then rallied to 19 off 1 7-8 and the preferred dropped ten points from its early high to 54, closing at 54 3-4, a net loss of more than six points.

Among the active industrials which closed a point or more above last night's final figures were American Can, American Smelting, Alaska Locomotive, Gulf States and Consolidated Gas, General Asphalt, Cosden, Texas De Pasco, Brown Shoe, Owens Bottle, Stewart Warner Speedometer Carburetor, and United Retail Stores.

Call money opened at 5 3-4 per cent, eased off to 5 1-8 at noon and to 5 in the last hour, closing at that figure. The time money market was quiet with loans in limited volume being made at 5 1-2 per cent for two and four months maturities. The Commercial Paper rates were unchanged with prime names commanding 5 per cent.

More activity was noted in the foreign exchange market with the principal quotations showing slight irregularity. Demand Sterling eased slightly to $4.63 1-8 and French francs, after advancing five points to 6.02 cents, slipped back to 6.33 3-4.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 28.—Bond prices displayed a more favorable tone in today's dealings, the active U. S. government bonds making slight gains and a number of the industrial issues being in demand. The trend downward, however, was not entirely checked and gilt edge railroad mortgages and industrial bonds showed little change.

With the exception of the tax exempt 3 1-2s and the Victory 4 3-4s, which were unchanged, all of the active U. S. government ecurities advanced slightly, the gains ranging from 4-32 to 19-32 of a point. A gain of 3 7-8 points by Chinese 8s was the outstanding change in the foreign group in which prices generally were firm.

Losses of 5 3-4 and 8 points by Virginia Carolina Chemical 7s, certificates, and 8s, with warrants, respectively, due to the depresed stock prices, featured trading in the industrial division. Sinclair Pipe Line 5s and Chile Copper 7s, eac hup 1 1-2 points, and Cerro De Pasco 8s, up 5 1-4 on rising stock prices, were outstanding bright spots among the industrials.

Railroad mortgages, with a few exceptions, continued heavy, but the losses generally were confined to fractions. Losses of one point each were registered by Peoria & Eastern Income 4s and Pennsylvania General 4 1-2's and Denver & Rio Grande Refunding 5s were off 1 1-8. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s advanced one point and Baltimore & Ohio Convertible 4 1-2's were up 1 1-4.

Total sales (par value) were $15,699,000.

An unusually large volume of new issues was offered today including $6,000,000 Standard Gas & Electric Company Convertible Gold Debenture 6 1-2 per cent bonds due in 1933, and a stock neffring of 60,000 shares of no par value of the Douglas Pectin Corporation, both of which were reported heavily oversubscribed.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 28. — Although scarcity of wheat at Liverpool helped bring about price upturns at one time today in the market here, the approach of holidays curtailed business and gains failed to hold. The close was unsettled at 1-2c net decline to 1-8 advance, with May 1.19 1-8 to 1.19 1-4 and July 1.15 1-2 to 1.15 5-8. Corn lost 1-4 to 5-8c; oats finished 1-8@1-4c off to 1-8c up, and provisions down 17 to 32.

At first the price of wheat here showed an upward tendency, responding to higher quotations at Liverpool and to gossip about the smallness of Liverpool stocks of wheat. Bullish crop reports from Western Kansas and Western Nebraska were also a subject of attention. It soon became evident, however, that demand lacked volume, and that there was more or less disposition to restrict new dealings until after Easter, except as some positive fresh development might warrant.

Announcement that there is available public elevator space here for 3,000,000 bushels more grain than at present in storage, and that the directors of the boad of trade have under consideration the creating of whatever additional room may be found necessary was construed as bearish by some wheat traders. Bears were predicting, too, that Russia would be a factor in the grain trade this summer, and that in addition Canadian shipments would continue heavy.

Slightly increased rural offerings of corn had a depressing influence on the value of corn and oats.

Hog market declines weakened provisions. On the downturn houses with New York connections were active buyers of July lard.

COMMITTEE TO ASSIST WAR VETERANS' BUREAU

New York, March 28.—Appointment of a committee to assist the war veterans' bureau of the Second district in the rehabilitation and extension of aid to disabled war veterans and their families was announced today by the Mercantile association of New York. The district comprises the states of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Recommendations, the result of an 18 months' investigation into the work of the bureau, for increasing the efficiency of the department and reducing expenses also would be made, it was said. The committee, composed of trained personnel men, doctors and surgeons, would co-operate with bureau officials in expediting emergency cases and advise disabled soldiers as to the character of their training.

The association pointed out that many veterans were being trained for work for which they were unfitted, either physically or mentally.

BELIEVE SUGAR PRICES DUE TO LEGITIMATE CAUSES

New York, March 28.—The association of mill owners and cane growers of Cuba, in a message to Horatio S. Rubens, its honorary president, asserted the opinion today that the rise in the price of sugar is due to legitimate causes and not to speculative acts on the part of Cuban sugar producers.

Cuban producers, the message said, have sold freely during development of the crop, without attempting to hold or to speculate. The rise in the price of sugar was attributed to the statistical position and the demand for consumption.

"We desire," the association's message said, "to assure the American people that nothing has been done by Cuban producers to artificially impose high prices. Owing to bad economic conditions, continuation of great cane supplies were impossible, and this, together with the drought in Cuba, has affected the available cane supply. This association now is gathering the necessary data to arrive at a definite estimate giving a truthful picture of the year's sugar crop in Cuba."

Supplementing the association's message, Mr. Rubens quoted published reports showing 1922 sugar shipments from Cuba to be 1,219,325 tons as of March 17. On that date, he said, there was only 811,302 tons of sugar on hand in Cuba as compared to 1,217,227 tons a year ago.

The surplus of 1922, Mr. Rubens said, naturally resulted in a record of low prices, leading to the selling of sugar below the cost of production in 1922, he added, the mills did not begin grinding until the second half of January, which accounted for the larger production this year.

The Massachusetts Pilgrim Tercentenary commission, in its final report submitted to the governor, states that the historical pageant held in Plymouth in 1921, resulted in a deficit of $44,407.

NEW SUPERIOR COURT BUSINESS

Six divorce cases, an appeal from probate, a claim for payment of the half the net loss in a business deal, and contest arising from a dispute over a sewer pipe are included in April cases for the superior court which were filed Wednesday at the office of the clerk, Judge George E. Parsons.

They are the following:

Lewis Crandall and Robert M. Crandall of New London, sons of the late Noyes B. Crandall, have brought an appeal from probate of his will which was executed Nov. 19, 1920, and admitted in the New London probate court on Feb. 17, 1923.

Macy Coman Carver of New London seeks divorce from George D. Carver of that city on the ground of intolerable cruelty, since Jan. 1, 1917. They were married Aug. 25, 1902. She asks for change of name to Macy Coman.

Annie Magura Daniel of Huntington asks divorce from Andrew Daniel of Stonington on the ground of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1907. They were married May 18, 1901, and have three daughters, 18, 18 and 8 years, whose custody she asks for.

Agnes Foley Thomas of Griswold is a petitioner for divorce from Joseph Thomas of Putnam whom she married Aug. 18, 1915 and charges with intolerable cruelty from Jan. 1, 1920.

Stanton L. Dreifus of Philadelphia brings suit against Reuben Lubchansky of New London for $850. Dreifus claims that he furnished $5,000 to be used for the purchase of scrap iron and steel from Michael Leary at Newport, R. I., under an agreement of April 29, 1923, that net profits and losses were to be equally divided between plaintiff and defendant. The net loss was $1,589.21 and Dreifus claims Lubchansky owes him $794.60, being one-half the total loss.

Eugene Leonard of Westfield, Mass., petitions for divorce from Florence Hurd Leonard of Old Lyme. He says she deserted him on Feb. 18, 1920. They were married Oct. 13, 1917, and have no children.

Regina Ballestrini Pensalfini of New London sues for divorce from Gino Pensalfini of the same city. She alleges intolerable cruelty since July 31, 1923, and also that the husband has committed a statutory offense between July 31, 1922, and March 1, 1923, at New London with one Jane Doe and others. The couple was married Sept. 1, 1917. Mrs. Pensalfini asks the custody of two minor children aged 4 1-2 and 3 1-2 years.

Manuel & Jennie Richards of New London seek $1,000 damages from Manuel C. Marshall of New London in a dispute over a sewer pipe line belonging to Marshall which ran over the Richards land on Lewis street and which was in the way when Richards wanted to dig the foundation for a garage in December, 1922.

Minnie Thompson of New London, asks divorce from Frank Thompson, formerly of Florence, S. C., now of parts unknown. They were married Jan. 3, 1918. WOMEN PRESENT CLAIMS TO BE ON JURIES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, March 28—The hearing this afternoon before the judiciary committee on the senate bill making women eligible for jury duty was attended by women from all parts of the state. The reasons why this privilege should be given women was ably presented by the proponents of the bill. Mrs. Bruce Murray of Guilford was the first speaker and spoke of the ability of the women of the state and their qualifications for this duty.

Mrs. Thomas Hepburn of Hartford said that in twenty-two states women had been made eligible and nothing but good has resulted. She had received letters from jurists in these states which she would hand to the committee but knowing that men were not likely to send what they were not interested in. She would send a few of them for the benefit of the committee. She argued that women who were qualified for jury duty had the time and inclination to serve when called upon would serve and would not ask to be excused from the service as did many of the men who from their qualifications should serve.

In handing the letters to the committee Representative Bill remarked that she had better send them to his committee while she had the chance. Mrs. John Pettibone of New Milford, representing a league of women voters in Litchfield county said the women of that county were unanimously in favor of this bill.

Mrs. Henry Townsend of New Haven argued that women were as well fitted for this service and that they were going to get it.

Mrs. Lillian Marrow of Meriden said that it was claimed that it was not a fit place for women on a jury where many plain things were spoken of that were unfit for women to hear. She called attention to the hearing on the birth control bill and said plainer talk that was then indulged in was not likely to be heard by any jury. Miss Mary Buckley of Hartford said that the women of Hartford county were unanimous in their support of this bill. They desired the privilege and were willing to meet its demands.

On a call for the women who favored the bill about one hundred arose and no one was in opposition. Representative Martinson of Cromwell who is also a clergyman asked to be recorded as in favor of the bill. Mrs. Donald Mitchell of New London said the members of the league of women voters in her county were in favor of the bill.

REV. E. C. DUNBAR SPEAKS AT METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church, in speaking on the theme, The Message of Wednesday at the noonday meeting in Trinity Methodist church called attention to the fact that we have no direct reference to the activities of Christ upon Wednesday, the last week of His life.

In spite of this omission this day which is known as the Day of Retirement has been productive of much speculation and homiletical activity. Compelled, as we are, to draw our conclusions as to how Jesus spent the day from His known practice, under circumstances of partial similarity we obtain a license for the exercise of varied gifts of logic, imagination and judgment.

The speaker pointed out some guiding suggestions in reaching conclusions on this point. Jesus was aware of an approaching crisis and we have ample evidence of His habit of retirement, meditation and prayer as He approached other crises in His career. Again we may assume His actions were weighted with moral meaning for others. From these two considerations and others the speaker concluded that the best thought of the students of His life have pictured Jesus as using this day in rest, meditation and prayer.

And there are at least three considerations which we may assume would loom large in the horizon of His thinking and enter largely into the burden of His heavenward petitions.

These three considerations center, as even a casual student of Christ would expect, in His concern for human and character values. He Who came that men might have life more abundant would especially in moments of crisis and climax, be most true to the deeper laws that govern the activities of a soul that with steady aim through thirty years has been maturing toward perfection in unselfish, outpouring in service of all that He had and was.

The three centers of His interest may perhaps have been, (1), His enemies; (2), His followers; (3), Himself.

Those who know Jesus best know Him as the world's teacher in His attitude toward and His treatment of those who chose to oppose His work or to vilify His motives. Deeper than the hypocrisy of the pharisee was a case of manhood and even when Christ brought down upon the back of the Jewish hierarchy the lightning flashes of denunciation it was with the hope of kindling into wholesome life the worthier qualities.

The world is unmeasurably richer in devotional literature in having as a part of the record of Christ's life some of His deeply earnest longings for His disciples. How earnestly He desired their victory in their days of temptation and their moral progress in the calmer days of untroubled waters and unclouded skies.

Then on this day of retirement we must believe Jesus felt the need of a reaffirmation of the decisions of His earlier ministry, a reminding now that a seeming catastrophe impends.

Success was Christ's portion on Sunday, day of acclaim by a vociferous multitude. Monday, too, seems to have won the approval of the populace so that Jewish leaders dare not make a direct onset. And Tuesday is the day of still greater victory as one by one courageous defenders of orthodoxy ,who are also cynical critics of visionaries and reformers, retire in discomfiture before the one mind that knows its own goal and its own integrity but which knows also the weaknesses and the emptiness of a religion of literalism and a patriotism of expediency.

But Jesus knew that the fate of most of the world's Messiahs has been decided and sealed, not in the forum but in the secret council rooms. In cowardly seclusion meet the demagogues and cheap politicians who outwardly may masquerade as servants of God, as lovers of the people. The mob which finally howled down the sober judgments of Pilato, knew no masters save passion and satiation, but when and by whom was the match struck which lighted the blaze of fury in the breasts of the shepherdless and ignorant multitudes? Jesus seems to have known and history has never hesitated to ascribe this unholy role to holy leaders of the holy temple in the holy city.

Armed with this knowledge the triumphs of the three preceding days were seen by Jesus as they will soon appear to us as having small basis for prediction for His fate. So Wednesday is a day of solemn meaning and prayer for Himself is natural as well as necessary.

Rev. Alexander Abbott is to be the preacher today (Thursday) at 12.30. The services close promptly at 1. It was also announced that there would be no meeting at the church on Friday, so as to give opportunity to all to attend the noonday meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

NORWICH PREPARING FOR G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

The State Encampment of the G. A. R. will be held in Norwich this year probably during the last week of April. It is at least twenty-five years since the last State Encampment was held in Norwich and in order to make suitable arrangements and prepare for the entertainment of the visiting veterans of the Civil War during that time a meeting of a committee to have charge of this event was called by President H. M. Lerou of the Chamber of Commerce in their room Wednesday afternoon.

Those on the committee are: Mayor Milo R. Waters, E. LaRue Bliven, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, John M. Lee, Frederick W. Lester, J. C. Macpherson, T. C. Murphy, Arthur L. Peale and Henry G. Peck. Mr. Lerou was elected chairman of the committee and John J. O'Rourke, secretary. Department Commander Orrin M. Price of Norwich and James McKee of Norwich representing the G. A. R. were present at the meeting.

The State Encampment comes to Norwich this year because of the fact that Mr. Price is the department commander and in view of the fact that it has been so many years since the G. A. R. veterans convened in Norwich. It is planned to make this encampment as interesting and entertaining as possible. There is no doubt that Norwich will extend her fullest hospitality to the rapidly thinning ranks of the old G. A. R. The National Commander, J. W. Willett of Iowa, has been extended an invitation to attend this encampment as has also the governor and lieutenant governor of Connecticut.

In order to prepare a thoroughly good program, Chairman Lerou was authorized to appoint the following committees: on publicity, J. M. Lee, J. J. O'Rourke; on meeting which will locate a place for the camp fire meeting on the first night, H. C. Peck, A. L. Peale, Dr. H. Campbell; on music, F. W. Lester, E. LaRue Bliven; on finances, Mayor Waters, Ex-mayor Murphy and Ex-mayor Lerou; on speakers and entertainment, Mayor Waters, J. C. Macpherson, Ex-mayor Murphy and Ex-mayor Lerou.

While the actual date of the State Encampment has not been fully decided on, it will in all probability be held Wednesday and Thursday, April 25 and 26.

It is not very often that Norwich secures State Conventions. It has been a generation since the last State Encampment of the G. A. R. was held in Norwich and it is confidently hoped and expected that Norwich will extend every hospitality and provide every means of entertainment to the visiting veterans of the Civil War and there is no doubt in the minds of the committee that Norwich will uphold her reputation for hospitality and her time honored slogan, Norwich Never Fails.

TALK ON CHILD TRAINING THROUGH AUTO-SUGGESTION

The March meeting of the Laurel Hill Parent-Teacher association was held in the kindergarten room with the president, Mrs. Frank Case, presiding.

The reports of the valous committees were read and accepted. A report of the recent food sale held by this organization showed an addition of $13 to their treasury. Money was voted to help furnish each pupil with milk daily.

The members who were unable to attend missed a rare treat, as the programme committee had for a speaker Dr. Emma Dunham, who gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the System of Child Training Auto-Suggestion.

Among the points she emphasized were, the value of the right kind of suggestions during the early years of the child and the harmful effect of suggestions wrongly given by word, look or behavior, which became a fixation and later in life crop out in a phobia or mania difficult to overcome. The necessity for perfect cooperation of the parent and teacher to obtain the greatest good for the child. The suggestions given the child by the parent determines his attitude toward the teacher and his conception of obedience to her. Due to the fact that the teacher takes the place of the parent, absolute obedience of the child, backed up by the parent is necessary.

Dr. Dunham explained very clearly the difference between the conscious and the sub-conscious mind and the important part the imagination plays in the formation of habits, the building of character and its effects on the physical organs. She also demonstrated by various tests the great principle upon which auto-suggestion is based, that is, that when the will and the imagination come in conflict the imagination wins out. That not the will but the imagination should be educated to solve our problems for us.

The association realizes it was fortunate in securing Dr. Dunham for this lecture and the members are grateful to her for the helpful and inspiring suggestions.

Tea was served, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Waters being hostesses.

STERLING DOG DAYS BRING MORE FINES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Sterling, March 27.—"More dog days today and I guess it is about over," was Deputy Commissioner Wm. Jarvis' statement in Justice of Peace Montgomery's court at noon today when Charles E. Burnham pleaded guilty and settled to the tune of $13.05 for harboring an unlicensed dog.

This case was brought by Grand Juror Frank W. Hazard, Deputy Commissioner Wm. Jarvis, Game Warden Charles M. Letters and Deputy Sheriff Ayers being the outside officials.

Mr. Burnham made matters lively for a while and was discharged by the judge on one count, immediately pleading guilty on a second charge and settling.

He gave the court to understand that there were outside dog officers in the town years ago and in spite of the court's order in a number of cases notices concerning dogs had been legally posted.

Mr. Jarvis replied, "I saw a notice in Hazard's store," but Burnham didn't think that one store was the town of Sterling.

One dog caught in Oneco was killed, another strange dog on Sterling Hill ordered killed and half a dozen more are being closely watched.

WOMAN SHOT CONTRACTOR AND THEN KILLED HERSELF

Helena Zeigler, Aged 26, Perpetrated the Crime in the Private Office of Frederick W. Burnham in the Grand Central Terminal Building, New York—Had Sent in Her Card for an Interview—Used a Double Barrelled Pistol—Fear Wealthy Contractor's Wound Will Prove Fatal.

New York, March 29.—After sending in her card and then calmly waiting in an ante-room for an interview, 26-year-old Helena Zeigler of Riverside Drive today entered the private office of Frederick W. Burnham, wealthy contractor, shot him with a double-barrelled pistol and then killed herself with the weapon.

Burnham, 44 years old, and a member of a fashionable suburban colony at Dobbs Ferry, was rushed to Bellevue hospital, where it is said he was dying.

The body of Miss Zeigler, prostrate and with the two-barrelled 45-calibre pistol still clutched in her right hand, was discovered in Burnham's office 15 minutes after those outside heard voices raised as though in violent argument, had heard two shots rapidly fired, and then unbroken silence.

She was on the floor. A bullet had torn through her brain. In a far corner of the room was Burnham, clinging to a window ledge, gasping, and tearing his hair. Blood streamed from a wound in the left side of his head.

As those from without rushed toward Burnham calling him by name, he pitched to the floor, almost over the body of the young woman.

It had been Miss Zeigler's second visit to Burnham's suite today. The first time she was told he was "not in." She came again just before office-closing time.

Harry Cox, a clerk in the contractor's establishment, greeted her in the anteroom, told Burnham she was there, and was instructed to say she would be admitted to the private office "in a few minutes."

Cox described the visitor as "a beautiful brunette, but awfully pale." As she passed the anteroom he noted that, although outwardly calm, she seemed "a little nervous." She was fashionably dressed—wore a sealskin coat with large pockets, a blue silk dress, black silk stockings and black pumps. Her hat was of black straw, overhung with small bright flowers.

Police believe she concealed the pistol, a heavy Derringer of the kind once used for army officers, in a coat pocket, for she carried no handbag or parcel.

When Burnham signalled Cox to admit the woman, she slipped through the door marked "private," carefully closing it behind her.

Snatches of conversation drifted from the inner sanctum to the anteroom, said Cox. Raised voices — the man's strident and imperative, the woman's almost hysterical—then subdued murmurs and indistinguishable words. This for about 15 minutes.

Suddenly there was the vibrating sound of a shot, followed almost instantly by another. Cox, too frightened to open the intervening door, ran to the elevator and asked the operator to call a doctor. He ran back to a telephone to call Millard E. Ames, contractor and close friend of Burnham, who lives nearby on Park avenue.

While Cox was frantically signalling the telephone operator, he said, Ames walked into the ante-room.

Together they entered the private office. They saw Miss Zeigler first, and then Burnham. The latter, apparently unconscious of their presence, collapsed as they rushed toward him.

By this time a surgeon had arrived from the Emergency hospital of Grand Central station. He pronounced the girl dead first, then ordered Burnham off to Bellevue in an ambulance.

Burnham's young wife refused at first to believe he had been the victim of the shooting. Later she hastened from Dobbs Ferry to her husband's bedside in the New York hospital.

The Burnham's wealthy neighbors at Dobbs Ferry also were reluctant to believe the contractor had been shot, insisting he was being made the victim of a mistaken identity. He was, they said, one of the most highly esteemed men of the community. A "home-loving business man," they called him. "devoted to his wife."

There are no children, a brother, T. H. Burnham, was said by the police to be a well known architect at Chicago.

The young woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Zeigler, were told of the shooting by a patrolman who accompanied them in a taxi-cab to the morgue. They declined to talk with reporters, but the superintendent of the fashionable apartment building said the young woman was not employed and "stayed at home with her mother."

Burnham's home, River View Manor, is one of the show places of Dobbs Ferry. He and his wife were active in social circles and were members of the most exclusive clubs in the community.

Mrs. Burnham reached the bedside of her husband tonight, but found him unconscious. She was led from his side by neighbors who came with her from Dobbs Ferry.

Scarcely had she left when surgeons took the wounded contractor to the operating room. A few moments later they said they had located the bullet in the left side of the brain, but thought it inadvisable to operate. The surgeons said there was small hope of recovery.

Miss Zeigler wore a large diamond solitaire on the engagement finger of her left hand, while upon the fingers of her right hand were two other large diamonds. Police learned tonight that she had been accompanied to the Grand Central Terminal building by another young woman, for whom search was begun. This young woman, it was said, waited in the halls while Miss Zeigler went into Burnham's office. As she waited, witnesses said, he paced nervously up and down the corridors. She was thought to have fled from the building when she heard the two pistol shots.

Cox was questioned at length by the police, and was said to have admitted that he had seen Miss Zeigler in Mr. Burnham's office before today, but that she had not been there more than four or five times in the last two and a half years.

WOUND PROVED FATAL TO WEALTHY CONTRACTOR

New York, March 29—Frederick W. Burnham, noted contractor, clubman and owner of Riverview manor on the Hudson, died early today of a pistol wound inflicted yesterday by Miss Helena Zeigler just before she shot and killed herself.

Mrs. Burnham was at his bedside when the end came.

EXECUTION OF PRELATES CONSIDERED IMPROBABLE

Moscow, March 29.—(By the A. P.)—The general impression prevailed in Moscow tonight that the execution of Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Roman Catholic church in Russia, and Vicar General Butchkavitch, who were condemned to death by the soviet court on Monday, probably would not be carried out, and that the prelates would receive some degree of clemency.

It was announced today that the requests which had been received for a mitigation of the sentences imposed on the prelates and the priests would be considered at the first meeting of the central executive committee, which will sit either tomorrow or some day next week. Meantime the prisoners remain incarcerated. They are receiving good rations, according to a statement made by one of their counsel tonight.

The trial and conviction of the Catholics has created only a small amount of interest inside Russia, where there are few Roman Catholics. The faithful of the Orthodox church are more interested in the outcome of the trial of the Most Reverend Dr. Tikhon, former metropolitan of Moscow, on a charge of resisting the requisitioning of church treasures, which will occur after the Easter holidays.

MORSE FIGHTING TRIAL IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington, March 29.—Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder, today carried to the District of Columbia court of appeals his fight to prevent trial here, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government, of himself, three sons and four others.

Counsel for Morse filed a petition for a writ of prohibition which, if granted, would prevent any judge in the District of Columbia supreme court from proceeding with the trial, set for Tuesday. Validity of the indictments was attacked, the petition also charging that two shipping board attorneys were in the grand jury room during examination of witnesses, when they should have been barred.

Exception was taken to the recent action of Justice Stafford in granting separate trial to Colin H. Livingstone, W. W. Scott and Leonard D. Christie, officials of the Virginia Shipbuilding company, jointly indicted with Morse, and in refusing the application for severance made by Benjamin W. and Erwin A. Morse.

HENRY M. DAWES TO BE COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY

St. Augustine, Fla., March 29.—(By The A. P.)—President Harding today let it be known that upon returning to Washington, he would appoint Henry M. Dawes, of Chicago, a banker, and a brother of Charles G. Dawes, former director of the budget, to be comptroller of the currency.

Mr. Dawes will take the office filled by D. R. Crissinger prior to his appointment to the governorship of the federal reserve board. He will be the second member of the Dawes family to be comptroller of the currency, his brother, Charles having served as comptroller in the administration of President McKinley.

Eighty five per cent. of the 827 passengers were women. Many said they were not seeking husbands, but wanted to find good jobs.

PARTLY OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES ON TRAIN

Norfolk, Conn., March 29—Several passengers on a Winsted to Canaan train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad were partly overcome by gas fumes today when a coal heater in a passenger coach exploded near West Norfolk. NOTHING SAD ABOUT THE FUNERAL OF BERNHARDT

Paris, March 29.—(By the A. P.)—The divine Sarah lies quiet and alone tonight under her mountain of flowers as the sun went down last farewells were taken of her by that [illegible] is and the world through which had moved so long under her own.

It was the end of [illegible] which had stirred Paris for [illegible] and tribute was paid to the memory of the great actress in a manner such as the queen of cities so rarely bestows except on its most beloved. This last day was as free of incidents as her life had been full of activity, work and storm.

Bernhardt was laid to rest in the cemetery of Pere Lachaise, the funeral service being conducted in the church of Saint Francois de Sales. It was one of those sunshiny days of early spring which lent its splendor to the funeral ceremonies. It was commonly commented that there was nothing sad about the event as one of sadness. The general note, as expressed by the newspapers, was that she had triumphed over death with her vigorous work and her motto: "never say die".

The ceremonies lasted throughout the day, beginning early in the morning with the transfer of the body to the church, which was hung inside the outside with black draperies. By noon, when the services began, the church was crowded and for blocks around the entrance to the church, thousands upon thousands of spectators had gathered.

The church regulations governing holy week, which allow only prayers in churches, was slightly altered to permit the singing of the mass by noted artists. When the church ceremony was over, a vaster one began; it was the procession to the cemetery. No crowned king ever received greater tribute from the people.

Mlle Louise Abbema; painter and Bernhardt's closest friend, was one of those in the procession, and after the body had been lowered into the grave, she stood with the family and shook hands with the thousands who filed through the long lines of gendarmes.

Heaped high upon the grave are vast masses of flowers. They had been sent either to the house or the church, and later were shown in the procession. But these vast quantities were not all. This evening thousands continued to file past the grave and cast flowers upon it. Bouquets and clusters of blossoms are mounting high under the greening branches of the willow, aspen and pine trees at the graveside.

Probably never so many lilies were gathered together at one ceremony. All of Bernhardt's friends, known and unknown, aware that she loved lilies above jewels and silks and glory, as she once said, selected lilies as the principal flower of their offerings.

Those humble thousands who had no invitation to the church ceremony brought lilies to the cemetery a few handful, until the stony air itself was steeped with the odor of her favorite flower.

The route taken by the cortege from the church to the cemetery was about five miles, and along all the way the people were massed in solemn silence. Bernhardt on her way to her last resting place passed by the theatre Sarah Bernhardt, where she had often appeared.

REFUSED TO DRILL UNDER KU KLUX KLAN CAPTAIN

Lake Charles, La., March 29.—Publication of a list purporting to be the names of members of the Ku Klux Klan at Lafayette, La., has resulted in trouble involving the Lafayette company of the Louisiana national guard, according to the Lake Charles American Press.

The name of Captain Paul Landry, of the guard company, is said to have been in the alleged Ku Klux roster, Monday night three guardsmen failed to appear for drill. Captain Landry sent a detail for them. The detail reported the absentees had expressed unwillingness to drill under a Ku Klux captain. Another squad brought them in and Captain Landry called a summary court. The recalcitrants were fined $20 each.

Upon leaving the armory Captain Landry was attacked. The disturbance was quelled by a non-commissioned officer.

The tension resulted in the issuance by the Rev. Jules Jeanmard, Roman Catholic bishop of Lafayette, of an address to his people urging Christian fortitude, patience and forbearance.

CHARGED WITH PLOT TO VIOLATE VOLSTEAD ACT

New York, March 29—Charged with four offenses, including conspiring to violate the Volstead act, Thomas C. Craven of Boston and New York and five others were arrested today by special prohibition agents who alleged that Craven negotiated with them for the sale of liquor imported from Cuba.

Craven, and Miss Emily A. Levy, an employe, were released in $20,000 bail each, James Dorian of Boston, Craven's chauffeur, Frank Keller and John W. Clifton, other employes, were freed in $10,000 bail each after arraignment before United States Commissioner Hitchcock. Miss Ruth Dorian, sister of the chauffeur, was released after examination at the Federal building.

The agents charged that Craven received the entire production of a Cuban alcohol distillery on permits obtained through his penuriery business and that he sold the alcohol and whiskey he otherwise obtain for beverage purposes. The agents, whose identity was unknown to him, said they paid him $500 on a quantity of liquor which he was delivering when arrested.

New York, March 29—New York's proposed half million dollar jubilee which the Citizens' Union says is $400,000 too much and has taken it to court, looked for a few minutes today as if it would be celebrated with a whoop and a bang.

Controller Craig received a check for the much needed $400,000 apparently from a public-spirited citizen who wrote that he "regretted very much the action of the court in refusing the $400,000 bond issue, and I attach the enclosed check for the amount."

When the controller's representative went to the bank to have the check certified, he learned that the donor of the check had a bank balance of only $120.96.

Hartford Hearing on Light Wines and Beer

On the McGrath Resolution to Memorialize Congress to Amend and Modify the Volstead Act.

Hartford, March 29.—The McGrath resolution calling upon the Connecticut general assembly to memorialize congress to amend the Volstead act so as to permit the sale of light wines and beer was bitterly opposed by representatives of temperance societies in the state at a hearing before the committee on federal relations today.

In the preamble of the resolution it was declared that the Volstead enforcement act had stirred up general and widespread discontent; that the act was vicious and obnoxious to free men in its intent; that it had resulted in a "saturnalia" of lawlessness, and that it was entirely unenforceable.

Senator McGrath declared that his primary reason for introducing the resolution was to assist in bringing back a "respect for law" among the citizens of the country. He said that the regulation of private habits had resulted in a general disrespect for the law which was growing stronger constantly.

"I do not want to see the day come when we will have whiskey," he said, "but I do think that if the people were given light wines and beers we would have less drinking of strong liquor and more respect for law and order. People are violating all kinds of laws to obtain liquor, and they are indifferent to enforcing the present liquor laws."

He also declared that more drinking was being done in homes than ever before and that persons who were abstainers before prohibition were now making "home brew." He cited the memorial adopted by the state of New York as an indication of public opinion.

Senator Dignam said that the present law was unenforceable and that either it should be enforced, "which is impossible," or else it should be modified.

Representative Jackson of Naugatuck declared that prohibition was the most pernicious act ever passed for a free people. Senators Clyne and Harter and Representatives Hyland (Enfield), Malloy (Derby) and Reilly (Naugatuck) went on record as supporting the resolution. Representative Hall (Waterbury) went on record as opposing it.

E. M. G. Hohenthal of South Manchester, chairman of the Connecticut prohibition committee and of the Society of Temperance of Connecticut, was the chief speaker in opposition. He declared that prohibition was enforceable and that it had lifted the general tone of politics and industry by closing out the saloons. He said that to bring back light wines and beers would be a backward step and would be only for the benefit of liquor brewers and not for the welfare of the public.

"This act is not a matter of regulating private appetite," he declared, "it is a matter of regulating a public traffic, and as such it has every right to be legislated against. We have had referendums on prohibition and the return to Washington each session of a dryer and dryer congress is proof enough of the sentiment of the public."

Herbert Ekins, Jr., associate superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, declared that he had been in 130 towns of the state and that he had observed no "saturnalia of crime." He said that people are accepting the law and that enforcement of prohibition was growing better. He declared that crime had decreased and cited prison statistics throughout the state.

Others who spoke against the resolution were George E. Coffin, Jr., superintendent Connecticut Temperance union: Roger W. Davis and E. Stanley Wells, representing the union; Mary B. Wilson, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union; Ernest W. Claypool, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of Connecticut and Rhode Island, and Severin Johnson, superintendent of the Scandinavian Good Templars.

Senator French and Representative Southwick, of the committee, announced that they had received many letters protesting against the resolution.

ACHIEVES HIS AMBITION TO OWN HIS OWN CHURCH

New York, March 29.—A long-cherished ambition to own his own church and from its pulpit broadcast his own ideals, has been realized by the Rev. Antonio Gallopi, assistant pastor of the Italian Evangelical church, Astoria, and steamship ticket agency operator.

He has made a first payment of $4,000 on the old Presbyterian church in Astoria, built in 1846, which its parishioners abandoned for a larger edifice. He plans to reach the large Italian colony in Astoria by appealing to their children with athletic games and dramatic performances several times a week.

"It's a good bargain and not everybody owns a church," the clergyman said today after the deal was closed. "It may be several months before we get started. I must first make arrangements with the New York City Baptist Mission society."

FIRE DISCOVERED IN TORRINGTON SCHOOL

Torrington, Conn., March 29—The 600 pupils in the Harwinton Corner district school marched out in good order this morning when fire was discovered in the upper part of the building. A fire truck was called from Torrington to extinguish the blaze. The building is of frame construction and a high wind was blowing, but the firemen succeeded in checking the blaze before serious damage was done. Sparks from the chimney are believed to have set the roof afire. The damage was about $200.

"DRY" OFFICERS ORDERED TO WATCH ALL HIGHWAYS

Hartford, March 29—Watch all the highways closely. Halt any motor truck or pleasure car that looks suspicious. These are the orders which prohibition agents all over the state received a few days ago from federal prohibition director MacKenzie. He announced today that he had sent forth these orders because the disappearance of snow from the highways would probably result in a resumption of traffic in liquor over the highways and by ways in motor trucks and pleasure cars.

Great Britain Friend Of the Jewish People

New York, March 29.—Lord Robert Cecil who recently arrived here from London has given a statement to the Jewish press, which will appear in the new Palestine organ of the Zionist Organization of America in its issue tomorrow. The statement says:

"The British government and the responsible right-thinking people of England are for the establishment of the Jewish national homeland in Palestine. Great Britain will never withdraw her promises."

Lord Cecil is also quoted as saying: "I believe that when the history of the war comes to be impartially written, the two greatest results will be the establishment of the National Jewish Home and the creation of the league of nations. The two are not really disconnected. They represent the two great ideas for which we fought and by which we conquered—the ideas of national and international nationalism."

Referring to recent cable reports from London quoting an article appearing in the Daily Express, to the effect that Zionism was dying, Lord Cecil declared:

"It is most absurd to say that Zionism is dying. Zionism is synonomous with Judaism, and the Jewish people have had sufficient experience to know that the opposition of its enemies serves only to strengthen it."

When asked what influence the attacks of Zionism had on British public opinion his answer was:

"No influence whatever. Great Britain does not listen to the enemies of the Jewish people and of Zionism. Great Britain is a friend of the Jews, and a friend needs no explanation, and to an enemy explanations are of no avail. The Jews like all other people must expect opposition. Has not Great Britain enemies; has not American enemies? Why worry? The Jews who have lived for 2,000 years in strange lands must expect that some one will attack them, but they should be proud of the fact that they have good friends who will always be with them."

He pleaded guilty of defrauding the hotel and was sentenced to from six months to three years in the penitentiary. Probation officers reported he had worked similar swindles at other big hotels.

[illegible] TO THE [illegible] OF [illegible] NATIONS

French and Belgians Hold the Nationalists Responsible for Violent Outbursts Against Allied Officers and Soldiers in Unoccupied Territory—Many Members Have Been Arrested and Expelled—Socialist Parties of Belgium, Great Britain, France and Italy Are to Draft a Resolution for a Settlement of the Ruhr Controversy.

Essen, March 29.—(By the A. P.)—A vigorous campaign to rid the Ruhr of German Nationalists, who have been strenuously opposing the French and Belgians since they marched into the valley January 11, has been started by the armies of occupation. The Nationalists are held responsible for the outbursts of violence which have taken place lately against French and Belgian officers and soldiers.

Many leaders and members of the party have been arrested in Essen during the last few days and expelled into unoccupied Germany, systematically searching the homes of nationalists, have found vast amounts of propaganda tracts and arms and other material connected with the operations of the nationalists and their allied secret societies.

SOCIALISTS PLAN TO SETTLE THE RUHR CONTROVERSY

Paris, March 29—(By the A. P.)—A delegation of the socialist parties of Belgium, Great Britain, France and Italy which, at the request of the meeting of the socialist parliamentarian recently visited Berlin to confer with the leaders of the German social democratic party on the question of a settlement of the Ruhr controversy, returned to Paris today.

The members of the delegation tonight expressed satisfaction over their visit. They will meet tomorrow and draw up a resolution embodying the results of their deliberations, which will be presented to their respective governments.

The meeting of the socialist parliamentarians was held in the committee rooms of the French chamber of deputies March 29. The meeting unanimously resolved that arbitration of the Ruhr situation should be taken over by the United States, or else the entire situations must be referred to the league of nations for settlement.

All the delegations were of opinion that the present situation created through the French occupation of the Ruhr, would, if continued "until a fatal crisis", prove detrimental to the peaceful reconstruction of Europe.

GERMANY ANSWERED BY SEIZURE OF VINEYARDS

Coblenz, March 29.—(By the A. P.)—The seizure by the French of the Prussian state-owned vineyards along the Moselle has created more stir in the occupied territories among the German populations than the occupation of the coal mines and coke ovens in the Ruhr. It was announced today that the confiscation of state-owned vineyards, which cover thousands of acres, will be extended at an early date to the Rhine river, on the banks of which the Prussian state has vast tracts devoted to grape growing.

Millions of gallons of wine owned by the government are stored in casks and tanks all along the Rhine, and the occupying armies are keeping a sharp lookout against their removal or wilful or accidental leakage.

The confiscation of the wine is being carried out under a decree of the inter-allied Rhineland commission here and the product, much of which is already bottled, is being sold and the proceeds applied to the reparations account.

GERMANS ARE SHY OF INTERNAL LOAN

Berlin, March 29—(By the A. P.)—Only twenty-five per cent. of Germany's internal fifty million dollar loan has been covered by popular subscription, according to returns made public today. While this result is designated as meeting official expectations under the prevailing political and economic conditions, the financial critics frankly concede that the showing is anything but flattering.

Whether the Reichsbank will succeed in disposing of the unsubscribed balance is highly doubtful, although the hope is expressed that the loan will be listed on German bourses, and will consequently find added takers.

The press reproaches the reparations commission for its alleged intimidation of prospective subscribers, charging that repeated indirect threats that the loan will be seized or declared null and void obviously account for the suspicion with which it is viewed by small investors.

Although it has scored only half a success the loan will enable the Reichsbank to continue its action in stabilizing the mark at the present level. The recent transfer to Switzerland of 100,000,000 gold marks, which are to remain in deposit there, is also viewed as a move in the direction of stabilizing the mark through the medium of a gold reserve abroad which is instantly available. No gold deposits in England and Switzerland may amount to 100,000,000 marks.

Germany's currency circulation will be well in excess five trillion marks at the conclusion of the first quarter of the current year, a new record being reached with the last week's output, which totalled 631,000,000,000.

TO EXAMINE WITNESSES IN DOROTHY KEENAN CASE TODAY

New York, March 29.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora, who concerned himself today with other duties, announced that he would devote tomorrow to re-examination of witnesses in the Dorothy Keenan murder case.

At the same time, Mr. Pecora announced that he had asked the police to obtain various letters found in the safety deposit box rented by the slain model and taken over by her mother under order from the surrogate's court. Examination of these letters, the prosecutor believed, may strengthen his theory that a ring of blackmailers used the girl as a decoy and killed her after she had refused to join a plot to "shake down" her admirers.

Those who have been asked to call at the district attorney's office include the four members of the model's family, her maid, the elevator attendant in the West 57th street apartment house where she lived and was chloroformed, and Albert E. Guimares, one of her admirers.

Guimares, after he had been held today on $2,500 bail on acharge of carrying concealed weapons, ridiculed the theory that the girl had been slain by conspirators thwarted in an effort to blackmail J. K. Mitchell, wealthy Philadelphian.

Incidentally Guimares stated that he had been introduced by Miss Keenan to Major Draper M. Daughtry, son of the United States attorney general. This contradicted a statement attributed to Daugherty by Mr. Pecora, who quoted the major as saying he was not acquainted with Guimares.

Mr. Pecora indicated that Daughterty, quizzed yesterday concerning a threat of blackmail made against him because of his friendship with the model, might be recalled.

It was understood that Mitchell, the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," and John H. Jackson, his equally mysterious "secretary," who for nine days masqueraded under the alias of "Wilson," also would be re-examined tomorrow or Saturday. It was said Mitchell would be questioned regarding certain discrepancies in his statement as to how and when the model learned his real name.

CONFESSED SYSTEMATIC SMUGGLING OF OPIUM

New York, March 29.—Father and son, Isaac Ettinger, an old government storekeeper, and his son, William J. Ettinger, an osteopath, admitted their parts today in a huge systematic opium smuggling scheme in testimony before federal judge Goddard at the trial of Themus Pavlos and Morris de Luca, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of duty of 2,000 pounds of gum opium.

Ettinger, the elder, who yesterday admitted he substituted stones for opium in a shipment made to Cuba by de Luca, declared that the experience threw him into a panic and that he fled to Mexico from whence he recently returned.

The younger Ettinger, known as "Gardo" testified that on April 2, 1922 de Luca sent for him and said he had 100 pounds of opium he wanted him to sell. Later, the witness said, he went to Pavlou's office and offered to split 50-50 on the profits of the sale. He was captured by Federal agents, he declared, when he tried to deliver the opium he had received from de Luca at the government warehouse where his father was storekeeper.

NAVAL WAGE BOARD HAS SUBMITTED ITS REPORT

Washington, March 29.—The report of the naval wage board, organized to readjust wages in navy yards throughout the country, has been laid before Acting Secretary Roosevelt by Rear Admiral Joseph Straus, the chairman.

It was understood today that the recommendations of the board if approved, were not likely to become effective before June 1. The basis of the adjusted scales, it was said, would be the prevailing rate of each trade in the community in which the yard is situated.

No details of the findings were made public, pending final action by Mr. Roosevelt.

STUDENTS WERE BUYING LIQUOR FROM BOOTLEGGERS

Columbus, Ohio, March 29.—Two of four students suspended from Ohio State university today on a number of charges, one of which was "buying liquor from bootleggers," were co-eds, President W. O. Thompson said tonight. He refused to make public their names.

"Suspension of these four students exemplifies my feeling in regard to students who violate our laws," he said. "The man who violates the Volstead act by buying intoxicating liquor is a menace to the principles of democracy."

The coldest March in the memory of the older inhabitants of this section has been experienced this year and the temperature during the past week has often been below the freezing point. The high wind which was keenly felt Wednesday continued to blow throughout the night and late in the night and early Thursday morning the thermometer reading were as low as eight above zero. Around daybreak Thursday morning the cold had reached zero in a number of places and in a few instances it remained at that degree until the sun was quite high in the heaven. Automobile radiator repairing and salesmen did a fine business Thursday as a large number of automobile owners attempted to drive Wednesday night without having prepared for such a cold snap. A number of cars sustained frozen radiators while travelling along at a good rate of speed.

At the Strand.

From ermine and jewels to gingahams and calicoes is quite a leap, but Marion Davies gracefully made it when, after finishing When Knighthood Was in Flower, she started work in Adam and Eva. In the former picture, Miss Davies plays Princess Mary Tudor and sweeps through the gorgeous settings in robes befitting her station. In Adam and Eva, which is at the Strand theatre today she plays a country girl and presides with efficiency over the bee hives and the hen roosts.

For these country scenes a fine farm near Stamford, Conn., was used. Miss Davies and her company spent two weeks there and came back to New York city enthusiastic over farm life. When it was too cloudy to work, they dashed in the trout stream flowing near the old barn, where "Eva" retrieved the family fortunes by selling eggs from contented hens; honey from happy bees."

Adam and Eva was so adapted to the screen from the stage comedy by the same name by Guy Bolton and George Middleton. Robert T. Kane directed. T. Roy Barnes heads the supporting cast.

A Hula Honey Honeymoon which was actually filmed in Honolulu was a rare treat. An up to date News Weekly closed the bill.

WESTERLY

Nathan L. Langworthy of Boston, formerly of Westerly and son of Albert H. Langworthy of this town, who was recently sentenced to four months in jail in Worcester, Mass., for causing the death of Mrs. Mary Moreau of 19 Healy road last July, was in Westerly on Wednesday afternoon by the courtesy of some official of the jail where he is serving his sentence. Reports from Worcester from the county where Mr. Langworthy was confined state that Sheriff Alvert F. Richardson, with Mrs. Richardson, are at present basking in the sunshine of a southern resort.

Inquiries about Mr. Langworthy's vacation were met by statements from the jail that he was still there and the story of his leave of absence was denied.

It was learned Wednesday that somebody gave Langworthy permission to come to Westerly to visit his mother, who is said to be ill at her home on Elm street.

County Commissioner Goodale said that Langworthy was not out on parole granted him by the county commissioners or any official qualified to grant such liberty, and that the matter will undoubtedly be investigated by the county commissioners to see who take at upon himself to let prisoners have their freedom when the sheriff is away. It was said that instructions at the jail were given not to discuss the case and information as to whether Langworthy returned to the jail or in whose custody he was placed while in Westerly was refused.

Langworthy was seen in Westerly Wednesday afternoon, apparently in his own custody.

Never before did the making of a motion picture arouse such widespread and sustained interest in "picture-bilge" Hollywood as did Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," a United Artists release coming to the Breed theatre next week starting Sunday. Throughout the several months required for visualizing the enthralling story of the spirit of chivalry which marked the Twelfth century as one of the most romantic periods of all history, the Pickford-Fairbanks Studios at which this film was produced with such surpassing care were besieged constantly by crowds of sightseers eager to get glimpses of Mr. Fairbanks and his company in their artistic endeavors on the exceptionally big and elaborate sets.

Of course, it was impossible to accommodate any considerable percentage of the crowds, but during the course of activities hundreds of people were admitted to the grounds and among these were scores of distinguished men and women, many of world-wide reputation. In fact, if the list of celebrities who witnessed some portion of the work of making Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood were compiled, it would read like a social register and "Who's Who" of the world all in one.

Ambassadors, senators, governors, famous authors, painters and architects, noted champions of various popular sports and master lecturers of distinction, savants in general and celebrated exponents of the highest dramatic art, all have vied with each other to get close views of Mr. Fairbanks and his supporting cast in their portrayal of the characters in this immortal story of times 800 years ago.

Despite the heavy responsibilities resting on his shoulders and the need for concentration on his histrionic work, this favorite romantic star managed to find time to personally extend greetings to all distinguished guests and in many instances he was able to entertain such parties for one or two hours at a time.

"It was a protracted session of the open house and it was great," Mr. Fairbanks declared after it was all over.

Broadway Theatre.

We have been told to expect the most in thrills from Katherine MacDonald's latest First National release, Money, Money, Money! which begins a three day engagement at the Broadway theatre Friday and Saturday.

Miss MacDonald meets an emergency in the story by driving a high-powered car through a blinding storm—racing against time in order to save her father from disgrace and foreclosure on his factory.

As Priscilla Hobbs, anxious of every little social favor that doesn't belong to her, she persuades her father to accept a twenty-thousand dollar advance on an estate before the affairs of the estate are settled. It is when the settlement is reached, and the Hobbs discover that they have been bequeathed a wheelbarrow and about twelve dollars in cash and they realize the force behind the suggestion of Carter, the banker, when he induced Hobbs to accept the money on notes.

Herschell Mayall has the role of Carter, and Carl Stockdale appears as Hobbs. Others in the cast are Frances Raymond, Paul Willis, Brenda Fowler, Margaret Loomis, Charles Clary and Jack Dougherty.

Larry Evans, who provided the story, wrote it especially for Katherine MacDonald, and while preparing his play embodied the sort of incidents that give full play to the star's daring as a thriller.

Crane, May and Crane is the featuring act at the Broadway the first half of the week. They present Songs of Long Ago, which are revised in their own manner, which makes it very entertaining act. Burns and Rogers present a forceful comedy called "Pals First." Burns and Rowe have an act called Singing Skill. Miss Rowe is one of Australia's fairest daughters, does odd tricks on a wire. Sabo and Hoo Hoo have an act of hands that mean you know.

Breed Theatre.

There are several big gulps in the throat in Through a Glass Window, a Realart picture starring May McAvoy, which is the feature at the Breed theatre today and Saturday, but perhaps the biggest one comes when the little heroine works all night to make paper flowers and transforms for a sick mother a sordid tenement backyard into a semblance of country beauty.

And then comes a lump when the mother, happily recovered, makes one of a party which jaunts in a vegetable wagon for a day at the beach with roller coasters, merry-go-rounds, and similar concomitants.

So it goes through the entire picture, a May McAvoy starring vehicle for Famous Players-Lasky. There is a delightful intermixture of pathos and comedy, "smiling through tears," so to speak. Miss McAvoy sustains her reputation and she is assisted by a capable cast including Raymond McKee, Fannie Midgley, Burwell Hamrick, Fred Turner, Carrie Clark Ward, Wade Boteler and Russ Powell. Olga Printzlau wrote the story while Maurice Campbell directed.

Ruth Roland in The Timber Queen, the Pathe News and a Christie comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

GOV. TEMPLETON SAYS HE WILL VETO SUNDAY SPORTS BILL IF IT COMES TO HIM.

Hartford, March 29.—Governor Templeton, who has twice spoken publicly as to his attitude toward legalizing professional baseball and foorball on Sunday today made it clear to legislators his intention to veto the Sunday sports bill. In an address to the farmers organization he said in part:

"I don't believe Connecticut wants to legalize Sunday sports. We are not ready. There is a great difference between allowing Sunday baseball, as we do in Waterbury, and legalizing Sunday baseball. Anyone can stop the game in Waterbury, but no one desires to do so. If baseball were legalized no one could stop the game, and it would be opening the door to legalize everything else. If that bill comes to me I shall exercise my veto power.

The governor also said he "would feel ashamed if future generations should look back and identify his administration with this measure."

Governor Templeton also made a plea for a state purchasing agent and for a more business-like way of running the highway department, saying he inclined towards a three-headed commission as the most practical. He declared he had been converted to the triple-headed commission by Highway Commissioner Bennett, who, he said, had thought the task too big for one man.

GLEASON DECLINES JOB AS LEAGUE UMPIRE

Kid Gleason, who manages the Chicago White Sox with such great success, has dabbled in, almost every department of the game.

"I have been a busher and a veteran. I have played and managed. I have been a scout and a mere spectator."

That is the way Gleason sums up his career. As a matter of fact, Gleason has done everything that pertains to baseball except umpire.

The story now comes out that Gleason could have been an umpire in the National League in 1918 had he so desired. Bill Klem, star umpire of the league, is the authority for the story.

"Back in 1918 the National League was looking for some new umpires," relates Klem. "President Heydler asked me if I knew anyone I could recommend.

"Why not give Kid Gleason a chance? He hasn't reported to the Chicago White Sox and would make a good umpire." Heydler agreed and I made a special trip to Philadelphia to talk it over with Gleason.

"Many thanks, but nothing doing," was Gleason's reply before I even finished my story.

"I will fight anyone, I don't even bar Dempsey. I will take a whirl at any game of chance, but when it comes to umpiring, count me out. The odds are 1,000 to 1 against you getting an even break when you start and the odds grow bigger the longer you umpire."

SLOW DELIVERY BEST TO STOP LIVELY BALL

Already from southern training camps is being wafted the news about the peculiar deliveries that some of the recruits are putting on display, as well as new styles being developed by the veterans.

Big league pitchers are all working on the theory that the lively ball is to be continued in the majors. It was proved last year that speed and curves alone will not get by with the lively ball.

A change of pace, a slow ball, or some pitching delivery like the knuckle or fingernail which calls for only ordinary speed, is now absolutely necessary for success as a big league pitcher.

Last season Joe Bush, with his fork ball, is merely a slow ball that drops like a spitter, made a most sensational comeback. Bush was once a fast ball pitcher exclusively. An injured arm put him out of the running. He spent two years perfecting a slow ball and last year was one of the most effective pitchers in the American league.

Eddie Rommel of the Athletics won 27 games with a seventh place team. While Rommel has everything, including great control, a knuckle or finger-nail ball is his best asset.

NEW HAVEN TEAM WINS VOLLEYBALL TITLE

FANS WANT RABBIT PUNCH ABOLISHED

Many boxing fans are urging the New York commission to take steps to bar the rabbit punch before its use results in a fatality. This, they say, almost happened when Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, used it in knocking out Bill Brennan.

As Brennan was falling Firpo brought his huge fist down with all his strength on the back of Brennan at the base of the skull and virtually paralyzed him. The next day he was taken to the hospital with concussion of the brain.

The rabbit punch cannot be delivered unless a mans head is turned down and it is usually employed when a fighter is reeling and groggy.

MOLLA END FRENCH TOUR WITH DEFEAT

Cannes, France, March 29.—(By the A. P.)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's four weeks tennis campaign along the Riviera ended disastrously today when she met defeat in the women's singles at the hands of the comparatively unknown Mlle Vlasco. The score was 8-6, 9-7.

Mlle Vlasco, while unknown outside the Riviera, is one of the best young players developed in France, where the standard of the women players has greatly outdistanced that of the men. During the past few years.

In the mixed doubles Mlle. Suzanne Lengien and C. F. Aeschlman won from Mrs. Beamish and Count De Grafenreid, 6-3, 6-1.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallory will leave here on Sunday aid sail for the United States on board the Homeric from Cherbourg on Wednesday.

"Y" Junior Hexathlon.

Good scores were made in the junior hexathlon athletic meet just conducted for the junior members of the "Y" gym classes. This contest was a part of a national Y. M. C. A. meet in which various associations conducted their meets on their own floors, and as soon as all results are received at the Y headquarters in New York the winning "Y's" will be announced. The best records and winners locally were as follows:

60-80-pound all round champion—Harry Ogulnick; second, Don Royce.

Medals will be awarded the winners in each class, while buttons will be awarded to the following scoring over 400 points: Lawrence Browning, P. MacNamara, Randall Williams, Otis Fellows, Arthur Armstrong was the only boy scoring over 500 points for which a button of special design will be awarded.

BASEBALL DOPE BOOK MAKES ANNUAL APPEARANCE

First signs of the arrival of the baseball season of 1923 were evident with the departure of the major league players for their training camps, but that the season has surely arrived is now certain with the appearance of the first schedule and record book. As usual it is The Dope Book, published by C. C. Spink & Son, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of The Sporting News.

Most welcome feature of this book this year is the appearance of practically all the minor league schedules in connection with the major league schedules in connection with the major league dates given day by day. Special attention is also devoted to playing records established last year, considerable space being given to details covering the new home-run record of Rogers Hornsby. George Sisler's records for 1922 are also given in detail. Among the features are a special section devoted to complete biographies of the stars of the major league teams, instructions on how to score, baseball abbreviations, how to compute averages, world's series review, minor league series, etc.

STRINGENT RULES LAID DOWN ON SALE OF YALE-HARVARD TICKETS

New Haven, March 29.—A thoroughly revised schedule for the allotment of tickets for championship football games in which Yale participates was made public tonight by a special committee appointed last winter at Yale to investigate methods of distributing tickets on a satisfactory and equitable basis.

The committee was appointed in an effort to solve the increasingly difficult problem of satisfying the thousands of graduates and under graduates of Yale who each year seek to witness the Harvard and Princeton games. More or less criticism has been expressed by graduates who felt that the enormous capacity of the bowl should amply provide for member of the universities involved and their families. Last year 76,000 persons saw the Yale-Harvard game here.

The system followed by the special committee is based fundamentally on that used in preceding years. It calls, however, for definite classifications of persons entitled to tickets and in many cases cuts the number of tickets allotted in each division.

In announcing the revised schedule the committee says: "It has been fully realized that when the demand for tickets for the football game is so great, it is extremely difficult to satisfy all members of the university and of the alumni body. The committee believes, however, that the plan which is outlined will adjust the demand to the supply and also that the regulations provide the best possible arrangement regarding location of seats."

Applicants for tickets in the future will be required to sign a specific agreement binding them to use personally at least one of the tickets they secure or else to return them to the athletic association in time for their re-sale. The new schedule calls for 12 groups while in each group tickets will be distributed in order of seniority.

Subscribers to the Yale bowl fund are placed in the first class receiving seats in the center sections of the bowl. These seats are considered the best and in each classification the committee has endeavored to place graduates and undergraduates within the goal lines.

The second class consists of the president of the university, the president emeritus, the football captain and manager and the head coach. They will receive 12 tickets each for the Princeton game, which will be played in Cambridge this year.

The third and fourth classes take in the players themselves each of whom is allotted between 8 and 10 tickets for the Princeton game and between three and six for the Harvard game, a decrease over their former allotment.

The fifth division is a new one created for the benefit of graduates and under-graduates who want but one ticket for each game, thus securing slightly better seats.

The sixth and seventh divisions are for various officers of the university and of the football camp, while the eighth class takes in the great body of undergraduates and alumni each of whom is allotted three tickets for the Princeton game and two for the Harvard game. This represents a cut of one. The freshmen come in the next class, being allotted three tickets for the Princeton game and but one to the Harvard game.

The last three classes include various ex-members of the college and of the graduate schools who are allotted two tickets each for the Princeton game and but one for the Harvard game.

Reservations for 250 seats will be made for public officials of New Haven, while 20 seats will be reserved at the Princeton game for Harvard football scouts.

Members of the committee are: Mortimer N. Buckner, '96, chairman alumni advisory board; William S Griswold, '99, chairman University fund association; Robert M. Hutchens, '21, secretary of the university; H. F. Woodcock, general manager athletic association; Charles P. Luckey, '23, undergraduate manager of the 1923 football team, and C. W. Mendell, '04, chairman of the board of athletic control.

One Change in Bowling Leaders.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29 (By the A. P.)—Only one change in the five leaders in the different events of the American Bowling Congress tournament took place today. C. Lemington and J. Cantwell of Kenosha, Wis., rolled into second place of the doubles with 1,288. Lemington had games of 222, 243 and 244 for 709.

Cantwell held the team from first place by his 579, on games of 193, 184 and 202.

T. Krank, also of Kenosha, was the high scorer in the day's singles. He turned in 658 on games of 200, 236 and 222.

SPENCER'S COLTS WIN SERIES FROM COMBAT TRAIN

Once again the Combat Train indoor baseball team tasted the bitter pill of defeat when on Thursday evening Spencer's Colts trimmed them by the score of 22 to 14. The game was very uninteresting the Colts, taking the lead early in the game and holding throughout. Capt. Burdick and Freddie Morrall was the battery for the soldiers while Spencer and Murphy worked for the Colts. This gives the Colts the series with the soldiers.

Spellman to Lead Brown Grapplers.

Providence, R. I., March 29.—John F. Spellman of Somers, Conn., was today elected captain of the Brown University wrestling team for 1923-24. Spellman is also captain-elect of the football team and is the first Brunonian in some time to hold double athletic honors. He is the open heavyweight amateur wrestling champion of New England. Spellman, who plays left tackle on the football eleven, is a junior and a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. His election will come up for ratification by the athletic board after the Easter recess.

Lord and Ryan to Meet.

New York, March 29.—Robert M. Lord of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, and A. V. Ryan of New York will meet tomorrow night to decide which will be 1923 amateur national champion of three-cushion billiards.

Ryan won his way into the final contest tonight by defeating Harold L. Turk, New York state champion, 50 to 40 in 66 innings and Lord became his opponent when Turk defaulted his other semi-final match.

Californians to Come East.

Berkeley, Calif., March 29.—The University of California track team for the third consecutive season is to enter the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association meet at Cambridge, May 26, it was announced today. California won the two previous meets, in which it participated.

A. T. A. Tourney in August

Chicago, March 29.—The national championship shoot of the American Trapshooting association of America today was set for August 20-25 at the South Shore Country club here.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin

New Orleans, La., March 30, 1923.—If a theatrical manager gathered together on one stage Al Jolson, Fred Stone, George Cohan, Will Rogers, Doug Fairbanks, Rudy Valentino, John McComick, Charley Winninger and a half dozen more like them with the object of putting on an all-star show the impressario probably would say, "Boys, here the piece—lyrics and score complete; go to it; we give our first performance next Monday night."

And there you have an illustration of Miller Huggins and his Yankees. Colonels Ruppert and Huston have inked in checks which have gathered together the best baseball talent obtainable—an all-star cast. They have won two pennants and are confident that by superior force alone they will win a third in 1923. Therefore, the Yanks think that the muscle-training, wind-cutting fundamental labor indulged in by other big league clubs is entirely unnecessary for them. But playing on the stage and playing on the diamond different vocations.

Yanks Must Fight

However, a visit to New Orleans develops one thought—an overwhelming thought. If the Yankees win their third straight pennant, beating the Tigers, Athletics, Browns, White Sox and Indians, teams that are tailing earnestly and in accord with strict managerial discipline to get ready for the long and hard campaign of 1923—well, you work out the answer; we can't.

On the other hand, the reformation of Mr. Ruth has been so complete that perhaps Manager Huggins feels Ruth force will conquer the most carefully prepared opposition that may be thrown against his company of b. b. artists. The Babe is one tireless worker at New Orlean, just as he was at Hot Springs and he must have been on his farm in South Sudbury, Mass., where he spent the winter shoveling paths through the snowdrifts for cows and chickens.

Pitchers Must Deliver

Even if Ruth hits seventy-five homers and other sluggers on the team murder the apple, it will require some mighty good pitching for the Yanks to repeat. In this connection, it appears that Carl Mays, the blond strong man who throws the submarine ball, is a reformed athlete, too. He has labored faithfully to condition himself for a summer of real activity and should be able to better his 1922 performance, which was twelve victories and fourteen defeats. Mays has disclaimed more work—he thinks he should pitch every third or fourth day—and we expect Carl to do more by way of earning his wages this year.

Pitchers Must Deliver

The other right-hand veterans, Joe Bush, Waite Hoyt, Bob Shawkey and Sam Jones give no indication of having gone back. If Ruth and the sluggers get the runs for them, they will win some ball games this year. Bush and Hoyt particularly, looked fit for the tray at New Orleans

The Yanks will have an asset they have not had in many years—at least one, and possibly two southpaws, who know how to hurl a baseball. Herb Pennock, obtained from the Boston proving ground, should be able for one good game a week. Suggs, a portside pitcher, who was with Memphis in the Southern Association last season, pleased those who watched him work in his spring tryouts.

Then there is Pipgras, a big kid, who won nineteen and lost nine for Charleston of the South Atlantic last year, and who was obtained from the Red Sox. Also, Roettger, another tall right-hander, who threw the apple skillfully for Sioux City of the Western League.

Schang Knows How to Work Pitchers

Wally Schang, the dean of the catching corps, is another hard worker at the training camp. He is a wise bird who will get the best from all the pitchers. Wally's first assistant probably will be Bengough, who backstopped for Buffalo in the International last year and who is a nifty young man behind mask and windpad. Fred Hofman, last season's second-string catcher, will be a member of the Yank squad this year, too.

There may be changes in the infield later, but the quartet at the start of the season will be that which was opposed to the Giants in the World Series of '22—Pipp on first, Ward on second, Scott at short and Dugan on third. Ward, we believe, would be benefited by a change of bosses, and Scott, after he plays his 1000th straight big league game, may ask for and get a rest. But the regular infield for 1923 is composed of the four men mentioned, nevertheless.

Mike McNally, last year's utility infielder, will be hanging around again. George Anderson, who was sent up by Buck Herzog, coach at the Third Army corp area baseball players, has possibilities, but seems to lack his big league habits right now. Wight, who played a fair game for Chattanooga in '22, is another hopeful. J. Franklin Baker undoubtedly is through this time. Therefore, unless Huggins finds a purchaseable infielder, he will not have strengthened his team in this department.

Bob Meusel, following in Ruth's footsteps, is playing with dash and spirit this spring. Bob is young, in good physical trim and should have a jam-up year at the bat, anyhow. Whitey Witt is offensively O. K., but he is not the fast and competent flychaser and thrower the Yanks need to cover the vast expanse of territory between the giants, Ruth and Meusel. However, it is doubtful whether any of the rookies is better than Whitey.

Ollie Tucker who batted 331 for New Orleans in the Southern last season probably is the best of the recruits. Harvey Hendricks, who was with Galveston last year and who makes one think of Harry Hellman, the Tigers' gardener (though Hendricks bats left-handed) is making a favorable impression. Hinkey Haines, former Penn State athlete, who was such a big help to Jersey City in the A. A. last year, may be kept on the bench in the course of the coming campaign, but he doesn't play his best wearing big league garments.

MOORE WINS MID-ATLANTIC INDOOR SKATING TITLE

New York, March 29.—Joe Moore, metropolitan indoor ice skating champion, tonight won the Middle Atlantic title in the final events of the annual tournament at the Iceland Skating Club by winning the two-mile class a race and taking second place in the quarter-mile event. These results brought his total score for the three nights to 150 points.

Moore made the two miles in 6 minutes 50 4-5 seconds. Carl Forsman, of Iceland, who was first in the quarter-mile race with 46 1-5 seconds, took second place in the tournament with 75 points. Bobby Hearn, Melrose A. A., was third in the 440, and third in the tournament with 45 points. Ray Schwankamp, Morningside A. C., was second in the two-mile race, and West Becker, Iceland, was third.

HAGEN LEADS FIELD IN N. AND S. GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—Walter Hagen, British open champion, distanced the entire field of more than 60 contestants in the North and South open golf championship tournament today and turned in a card of 138 for the first 36 of the 72 holes to be played.

With a sensational finish of the last 18 holes in the afternoon, Hagen made 68, 3 under par, after taking a 70, 1 below par, on the first 18 in the morning. No one else did better than 145 for the day, that figure being the score for Jock Hutchinson of Evanston, Cyril Walker of Englewood and Marty O'Loughlin of Plainfield, N. J., metropolitan open champion and New Jersey title holder.

M'AULIFFE PICKED AS FIRPO'S NEXT OPPONENT

New York, March 29.—Jack McAuliffe, 2nd, Detroit heavyweight, was chosen today as the opponent for Luis Angel Firpo, South American boxer, to appear on the same card with Jess Willard and Floyd Johnson at the Yankee stadium on May 12 for the benefit of the milk fund. The selection met with the approval of William Muldoon, chairman of the state boxing commission.

ZACK WHEAT REJECTS HIS BROOKLYN CONTRACT

New York, March 29.—Zack Wheat, captain and veteran outfielder of the Brooklyn National, has rejected his 1923 contract, according to advices today from the team's training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Wheat has been at camp several days but it was said a series of conferences failed to break a deadlock over the salary question between the player and President Charles H. Ebbets.

Wheat was reported to be holding out for $10,000, while Ebbets was quoted as saying that unless the player signed at the club's figure, he need not accompany the Dodgers north.

SWATZBURG GETTING IN SHAPE FOR O'DOWD

Fred Swatzburg (Kid Miller), local bantam weight, who is slated to meet Willie O'Dowd of Central Village on the card at Danielson the first week in April, is rounding into shape for his bout. The Kid is down to weight and hard as nails, but is doing only light work at present. The Kid realizes that O'Dowd is no slouch and that he will have to travel to get the decision from the upstate boy. The Central Village lad is long and lanky and Miller is training for just such material as O'Dowd.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

With 75 players on the Cardinals' roster, Manager Rickey will find considerable work in distributing his surplus talent among the minors.

From all accounts Bill Brennan was punished more severely in his bout with Firpo than he was in his previous bouts with Jack Dempsey.

Charles H. Ebbets says he would not take $5,000,000 for the Brooklyn team, which shows there is at least one person who thinks well of the Robins.

The Ben Millers soccer team of St. Louis has defeated the national champions, Scullins Steel, also of the Mound City, three times this season.

From the way "Reb" Russell, the Pirates' slugger, has been hitting in practice games he must be all set to go after home run honors this season.

Baseball scribes who have been watching the Braves perform declare that Jocko Conlon, former Harvard star, will surely make the grade in the big league.

It would seem an easy matter to arrange championship bouts in all the boxing classes with the exception of the heavyweight division. The mighty Jack Dempsey seems doomed to remain idle.

there is a reason for everything—and the reason why Congress Shirts always look better, fit better and wear better is because for over sixty years we have always tried to make better shirts.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Uncle Lucky Lost His Hat.

Now, when Dr. Quack, the famous duck doctor fell out of the Luckymobile into the river, as I told you in the last story, the two little rabbits almost went after him—that is, they would have if they hadn't held on tight when the Luckymobile stopped all of a sudden, just like that.

"Goodness me!" said the old gentleman rabbit, "it's lucky we had a duck for a passenger instead of a cat," and he almost cried, for would you believe it, when he put his paw up to his head, he found that his dear old wedding stovepipe hat was gone.

"Oh, dear, what has become of my hat!" he said.

"There it goes, down the river!" shouted Little Jack Rabbit.

Oh, dear me again and three times more. Wasn't that just too dreadful for anything? Why, you know and I know and everybody who has read those stories knows how much Uncle Lucky thinks of his old wedding stovepipe hat.

"What shall I do, what shall I do? Oh, dear I'm in a dreadful stew. Away from here I'll never go, Until I find my old chapeau."

I'm an Irish fish and me name is Pat.
And I know you're an honest old rabbit man.
And you shall have your hat," said Pat McCann.

"I'd take you for a ride in my Luckymobile only I know you won't want to leave the river," said kind Uncle Lucky, but the fish didn't wait to hear anything more. Maybe he was out of breath for fishes can only breathe under water, you know.

"Well, my name is Lucky and I guess I am Lucky," said the old gentleman rabbit, wiping the old wedding stovepipe hat carefully with his blue silk polkadot handkerchief.

After that, they turned the Luckymobile around and went down a little by-road till they came to a barn where a cousin of the old red rooster lived. He was a big Plymouth Rock and wore a shepherd plaid suit with a red necktie and a big diamond horseshoe pin.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Lucky Leffhindfoot," said the big rooster, "how is my brother getting along?"

"That's just what I came to see you about," said the old gentleman rabbit, "he's been working for me all winter, tending to the furnace and shoveling snow, coaling the pigeons and cleaning the Luckymobile, but now that Spring is come, he wants to go on a farm."

"You don't say so?" said the big Plymouth Rock Rooster, "what for?"

"Because he says he wants to go
Where every morning he can crow,
And where the cow with the crumpled horn
And maybe the sheep all shaven and shorn,"

COOPERATION IS NECESSARY.

This is not the season of the year when the mosquitoes are causing any particular distress, but it is nevertheless an excellent time to think about what can and should be done at the proper time for the elimination of such a pest.

There is thus reason for appreciation over the fact that the general assembly has displayed a favorable interest in the problem of eliminating the mesquito. Whatever is done to reduce the number calls for general cooperation. With the state directing such work or cooperating with the towns an ideal attack should result.

It is folly for one community to undertake the task of solving this problem alone, even though it is the worst sufferer. This is because it is invariably the fact that the breeding places are just as extensive in sections beyond its borders as within and what it does in the way of elimination goes for naught because surrounding communities fail to cooperate.

The importance of a general opposition is emphasized by the situation that exists in Providence, which wouldn't know what to make of the condition if it wasn't besieged by countless fleets of mosquitoes from the opening to the close of the season. More effective means than the oil of citronella have been employed there for the prevention of the pest, and if the breeding places within the city were alone responsible it seems probable that the desired relief would be obtained. But the futility of tackling the problem successfully from within only to have nothing done in surrounding territory where the breeding places are as bad if not worse has been clearly disclosed.

What is called for is close cooperation by all communities where the low land in which mosquitoes breed is located. The object is certainly desirable and none should be more eager for it than those who are obliged from year to year to bear the brunt of the mosquito parades.

HERE AND ABROAD.

Frequent reference is made to the contrast in the American and British methods of dealing with criminals, in the amount of time devoted to trials and the larger number of capital crime cases in this country than abroad.

Basil Thomson, formerly head of Scotland Yard, has been lecturing in this country and he has taken occasion to refer to the parole system that exists here. It is something which the British do not approve and why they do not is evidently expressed in his statement to the effect that it is because of this system that there are five times as many murders in the United States as in England in proportion to the population.

It is well known what a lot of maudlin sentiment is displayed during murder cases and how often much more sympathy is shown for the person who committed the deed than for the person killed or those left to mourn. And even after conviction may be obtained with or without capital punishment, it is known what prolonged and determined efforts are made to prevent the carrying out of the sentence.

Repeated are the instances where the parole system simply turns back the quicker upon the public those criminals from whom it ought to be protected. It is because the system has not been perfected to the point where those directing it are able to determine which prisoners are going to behave and which are not, while there are those cases where prison conduct is the chief basis for action after a certain part of the sentence has been served.

While the parole system is intended for the purpose of giving a chance to those who have gotten into the toils of the law through bad judgment and have been taught a lifelong lesson by their experience, it is frequently shown how often it slips up. England takes the view that making the way easy for the criminal is a poor way of placing discouragement in the path of the wrong doer.

WASTING TIME.

Because they are men of prominence much attention is being given to the conference between Elbert H. Gary and Hugo Stinnes in Rome. Mr. Gary is not the representative of any country. He is an important business man of this country, who is now spending some time in Europe. Just what is expected from such a conference is not disclosed, except that possibly the German leader hopes to have some pressure started by the American leader for an adjustment of the reparations question.

On the part of Stinnes it represents adherence to that policy of refraining from any direct negotiations with France. Germany has gone all around the board endeavoring to have someone else intercede in behalf of a settlement of the situation. France has intimated that it wants no meddling. It has made it clear that it is ready to hear anything that Germany has to say or offer. But with France settled in the Ruhr, extending its activities and announcing that it is there to stay, it remains for Germany to adjust itself to the situation and expect that France will proceed to collect as it has planned or else it must take steps to counteract it and bring about some other settlement.

Stinnes may be hopeful of his mission to Italy but it gives the impression that it is only a further waste of time. Gary is not a representative of France.

CORRECT NAVAL INFORMATION

A development that was to be expected as the result of the wrong information obtained for the state department concerning the British navy comes through the steps that have been taken by the navy department to prevent a recurrence of anything of the kind in the future. This it is hoped to accomplish through having each of the nations furnish the facts regarding their navies instead of permitting others to get what they can by such methods as they can. Instead of permitting misinformation to be distributed under the guise of facts the desire is to deal only in admitted facts.

The disclosure concerning the British navy gives the navy department of this government reason to verify such facts as it has regarding other nations. It doesn't desire to misjudge them. Its sole purpose is to guard itself, and that is what all are seeking.

Under the terms of the naval treaty it was sought to end that constant suspicion which one nation had of the activities of the other navalwise by curtailing the naval construction and keeping them on the same basis. Strengthening of the navies would be gradual in the future and according to a fixed scale. That being the case there is no reason why each of the signers should not make known the full facts concerning their naval strength, their plans and attainments. Similar information produced by all overcomes the need of secrecy and it is by far preferable that there should be correct information in the hands of the other nations than to have them making preparations in accord with false facts concerning one or more of the others. The navy department does well in promptly moving to correct or verify all information in its files.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DUTY.

Action taken in other states against the conditions that are permitted by Pennsylvania has struck home, if we can judge by the [illegible] Public Ledger of that city. In approving [illegible] against "fireproof" coal this writer says: It is a very serious reflection on our state legislators not to have passed such a law in this state long ago, and the least they can do now to repair their neglect of the public, whose guardians they are, is to pass such a law immediately without the long and tricky "hearings." "No hearings" should be necessary in passing a law against robbery, unless the professional robbers are in the majority and need protection or have a stranglehold on our legislators. The immense amounts of coal thus seized would be a godsend if given to the poor, and the fines would greatly help the state."

The gift of such coal to the poor would seem little better than an insult, but the idea that Pennsylvania should adopt such a law and see that itr was enforced is no more than it called for by the fact that it is itself collecting a tax on this very production against which other states are acting.

Pennsylvania has every reason not only for fighting fireproof coal, but for abolishing the tax on such an article.

AT APRICOT LAKE

Dear Hortense: You just can't tell one thing about a man!

You would never believe, just to look at Norman Notchworth, that he was always suffering agonies of shyness, because he is big and good-looking and masterful in appearance—and oh, my dear, the Notchworths have the most gorgeous string of cars and a real Italian garden on their grounds.

Of course all of us did feel so sorry for Norman and felt it our duty, as it were, to cure him and teach the poor chap to get a little enjoyment out of life. Fancy how stupid it must be to spend one's time dodging girls and choking with embarrassment, if one should pleasantly ask him to come in or take a ride, or otherwise act like a normal human being! The day the Afternoon club met at the Notchworths, Norman spent most of the time furiously washing the third car back of the garage while the two chauffeurs went fishing. I am certain of this because while the scores were being counted I took a little stroll through the grounds and saw him.

I had wondered where on earth he was keeping himself. Naturally, after seeing him, I was not going to do anything so gauche as to pretend I had not noticed him, and I called his name sweetly. The man jumped nearly a foot and dropped the sponge splash into the pail of water. He said something under his breath which I could not catch.

"Why?" I asked him reproachfully, coming nearer where I hoped he would note the exquisite handwork on my new gown, "are you doing this when they are ready to serve tea, and we should all love to see you?" He swallowed and then blurted out that he hadn't expected a human soul would come around back of the garage, no matter where else they went, and that the car really needed washing. And then, muttering some excuse, he dived headlong into the garage and never came out, which was rude, to say the least. I never knew anybody so afraid of girls! Of course he had on the chauffeur's overalls and I suppose he disliked having me see him in that garb.

I can see how disturbed he might be when a girl like Bermuda Pops deliberately tries to corner him. Her methods are so transparent. They do say he would walk ten miles to avoid a block with a girl—and then Bermuda, deliberately, seeing him starting out in his speedboat, ran down and asked him in her gurgling way to take her to town. She said she was in an awful hurry and would be much obliged! The boat broke down in the middle of the lake and poor Norman had to suffer her chatter for two hours instead of ten minutes, and you may judge what he endured when I tell you that he said the best part day for a third when it was sent him! Bermuda was just [illegible] that evening. [illegible] Norman [illegible] chance to speak to.

I tried to be more subtle and when he came by our place and I chanced to be weeding the nasturtium border—I was sure Norman approved of girls who took a sensible interest in the real things of life—I would speak to him absently, asking him some little question which would necessitate his stopping at the fence. Really he was so good looking that it seemed an utter pity he was not more at ease! He would edge away almost while talking.

I disliked Ethel at once—she was one of those tall, languid, contemptuous persons, and I must say, I never could see why, as they say, that famous French portrait painter had been crazy about her and did her picture for nothing just to have it in the exhibition last spring.

She never put herself out to be interested in anybody, and as for Norman Notchworth she did not flicker an eyelash when he walked hastily across the hotel veranda and everybody told her who he was. He might have been a grain of sand to Ethel! And two weeks after her arrival Norman Notchworth and Ethel eloped to the county seat one day. They wired back that they were married and drove away in his own special bang car on a honeymoon trip.

Nothing ever will convince me that Ethel herself didn't propose to Norman and marry him while he was still gasping for breath! Things might have been very different for the poor boy if he had waited. As for Ethel—anyway, I'd give a year's permanent wave to know how she really did it! Yours ever.

Wives of Famous Men

Mary Y. Cheney, Wife of Horace Gr[illegible]

Horace Greeley, founder of the New York Tribune, met his wife at the boarding house which he passed because it conformed to the ideas of one Dr. Graham, who believed in a vegetable diet, and who wholly disapproved of such beverages as tea and coffee. Mary Cheney, who also lived at the same establishment, maintained her allegiance to Graham's theories to the end. Her husband was rather inclined to falter, now and then. But Mary was inflexible—husband and guests alike had to conform to her dietary convictions. Greeley, himself, could not refrain from viewing the situation with grim humor. Once he wrote:

"Usually a day, or two at most two, or beans and potatoes, boiled rice, puddings, bread and butter, with no condiments but salt, and never a pickle, was all they could abide; so, abiding her kind aided, in turn each departed to seek elsewhere a more congenial hospitality."

Mrs. Greeley was quite as much interested in public affairs as her husband, and wrote a good deal for the Tribune. She was greatly in favor of woman suffrage, and at one time demanded "The fullest recognition of social and political equality for women."

But her husband did not agree with her and thought that woman's place was in the home.

When their only son died Mrs. Greeley turned to spiritualism and attended many seances. She became greatly interested in this subject and occupied a great deal of her time with it for a while.

The end of her life was rather sad for one who had been so active. [illegible] husband's campaign as nominee for President, Mrs. Greeley was taken to [illegible] Yonkers, an invalid. Her husband sat up with her day and night until she died. But the strain was too great and the country was shocked when it heard of his death not long after.

In a letter to a woman friend Greeley wrote of his wife's death:

"As to my wife's death, I do not count it. Her sufferings since she returned to me were so terrible that I rather felt relieved when she peacefully slept the long sleep."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beliefs of the Russellites.

Mr. Editor: I will give a plain statement which will, I think, put Mr. Robinson of Franklin, and the others who got up this letter which was published in your paper Tuesday, the 27th, in a class mentioned in verse of Rev. 21: I give also below the beliefs of all Russellites as the world calls them. And also will say that they all preach one gospel and are entirely unsectarian. They never solicit money, they send literature free to all unable to pay who may ask for it, and what they sell is at barely the cost of publication. Now for their beliefs, which are fully set forth in their Watch Tower magazine. "They and their literature stand firmly for the defense of the only true foundation of the Christian's hope now being so generally relinquished and redemption through the precious blood of the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself a ransom for all. (I Pe. 1:19; (1 Tim. 2:6). Building up in this sure foundation the gold, silver and precious stones (I Cor. 3: 11-15; 2 Pet. 1: 5; 11) of the word of God, with intent that now might be made known to all and "make all to see what is the fellowship of the mystery which has been hid in God . . . To the intent that now might be made known by the church the manifold wisdom of God." "which in other ages was not made known unto the Sons of Men as it is now revealed." (Eph 3: 5: 9: 10). It is free to declare boldly whatsoever the Lord hath spoken, etc. To us the Scriptures fully teach that the church is "the temple of the living God," peculiarly "His workmanship"; that its construction has been in progress throughout the Gospel Age—ever since Christ became the world's Redeemer and the chief cornerstone of His temple, through which when finished, God's blessing shall come "to all the people." And they find access to him. (1 Cor. 3: 16: 17; Eph. 2:20-22; Gen. 28:14; Gal. 3:29). "That meantime the chiseling, shaping and polishing of consecrated believers in Christ's atonement for sin, progresses; and when the last of these "living stones," elect and precious, shall have been made ready, the Great Master Workman will bring all together in the first resurrection, and the temple shall be filled with his glory, and be the meeting place between God and man throughout the millinnium. (Rev. 15: 5-8.)

"That the basis of hope, for the church and the world, lies in the fact that "Jesus Christ, by the grace of God, tasted death for every man," "a ransom for all," "and will be the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world," "in due time." (Heb. 2:9; John 1:9; 1 Tim. 2: 5, 6).

"That the hope of the church is that she may be like her Lord, "see Him as He is" "partaker of the divine nature, and share his glory as a joint heir." (1 John 3:2; John 17: 24; Rom. 8:17; 2 Pet. 1:4). "That the present mission of the church is the perfecting of the saints for the future work of service; to develop in herself every grace, to be God's witness to the world; and to prepare to be kings and priests in the next age (Eph. 4:12; Matt. 24:14; Rev. 1:6; 20:6). That the hope of the world lies in the blessing of "knowledge" and opportunity to be brought to all by Christ's millinnial kingdom and the restitution of all that was lost in Adam, to all the "willing" and obedient, at the hands of their Redeemer and his glorified church, when all the willfully wicked will be destroyed (Acts 3: 19-23; Isa. 35.")

Now I must say that anyone in a right mind must see that it is pure slander and malice which prompts a writer like the one Mr. Robinson sent to your paper if he [illegible] Matt. 5: and [illegible] can see the picture fully. And if members of the true church are to be witnesses against such as he, and all other slanderers, I don't want to be in their shoes. This same thing was what Christ meant when he said in Matt. 10:34. Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I come not to send peace but a sword." I noticed that a certain divine who preached a Lenten sermon or lecture here lately used this verse in connection with Matt. 26: 52. Why did he not explain these verses and not leave his hearers to imagine that they are a contradiction? Christ knew that his teachings would cause trouble between the true church class and others, even in families where they are divided in their beliefs. The sword he brings is (His word of truth, the two-edged sword) both the Old and New Testaments, and he rebuked Peter for using a carnal weapon. (A good lesson, both these texts, to Christendom.) There is also a verse in Scripture which says: "He that sitteth upon the throne or in the heaven shall laugh, the Lord shall have them in derision." And it surely makes a true Christian feel amused to see the spasms the unfaithful are in. Let us hope they extricate themselves soon and take a once Christian Scientist's advice, "To come out of her Babylon) my people (Rev. 18:4). Do not be afraid to break every man-made and demon-made tie, and get into the glorious truth and liberty of the children of God. He will make you "Scientific Christians" and you will then know you are His workmanship in Christ, being fitted and polished for a place in the temple of God."

Religion and Morality.

Mr. Editor: Is morality based on religion—that is, can a man be truly moral unless he be a Christian also? I am not referring to outward morality by itself alone, as dealing honestly with one's fellow-men and showing kindness to those in adversity and trouble. I mean morality taken in the widest sense, the morality of the inward or spiritual life as well.

Is it not essential that the truly moral man should show in daily life his belief in and his practice of those Christian principles that are exemplified in the life of Jesus Christ?

Will the clergymen join with the [illegible] giving their opinions on this question?

CITIES

It isn't the size of a town that counts,
Or the wealth of its industries.
It isn't the width of a city's streets;
It's beauty of parks and trees.
It isn't the height of the buildings tall;
It isn't the bustle and din.
It isn't the station of brick and stone
You see when the train comes in!

It is deeper than that, by far.
The kind of a city you're living in Depends on the man you are!
Your brain must be tuned to your city's need,
And broad be your vision and true!
Your town will be felt through the country wide!
It only depends on you!

It isn't the size of a town that counts,
It's the men who are living there!
It's their friendliness and good fellowship
That make any city fair.
A town is as big as the hearts within
That rule it and turn all its wheels.
It isn't the size of a town that counts,
It's the breath of a town's ideals!

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Two generations of American playgoers have been entertained by the acting and antics of De Wolf Hopper, the veteran comic opera star, who today is in line for congratulations on his sixty-fifth birthday. The popular comedian was born in New York city and on his mother's side belongs to one of the oldest and most distinguished families of the metropolis. After making a brave effort to follow paternal precedent and become a lawyer, Mr. Hopper determined to give vent to his desire and embrace the actor's calling, appearing for the first time behind the footlights in an amateur performance in 1878. A few months later he made his professional debut at New Haven in Our Boys. For several years thereafter he appeared in support of various well known players and in time became one of the principal comedians with the old McCall Opera Company. In later years Mr. Hopper has been seen and heard in many operas and similar forms of entertainment. His greatest success, perhaps, was scored in the popular Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

As a result of the concentrated effort of the hospital committee of the Woman's guild of the United Congregational church to raise a fund for the refurnishing in the most modern manner a private room at the William W. Backus hospital, this objective is now assured. Stimulated by a public meeting and supper held last Friday evening, at which President H. A. Tirrell of the hospital board, Supt. F. L. Hutchins and Supervisor of Nurses Kathleen A. Dowd were the speakers, the subscriptions have exceeded the anticipated expense of $400. The fund now amounts to $510, and any surplus will be used to provide further specific equipment for the room in question which will also be available for use in other parts of the hospital.

Miss Mary Margaret Filburn.

After an illness of only a short time Miss Mary Margaret Filburn, only daughter of Thomas and Ella Reilly Filburn, died Wednesday at the home of her parents at 61 School street, aged 16 years.

She was born in this city Nov. 2, 1907, and attended St. Patrick's parochial school, graduating with the class of 1921. Besides her parents she leaves one brother, John Filburn of Norwich, her graudmother, Mrs. Mary Reilly, and uncles and cousins.

The sudden death of Miss Filburn came as a shock to her many friends in this city who had learned to love her during her short stay on earth, and the family received many words of consolation from them.

Mrs. Michael Hanley.

After an illness of about 10 days Mrs. Susanna G. Hanley, widow of Michael Hanley, died Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock at her home at 33 Providence street, Taftville. During her illness she was tenderly cared for by her children. Death was due to bronchial pneumonia.

She was born in Manchester, Eng., 77 years ago and came to this country as a young girl, her maiden name being Mallon. At Fall River, Mass., she was married to Peter McHugh by Rev. Father Murphy in the edifice now known as St. Mary's Cathedral. From this union four children resulted: Mrs. William Nolan, Joseph McHugh, Mary Agnes McHugh (deceased), and Mrs. Christopher Caron. From Fall River the family came to Norwich and settled for a while and for the past 45 years have been located at Taftville.

Murphy, Taftville, Mrs. Thomas Shea, Hartford, Patrick and Edward Hanley of Fall River, Mass.; two grandchildren, the Misses Mary and Susie Nolan of Taftville, and Edmond V., Mary, Dennis., John, James and Francis Murphy of Taftville. Edward Shea and Mrs. Vito Padula, Hartford.

Mrs. Hanley was a kind and loving mother and a true friend, always ready to do kindly acts for her friends. In her death Sacred Heart church has lost a devoted and zealous member, and Taftville a respected resident. The community extended sympathy to the family in their days of deep sorrow.

She was born in Uncasville, April 29, 1856, the dauchter of the late John A. and Mary S. Cardwell Coggeshall, and she spent her early life in that town. She was married to John T. Baker, a native of Montville, June 26, 1884, and shortly afterward moved to Willimantic where for many years Mr. Baker was engaged in the drug business. Five years ago the family moved to New London, where Mr. Baker is employed at Starr Brothers'.

THIEF GETS TYPEWRITER, CHECK PROTECTOR AND ADDING MACHINE

Wednesday night or early Thursday morning, a typewriter, check protector and adding machine were stolen from the office of the Norwich Hudson-Essex Co. at 191 North Main street. The burglar got into the place in some unexplained manner but it is supposed he must have had a key as there were no windows broken or doors forced to indicate how he got in. The value of the stolen articles is estimated at $500.

As the three articles stolen were of considerable weight it is believed the burglar may have been in an automobile in which he carried his loot away.

The burglary was discovered Thursday morning when the place was opened for business and the three pieces of office furniture were found to be missing. The police were notified and an officer was sent to the place to make an investigation.

J. O. LaBlanc, the bookkeeper, was in the office at 10.30 Wednesday night to use the typewriter to write a letter. Fred Proulx was with him and the two left the place after Mr. Le Blanc had used the typewriter.

About midnight, Ernest D. White arrived at the place, having come in from Springfield. He put his machine away and went home. He believes everything was all right about the place then.

About 1.45 Nelson D. Theroux and John Connell came in from Springfield. They also noticed nothing strange about the office, as they probably would have if the typewriter and other machines had been gone then.

GIVES THURSDAY SERMON IN HOLY WEEK SERVICES

At the noon Holy week service on Thursday at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church the sermon was by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church. His text was John 16: 33, "These things have I spoken unto you, that in Me ye may have peace. In the world ye have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

In part he spoke as follows:

These words seem to affront the fact! The rushing events of that last week in the life of Jesus would seem to laugh at His claim to have overcome them. On the contrary, everyone could see that they were overcoming Him.

And yet—here is an important fact: that ancient Greek word for "overcome" was used only to express a spiritual victory. That is its significance as Jesus uses it on the Thursday of His final week on earth. It is the clear recognition of an inner attainment, despite the outward pressure of unavoidable fact. Jesus always drew the distinction between external stress and internal peace. In the latter field there could be victory, if one so determined. The world's tribulation, warfare, destruction and death could bring to the one man a similar inner tribulation, warfare, destruction and death, if the one man permitted; but they could not enslave him, if he refused to be inwardly enslaved. Jesus centered all His efforts on securing this inward victory despite the outward strife. He did not disregard the outer strife, because He knew that this could never be banished from human experience, but He always kept it in its proper place, as subordinate to the spiritual conquest.

And so, on this Thursday, the day preceding the crucifixion, we are greatly influenced by this actual contrast: an environing world of ceaseless conflict, and, over against that, an inner world of spiritual peace. These worlds join issue in each man's life. The question is: Which overcomes him and which does he overcome? Yielding to the forces of the outer conflict, he is overcome by them. Allying himself with the inner godly powers, he becomes their champion. If the outer tribulation conquers, he becomes its slave. If, with God, he wins the inner peace, he conquers both himself and the world.

How shall a man win this Christly peace? Jesus Himself gives answer: I must work the works of Him who sent me while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work. In the midst of the world's work can God's peace be won.

CONSIDER TRAIN SERVICE AND STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Better passenger service, improvement of several Norwich streets, parking signs and crosswalk markings and the channel in the Thames river were matters discussed by the Thursday noon meeting at the Wauregan house by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Information was at hand from the New Haven road officials that they would be glad to take up with Norwich the matter of passenger service as soon as they could dispose of the matter of clearing freight congestion on at their lines, which was now engaging all their attention.

Street improvements which were under discussion touched on Water street from Market to Commerce, Main street from Market to Washington square and West Main street from Washington square to Thames square. At the proper time these will be referred to the common council.

The owners and manager of the Thames river line have been requested to sit in conference with representative business men of Norwich for the purpose of discussing the present channel of the Thames river and its effect upon their boats. It has been maintained by those formerly connected with this company that at times extreme difficulty was encountered in navigating the river from Allyn's Point to Norwich. It is hoped that at this time the officials of this company will agree to consider this matter with the local business men.

FIRE ON ROOF OF MADDEN CIGAR FACTORY

The fire department was called out Thursday morning for a fire on the roof of the George P. Madden company cigar factory at 25 Cliff street. A high wind was blowing and when the firemen arrived the flames had made good headway. A line of hose was laid and by quick use of the chemical the fire was extinguished without the need of water.

The fire broke out at the southeast corner of the roof and from unknown causes. The damage to the factory building was partly caused by fire and from cutting by the firemen who were forced to chop into the roof to get at the blaze, which had eaten its way underneath the shingles. Much damage was saved by the use of chemical in preference to water by the firemen. The damage was small, repairs to be made being simply shingles and cross rafters. The damage was estimated at about $300.

VERDICTS FOUND FOR AND AGAINST DEFENDANT

The jury in the superior court at New London late Thursday afternoon brought in a verdict for the defendant in the suit of Simon Green of New LoLndon against John F. Lewis of Danielson, but a verdict of $400 for Mrs. Margaret M. Purtell of New London against Mr. Lewis.

Green and Mrs. Purtell both sued Lewis because of an automobile collision between cars driven by Green and Lewis on Aug. 22, 1920 on the Montville road a short distance north of the Montville trolley switch. Mrs. Purtell was riding as a passenger in Green's car was thrown out, suffering concussion of the brain, a broken nose and other injuries.

The testimony of Mrs. Lewis was that he was driving his machine toward Norwich about 9 o'clock in the evening when at a point above the trolley turnout in Montville, he encountered the Green car coming in the opposite direction. Suddenly the Green car took a diagonal course across the road and ran into the side of his car. The defendant testified that the Green car struck the left hand running board of his machine at a point back of the front mudguard, swinging his car toward the left while the Green car was swung around and headed in the opposite direction and turned over on its side.

The witness said that he saw Mr. and Mrs. Green and Mrs. Purtell after the accident, but he did not see Mr. Purtell, who was one of the witnesses Wednesday morning. He did not see Mrs. Purtell unconscious.

Mr. Lewis said that both his tenders, which were exhibits in court, were bent, but his front wheel was not damaged except that the front tire was punctured by a splinted of wood which he thought was from the running board of his own car.

He testified that the left front wheel of the Green car was smashed. The witness said that it cost him between $114 and $115 for repairs to his machine.

GOVERNOR DECLARES FOR THREE IMPORTANT MEASURES

Governor Charles A. Templeton on Thursday made a vigorous plea for certain prices of legislation which he favors in a speech before the legislative farmers' organization at the state capitol. The measures advocated by the governor were, highway commission of three members; the creation of a state purchasing agent; the defeat of the bill making baseball and other sports on Sunday legal.

"Call it politics or anything else you want to, its business," declared the governor in discussing the proposed highway commission of three members which he strongly advocated.

The business aspects of the case were also used by the governor in urging the creation of a state purchasing agent. He said the plan would save about $250,000 a year and cited specific instances where the state institutions are paying various prices for the same commodities. Sugar and electric light bulbs were among these.

The governor repeated his opposition to the so-called Sunday sport bill.

"The Lord knows I hope to get through my administration without using the veto power any more than I have to," declared the governor, adding that in the case of the Sunday sport bill he shuld certainly use it.

MACHINE UPSET AT JEWETT CITY BRIDGE

Joseph A. George of Church street, well known local cigar dealer, was painfully injured Tuesday night when his Ford sedan overturned at the bridge just above Jewett City. Mr. George was returning from a business trip when something went wrong with the headlights of his car. It was necessary to run with dimmers and upon reaching the bridge, which has right angle turns at either side, he failed to see the turn until close upon the bridge. He applied the brakes on his car and it rolled slowly up onto the support of the railing and then overturned throwing him heavily on his side.

Mr. George sustained a bad sprain of his left shoulder and other minor bruises. He received medical attention but will be forced to wear his arm in a sling for some time. The car was badly damaged, mostly caused by overturning, for no damage fas caused by striking the bridge at low speed. The car was hauled to a garage for repairs and Mr. George returned to his home in this city.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN WHILE DRIVER ATTENDED THEATRE

Thomas Jones of 115 North street, a salesman for J. J. Herbert of Shetucket street, an automobile dealer, reported the theft at police headquarters about 9.45 stating that he had left the car at about 7.30, while he attended the theatre. He kept the switch key in his pocket, but the thief managed to drive the car off. The car has a Fiske spare tire on the rear and the glass in the door on the right side is broken.

Captain D. J. Twomey broadcasted the news of the theft by telephone to all points which the car might pass and had the local officers keeping a sharp look out for it.

STUDENTS TRANSFER BOOKS TO NEW COLLEGE LIBRARY

On Tuesday the new Palmer library at Connecticut college, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer of New London, was put into use for the first time, classes being suspended for the day. The books were moved entirely by the students who, arranged in squads and battalions, marched from the gymnasium to New London hall and thence to the new library, under the direction of the class presidents as captains. The work was begun immediately after chapel and continued until the middle of the afternoon, each student carrying an armful of books at each trip. During the course of the moving pictures were taken of the classes on march, and of the library. Miss Julia Warner, '23, of Naugatuck, was in general charge for the day, with Miss Alice Holcombe, '23, of Jamaica Plains, Miss Catherine Holmes, '24, of Montclair, N. J., Miss Sarah Crawford, '25, of Westport, and Miss Theodosia Hewlitt, '26, of Buffalo, N. Y., as first assistants. Miss Mary Crawford, librarian, and Miss Griffith, her assistant, were in charge of the moving and of the arrangement of books in the library.

The library is Georgian colonial style, and is built of native granite, thus keeping the campus buildings uniform. Marble steps lead from the front entrance directly to the reading room, in the center of which is the charge desk. The interior of the building is finished in white, the cases and fixtures of slate green, and the tables and chairs of polished oak. A long marble staircase leads directly from the charge desk to the second floor, which contains the stock room, with nooks and chairs for reference work, and also the 17th century room, the main attraction in the building. This room is furnished with tables and chairs of that period from many countries, and is a memorial room.

In the basement is a classroom, a kitchenette fully equipped with china and glass, a faculty room, and headquarters for the endowment fund. The basement also has a lavatory and locker room. The library offers adequate facilities for about 200 students and is welcomed as a necessary addition for the increasing number of books.

The building will be formally opened immediately following the spring recess, when dedication services will be held.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE IN CAMPAIGN FOR $360,000

At a mass meeting held Tuesday in the college gymnasium, Connecticut college at New London officially launch the endowment effort, to be undertaken during the next ten weeks, with the purpose of obtaining by June 6, the $350,000 necessary to qualify for the $150,000 offered by the general education board to complete the first $500,000 of the $2,000,000 endowment and maintenance fund.

The principal feature of the effort during this period is the Ten—Ten—Ten plan, originated by a member of the faculty, under which each of the 800 alumnae and students are endeavoring to obtain ten dollars from ten people during the period from March 28 to June 6, covering ten weeks. In connection with the effort, President Benjamin T. Marshall announced that by this plan, $80,000 of the hundred thousand to be raised by students and alumnae would be obtained, the remaining $20,000 being already in the college treasury, the result of previous effort. The trustees of the college will endeavor to raise the remaining $350,000.

In his address to the students and faculty, President Marshall stressed the need of the college for increased endowment funds, in order that it may continue to expand, and to maintain the high standard already established. The effort on the part of the students is to be made during the spring recess, so that upon the reopening of college on April 10, an estimate of the amount which can be expected from this source may be made.

The committee in charge comprises Dr. Gerard E. Jensen, chairman; Miss Mary E. Holmes, Chairman of projects; Miss Agnes E. Leahy, secretary. With this committee as a head, the faculty alumnae and undergraduates are divided into groups and districts. The undergraduate chairmane are: Julia Warner, '23; Mary Snodgrass, '24; Margaret Ewing, '25; Theodosia Hewlitt, '26; Miss Dorothy Gregson, '21 is district chairman for Norwich alumnae.

The effort is to be carried out under the direction of these heads, with President Marshall as general director. The endowment headquarters have been established in the basement of the Palmer library, and from this office all information and general directions will come.

FORMER NORWICH PASTOR DIES AT NASHVILLE

Dr. Cornelous Wortendyke Morrow, dean emeritus of Fisk university, died at Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday night of pneumonia in his 79th year. He was born in Brooklyn, N. He held pastorates in Bethlehem, Danbury and Norwich, Conn., from 1882 to 1902 when he became a professor of philosophy at Fisk university. He was college pastor there from 1902 to 1912, dean 1912 to 1913, acting president 1914 to 1915, dean and professor of philosophy from 1915 to 1921. Since 1921 he had been dean emeritus.

NORWICH TOWN HENS WERE SECOND IN WEEK

During the twenty-first week of the egg laying contest at Storrs the 100 pens produced 3,885 eggs or a yield of nearly 56 per cent. Once more all of the leading pens for the week were captured by the heavy breeds. The pen of Barred Rocks, owned by the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph, Ont., was an easy first with a production of 60 eggs. Fellows Brothers' Rhode Island Reds from Norwich Town, Conn., were second with 58 eggs. A pen of Rhode Island Reds, owned by Charles D. Pierce, Arnold's Mills, R. I., Pinecrest Orchards' Rhode Island Reds from Groton, Mass., and a pen of the same breed entered by Charles H. Lane of Southboro, Mass., were all tied for third place with a production of 56 eggs each. Jules F. Francais' Barred Rocks from Westhampton Beach, L. I., were tied with a pen of the same breed owned by Edgar Stoughton of Wapping, Conn., with a production of 54 eggs each.

Spring poultry troubles are upon us. It is a season of thaws, cold nights and showers. It is also the season of the birds heaviest egg production and they are apt to take cold easily and sometimes break down physically. To prevent some of this spring trouble be sure that the birds ar egetting sufficent green food, such as rye, oats and vetch, and that the litter in the laying house does not become wet. Also make sure that the birds are going to have plenty of green food when they are let out into the yards. If the hens start to get out of condition it might be well to give them epson salts at the rate of one pound to 100 birds.

DANIELSON AND [illegible] NEWS

DANIELSON

Notices are posted at the Quinebaug mills here, at the Wauregan company mills and at the Pomeroah company mills in Taftville, these plants belonging to one group, of an advance in wages to be effective April 30. Thus the operatives of these mills will share in the additional prosperity that is only one month ahead for scores of thousands of mill operatives in the New England states. The posting of these notices has been anticipated, but the actual publication of them will bring a special joy at Easter time to all the benefited workers. The amount of the advance is not stated in the notices, but it will be the same as in other cotton mills now increasing their wage scales in this territory. In Danielson and Wauregan nearly 1,200 workers will share in the increase.

The Windham County National bank of Danielson, Connecticut, extends happy Easter greetings to its host of friends and depositors. The Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Three degrees below zero! That was the remarkably low record made in Danielson on such a late date as March 29—and a record it is believed has not been matched at this time of a year in more than a generation, if ever in the memory of anyone now living. This low temperature came during the early morning hours after one of the coldest nights of the winter—a night with a gale that drove the cold in without mercy. Judge James N. Tucker, who keeps a weather record, gave some interesting figures at his home in East Killingly Thursday morning to show that that time was one of the coldest seven mornings experienced during what under the circumstatees may be described as the present winter season. For instance, according to Judge Tucker's records, December with a minimum record of 4 above had nothing to match it. On January 30, these records show the temperature was 3 above, February 6 was 0, February 16 was 2 above, February 18 was three below, February 28 was one above and March 29 3 above.

Better things are promised, however. Here is the Cloud Digger, sending out from Packer, in the town of Plainfield, the following semi-annual prophecy of the weather for the next six months. He says: To begin with I look for an early spring and a fruitful summer. The spring of 1923 will be far better advanced than any season for 25 years. Lack of frost in the ground followed by early ploughing will destroy millions of grubs and worms that prey upon the tender roots and shoots and I look for a wonderful harvest of early vegetables.

The frost season will end about May 10 in New England with little danger after that except near the first of June when the New England and middle eastern states will pass through a chilly spell probable accompanied by frost.

The rainfall up to mid-June will be about normal, then a hot, dry wave of geat length will be upon us. In some parts the drouth will be very serious, but in the eastern states the period will be relieved by oft-repeated electrical showers and heavy rain several times during the months of June and July. There will be much damage by lightning. Hail also will be looked for during the summer.

July and August will be exceedingly hot and dry. There will be two earth disturbances during August, one very serious; also several hurricanes and sub-tropical sections and a tidal wave in the Pacific coast, probably off Mexico.

Late in August a red hot electrical storm with rain, hail and destructive lightning and high winds will swee along the Jersey coast, New York and Long Island.

Watch August 29, 30 and 31, 1923. They will be dates long to be remembered. The position of the planets, moon and tides at that time leads me to believe there will be great destruction by high winds. September 1 the general drouth conditions will be with us. Get in the crops that are ready, for this dry period will be one long to be remembered; wells, brooks and springs in southern New England will be dry or nearly so. One point of interest in August, 1923, will be millions of meteorites or shooting stars to be seen late in the month.

Pupils of the Danielson grammar school who heard four of the boys and adults who heard others of the party at a meeting at the Methodist church Thursday afternoon developed a great deal of interest in the boys who came here from the Caney Creek Community school in mountain district of Kentucky to make that institution better known throughout the land. Their object was to demonstrate what such a school can accomplish for children of a district where educational facilities are meagre, but where an effort is being made through such schools as they attend to give them greater opportunities for study and culture.

At the morning meeting at the grammar school four of these Kentucky mountain boys talked to the assembled pupils of all the grades and sang some of their mountain songs for them. Each of the visiting boys had a different topic, dealing with the school they attended and what it is accomplishing for them. This quartet of boys were living evidence of the great work the school is doing. So pleased were the pupils of the 7th and 8th grades of the Danielson school that each grade, unsolicited, gave $5 for the Caney Creek school. More of the visiting boys were present at the Methodist church at the afternoon meeting and were effective in impressing their audience with the splendid work their school is doin.

The boys are touring the east that thousands who see and hear them may become interested in the school they attend. They have been on tour a month and their mission is proving successful. They are in charge of teachers from the school and a tour manager who is financial supporter of the school.

Great success has been achieved by the syndicate of bond houses that has had in charge the selling of the $3,000,000 issue of 5 per cent. first mortgage bonds of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. A representative of one of the bond houses handling the issue said while here Thursday that it already has nearly been subscribed and probably will all have been placed within a week.

The Bartlett Cemetery association of East Killingly has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Lydia A. Bartlett; vice president, Luther M. Smith; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Grace E. Hill; directors, Henry H. Oatley, George W. Winslow, George W. Handy; superintendent, Henry E. Hill.

The local lighting company has given notice that it is to discontinue delivering and collecting bills with the end of the present month. This has been done in Plainfield, Goodyear, Attawaugan, Ballouville and Pineville Hereafter bills are to be sent by mail, as announced elsewhere in this paper in an announcement by the company.

A. Tait Hope, who has been superintendent of the mill of the Assawaga Woolen company at Dayville for a number of years, has resigned to take a similar position at a mill at Potter Hill, near Westerly, R. I. Employes at the Dayville mill presented him a purse of gold and the office force gave him a trave'ing bag.

PUTNAM

A cold weather record that outmatches anything experienced in late March in the memory of the present generation was set Thursday morning, the 29th when the mercury went down to 4 below zero after a night of howling wind and steadily falling temperature. As a slap at the timid advances of spring it was about as sensational a late comeback by winter as ever known hereabouts at this time of year. The damage from the gale and low temperature included broken trees and fences, frozen automobile radiators and motor blocks and bursted water pipes in homes where no trouble of the kind has been experienced all winter. The high wind seemed to drive the cold right through the stanchest buildings. Those who keep records of the weather called attention Thursday to the fact that the corresponding week in March of last year showed temperatures running up to nearly 80 degrees.

More than a score of working men who are employed by the Adams Manufacturing company in carrying out the preliminaries to its building operations here arrived in Putnam Thursday morning and are to get to work at once. Building materials and other supplies to be used in the work are now being accumulated and within another fortnight the old Nightingale mill yard where the work is being done will be a bee hive of activity.

There was joy in the ranks of cotton mill workers in this territory Thursday morning following The Bulletin's announcement that the Grosvenordale company would post notices during the day of an advance in wages approximating that recently made in the woolen and worsted plants hereabouts. The announcement was taken as indicating that other cotton mills in this territory would follow suit, and this assumption was quickly verified by posting of advance in wages notices at the Quinebaug mills in Danielson and the Wauregan mills at Wauregan. Other mills will come into line within the next few days, it was stated Thursday afternoon, when certain agents were instructions from their main offices located in other cities.

Due to the fact that Bradley and company of this city are and have been for many years, distributors throughout this section of eastern Connecticut for Morris and company, there is special interest throughout the territory in the merger, announced in Thursday's papers, through which the business of Morris and company has been taken over by the North American Provision company, a subsidiary of Armour and company. It was stated Thursday at the office of Bradley & company that it is not anticipated the merger will affect the business of the local concern which expects to continue to render the same service it has to the trade for many years. Messrs. R. S. Bradley and George S. Bradley have been representatives of Morris interests, and Timothy J. Divern, also of Mechanicsville. Mrs. Sarah Crosby of Thompson Hill, a member of the town school committee, also favored passage of the original resolution making an appropriation for a four-room building.

If the voting strength of the opposition as shown by the attendance and result of Thursday's special meeting can be lined toge ner, and there is looking to absolute that it cannot be, it is now evident that the proposal for a new building at Mechanicsville can be eventually defeated. Sensing this proponents of the plan to to give this village a new school said Thursday afternoon that much of the opposition is due to the fact that the Grosvenordales are going to ask for a new 12-room building in the near future, with the idea of closing the Mechanicsville school and transporting the pupils of that village to the Grosvenordales. Mechanicsville petitioners for a new school also point out that Thompson, a town without debt, will have an unexpended balance of $21,000 in its treasury by the end of the present financial year, so cannot effectually plead poverty or fear of high tax rates if Mechanicsville is given a new building.

In observance of a long established custom this Good Friday afternoon will be generally observed as a holiday in Putnam.

At St Phillip's church, Putnam, Rev. David Coombs, of Plainfield, will celebrate the Holy Communion at 2.30 p. m. Easter Sunday. There will be no morning worship.—adv.

Elks here are looking forward with interest to April 25, the date set for the institution of the new lodge of Elks at Webster, this new lodge, an offspring of Putnam lodge. Practically the entire membership of the lodge in this city will witness the institution of the new lodge.

Trout fishermen here were as discouraged a lot Thursday as could be found in ten states. With the temperatures below zero and the opening of the season only three days away, there seemed little prospect of any good fishing on the opening day.

Work has been resumed on the construction of the big garage for the Putnam Buck Sales company. This building was started last fall, but no work has been done upon it since early winter.

Eggs are being offered in abundance from all the surrounding territory and this week, at some farms, have been quoted as low as 32 cents the dozen. This is a tip that now is the time to buy those that are to be preserved for future use.

Member of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows held a public whist party at their rooms Thursday evening.

John H. Corbett, secretary of the county Y. M. C. A. organization is in North Adams, Mich., visiting with his parents.

WESTMINSTER

Members and friends of the Westminster church [illegible] e been asked to take plants to the church for the Easter morning worship.

Last Friday evening in spite of several peals of thunder and some rain, the yearly Westminster Hill school speaking contest was held. Only about half the contestants were present, because of the weather, and probably fewer were in the audience for the same reason. Miss Lester, the teacher, presided, and had Mrs. Frank S. Linnell, Mrs. Agnes Wood and Benjamin Davies as judges. After all had united in singing The Star Spangled Banner, the contestants presented the following programme: O Captain! My Captain! by Walt Whitman, Archie Green; Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech, Douglas MacLeod; Hush, Little Girl, Don't Cry, Frances Newton; The Wreck of the Hesperius, by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Isabelle Greene; The Name of Old Glory, by James Whitcomb Riley, Annie Hagopian; The Wonderful One Hoss Shay, by Oliver Wendell Holmes, Viola Bennett.

The judges then retired while the members of the school and guests sang America. Mrs. Linnell announced the winners, Viola Bennett, Annie Hagopian and Archie Greene. All the children spoke well and deserve commendation.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 29.—New London is not to begin work on a junior high school building—not at present, if indeed it undertakes that job even in the near future. There was so much opposition to the plan of erecting an "industrial wing" of the building before the main structure was commenced that the idea has now been abandoned until such time as the council shall decide to go ahead. Councilors Gragan and Thompson were opposed to the plan of building the structure and Councilor Whiton was not of the opinion that it should be erected before the main building was under way. The city has the authority to issue bonds to erect the building, but Councilor Whiton could not see that the erection of what was called a wing was putting up the building which the city voted to erect and for which the authority to issue bonds was given. There is something of a difference of opinion now as to the authority of the city manager to ask for bids for the construction of two smaller school buildings which the city is to erect when it gets ready. It was claimed at the meeting of the council that no vote had been passed to solicit bids though they were sought by public advertisement. That question is yet to be threshed out by the council.

Mrs. Ellen Holmgren of Montauk avenue and Miss Mary Sherman of Westerly, who have been patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today. Mrs. Sven Johnson and her baby were able to leave there this afternoon.

The Thomas Hose company membership cannot understand why they cannot have a pumping engine located at their house. They say that section of the city needs such a piece of fire apparatus and point to the fact that there is none nearer than the Niagara house, which is more than a mile away. The company is one of the old fire organizations of the city and has always done splendid work. It was a long time before the city would provide fire apparatus for the Northwest, but that was finally done and the movement has saved a great deal of money for the city. It was the same way when a company was petitioned for on Lower Montauk avenue where one is located now. Fire apparatus at the beach will be the next move that should be attempted in the way of fire protection. Then an aerial should be provided.

This city has been mighty fortunate in the matter of serious fires, for it has had few of them in recent years, and the fires have been so well handled that the losses were comparatively inconsequential.

This noon there was a blaze in the addition to the Union bank in course of construction, but it did not more than get a fair start when it was subdued. The telephone and the motor apparatus did the trick. Mechanics at work in the upper portion of the building had a stove fire to dry out cement and it is believed that a canvas in use by them became ablaze from this source.

The five-masted schooner Dorothy Palmer, which is ashore at Chatham, is well known at this port. At one time the late Capt. Dudley Brand was a part owner of the vessel. He was the master of the steam yacht Narada, owned by Henry Walter, and Mr. Walter thought so well of the captain that he made him a present of a share in the Palmer.

The auto licenses of Charles Pyne and Clarence M. Shay, which were revoked by Commissioner Stoeckel, have been restored to them. It is understood that the Shay license was revoked through an error.

Union Masonic lodge worked the Master Mason degree this evening in full form and the members and brothers from other lodges enjoyed a chicken pie supper. The attendance was very large and included many visitors.

It is understood tonight that Police Lieutenant Benjamin A. Beebe, who suffered a shock some three weeks ago, and who has been in Lawrence hospital since that time, will go to his home tomorrow. There he will remain some three or four weeks, the doctors are reported to have concluded, when he will resume his position on the police force if conditions warrant it. Lieutenant Beebe has been remarkably favored in health through all the years he has been on the force. He was a fisherman before he entered the city's employ as a member of the police force and was mate of a halibut catcher many years.

Complaint is constant from contractors and others who have freight come over the railroads that delays are exasperating. It is no uncommon thing for delays of three weeks or more to occur. The passenger trains are now operated fairly on time, but freights cannot be relied upon. Trains are stalled at all points along the roads because of locomotive difficulties.

New London lodge of Elks will install its officers at the meeting next week when officers of the Hartford lodge will be present. District Deputy Cronin will be the guest of the lodge that night and an entertainment will be provided.

The intensely cold weather of Wednesday night and early Thursday brought trouble to many householders in that water pipes were frozen. At the Stephen cottage, where a fire occurred a week ago, the water pipes became frozen and burst, doing a lot of damage. At Neptune park and at the beach there are many cottages in which pipes are now frozen. In some of the cottages windows were left open an inch or more that the rooms might be aired, the owners not anticipating any such temperature as 2 above zero. Now they will have plumbers' bill to pay if indeed their premises are not flooded. In homes where there has been no trouble with frozen pipes in the past there were frozen pipes today.

The Eureka restaurant on Bank street at Pearl street, has gone out of business. This is the fourth restaurant on Bank street that has ceased to do business in the past fortnight.

The tramp steamer Taxan, which went ashore at Clay Head, Block Island, a few days ago, and was floated and brought in here, is now at the state pier at East New London where temporary repairs will be made so that she may proceed to New York. The steamer is a large one and runs to the west coast and Europe. Her cargo is aboard and will not be disturbed till the vessel reaches New York.

The price of eggs seems to have reached the Easter figures, for today they were selling in the markets for 35 cents.

Auto owners were taking chances yesterday when they left the engines in their cars running and no attendant present, contrary to state laws. The owners did not want the engines to get cold so they took a chance of arrest rather than shut them down.

Wallingford.—At the annual meeting of the board of governors of the Wallingford Country club the following officers were elected: President, S. Brooks Page; vice president, Alfred G. Kintz; secretary, Herbert H. Walker; treasurer, William J. Lum.

LISBON

Wednesday noon Miss Martie Barber placed a dish of small bones and meat scraps outside the back door for her cats, and a few minutes later when told to look out the window, great was her surprise to see a small skunk making itself perfectly at home eating with the cats. When they had finished their dinner, the cats and skunk retired to a nearby shed, where they stood eyeing each other until a sound from the house caused one of the cats to flee. This seemed to be the opportunity the skunk had been waiting for, as he quickly disappeared through a hole in the foundation of the shed, and from there under the horse barn, where it is probable he has made his home for some time. The little animal had evidently been in a trap some time, as he was minus one paw.

Robins, bluebirds, redwinged blackbirds, phoebes, song sparrows and grackles have come. Wild geese have been seen in their northward flight, but the weather is not wholly spring-like yet. The thermometer Thursday morning registered nearly zero.

BALTIC

Many local people were recipients of a notice from the collector of internal revenue asking for information why they did not file a tax return for the year 1921. Many are finding themselves face to face with a penalty because of a misunderstanding or neglect to make a tax return, although by law exempt from paying a tax.

Many of the Shetucket Worsted mill resident employes have found work elsewhere while awaiting the result of the strike, and non-resident employes have left the village for parts unknown. It has slackened the business so that it is noticeable in many channels.

The dog tags for the year 1923-1924 have been received by the town clerk. They number from 53685 up.

IF YOUR STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT BEGIN TAKING SALTS

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should carry only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and pass them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate; then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The best way to clear the skin of these conditions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will help prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually helps make pimples disappear.

NEW SERUM CURED INFLUENZA MENINGITIS

New York, March 29—Ten-year-old Morris Gedulit, has been cured of influenza meningitis, a disease with a mortality rate higher than 96 per cent., by a new serum developed by two women scientists attached to the research laboratories of the New York health department, it was announced today at the United Israel Zion hospital of Brooklyn.

Morris, it was stated, was the second person saved from death by the serum during the past few years. The two cures are the only ones ever affected in this city, about 50 other sufferers having died of the rare ailment.

The serum was developed at the health department laboratory at Willard Parker hospital, by Dr. Olga Povitsky, aided by Dr. Josephine Meal, in charge of meningitis research. It is taken from an immunized horse into which there has been injected Pfeiffer bacilli.

Dr. Neal said today had been given three injections of ordinary anti-meningitis serum and three of the new serum.

"It is impossible to say that the new serum is a specific for the disease," she declared, "but I believe it is safe to say that it contributed largely to these two cures we have on record.

"Dr. Povitsky was the first scientist to observe the difference between ordinary meningitis and influenza meningitis and it was she who virtually developed the serum. Later Dr. Rivers, then of Johns Hopkins University hospital and now of the Rockefeller foundation, got the same results.

"In the case of Gedulit, the boy showed a sterile reaction after the first three injections but it is safe to say that the later injections prevented the usual relapse and kept the bacilli in check.

"Influenza meningitis is a terrible disease. In all the literature of medicine, less than a score of cures have been recorded."

MRS. BERGDOLL HELPED CONVICT PETTY SWINDLER

Philadelphia, March 29.—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, who fought hard to keep her draft-dodging sons out of prison, aided today in sending an alleged petty swindler to the county prison for eight months.

Maurice Rappart, accused of fleecing different persons out of small amounts obtained $170 from Mrs Bergdoll to use his influence with influential persons in Washington to gain the release of her son, Erwin Bergdoll, from the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth.

Counsel for the prisoner asked Mrs. Bergdoll what she wanted done with Rappart, and she replied:

"He should go behind the bars."

"Do you want him shot at sunrise?" queried the lawyer.

"No, no shooting," replied Mrs. Bergdoll, "just behind the bars where he belongs."

BRITISH CRUISER RALEIGH WILL PROVE TOTAL LOSS

St. John's, N. F., March 29.—The possibility of refloating the British cruiser Raleigh, which went ashore in the Straits of Belle Isle last summer, and was abandoned as a total loss, has been revived. Reports made to the British admiralty that the wreck had been moved by the pressure of the ice pack this winter led the British authorities to investigate the cruiser's present position on the Labrador Rocks.

Yesterday an aviator flew from Botwood, on the northeast coast of Newfoundland to point Forteau, on the south coast of Labrador, and made photographs of the Raleigh as she now lies. These will be forwarded to the admiralty for study. If the hull has been freed from the rocks that held it, it was said an effort will be made to refloat the cruiser.

The Raleigh struck the rocks near Point Amour, Labrador, August 9 last, during a fog. Admiral Sir William Pakenham and the officers and crew of the cruiser camped on the bleak Labrador coast until picked up by a liner from Montreal to Liverpool. Several seamen were drowned while taking a line ashore from the wreck.

Areas in the northern section of Labrador where gold was said to have been discovered last fall are to be mapped by airplane, it was announced here today. Three machines will fly along the coast to the little know districts of the north, and the rivers and other topographical features will be charted.

WOMEN SHOULD ACT QUICKLY

When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pain in her side, irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow, she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they may be saved years of suffering. For generations this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health, and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

HOW SOVIET PRESS REGARDS RUSSIA'S DEBTS

Moscow, March 29—(By The A. P.)—Soviet Russia stands ready to "buy" the possibility of peaceful trade relationships with America by part payment of her foreign obligations, the newspaper Pravda states today in connection with a sharp attack on American Secretary of State Hughes for his recent Russian pronouncement.

"Mr. Hughes must know that obligations are meaningless unless an agreement is reached about them," says the newspaper, "for instance, America is not obliged to pay to France, Germany's debts, and Soviet Russia, for the information of Mr. Hughes, stands much farther from the Russia of the late czar and Alexander Kerensky than does the America of Hughes from Herr Ebert's Germany.

"This very new creation of the soviet union could not be responsible for the debts of its enemy, although conquered, but nevertheless is willing to buy, by means of part payment, the possibility of peaceful trade relations. It is a most prosaic viewpoint, but fully adequate for American practibility, and on this basis we propose to carry on pourparliers."

OFFERED TO BRING SAMPLED ALLEGED "POISONED LIQUOR"

Philadelphia, March 29.—A man accused of selling liquor alleged to be poisoned offered to drink a sample of it at a hearing before a federal commissioner today when he was held in $5,000 bail for court.

"Sure, I'll drink that; I always drink it," said Joseph Levy, when W. J. McClure, government agent, showed a sample he said he bought from Levy and dared him to drink it.

"No, you can't drink it," McClure said. "We would lose the case without it."

Talk about red rags and mad bul

No textile, howsoever scarlet, e infuriated a bull, howsoever ev tempered, so surely and so violen ly as the mere mention of the word "capital" will maddea the typical socialist.

"Well, who cares," some one will interpolate right here. "What have we farmers got to do with socialists? What do we care about them? What do they amount to, anyway?"

I am not the least little bit irritated by that interruption. I used to feel much the same way. Of course, I knew that such people as socialists existed—over in Russia or down in Australia. It was even admitted that there were a few in America and England, just as there were a few "tramps" and "hoboes," who were accounted as of just about equal social and political importance. Not so long ago, I should have felt like saying the same thing. It seemed incredible that the wholesome and sane American which lives out on the farm should be in any danger of infection from this form of itch.

But, as the slang song hath it, "Them days is gone forever." Recent elections in various farming states have shown that the virus of socialism, which is the same as hatred of capitalism, has got into the blood of even the farm population. There is no other way of explaining the election to the senate of such abnormalities as Brookheart, the iconoclast of Iowa; of La Follette the wild man of Wisconsin; of Frazier, the discredited demagogue of Dakota; of Reed, the shell-hiding egg-sucker of Missouri; and of various others of less notoriousness but equal irrationality to the house of representatives.

The four I have mentioned all come from agricultural states. Where do you suppose the "safe and sane conservatism" of the farms was mislaid, when such men could even get a place as "also-rans" in farming states? Worse than that, they openly and brazenly boast that they actually represent the sentiments of their farming communities. They do not hesitate to assert that the half-crazed measures of destructiveness which they advocate are the "mandates" of the farm constituencies they represent.

I don't care a picayune what party caucus such men attend, or what party name they assume, or what "bloc" they belong to. They are, really, neither republicans nor democrats nor progressives nor farm-bloc-ers. They are mad bulls pawing up the dirt and bellowing at a red rag. And they have been given positions of power and influence by the votes of the very farms we used to assume were the rock-ribbed fortresses of a sane conservatism.

Wherefore it seems to me about time for us farmers of the east to open our eyes and take stock of a new situation.

What is Capital? And why should some men argue in its behalf while others go stark staring mad at the word? Isn't it a good time for us to talk over the subject calmly, if we can, and get our own bearings before we decide whether to keep on our present course or run the risk of jibing before a stern wind?

Capital is in reality that portion of earnings or savings set aside from present needs as a future insurance.

Every farmer who puts twenty bushels of potatoes into his cellar for next year's seed is a capitalist to that extent. He has withdrawn those potatoes from consumption and laid them up in a safe bin to use the coming spring as a starter of new crops and a source of hoped-for new profits.

Every workman who puts a dollar into the savings bank at four per cent. interest, is a capitalist to that extent. He has withdrawn that dollar from circulation and put it away where it is earning interest for him, also, acting as a reserve for times of emergency.

Every father who celebrates the birth of his baby-boy by starting a bank deposit to be held in that youngster's name till he is twenty-one, is a capitalist to that extent, and has made the baby another.

Every one who joins a "Christmas club" and puts in so much a week for a year is a capitalist to that extent. He is laying up a store for the future.

Every widow who has put her dead husband's insurance into a government bond or a few shares of railroad stock is a capitalist.

Every man who owns two shirts is a capitalist. He may perhaps plead that the one he is wearing is a tool of his trade which he can't appear without. But he can't wear but one shirt at a time, and the clean shirt at home, laid away in a bureau drawer to have handy when company comes or the one he's wearing goes to wash, is capital, as truly as the money would have been had he refused to buy the extra garment and put the dollar in bank, instead.

In fact, we're all of us, except shiftless tramps and poorhouse paupers, capitalists to a greater or less degree. Which is the one adequate and sufficient reason why we are not ourselves tramps or paupers.

Capital is simply the result and outcome of thrift. It is the inevitable product of a wise economy of money and time and health and life as a whole. It is the invariable consequence of a refusal to live "from hand to mouth," as monkeys do. It is the sure crop which follows a planting with foresight and a cultivation with hope.

Furthermore, it is just as necessary to the work of the world as air to the life of animals. There would be—there could be no such thing as civilized life without the existence of capital in someone's hands—ours or another's.

The man who deliberately attempts its destruction is exactly on a par, mentally and physically, with the lunkhead who saws off the tree limb he is sitting on.

As a matter of fact, it is very rarely capital itself which even the wildest-eyed socialist attacks. It is, rather, capitalists: the men who control large sums of money, or large gatherings of property.

In a few cases your "radical" is simply moved by hatred, malice, and all uncharitableness. He is a dog in the manger, envious of the fat ox in the stall. In a larger proportion of cases, he is angered by capital's unequal and, as it seems to him, unjust distribution. Why should Shylock have his vaults piled high with gold, while kinder and better men have to think twice before venturing to buy a postage stamp? But probably the largest number of capital haters are those who have been outraged by the callously brutal way in which certain possessors and controllers of capital have used the power it gives them to oppress and impoverish and pillage those with no capital or none to speak of in comparison.

Now, as I hope you've gathered, I am a convinced believer in the naive, nay, the inherent necessity of capital. I am not, however, required to defend or excuse all capitalists. There's a big difference. In once sense big capitalists are themselves to blame for the hatred in which the system is held by too many. Their wanton abuse of the moral rights of others, their thick-skinned insensibility to any nudeings of altruism, their greedy hogging of everything within their reach—alas! too often and too widely such traits have characterized their association with their less fortunate fellows. It may be human nature for David to covet Naboth's vineyard and take it if opportunity offers. It is just as much human nature for Naboth to hate David ever after. If we make allowance for David for his yielding to capitalistic voracity, we certainly can't hang Naboth for resenting it.

The point I want to make is that there is a big difference between the idea of capital and the behaviour of many capitalists. It's the point which, I fear, too many farmers in the great west are missing in their over-zealous heat; the point which we who pride ourselves on our cooler heads simply must not overlook.

Should we forbid the use of all fire under conditions, because sometimes it gets out of control and burns up the better part of a Chicago or a Boston? Should we prohibit the use of water as a beverage or an irrigant because sometimes it sweeps away a Johnstown or drowns a man who falls into it and can't swim?

Either of these crazy monkey-shines would be as sensible as abolishing capital because it is at times used as a tool for evil. Yet the so-called labor party of England has recently put out as one of its aims such "legislation as shall gradually suppress the capitalist system."

The world has laughed for years at the folly of the man who killed the goose which laid a daily egg of gold because he wasn't satisfied with the rate of production. And sensible men of all ages have wondered over the folly of the man who "bit off his nose to spite his face." Nor have there been many to admire the gumption of the man who sought to lift himself over the fence by pulling up on his own boot straps.

Yet there are too many men, today, falsely arregating to themselves the honorable names of "radicals" or "progressives," who are urging the destruction of the system of capital mainly because they dislike some capitalists. What is worse, they are finding followers among the hordes of discontented, of disappointed, of disgruntled camp-followers who tag along after the cohorts of civilization and real progress.

Not always demagogues, not always ignoramuses, not always haters of order, not always impracticable dreamers, they nevertheless usually share in more than one of these characteristics. Each one stands like David in his own chosen cave of Adullam, "And every one that is in distress, and every one that is in debt, and everyone that is discontented, gather themselves unto him."

Few of us had thought of Iowa and Dakota and Wisconsin as state covered with cavernous mountains. Yet there seem to be many modern caves of Adullam in their borders, and all well-filled with would-be revolutionists. There are others in other states, too.

The prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself." So said Solomon. Perhaps that was good policy in the days when there were no state police. Just now it would seem wiser for the prudent man to foresee the evil and take up arms against it, before it shall have attained ascendancy.

We farmers simply must not allow ourselves to be stampeded into unreasonable action by any blatant marplot of either radicalism, or so-called "labor," or the farm bloc.

It is, also, quite advisable to make sure which road it is and where it leads before we set out on it.

OBTAINED ALL THAT HE HAD LONGED FOR

"Tanlac has set my stomach in order and has me eating again at my old time pace," is the enthusiastic statement of Henry E. Corbeil, 97 Putnam Ave., Cambridge, Mass., well known machinist.

"I didn't take my condition seriously until I got where I had no appetite at all, which was an unusual thing for me. I made the mistake of thinking that my listless, run down condition was due to the grind of my work instead of stomach trouble. But when my food began souring on my stomach, bloating me up and causing a terrible burning sensation, I knew that my trouble was indigestion.

"What I wanted was to eat well, sleep well and be able to put in a good day's work without it tiring me out, and after a short experience with Tanlac I can do all three. The medicine has made me feel just like I wanted to feel, and I am glad to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

Disease incidence in Connecticut is reported as follows by the state board of health:

Diphtheria: For the first time since November, diphtheria cases reported have exceeded the number of cases reported for the corresponding weeks of 1921 and 1922.

Encephalitis: During the week of March 3rd, 13 cases of encephalitis were reported, and the disease has apparently reached its highest weekly incidence, for a steady decline has occurred since, with the low point of 6 cases during the present week. This is a smaller number than any week since the week ending January 24th.

Influenza and Lobar Pneumonia: The 32 cases of influenza reported indicates that the recent epidemic is over, and it is noticeable that a corresponding reduction is occurring in pneumonia. The peak of the influenza epidemic was reached in the week ending February 24th when 693 cases were reported, and the peak of the pneumonia cases was apparently reached the week ending March 3rd with 89 cases reported.

Measles: Measles, which has been epidemic since December, the number of cases far exceeding the number of cases reported in 1921 or 1922, has decreased considerably, but still exceeds the number of cases reported for corresponding weeks for the past three years.

Trachoma: One case of trachoma reported this week draws attention to this eye infection which proves so destructive to eyesight and often spreads through the family in which it appears.

Typhoid Fever Epidemic, Thompson, Conn.—Dudley, Mass. The careful investigation carried out by Dr. Dudley, state district health officer of Massachusetts, has borne fruit. [illegible] proved to be a typhoid germ carrier. This carrier had an attack lasting for three weeks in 1921, which clinical symptoms and laboratory tests seem to indicate was a mild case of typhoid fever. Since that time, typhoid germs have been given off in the body discharges. Contamination was conveyed by the carrier to others through handling a common article, and infection occurred through food. Moral—Always wash your hands before eating!

Simsbury.—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Jane (Toy) Ellsworth, who died at her home in Simsbury Monday evening, were held at her late residence. Mrs. Ellsworth was born in Simsbury. In 1866 she married Lemuel Stoughton Ellsworth of East Windsor.

MARKET WAS DULL

New York, March 29—Pre-holiday dullness characterized today's stock market, which displayed a reactionary tone. Except in a few isolated issues, however, the net losses among the active stocks were held to fractions.

Closing out of speculative commitments over the holiday combined with an apparent lack of fresh buying power at current levels, caused prices to sag throughout the list, marking up of the call money rate to 6 per cent., after an opening rate of 5 1-2, also tended to restrain trading while the disappointing showing of some of the latest February railroad traffic statements brought about some selling in that group.

Revival of speculative interest in United States Steel common, which crossed 108 and then fell back to 107 3-8, on 3-8, was based on unconfirmed reports of the formation of a big financial pool in that issue. The other steels lost ground, Republic dropping below 61 1-2; Bethlehem B below 66 and Gulf States Steel below 99.

Heaviness also was noted among such recent speculative favorites as pan American, off 3-4; American Woolen, off 1 3-8; American Can and Studebaker, each off 1, Baldwin and Allied Chemical, each off 3-4 Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, and Texas Company, each off 1-2 and American Locomotive, off 3-8.

The Virginia Carolina Chemical issues, weakness of which contributed materially to yesterday's late reaction, made partial recovery today, the common advancing 5-8 to 19 5-8 and the preferred 2 points to 56 3-4. Buying was based on publication of an official statement declaring that while current earnings are disappointing the financial position of the company shows marked improvement over that of a year ago.

Canadian Pacific, Texas & Pacific Rock Island, Great Northern preferred, Union Pacific, Frisco common, New Haven and the "Katy" preferred issues were the outstanding weak spots of the railroad group, each showing a loss of a point or more.

Little activity was reported in the time money market with all loans being made on a 5 1-2 per cent. basis. Out of town banks continue as the principal takers of Commercial Paper, the ruling rate for prime names remaining at 5 per cent.

The reaction in German marks to below .0046 cents after amounts having remained "pegged" for several weeks around .0048 cents was the feature of the foreign exchange market in which was quiet. Demand sterling held steady just above 4.68 and French francs were firm above 6.66 cents. Italian lire were strong, rising above 5.03 cents for a net gain of nearly 10 points.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 29—Prices of bonds, particularly U. S. government issues, displayed a better tone in today's relatively light dealings but there were enough weak spots to give the market a decidedly irregular appearance at the close.

The new U. S. government 4 1-4s dropper 14-32s of a point but all the Liberty issues showed net gains of 1-32 to 11-32s. Except for a drop in Mexican 5s, of 3-4 of a point on announcement of another delay in the resumption of service on the Mexican debt, the foreign issues all showed moderate improvement. Firmness of French francs injected moderate strength into most of the French, governmental and municipal liens.

In the railroad list some good gains were made by the liens of dividend paying roads, New York Central consolidated 4s, Northern Pacific refunding 6s and the Louisville & Nashville issue showing net gains ranging from large fractions to nearly 1 1-2 points. The obligations of the non-dividend payers moved in a conflicting fashion, Norfolk & Southern 5s and Kansas City southern 5s gaining approximately a point each while the seaboard Air Line and "Katy" issues were slightly reactionary.

The sharp recovery of the Virginia Carolina Chemical 7 certificates and 7 1-2s, with warrants, each of which closed about 8 points higher, and the heaviness of Punta Alegre Sugar 7s Philadelphia Company 6s, Chile Copper 7s, Cerro de Pasco 8s and Commonwealth 6s, off 1 to 3 points, were the features of the industrial list.

Total sales (par value) were $15,009,000.

There were only a few issues today, the largest of which was the $1,500,000 Nevada-California Electric Corporation 6 per cent. bonds offered at 96 to yield 6.30 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 29—Confronting a holiday tomorrow, the wheat market failed to furnish any decided movement to buyers today, and prices averaged lower. Closing quotations were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 down with May 1.18 7-8 to 1.19 and July 1.15 1-2 to 1.15 5-8. Corn gained 1-4 to 3-8, with oats closing at a shade decline to a like advance, and provisions off 10 to 17c.

Downturns in values at Liverpool put bulls at a disadvantage from the outset in the wheat market here, especially as Canadian wheat in the United States ports was being offered at the lowest premiums of the season. Besides, wheat shipped from various domestic centers appeared to be accumulating here for delivery on May contracts. Commission house demand was of small proportions but in the late dealings a little increase of support developed as a result chiefly of efforts to even up for the holiday.

Rallies at the last in the wheat market were aided by asserted extension of the dry area southwest and by reports of crop damage from green bugs in Texas. Besides no rain or snow of importance were reported anywhere in the principal sections of the winter wheat belt, and the forecast was for a cold wave northward.

Scantiness of rural offerings and the meagerness of receipts here give something of a lift to prices of corn and oats. In addition, cold weather was said to be delaying field work on farms and to be prolonging heavy feeding of livestock.

Despite firmness of the hog market provisions were weak as a result of selling on the part of the smaller packers.

GALES FERRY

On Palm Sunday in the Methodist Episcopal church Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke at the morning service from Psalm 92: 12, the theme being The Palm Tree Christian. At the offertory a duet, He Comes (E. K. Heyser) was sung by Miss Grace A. Chapman and D. R. Povey. Preceding the sermon Rev. Mr. Woodward spoke briefly to the children from Philippians 4: 13, and read Governor Charles A. Templeton's proclamation appointing March 30, Good Friday, as a day for fasting and prayer. Rev. Mr. Woodward also announced that in the Methodist Episcopal church in New London on Good Friday Rev. J. Beveridge Lee of the Second Congregational church of that city would speak at 11 o'clock in the morning and all would be welcome. Other church activities for the week as announced were the Thursday evening prayer meeting at the parsonage and the meeting of the Queen Esther Girls Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Elsie McGuire.

At the Sunday school session, with Assistant Superintendent Dudley C. Perkins in charge, the banner for attendance was given to Miss Jennie G. Perkins' class, and on offering the banner went to D. C. Perkins' class of boys.

At the Epworth league evening service Miss Gertrude Allen was the leader, with the topic What Jesus Expects of Me.

Povey, Secretary Nelson Parker read the minutes of the last meeting and also read the treasurer's report for the year in his absence. Miss Grace E. Povey, chairman of the entertainment department, reported that the association's birthday party that had to be postponed in March would be given at a future date. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman, educational department report, stated that preparatory work for weaving rugs on the looms at the clubhouse was being promoted. Secretary Parker spoke for the highway department on repairs to the village road. Miss Caroline B. Freeman, director of the juniors of the association, told of their work and spoke on improved schools. The election of officers was postponed, for a larger attendance, to take place at the next regular meeting. President Povey named a nominating committee to prepare the list for election as Miss Freeman, Miss Laura A. Perkins and Mrs. Mary C. Watrous.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail? and danger of an operation.

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Stranger—What is your name, son?
Little Boy—Willie.
Stranger—Willie what?
Little Boy—Willie Don't, I guess. That's what mamma always calls me.—Chicago News.

"At times," said the girl, "you seem to be manly enough, and then at other times you're absurdly effeminate. Why on earth is it?"

"Er—ah—heredity," he answered.

"Heredity?"

"Yes. You see, half my ancestors were men and the other half women."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Hub (with newspaper)—I see a judge has ruled that a woman should not spend more on her clothes than for rent.

Wife—Well, then, we shall have to pay a bigger rent.—Boston Transcript.

"Are you practicing this autosuggestion?"

"Yes," answered Uncle Bill Bottletop, "and it's great stuff. It's fine to be able to feel better every morning by whispering something to yourself instead of to the bartender."—Washington Star.

The Lodger—Oh, Mr. Grabb, you've made a mistake in my washing this week. You've kept my shirt and sent me half a dozen very old handkerchiefs instead.

Mrs. Grabb—Lor' bless yer, sir, them ain't handkerchiefs; that is yer shirt!"—London Mail.

Claiming the human throat as the inspiration of his invention, a Colorado man has introduced a new type of talking machine. The exterior is similar to others of the cabinet form, but the interior contains numerous departures from the usual make of instruments. The essential part of the innovation, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, is a metal appliance fashioned after the throat and inclosed in the apex of a wooden horn of heavy construction. The tone pipe is increased by means of various other sound-absorbing and magnifying arrangements.

SEVEN LEBANON FAMILIES WANT TO BE ANNEXED TO WINDHAM

Hartford, March 29.—The petition of certain inhabitants of the town of Lebanon for annexation to the town of Windham was heard by the committee on new towns and probate districts this afternoon.

The petition was introduced by Representative Fenton by request. The district affected is a small portion of the town of Lebanon lying on the borders of the Ten Mile river and Pleasant street. This territory formerly belonged to Windham. The children in order to reach school are obliged to pass through either the town of Columbia or Windham. They are on the outskirts of the town and it would afford better facilities for the people of this section if this annexation could be accomplished. The territory consists of about 400 acres and comprises seven families. Mrs. Elmendorf of Lebanon said she was paying $90 a year for tuition at the Willimantic High school.

All the inhabitants of the section were in favor of annexation to Windham. Naturally police protection would come from Willimantic.

Karl F. Bishop, first selectman of Lebanon, appeared in opposition. He said that Lebanon had never refused to pay the tuition of any child going from this section to the Windham schools when application had been made in a proper manner. He stated that the school board was ready and willing to pay the tuition of pupils from this section when it is more convenient for them to attend there. The town affords no transportation in this section.

He was opposed to the selling off of this territory. The town had done the best it could for this section in the matter of roads and schools. He thought that it would take $100,000 from the grand list of Lebanon but Representative Fenton thought it would not be more than $30,000.

Representative Geer was opposed to the annexation and could not see how it would improve the condition there.

Peter Gintic said that he owns a farm in this territory, has twelve children and is unable to send eleven of them to school on account of the distance. He said that the town of Lebanon has refused to pay the tuition in Willimantic and he had been obliged to send his children to the parochial school in Willimantic.

No fire protection was afforded and at a recent fire it was necessary to call on the Willimantic department for help.

Representative Briggs said the town of Lebanon had paid for the tuition of children in this district up to high school.

Others appearing in favor of the petition were John D. and Timothy Gallivan, Mrs. Albert Adams and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Shedd.

BRINGS BILL THAT MAKES SEDITION LAW STRONGER

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, March 29.—A bill strengthening the present sedition law, chapter 191, acts of 1919, was introduced in the house this morning by the judiciary committee. It is the result of the recent troubles in Waterbury where Carl Tresca, an agitator, has thrice been denied the privilege of speaking.

The bill was ordered on the calendar for printing.

Drafted From Illinois Law

It is understood that the bill is a redraft of one adopted by the Illinois legislature, the constitutionality of which was recently upheld by the supreme court. The display of flags or banner or the wearing of insignia symbolizing a purpose to overthrow government is declared by the bill to be unlawful.

The following is a copy of the bill to be reported by the judiciary committee:—

"Section 1. Every person who shall advocate, orally or in writing, the reformation or overthrow, by violence or any unlawful means, of the representative form of government now secured to the citizens of the United States and the several states by the Constitution of the United States and the constitutions of the several states; or who shall publish, issue or knowingly sell of distribute any book, paper, document or other written or printed matter which advocates any crime or violence as a means of accomplishing a formation or overthrow of such form of government or who shall organize, aid in the organization of, or become a member of any society of association, the object of which is to advocate such reformation or overthrow of such form of government;; or who shall knowingly permit any room, building, premises or property owned, possessed or controlled by him to be used by any organization, society, association or group which advocates crime or violence, shall b eimprisoned for not less than ten years.

"Section 2. Any person who shall voluntarily be present at any meeting or assembly at which reformation or overthrow, by violence or other unlawful means, of the representative form of government now secured to the citizens of the United States and the constitutions of the several states is advocated, with knowledge of the purpose of such meeting or assembly, or shall display or exhibit at any meeting, gathering or parade, public or private; any flag, banner, emblem or other insignia symbolizing or intending to symbolize a purpose to overthrow such government by force or violence or by physical injury to any person or property, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year or both.

COUNTY HOME SCHOOL GIVES EASTER PROGRAM

A pretty Easter program was given Thursday afternoon by the children at the county home school. There are 70 children in the school now.

The following was the program:

TEMPERATURE AROUND ZERO ON LATE MARCH MORNING

Friday morning, March 23th, was one of the coldest March mornings on record in Norwich, the weather for that date being far below the season's average. People living in the city reported the mercury standing at zero at 6 o'clock in the morning and from reports in the country surrounding the city it was told that 3 and 4 degrees below were recorded in the early hours of Thursday morning.

Florists and gardeners who had started plants in their green houses had a busy night keeping the fires burning in their heating plants. As far as could be learned there was not much damage to greenhouse plants by the cold snap as weather warning had been received in time to prepare for the cold wave

Good Friday Holiday

Today (Friday) being Good Friday, many local business houses will be closed for the day. As usual the demand for hot cross buns has been large and bakeries in town have been doing a rushing business in preparation to supply the great demands.

BISHOP BURNS IS TO PRESIDE AT CONFERENCE

Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, Helena, Mont., will preside at the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church which opens at New London Wednesday morning, April 4.

Examinations for undergraduates in the conference courses of study of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held there April 2. These examinations are under the direction of the board of examiners of this conference.

The courses of study formerly were merely a system of examinations. It has now been transformed into a real school—a course of training. The change has made it a real correspondence course, with written work culminating in examinations at conference time.

The conference course of study is the result of the deliberations of the commission on conference courses of study, but, in accordance with the law of the church, has been approved by the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church. Under the new plan, the bishops have given far more attention to the constitution of the course and to its teachings than ever before.

The students have had the guidance in their work of directions and helps. There are five of these volumes—one for each year of the course, and one for the examinations for admission. The last four volumes contain a pamphlet on Homiletical Suggestions and Directions, and each of the five volumes has an introductory pamphlet—General Suggestions for Students. What a skilful teacher does for his classes these volumes seek to do for the student in the course.

The required written work in the course of study has been sent throughout the year to the members of the board of examiners for criticism, corrections and suggestions. This written work sometimes is an outline of the argument of a chapter. More often it is a question to be answered, or some subject to be discussed, but in all cases it is based directly upon what the student has been reading in his text. By this work, he tests for himself, as well as reveals to the examiner whether he has mastered the thought of the text. In this way a school of correspondence has been developed following the methods of the best correspondence schools.

In over 45 conferences of the church summer schools have been established. By vote of the conference, the undergraduates are required to be present at the conference schools.

The school is held at the seat of an educational institution, with a term of not less than 10 days. Here the examiners become a teaching faculty. The prime advantage of this conference school is that it brings the examiners and students intimately together. The man who has been working by himself gains stimulus from classroom discussion and public addresses. The school also provides for supplementary lectures and courses of instruction by men of pre-eminent ability.

There has been a general demand in the church for graduate courses of study for men who have completed the conference course. In seeking to meet this demand, the commission on conference courses of study has prepared three courses for graduate work: 1, a study of John's gospel; 2, a study of Jeremiah; 3, a subject in the field of systematic theology.

The members of the board of examiners of this conference who have this work in charge are Dr. R. S. Moore, County street church, New Bedford, Mass., chairman; Dr. G. A. Grant, Provincetown, Mass., registrar; Dr. J. N. Patterson, Wellfleet, Mass.; Dr. L. M. Flocken, Plymouth, Mass.; Dr. C. H. Van Natter, Franklin church, Brockton, Mass.; Dr. H. H. Critchlow, Stoughton, Mass.; Dr. J. N. Geisler, Acushnet, Mass.; Dr. Joseph Cooper, Brockton, Mass.; Dr. John Pearce, Willimantic; Dr. T. J. Steuart, Pawtucket, R. I.; Dr. W. C. Darby, Tolland; Dr. W. I. Ward, Mansfield, Mass.; Dr. G. C. Scrivener, East Providence church, South Manchester; Dr. E. A. Legg, Stafford Springs; Dr. F. W. Coleman, St. Paul's church, Newport, R. I.

BIDS $20,350 TO BUY MAIN ST. FIRE STATION

After conference with Mayor Milo R. Waters Thursday morning, the fire commissioners of the common council, Alderman Anson E. Grover, Councilmen Edward Crooks and W. H. Aldrich, made public the bids they had received for the purchase of the Main street fire station from the city.

The highest bidder was Abraham Ableman at $20,350, which makes him the successful bidder for the property. Two other bids were received, one of $19,500 from Frank N. Gardner, and the other of $19,000 from Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, which is next door to the fire station.

The bids will be reported by the fire commissioners to the common council next Monday night with recommendations as to the two petitions which are in their hands asking that the money from the sale of the Main street station be used for buying fire apparatus for the Greeneville station and a station and apparatus for the Falls.

At the council meeting Monday night a date will be set for the special city meeting, which will probably be the following Friday or the following Monday, to ratify the sale.

Mr. Abelman, who buys the property for investment purposes, has made a payment on account to bind his bid.

BRING THREE NEW SUITS FOR SUPERIOR COURT

The following new suits, returnable in April in the superior court for this county have been filed at the office of the clerk of the court:

Anne McMohan Carpenter of New London sues for divorce from Edgar S. Carpenter of that city on the ground of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1922. The couple was married April 9, 1912 and have two children, aged 7 and 5 years, whose custody the mother asks for.

Anna Cuddy Dawes of Montville who married Frederick L. Dawes, formerly of Montville, now of parts unknown, asks divorce from him on the grounds of desertion since Sept. 1, 1919, and intolerable cruelty between Jan. 9, 1909, and Sept. 1, 1919. They were married Jan. 9, 1909, the date on which the petitioner says intolerable cruelty began. She asks to have her name changed to Anna E. Cuddy.

The Savings bank of New London, sues for foreclosure of a $550 mortgage on two lots on Henry street, dated March 26, 1920. The defendants are George F. Henry and Mary Boyer, administrator of the estate of the late Ethel M. Henry of New London.

UNIVERSALIST ROLL CALL AND COMMUNION SERVICE

Holy communion was administered Thursday evening to members of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, by Rev. A. N. Foster, pastor, who also led in the exercises of the evening.

The annual roll call of members of the church took place, Clerk Mrs. Mira R. Gager reading the roll, members answering by voice, those now out of town or unable to attend the meeting answering by letters which were read by the clerk.

There was special music by the choir of the church, and Rev. Mr. Foster spoke briefly on things of interest to the church.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER A BASHFUL WITNESS

St. Joseph, Mich., March 29.—(By The A. P.)—William Z. Foster of Chicago, charged with criminal syndicalism, took the stand in his own behalf today. He admitted his presence at the communist convention in Berrien county last August, but denied all connection with the organization.

He denied that he had filled out a questionnaire at that convention and that he had been issued a portfolio containing radical documents. A questionnaire and a portfolio said to have been assigned to Foster at the convention had been introduced in evidence by the state.

Foster admitted on cross-examination that he had sat in one meeting of the presidum, or governing body of the convention.

The witness spoke in a voice so low that at times it was almost inaudible above the rustle of the crowded court room, and for the most part confined his replies to a "yes, sir" or "no, sir." His air on the stand was that of a detached spectator. Diffident and seemingly almost bashful, with a shy and bashful smile at times for jury and spectators, there was nothing in his bearing to indicate he was the man who organized more than 200,000 steel workers and led the great 1919 steel strike, or who, according to his own statements, has been an active revolutionary leader for nearly twenty years.

His story was one of years of radical and union activities. At various times in his career, he said, he had been a member of the I. W. W., secretary of the Syndicalist League of North America, student of radical movements abroad, leader of many strikes, delegate to redical meetings and correspnedent in Russia, member of the Seaman's union, Railway Carmen and other organizations, and for the last two years a subscriber to the Marxian School of Radical Philosophy.

Under cross-examination by Frank P. Walsh, his attorney, Foster repeated as much as he said he could remember of the speech he delivered at the communist convention. He said he had told the delegates there of a trip he had taken through the west to address the striking shopmen, from which he had returned just before the convention met.

We will accept on DEPOSIT as CASH LIBERTY BOND COUPONS due April 15, 1923.

DEPOSITS made on or before Thursday, APRIL FIFTH, will be entitled to INTEREST or DIVIDENDS From APRIL FIRST.

FRENCH ORDER GERMANS TO RESUME WORK OR VACATE

Order Includes All Striking Railroad Officials and Trainmen and Affects 500,000 Germans—Families of Those Refusing to Work Will Accompany Them Into Unoccupied Germany—The Task of Expelling the Strikers and Their Families Will Require Several Weeks.

Essen, March 30.—(By The A. P.)—A proclamation by General Degoutte, commander-in-chief of the occupational forces, ordering all the striking railroad officials and trainmen to resume work, under penalty of expulsion, was posted through the Ruhr and Rhineland today.

The order affects 500,000 Germans, as the families of those refusing to return to their posts will accompany them into unoccupied Germany.

All the Ruhr and Rhineland railway systems are now held by the French and Belgians, except the line in the Cologne zone bridgehead, which is in the hands of the British. The Germans have continued at work on this system.

The task of expelling the strikers and their families will require several weeks. Special train arrangements will have to be made for conveying the families of the men to the frontier.

It is said the German government has anticipated the expulsion order and made arrangements for distributing the men and their families throughout various parts of the country. The men and their families are to be given work by the government wherever this is feasible.

ITALY, FRANCE AND BELGIUM IN ACCORD

Brussels, March 30.—(By The A. P.)—"There is complete accord between the Italy, French and Belgian governments concerning their attitude toward Germany."

This official announcement was made tonight in a communique issued supplementary to one given out earlier, at the conclusion of a conference between King Albert, Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Jaspar, the latter having just returned from Milan.

BELGIUM GRATIFIED OVER CONDITIONS IN THE RUHR

Brussels, March 30 (By the A. P.)—Belgian official circles are gratified over what they consider the growing improvement in the exploitation of the Ruhr, pointing out that coal shipments now amount to 3,000 tons daily and will reach 6,000 tons daily by April 15, due notably to resumption of shipments by water. The Rhine-Herne canal, which the Germans obstructed by sinking barges, will be reopened for traffic on April 10.

Official statistics show there are two million tons of coal and 560,000 tons of coke ready for loading. The work of clearing away the stocks is being carried out without incident by gangs of French, Italian and Polish workers under protection of allied troops. Shipments of coal to Antwerp and Strasbourg by barge will reach normal within fifteen days.

ZIEGLERS DIDN'T KNOW BURNHAM WAS MARRIED

New York, March 30.—Relatives of Miss Helene Ziegler, found dead with a pistol in her hand late yesterday in the Grand Central offices of Frederick I. Burnham, wealthy contractor, who had been fatally shot, today denied Miss Zeigler had committed the double tragedy.

The allegation was made that Burnham had shot Miss Ziegler and himself and that his friends had placed the pistol in Miss Ziegler's lifeless hand to shield Burnham, in case he should recover. Burnham died this morning.

The report of police investigators in "closing the case" this morning was that Miss Ziegler who had known Burnham for ten years and had been exceptionally friendly with him during that period, recently learned that he was married and therefore could not marry her and that she visited his office with the intention of killing him and herself if he did not consent to get a divorce and marry her.

Mrs. Florence Marks, a married sister of the dead girl, made the statement for the family today in the presence of her mother.

"My sister did not shoot Mr. Burnham and herself," she said. "We are positive that he shot her and then shot himself and that someone placed the pistol in her hand, slit her fur coat to make it seem as though she had reached through into her jacket pocket to get the pistol, and that the same person put the four loaded cartridges in her pocket. This was done to protect him if he recovered of the wound of which he died early this morning in the hospital.

"We never knew he was married."

QUARRELED OVER SENDING CHILDREN TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

New York, March 30.—The alleged failure of Gilbert C. Wood, head of the publishing house of William WWood & Company, to send his children to Sunday school as agreed in a private separation agreement, led his wife to sue for a separation, it was disclosed today after the appellate division of the supreme court had refused to dismiss her suit on the ground that a private separation agreement already existed.

Mrs. Wood is an authoress and a relative of the late Eugene Field, poet. She was married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1905.

When she separated from her husband in 1920, Mrs. Wood alleges, the two children were left in custody of the father who was to send them to Sunday school every Sunday. Also he agreed, she said, not to take them to Babylon, L. I., "or any place on the vicinity." Both particulars of the agreement have been broken, she claims.

IRISH HAVING TROUBLE COLLECTING REVENUE

Belfast, March 30.—The newly-established free state customs officials on the Ulster border are faced with a problem of some magnitude in the Fermanagh region. Scores of farmers living on the islands in Lough Erne, which covers a large part of Fermanagh, for generations have been accustomed to outwit the authorities by making "poteen' or illicit whiskey, and transporting it in boats to the mainland.

This traffic has been greatly checked by the Ulster special constabulary, but occupants of the region declare that, unless the free state puts a fleet of revenue cutters in Lough Erne there is nothing to prevent the smuggling of dutiable goods from the free state counties to Cavan, Leitrim and Donegal into Fermanagh by water.

EGYPTIAN NATIONALIST RELEASED FROM EXILE

London, March 30.—The foreign office announced today that Said Zagloul Pasha, the Egyptian nationalist leader, has been released from exile at Gibraltar, his physician having reported the necessity of his undergoing treatment. It is understood that Zagloul will go to France immediately.

After refusing to obey orders that he refrain from delivery speeches in advocacy of non-cooperation with the government Zagloul was arrested at Cairo in December, 1921, and taken to Ceylon. Some months later he was removed to Gibraltar.

BETHLEHEM STEEL TAKES OVER MIDVALE PROPERTIES

New York, March 30.—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation today took possession of the properties and assets of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company. Announcement to this effect was made by officials of the Bethlehem company after a meeting of representatives of firms involved at which all matters necessary for the consummation of the purchase of the Midvale and Cambria companies were completed.

President Grace of the Bethlehem Corporation said W. E. Corey, former president of the Midvale Company and Percy A. Rockefeller, a former director, would be elected to the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to represent the Midvale interests at the annual stockholders' meeting next Tuesday.

The Midvale and Cambria properties were purchased by the Bethlehem Corporation for $95,000,000 worth of common stock of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. The purchases included the Midvale properties, less the Nicetown plant, and a controlling interest in the Cambria Steel Company owned by the Midvale company.

The minority stock of the Cambria Steel company, representing 24,705 shares out of 900,000 shares which was not purchased by the Bethlehem Corporation, will be taken care of, it was said, by the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company interests which made the sale of the property to the Bethlehem Corporation. Whether the rights of the minority stock of the Cambria company will be disposed of by purchase of the stock by the Midvale interests or a sharing in the purchase price paid by the Bethlehem Corporation was not revealed. The Bethlehem Corporation had no responsibility in the matter, it was said.

The Nicetown plant of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company has been acquired by a Delaware corporation, it also was announced, to be known as the Midvale Company, which will commence business at once. The capital will be 200,000 shares of no par value.

A. C. Dinkey, for many years president of the Carnegie Steel Company and later president of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, will head the new company. Other officers are: H. L. Prevert, vice president, and J. M. Milliken, secretary and treasurer. The operating and sale staff will be made up of the old organization, it was said.

President Dinkey announced he would devote his entire time to the new company. Products now manufactured in the plant will be handled and new lines added as market opportunities permit.

RAILROAD FREIGHT TRAFFIC INCREASING

Washington, March 30.—During the last quarter of 1922 railroads carried 27 per cent. more freight than they did during the same period of 1921, the interstate commerce commission reported today, basing its summaries on reports from all Class I roads, which control more than 90 per cent. of the country's total rail mileage. The total number of tons of freight originating on the lines during the three months ending last Dec. 31, the commission found, was 313,033,663, against 246,488,989 tons during the corresponding period of the previous year.

Increases were particularly noted in the shipments of manufactures and miscellaneous commodities, which were 60,238,381 tons of the 1922 quarter's total, an increase of 36 per cent. over the 1921 period, and in products of mines, which amounted to 171,355,000 tons, or 30.5 per cent. more than in the 1921 quarter.

LAND AND SEA CRIPPLED BY NEWFOUNDLAND BLIZZARD

St. John's, N. F., March 30.—The blizzard that swept Newfoundland yesterday had subsided today, leaving transportation by land and sea crippled for the time. Not a wheel turned today on the Newfoundland railway. Mail steamers plying between Canadian ports and St. John's were held fast in ice fields.

Two weeks' accumulation of mail, 750 sacks, due here last night on the steamer Sable from Louisburg, N. S., had not been heard from tonight. It was believed that the steamer had been caught in the ice outside this port. The mail steamer Kyle, bound to Louisburg, was still frozen in off St. Pierre.

Earl of Carnavan Slightly Better.

London, March 30.—The Earl of Carnarvan, who is seriously ill at Cairo, Egypt, with what is understood to be pneumonia of the right lung, is slightly better, according to a message which reached his London residence today. His condition, however, is described as still very serious.

DECLARES HE CAN SOLVE WALL STREET EXPLOSION

Los Angeles, March 30.—Herbert Wilson, former evangelist, alleged mail robber, and convicted murderer, has informed postal inspectors he can solve the Wall Street, New York, explosion of Sept. 17, 1920, in which 39 lives were lost, The Los Angeles Times will state tomorrow.

The explosive which filled the bomb was manufactured by Wilson, according to his own admission, The Times will state, and sold by him to a man who has been charged with guilty knowledge of the crime.

Wilson, according to federal officers is believed to have knowledge of mail robberies in New York, Buffalo, Detroit, Toledo, Columbus, Ohio and Los Angeles, although it was only for one of these, perpetrated in Los Angeles March 3, 1921, when securities valued at more than $1,000,000 were stolen, that he is being held.

TESTIMONY COMPLETED IN RADICAL FOSTER CASE

St. Joseph, Mich., March 30 (By the A. P.)—Both sides in the trial of William Z. Foster, under the Michigan criminal syndicalism law, rested their case late this afternoon and court was adjourned until next Tuesday morning, when arguments to the jury will begin.

The state prosecutors felt satisfied as to the outcome when they obtained the frank admission from Foster on the witness stand today that he wished to see the government of the United States supplanted by a workers' dictatorship in accordance with the communistic philosophy which he is advocating. The transition, he said, probably would result in a soviet form of government similar to that at present in Russia, although he would not regard this as necessary or altogether advisable.

Foster was examined at length this afternoon from a red covered book entitled "Syndicalism," of which he and E. C. Ford were the authors. This book was published 17 years ago in Chicago and has withdrawn from circulation.

Foster declared he had since publicly repudiated it and in his speeches and writings he had never since that time advocated any of the incendiary methods which he preached while he was a syndicalist.

LYE USED TO DESTROY BODIES OF TWO SISTERS

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—A meat chopper, a cauldron and a quantity of lye, said to have been used to destroy the bodies of Mrs. Eloise Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms of Atlanta, who disappeared mysteriously in San Antonio, Tex., ten years ago, were exhibited by the government today in the federal court trial of Victor E. Innes, charged with using the mails to defraud Mrs. Dennis.

The prosecution introduced the exhibits to substantiate its theory that Innes killed the Nelms sisters, dismembered the bodies and destroyed them with lye, after defrauding the victims.

W. S. Busbee, a grocer of San Antonio, a prosecution witness, testified that Innes purchased a quantity of lye, soap and ammonia from him in June, 1914. Other witnesses testified to having seen the young women in San Antonio shortly before their disappearance. Innes and his wife were tried for their murder, the indictments being dismissed following failure of the state to produce the bodies.

Innes is being tried here on an indictment charging he persuaded Mrs. Dennis to place with him money for investment in Montana and Utah lands. Testimony was introduced to indicate Innes never made such transactions.

MORE WAGE ADVANCES IN COTTON AND WOOLEN MILLS

Fall River, Mass., March 30.—With widespread announcements today of further wage advances to workers in cotton and woolen mills, Fall River and New Bedford were left virtually alone as New England centers that have not joined the movement.

As a result it was indicated tonight that the manufacturers of this city probably would offer an increase of 12 1-2 per cent. on 36,000 operatives in the 111 cotton mills here when they resume on Monday the negotiations with the Textile council on the latter's demand for a 15 per cent. advance. New Bedford manufacturers are admittedly awaiting adjustment in this city before acting themselves and any settlement here is expected to apply to the 24,000 cotton workers there.

GEN. PORTER ESTATE MORE THAN HALF LIBERTY BONDS

New York, March 30.—The extent to which Brigadier General Horace Porter, who served in the Civil war on General Garnt's staff, responded to the call of his country in 1917 was revealed today when application was made by executors for a judicial settlement of his $2,600,000 estate. More than half was invested in Liberty bonds.

ATTEMPTING A RECORD FOR SUSTAINED FLIGHT

... of Dorothy Keenan Now in Case

Man Who Asked Draper M. Daugherty to Get Him a Job in U. S. Department of Justice.

New York, March 30.—Renewing his examination of the relatives of Dorothy Keenan, slain model, late today, Assistant District Attorney Pecora announced that Francis Keenan, her brother, had admitted he was the man who telephoned Draper M. Dougherty, only son of Attorney General Daugherty, after the girl's death and had asked him to make good a promise to get him a job in the United States Department of Justice.

Francis Keenan, who was the first witness called, was questioned for more than an hour and a half by Mr. Pecora and Police Captain Carey of the homicide bureau. For the first time since the beginning of the investigation of the murder, an official stenographic record of the examination was taken.

Mr. Pecora announced he would continue his examination for into the night if necessary and that he would devote an hour at least to questioning each member of the Keenan family, all of whom were present in the criminal courts building this afternoon.

Francis Keenan was accompanied by his mother, his brother John, his sister, Mrs. Helen Whitson, and the family attorney, Deacon Murphy, all of whom succeeded in entering the private offices of the district attorney without the knowledge of scores of reporters and photographers who had been awaiting their arrival since morning.

Shortly after the examination began Mr. Pecora announced he would re-examine J. Kearney Mitchell of Philadelphia, the girl's fiancee, and John H. Jackson, confidential counsel to Mitchell, tomorrow.

The detailed examination of the Keenans today and the announcement of the re-examination tomorrow of Mitchell and Jackson is taken as a possible indication that the district attorney's office is testing the theory, upon which it has so far proceeded, that the girl was slain by a ring after she had refused to aid them in blackmailing her "angels."

DEPLORES LIBERTY GIVEN PRISONER LANGWORTHY

Boston, March 30.—Commissioner of Corrections Sanford Bates, discussing the holiday from jail granted Nathan L. Langworthy while serving a sentence of four months at Worcester, said today that there was no authority under the law for the absence allowed Langworthy, and that the department of corrections "deplores the granting of special privileges to any inmate." It is without authority, however, he said, "to prohibit or control the granting of such privileges by those in charge of county institutions."

Langworthy was granted leave of absence to visit his aged mother in Westerly, R. I.

COLD WAVE MAY BREAK BY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Washington, March 30.—In the face of another cold wave reported sweeping eastward, a ray of hope that Easter Sunday, after all, won't be so disagreeable, was extended tonight by the weather forecaster.

Although it will be unusually chilly in some sections of the east, cold in others, fair weather, it was predicted, will be general and temperature will rise slowly" Sunday afternoon.

No Clemency For Vicar Butchkavitch

But Soviet Central Executive Committee Has Commuted Death Sentence Against Archbishop Zepliak.

Moscow, March 30.—(By The A. P.)—The action of the central executive committee in commuting the death sentence against Archbishop Zepliak and denying clemency in the case of Vica General Butchkavitch came so quickly today that they caused general surprise among those making efforts here in behalf of the prelates.

The decision was taken at a meeting last night, and so unexpected was it that one of the members of the defence counsel declared today he knew nothing of it until he read the morning newspapers. The formal appeal upon which the committe acted requested clemency on the following three claims:

First, that the priests were not enemies of the government, nor were they counter-revolutinaries, their only disobedience was due to the decree separating church and state, and the fact that they themselves, as citizens, came into conflict and opposition with the church canons.

Second, that they never had been accused during the time of the revolution of any criminal avtivity, and that there was no accusation that they were connected with the counter- revolutionaries.

Third, in case they were considered dangerous, it was not necessary to carry out the death sentence, as by imprisonment they could be put in a position where they were not dangerous.

The appeal cited the ages of the two defendants, stating that Archbishop Zepliak was "over fifty," and Vicar-General But... witch fifty-five.

From the... of editorials in the official news... Pravda and Izvestia, in which ... the friends and foes who appear against the sentences were roundly censured, it might appear that in making its decision the committee intended to enforce the principle of Russia's right to demand obedience to the Russian laws.

The foreign office received appeals for clemency from friends of the soviet regime in several countries, as well as protests from various ecclesiastic organizations, and these the Pravda takes up in an editorial opening with ironical statement: "An awful thing has happened in the kingdom of atrocities—Soviet Russia."

In a serious vein, the newspaper declares that the tribunal is defending the rights of the laboring classes, whereas the Bourgeoisie system, "aided for centuries by the priests," was said to have committed much worse atrocities against the laboring classes.

Edouard Herriot, mayor of Lyons, France, George Lansbury, former editor of the London Daily Herald, the labor organ, and Benjamin Turner, laborite member of the British parliament, all of whom recently visited Russia, come in for a share of the attack by the Jravda as "compromisers with the priestly servants of the Bourgoisie."

The Isvestia attacks the Archbishop of Canterury, Baron Sydeham, and other Britishers for alleged interference in Russian affairs. "Why such a round about way" scarcastically calls asks the newspaper in a headline over a news despatch containing the note of Secretary of State Hughes with regard to the prelates, which is says was sent through the American ambassador in Berlin to the American minister in Poland and then to the soviet representative in Warsaw.

"We'd like to see what kind of a face Lord Curzon (the British foreign secretary) would make if the central executive committee raised a question over the really atrocious action of the English civilizers in South Africa and India," continues the Izvestia. "No doubt Curzon and the American Hughes once more look upon this as Moscow intrigue and an attempt at propaganda for communism and world revolution; but when these persons themselves in a most uncermonious manner interfere in our internal affairs, they apparently think it is a matter of course, but we shall not allow it. We shall tell them, Gentlemen, hands off!"

AGED MAN GORED TO DEATH BY VICIOUS BULL

Warren, Mass., March 30.—John Pariseau, an aged inmate of the town farm, was gored to death this after noon by a vicious bull. The man's body was found in a swamp where it evidently had been tossed by the animal. Pariseau had gone to the barn where the bull was quartered and on finding that it had escaped into a field followed it. The bull suddenly turned on him and caught him on its horns. Other inmates of the farm were attracted to the field by the barking of a dog who remained beside the body until help arrived.

EASTER DAY

On this glorious Easter morning,
Earth and sky and flower and tree
All proclaim in tuneful voices
Life and Immortality;
Weary hearts take hope and courage,
For the One who came to save
Has arisen, glad, triumphant,
From the closed and darksome grave.

Everywhere the message greets us,
Ringing clear and sweet and true,
In His house and in the wildwood,
Filling hearts with hope anew;
Bringing us the joyful tidings
That we, too, from death shall rise
To the things He promised for us,
In a land beyond the skies.

—Katherine Edelman, in Kansas City Star.

FACTORIES AND MILLS ARE WORKING FULL CAPACITY

Further Production Would Call for Overtime Work, Boston Federal Reserve Bank Says—Waiting to See Whether Increased Prices Will Cut Down Consumption and Thereby Slow Down Production—Department Stores in February, With Same Number of Individual Sales as a Year Ago, Report a Gain in Financial Receipts.

Boston, March 30.—The rate of manufacturing activity in New England and in the entire country has reached such a high percentage of full time capacity that it cannot increase much further without considerable overtime work, says the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, issued tonight.

"The point has now been reached," the review adds, "where it is important to watch the relationship between the trend of production and that of commodity prices, and especially to note whether or not a further increase in prices, if it comes, calls forth more production or reacts to cut down consumption and therefore to slow down production. This question will probably arise in a comparatively short time, especially in view of the extensive wage increases which were made in this district during March, and which, of course, must raise manufacturing costs and perhaps later selling prices.

"Until the cost of living increases considerably more than it has, the wage advances just granted, together with a continued high volume of employment, should materially increase the purchasing power of a larger proportion of the workers in the factories of New England."

The review says that during the first week in March carloadings on the New England railroads were equal to those of the corresponding week of last year and that it seems reasonable to assume that they will soon be much in excess of those of a year ago, now that the railroads are no longer troubled by excessive snowfall.

Department stores in February reported a gain in sales in dollars comparable with those reports last autumn.

"During both January and February," the review comments, "it was reported that the number of individual sales was almost exactly the same as in the corresponding month a year ago. In other words, the cost of the average purchase is higher now than early in 1922."

The large volume of business being done in New England at rising prices caused but little change in the banking situation in March. The review characterizes the general banking situation in this district as "fundamentally very strong."

TWO FIREMEN CRUSHED UNDER FALLING WALLS

New York, March 30.—Four century-old buildings, lying in the center of the city's oldest manufacturing district, were destroyed today by fire. Under the crumbling rough-stone walls two firemen met death and sixteen of their comrades were injured. The property loss was estimated at $750,000.

Discovered shortly after 4 a. m. in a Twenty-sixth street structure, occupied by a paper box factory and a wood waste dealer, the fire soon spread to adjoining buildings, caught chemicals in a lithographic and printing establishment, and was raging in four buildings when the first fire apparatus arrived. At their height the flames threatened the Bellevue hospital buildings, a short block away, and preparations were under way there for a time to remove patients. Families in tenements near the fire were compelled to leave their rooms because of the smoke.

Julius Spanier and William Aiello were leading a line of hose to the center of the burning structures when the walls began crumbling. One of their comrades was buried in a pile of debris. Aiello tried to pull him out, and he too was buried. Then there came a dull explosion, the entire inside of the building collapsed, and Spanier fell. Six of the sixteen who were injured suffered severe fractures.

Aiello and Spanier died in Bellevue hospital.

A Bellevue ambulance, bumping over the lines of hose, hurried toward the burning building as a wall collapsed. A stock block crashed through the roof, narrowly missing Dr. Elizabeth Wright, surgeon. She aided firemen in carrying the injured from the buildings.

Mayor Hylan and Mrs. Hylan went to the fire at 9 o'clock, then visited the injured firemen in Bellevue and offered words of condolence to the relatives of the dead men.

The firms whose plants were destroyed are Universal Circle Paper Box company, Triangle Sheet Metal company and the Madison Square Wet Wash laundry, all in Twenty-sixth street, and the J. H. Tooker Printing and Lithographing company in Twenty-seventh street. Plants of four other concerns were damaged.

More than thirty engine and truck companies and 300 firemen were engaged in fighting the blaze.

TO TERMINATE FAMOUS LANSING-ISHII AGREEMENT

Washington, March 30.—(By the A. P.)—Cancellation of the famous Lansing-Ishii agreement of 1917, by which the United States recognized the "special interests" of Japan in China, has been agreed upon and will be announced formally by the two government at an early date.

Under present plans the official announcement will be made simultaneously in Washington and Tokio, as a notice to the world that the United States and Japan have cleared the slate of the last ambiguity in the formal agreements bearing on their relation to the problems of China, and have reached a complete clarity of understanding as to equal opportunity and the open door.

Negotiated in secrecy, the agreement first was communicated to Pekin by the Japanese in a form which was accepted as implying a recognition of Japanese "paramouncy" in China. That interpretation was denied steadfastly by the United States and the dispute over the exact meaning of the document never was settled.

With cancellation of the agreement, American-Japanese relations in the Far East revert to the basis of parity laid down in the Root-Takihara agreement of 1908 and reaffirmed and broadened by the nine power treaty signed at the Washington arms conference by the United States, Japan, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Portugal and China.

TRIED TO SELL STOLEN GOODS TO THE OWNER

New York, March 30.—Abraham Cohen was a surprised jobber today when four merchants he said had invited him to meet them in a Broadway store "to get bargains in suits" displayed for his selection his own goods that had been stolen last January. He didn't buy; but got the police and had the quartet arrested on a charge of grand larceny. They were locked up in police headquarters.

Cohen told the police he had shipped three cases of suits to a clothing house in St. John's, Newfoundland. When the cases arrived and were opened they contained, instead of clothing, bricks and waste paper. Some of the missing suits, he charged, were among the exhibit of bargains he saw today.

BANDITS SHOOT PAYMASTER AND GET $4,000 PAYROLL

New York, March 30.—Capping a series of bold robberies in Greater New York within the last few days, five motor bandits today shot and killed Thomas R. Phillips, paymaster of the Duncan Construction company, in Long Island City, and escaped with a $4,000 payroll.

The fatal bullet, passing through Phillips' body, broke a window in the automobile from which he had just stepped and dashed fragments of the glass into the eyes of his companion, John G. Kane, of Brooklyn, employed as a superintendent by the company. It was feared tonight that Kane, who was acting as guard, would lose his sight.

Grabbing the payroll, the bandits fled toward Brooklyn and their car later was found abandoned on Lorimer street. Believing the fugitives had entered one of the tenement houses on the street, the police threw a cordon of 60 men around eight houses and searched them from roof to basement without finding a trace of the hold-up men.

The hold-up occurred at Van Dam street and Nelson avenue, one of the busiest spots in Long Island City, whither the paymaster and his companion had driven from the bank to pay off a gang of workmen engaged on a warehouse.

Phillips had just stepped from the car in front of the office shack while another machine containing the five robbers, drew in behind him. The street at the time was crowded with vehicles and pedestrians.

Only one of the bandits got out. He walked up to Phillips and shot him dead without a word having passed between them. Picking up the payroll bag, which Phillips had dropped, when he fell sprawling, the robber tossed it to his companions, stepped aboard his car which already was moving, and sped away.

Mrs. Margaret Austin of Philadelphia, driving along in an automobile, saw Phillips fall. Turning as quickly as she could she drove back a block and picking up Traffic Officer Phillip Dampman, drove back at high speed to the scene of the crime.

The bandit car had disappeared. Mounted policemen were sent galloping through the district to trace the bandit car, but were unable to pick up the trail after it had turned toward Brooklyn. A general alarm then was sounded and police stations in the greater city and Long Island were notified to be on the lookout.

RUM SHIP ANCHORED OFF BLOCK ISLAND

Boston, March 30.—Riding at anchor outside the three mile limit between Cox and Brown's ledges, east by half south from Block Island, is the British steamship Avontown, with 10,000 cases of fine Scotch whiskey and champagne in her hold. In federal court here today, Alexander Goldberg and David Perlo, both of Montreal, and Mrs. Delia Clark were held for bearing on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by smuggling liquor from Scotland. It became known tonight that the presence of the Avontown off the coast and the three arrests in Boston are episodes in the same story.

When Goldberg and Perlo were arrested last night by United States marshals in the Alston apartment of Mrs. Clark, also known as Mrs. Lena Costello, it was intimated that the three were thought to be the principals in an extensive rum-running conspiracy. Details of this alleged plot filtered out today, and they included a rum fleet plying between Scotland and the New England coast, of which the Avontown was said to be the flagship, and a traffic of such consequence that the representative of a Glasgow distillery accompanied the fleet in person.

BELIEVE FIREBUG STARTED NANTASKET BEACH BLAZE

Boston, March 30.—Investigation induced by the belief that a firebug started the $00,000 blaze that swept part of Paragon Park, Nantasket Beach, and destroyed 40 homes in Hull Wednesday night will be started tomorrow by Distdict Attorney Harold Williams of Norfolk county, and state officials, it was announced tonight.

A conference was held here late today between Mr. Williams and Assistant State Fire Marshal Timothy G. Murphy and State Detective Edward H. Murtarh. The three officials afterward expressed the belief that the fire was deliberately set.

The investigation also will include four other fires in the neighborhood of Paragon Park within the last year, all of which were said to have been incendiary.

The high school principals conference was in session again Friday at the normal school building, this city. The work being done by the conference is to arrange a manual which will be published by the state board of education for the guidance of high school principals in doing their administrative and scholarship work. Of the total of seventy-seven principals in the state there were sixty-three in attendance and among them were Egbert A. Case, principal of Windham High School. The sessions are presided over by Jesse Buttrick Davis, supervisor of secondary education for the state board of education.

The manual in question has been worked out during the past year by a committee appointed by the Headmasters' Club of Connecticut and assisted by the supervisor of secondary education in the state. The committee appointed included: Walter B. Spencer of New Haven, chairman; Frank M. Coffey of Torrington; James C. Moore of Bridgeport; S. B. Butler of Terryville; L. P. Knapp of South Manchester; Paul S. Miller of Meriden and Louis P. Slade of New Britain.

Dr. A. S. Meredith, state commissioner of education has been one of the speakers at the conference and in his talk he outlined several reasons why high school principals fail in their work, and he enumerated some of the principals duties. Dr. Meredith fittingly concluded his talk by the following summary:

To be a success as a principal means:

Vision and leadership due to natural ability and specific training.

A sense of the significance of his position and a working knowledge of the relative importance of his duties.

Practically all day Friday was consumed by the going over of the manuscript of the proposed manual by groups of six principals, and making of advisable revisions and amendments. The Saturday morning session will be held to act upon the manual as revised and amended and Saturday noon the principals will be the guests of the Connecticut Headmasters' club at a dinner and this will conclude the conference.

While in this city the principals are staying in the residence hall of the normal school and they have nothing but words of praise for the treatment accorded them.

Foreword, the present status of secondary education.

Extracts from Connecticut Law pertaining to secondary schools; rules of the state board of education; the classification of secondary schools: objectives of secondary education: terminology of secondary education: organization and administration; the program of studies and curricula: the daily schedule: admission, promotion and graduation; marks, records and reports; class room procedure: extra-curricula activities; educational and vocational guidance; high school graduates; the high school and the community; handling text books and supplies; state interscholastic rules; bibliography.

The funeral services for Miss Mary A. Hatch were held Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the late home at South Windham and were attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Mrs. Elizabeth H. Goets, of Philadelphia, Pa., officiated. Burial was in the Windham cemetery. The bearers were George F. Stiles, Arthur E. Stiles, Nathaniel Stevens, Harold Nichols, Horace A. Smith and James M. Larkham. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt, successors to Jay M. Shepard.

In the death of Miss Mary Hatch not only the community in which she lived but the town of Windham has suffered a severe loss. She was always interested in whatever was for the betterment of her home town and the uplift of its people and exercised her right of citizenship for that purpose. No one in trouble ever appealed to her sympathetic nature in vain. A large portion of her life was devoted to ministering to others with willing hands and loving heart. She was very much interested in the work of the Willimantic branch of the Needlework Guild of America of which she was a director and its very efficient secretary.

She was also a member of the Willimantic Woman's club and a very active and ardent worker in the Red Cross. In religious views she was a spiritualist, believing not only in faith but also in a knowledge of the continued life and presence of our loved ones after death. Quiet and unassuming in her manner, to know her was to love her. Her sweet and gracious ways, her frank cordiality and the sincerity of her friendship endeared her to all.

We cannot help missing her but "Love is unselfish and must rejoice in the bliss and happiness of its beloved and we will rejoice though with falling tears and breaking hearts.—(Contributed).

With some hesitation Michael Gilmartin pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication in the local police court Friday morning. At a joint meeting of the special committee from the American Thread Athletic Association and a committee of directors of the Y. M. C. A. which was held in the Chamber of Commerce hall arrangements were discussed in regard to the converting of the association building at 842 Main street into a community house. No immediate action was taken, however, as the representatives present had no power to act. Next Thursday evening another meeting will be held to discuss plans further. In view of the fact that the special committee was appointed for investigation only any action that is taken will have to be voted upon by the association in meeting.

While officials of the town building looked on about 8.30 o'clock Friday morning, a large shepard dog was struck and killed by an auto bus owned and driven by Clayton E. Hunt of Columbia. The canine was run over by both wheels on the right side of the truck and was dead in a few minutes. The carcass was placed on the lawn of a nearby house and was later taken away for burial. The driver was not blamed for the accident as he had sounded a signal when he saw two dogs playing in the road and one ran off and the other dodged in front of the bus.

Friday was calendar day for the month of April and according to local opinions everyone is hoping that its forecast is all wrong. If the weather resembles calendar day we can be assured of much unsettled weather conditions and varied temperature readings.

The itinerary of the trip provides for visits to the buildings of interest in Washington, including the Congresional library, Corcoran Art Gallery, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Capitol, White House, Washington's Monument, and a trip to Mount Vernon and Arlington cemetery.

The class will return to New York Wednesday and will stay in that city until Thursday afternoon returning home then by Hartford.

Miss Elizabeth Schreier and Miss Agnes Scheier, graduates of the high school, also accompanied the class on the trip.

On account of the atmospheric conditions the radio service held at the Methodist church this afternoon was not the success anticipated. The large receiving set used, one of the best manufactured, was operated by Mr. Tucker of Hartford, and in his opinion the storm area between here and Schenectady, N. Y., interfered with the receiving as the set worked perfectly when tried out Thursday night at the Methodist church. The service was to have been received from the First Methodist Episcopal church at Schnectady, N. Y. Some parts of the program were heard but not clearly.

At the test this morning, between 11.30 and 12 o'clock, transatlantic stations, on a 25,000 meters wave length, were heard clearly. The Schenectady station on the 360 meter wave length was also heard, but the program could not be received clearly. The Nauen station at Germany had been heard, as well as a station in Sweden and Norway.

The set was used again this evening and practically all of the stations tuned in on were heard.

BAZAAR AND CARNIVAL TO BE HELD AT ARMORY

Plans are now being completed for the Battery B and Combat Train bazaar and carnival to be held at the state armory on McKinley avenue from April 7th to 14th inclusive.

Several new and interesting novelty features have been procured for the carnival among them being the "Lord's Prayer," wonderfully inscribed on the head of a pin. The engraving is said to be the most marvelous piece of work in the world. The head of the pin, an ordinary pin, is but 47-1000 of an inch in diameter. Inscribed on this small surface is the Lord's Prayer, containing 65 words, a total of 254 letters and 14 punctuation marks.

To complete this wonderful work of art it was necessary to make 1,863 cuts and every letter is spaced perfectly and can easily be read by use of a powerful microscope. The lettering of the Lord's Prayer was the work of over three years and it has been pronounced by experts to be the most prodigious feat of engraving ever accomplished.

In addition to this wonderful exhibit there will be many attractive booths, continuous dancing and many other novelty features.

Two Theatres
Never before in the history of motion pictures making has there been used so much electricity for lighting purposes as was necessary in producing Douglas Fairbanks' latest United Artists release, Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, which is announced as the feature for the Breed theatre next week, starting tomorrow.
The amount of electric power consumed in one afternoon, properly to illuminate the banquet hall "set" in King Richard's castle, was sufficient to light the city of Los Angeles for seven hours any night. When it is taken into consideration that all this brilliance was needed to photograph one scene which is shown, on the screen, only a minute or two, there should be no difficulty in realizing the tremendous proportions of the problem of lighting a big film production.
This particular banquet hall, covering as it does more ground space than the new spacious concourse in the Pennsylvania railway terminal station in New York city, overtaxed the capacity of the largest lamps which had been used in studios up to that time and therefore it became necessary to build special lamps of such increased capacity for radiating illumination that millions of candlepower could be generated.
Two full months was required by Bert Wayne, illuminating engineer, in order to make the preparations for "arming Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, and he had at his command 150 of the best electricians obtainable. After the actual "shooting" began he was able to reduce his force of assistants to twenty-five men, but these were kept as busy as the proverbial bees every working hour.
One of Mr. Wayne's most valuable aides was Parnell Elde, who invented the larger lamp with a 100,000 kilowatt capacity. Ten of these were built in order to produce the required million-power.
A total of 50,000 feet of heavy copper wire was used an das many as 350 lamps were required for light for a single scene, not including forty sun-arcs.
Besides, twenty baby arcs were used for the castle interior, being in the picture. To round out these lighting facilities was one thirty-six inch field piece such as was used by the United States army for illuminating wide areas of camps. In order to handle all this electrical power it was necessary to install six extra and special power plants and the Los Angeles Electric Company was enlarged to enlarge their carrier cables to take care of a 25,000-ampere "juice" load.
It can be claimed safely that Mr. Fairbanks has caused to be corralled for "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" the light of the greatest might yet used in the film-making industry and it took a young fortune to pay the bills presented by the utility company.
Robin Hood will be shown twice on Sunday evening at 7 and 9 p. m. and twice daily through the week at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m.
Today's bill consists of May McAvoy in Through a Glass Window, Ruth Roland in The Timber Queen, Ella Pathe News and a Metro comedy. Continuous show today, 1.30 to 10.15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frieda Hempel to Appear at ... Hall.

Frieda Hempel gave her ... Lind concert in Buffalo last ... day—the same concert that she will give in Slater Hall Friday evening, April 6th.

The furore that this concert has created throughout the country is unparalleled in musical history. She roused her enormous Buffalo audience to tumultous applause, and held them spellbound throughout as young of unique and picturesque charm.

Miss Hempel and her associates, Mr. Conrad V. Bos, pianist, and Mr. Louis F. Fritze, flutist, adhered closely to manners of detail and dress of the period of the beloved Jenny Lind, faithfully reproducing the quaint atmosphere of grace, dignity and intimacy which pervaded the concert rooms of the mid-nineteenth century.

The golden, glorious voice of Hempel had not been heard in Buffalo for two years, and last night it won the vast audience by its beauty, purity and lusciousness.

Hempel's voice is the kind that delights by its sheer loveliness, regardless of what it sings. Last night's audience fell immediately under its spell and it seemed as though the listeners would never be satisfied. It was a brilliant concert.

Tickets for the Norwich concert are on sale at The Cranston Co., Broadway. Tickets $3.00. Tax exempt.

The annual Vaudeville Artists' week comes next week. One matinee receipts will be donated to this worthy cause of the vaudeville artists. The management has secured some excellent attractions in vaudeville and pictures with many novelties introduced by the vaudeville artists themselves as extra attractions.

With an immortal story, a star of dynamic personality and a cast of players whose names might be played up separately as stars, Under Two Flags comes to the Broadway theatre on Monday, as a Universal-Jewel offering of the highest standard.

Priscilla Dean stars as the pathetic Cigarette, James Kirkwood is opposite her, and John Davidson, Ethel Grey Terry, Stuart Holmes, W. H. Bainbridge, Fred Craven, Burton Law and Bobby Mack have other important parts.

Ouida did not dream of the success to which her story would come. She died in poverty in France, and very few knew that the passing of Louise de la Ramee, as she was in private life, was the eclipse of a brilliant career. As is the case with many a great genius, she died without the reward that was justly here. If she had lived but a few years longer fame immeasurable would have come to her.

Humoresque at the Broadway Sunday Night.

Gaston Glass, who plays the leading male role in Humoresque, at the Broadway theatre Sunday night, has the distinction of being the godson of Sarah Bernhardt. Glass was born in Paris and made his debut on the French stage at the age of five. Later he was engaged by Mme. Bernhardt for her repertoire company and appeared with the distinguished tragedienne in Cleopatra, Camille and Jeanne d'Arc. In this capacity young Glass first visited America and remained in this country upon the conclusion of the Bernhardt company's tour.

During the war Glass was an aviator with the famous Guynemer French flying circus, was wounded, and received decorations for gallantry. He returned to his adopted country and upon the advice of John Emerson, the producer, embarked upon a motion picture career, one of his first engagements being opposite Marguerite Clark.

In Humoresque, Glass has the role of the hero, a Ghetto lad who becomes a genius of the violin. Alma Rubens is the leading woman and Vera Gordon and Dore Davidson are also in the cast. The story was adapted from Fannie Hurst's appealing story of the same name. It is a Cosmopolitan Production.

A comedy will also be shown.

TWO WORLD'S BOWLING RECORDS ARE SMASHED IN PLAY AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., March 30. (By the A. P.)—Establishment of two new world's records, three new leaders in the doubles and five men placing in the first five in the singles made today's play in the American bowling championship tournament one of the biggest in the history of the game.

F. Wilson, and C. Daw, members of the Nelson-Mitchell team of Milwaukee, who hung up a new world's record in the team event last night when they shot games of 921, 1055 and 1093 for a total of 3,139, bettering the former record of the Brucks, No. 4, of Chicago, who shot 3,086 in 1920, by 43 pins, set a new world's record for doubles competition in the American Bowling tournament today, when they turned in games of 466, 482 and 479 for a total of 1,358, taking the lead in that event. Wilson totaled 631, Daw carrying his teammate with a 727 total. H. Sangers and F. Seibert, Dayton, Ohio, rolled into second place with 1,318. Sangers totaled 663 and Seibert counted 655. In their second and third games, both men had scores of 326 and 329. This is the first time in the history of the American bowling contest that members of a doubles team shot the same scores in two successive games.

TO DOUBLE AMERICAN OLYMPIC COMMITTEE

New York, March 30.—Plans for increasing the membership of the American Olympic committee from 400 to 1,000 and details of the country's program for participation in the 1924 international games at Paris will be perfected at a meeting of the executive committee of the American Olympic committee in New York April 18, it was announced tonight.

The committee, it was said, also will formally request all national sports governing organizations, to discourage international competition in athletics this year and concentrate upon development of talent for the Olympic games. This step was forecast several days ago by William Prout, of Boston, president of the Amateur Athletic union, who advised against acceptance of invitations for American track and field stars to compete in international meets scheduled this summer in Sweden and France.

The calendar of events for the eighth Olympiad, made public today, reveals that competition will begin in January, 1924, with a program of winter sports, and close on July 27. Track and field events, the climax of the games, will begin July 5.

CUBS NOT TO PROTEST BENTON, SAYS PRES. VEECK

Chicago, March 30.—The Chicago National League Baseball club will not protest any games it plays against Cincinnati in which Rube Benton pitches, President Veeck said today.

"If we can't beat him on the field, we certainly will not try to beat him in politics," said Veeck.

"The Chicago club was one of the clubs which voted against Benton coming back into the National League," Mr. Veeck said. "Immediately after Commissioner Landis had declared Benton eligible, it settled the matter so far as the Chicago club is concerned.

"Regardless of any personal opinion, the Chicago club always accepts the decision of the umpire. It is absolutely nonsensical to even intimate that the Chicago club will protest any game in which Benton pitches."

The towns holding franchises in the new organization are Pottsville, Allentown, Bethlehem and Lancaster, Pa.; Trenton, N. J.; Wilmington, Del., and Middletown, N. Y. John Conway Toole, president of the International League, is president of the new league.

MORAN REFUSES TO COMMENT ON BENTON

Mobile, Ala., March 30.—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati National League, when shown the statement regarding the protesting of games by clubs in the circuit of which he is a member, would not make any comment. He said he would wait until the protests were really made.

WHY WE DON'T TAKE WOMEN

Why do men object to taking women to ball games? Here's why:

"I'm always glad when our team is in the field, because they do that so much better than batting."

"Is a bargain matinee the same as a sacrifice?"

"What is the difference between 'one little bingle' and 'and a small juicy single'?"

"I thought you said last fall that a bunt was kicking a football."

"When one team whitewashes another, which are the bleachers?"

"Are they really so tired that they go to sleep on the bags?"

"When a player strikes out, that doesn't make him a fan, does it?"

"Why does the pitcher always kiss the ball in that affectionate way?"

"I thought the papers said that Jones died at the plate yesterday. But he's playing today."

RAIN HALTS PLAY IN U. AND S. TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., March 30—If the rain abates and the fairways and greens are dry enough tomorrow play will be resumed in the annual tournament for the north and south men's open golf title, begun yesterday and

BOXER ARRESTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE AS HE ENTERS THE RING

Haverhill, Mass., March 30.—James J. Jeffries, lightweight boxer, sought by the police of this city since 1921, returned here a few days ago to fulfil a professional engagement tonight. He was arrested on the eve of his performance on a charge of robbery, and held in $5,000 bail for appearance in East Cambridge superior court Monday.

Nothing daunted, Jeffries entered the ring with Mark Taylor, negro lightweight, but the best he could do was a draw.

The robber in which the police say Jeffries was implicated had as its victims 12 crapshooters who were wooing "Lady Luck" one night late in 1921 in a farmhouse on the outskirts of Reading. When the game was at its height five men entered the place with drawn pistols and despoiled the gamblers of $4,000 in cash and jewelry.

Training Camp Talks
by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Mobile, Ala., March 31.—Page a seer! And when he answers the summons, have him peer into one of those glass globe things and tell us what the future holds in store for the priceless shoulder muscles of one George Harold Sisler, world's champion batsman and base runner in 1922, first baseman extraordinary—in face, by way of being the foundation of any pennant hopes the St. Louis Browns may have.

With Sisler in the line-up, playing has accustomed game on the attack and defense, Lee Fohl's Missourians are pennant contenders. Without the King George of the baseball world, St. Louis is not likely to spend much time out of the second division.

Ellerbe on Shelf.

Where the St. Louis club needed reentorcing was at the very hit and difficult third base corner. Frank Ellerbe, who was looked upon as first choice for the job last season, has what is known as a "football knee." Due to an injury several years ago, the cartilage slips somewhat after the fashion of a rubber band—then the young man is hors de combat for a period. This, quite naturally, interferes with his efficiency. Indeed, Manager Fohl in 1922 had no opportunity to discover just how good Ellerbe is as a thord-sacker.

The peculiar thing about it is that the St. Louis club spent quite a bit of jack—say fifty thousand in cash and players—for Homer Ezzell, a lad who slapped the apple vigorously for the Shreveport club last year and who displayed worthy talent on the bases by stealing fifty-three of 'em, and now it appears that the leading candidate for the hot corner assignment is Sammy Simon, a boy who toiled in Bay City, Mich., last campaign, and who cost very little. That young man is being talked about throughout the south—favorably.

With McManus, a .312 hitter, at second, and Gerber, one of the most reliable among big league shortstops, to play that position, Fohl has an infield that need give him no cause for worry. Robertson, last year's utility man, with Rice, a youth from Paris, Tenn., who hit .333 last season and fielded competently at the second base post in the minor organization, and the veteran Eddie Foster, make up all the reserve infield strength Fohl things he will need.

That St. Louis outfield is almost equal to Detroit's in attacking power and viciousness, Ken Williams batted .332 and led the American League in home runs last year, having thirty-nine to his credit. Johnny Tobin hit .331 and slugged out thirteen four-base hits. Bill Jacobson had a .317 average, with nine homers, and his batting must have been timely, for he is credited with having driven home 102 runs. There you have an outfield, boys.

Durst, last year's outfield reservist, who slammed the cork-cored sphere for .333 in 1922 and who is a greatly improved ball player this year, is sure to be on the Brown's payroll. Bennett, who was sent up by Tulsa and who had the very presentable hitting average of .370 in his league last campaign, ranks high in the Mobile camp. Vache, from the Charleston club, is another good hitter and fine fielder who commanding attention. Bennett bats the left-handed way; Vache the right. It is not easy to say which will be sent back; maybe both will stick.

Hank Severeid, a .321 hitter and a catcher who knows his business thoroughly, will again be found wearing the mask in nearly all the games. Collins, who was first lieutenant in the backstopping department last year, with Schulte, a lad who displayed big league talents while catching for Mobile in 1922, will be Severeid's assistants this year, no doubt. Both young men had better than .300 batting averages last season.

Shocker Heads Pitchers.

Yes, Urban Shocker, spitballist, again heads the list, and one might search far and wide before finding a more competent winner of ball games than this same Shocker. He gained twenty-four victories in 1922 and lost seventeen—but he appeared in forty-eight ball games and hurled 348 complete innings, which indicates that his faithfulnes in toiling was far greater than is indicated by his wins and losses. Urban is in rare form this spring and should do no worse than he did in 1922.

Elam Vangilder was credited with winning nineteen and losing thirteen in the last campaign, and he also was called upon to emulate a truck-horse. Kolp and Davis are other good right-handers, but by no means capable of the iron-man stuff that may be expected from Shocker and Vangilder. Kolp won fourteen and lost four in 1922; Davis won eleven and lost six. Another right-hander who did his bit last year was Wright, with nine victories and seven defeats.

Chuck Mellor, star runner of the Illinois A. C., will quit marathon races after taking part in the annual Pontiac to Detroit race April 7. Mellor has won this race for the last three years.

Up to a few days ago it was thought that Tarboro might become a member of the newly-formed North Carolina Grand Circuit, but it is now doubtful, with the result that Greenville will move up a week.

Jay Gould, American champion, will sail for France April 17, to compete in the singles and doubles world's court tennis matches at Paris within the next few months. Three other American players will also compete.

Charles A. Rawson, former U. S. senator from Iowa, will referee the Drake university relay games at Des Moines April 27 and 28. Charles Paddock will very likely compete in the dashes.

It doesn't always follow that a team losing in exhibition games will be a loser in the regular season. Which may be some consolation to Manager Frank Chance of the Red Sox.

Boutwell 2.12 1-4, Johanna Hal, Lady Direct, Flower Hal and Peterowe make up the quintet that James Small is training this spring at Charter Oak Park for Owner Frank D. Whitcomb of Springfield, Mass.

An observational train of 32 cars will be available for the triangular regatta over the Housatonic course above Derby, Conn., May 5, when Yale, Penn and Columbia crews will contest in 'arsity eights.

William Penman, for many years a representative of the Detroit turf goods firm, Tuttle and Clark, also secretary of races at the Michigan State fair and at Lansing, Mich., died recently in Detroit. He was 79 years old.

The veteran ... Warhop, who was with Columbia ... the South Atlantic last year, and was sold at the end of the season to Portsmouth of the Virginia league, has notified the latter club that he does not intend to play ball this year.

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of County Fairs will be held Tuesday, March 13, at 1 p. m., at the Bolton House, Harrisburg, Pa., according to word just received from Secretary John F. Seldomridge.

H. Stacy Smith, the Newark, N. J., enthusiast, is expected home the latter part of next week from a sojourn down south, particularly to see the members of the New Brook Stable in training at Ben White's headquarters at Orlando.

Calgard Earl, 2.03 1-4 and Miss Talbot 2.14 1-4, are now the property of T. V. Holdaway of Houlton, Maine, having recently been purchased from L. H. Powers of that city. They will be in the stable of Harry Nevers again this year.

Arthur V. Woodrow of White River Junction, Va., who formerly trained and raced the horses of N. P. Wheeler, but for the past year has been ill with a stomach ailment, is in Brattleboro hospital for operation which is hoped to relieve the trouble.

Bertha McGuire 2.04 1-4, former champion four year old trotting filly, owned by Saugerties Farms, failed to get in foal to Dillon Axworthy 2.10 1-4 last season. She will be bred to The Laurel Hall 2.06 1-4 or McGregor the Great 2.03 1-4 this spring.

Clarksburg's big Home Coming Festival will be held the week of June 10, but June 14 is the day that those five $1,000 stakes will be raced. With only a two per cent entrance fee and nothing deducted from winners, they certainly are very attractive.

Dude Hughes 2.11 1-2, a Tennessee pacer which has raced well the past two years, is said to be booked for a tryout in the hands of Mr. Goers, who recently made a trip to Brownsville, Tenn., to see the side-wheeler.

And so it seems that Joe Jackson, one-time outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, having heard down in his home in Savannah, that Judge Landis has given Rube Benton a clean bill of health, has taken heart and will ask Landis to restore him to good standing.

One man who voted in the National League meeting not to let Rube Benton light in the National league was George Grant, then president of the Boston club. Now Grant has sold out and Christy Mathewson is the man who would cast the vote if the league took up the case again. The Cincinnati club, it is said expects that Matty will endorse Benton as "desirable."

Cy Williams of the Phillies certainly has an extensive acquaintance among major league managers. Since he joined the Cubs in 1912 he has worked under Frank Chance, Johnnie Evers, Hank O'Day, Roger Brenahan, Joe Tinker, Fred Mitchell, Pat Moran, Jack Coombs, Gavvy Cravath, Bill Donovan, Irving Wilhelm and Art Fletcher.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

GETTING CLOVER SODA WATER.

"Goodness, gracious me!" exclaimed the Big Plymouth Rock Rooster, when he heard what Uncle Lucky said in the last story. "did my brother, the old Red Rooster, really say he wants to leave you?"

"He certainly did," replied the old gentleman.

"Then, tell him to come to me. He can stay here and help run the farm."

The Clover Soda.

and then the big Plymouth Rock Rooster began to crow:

"I sing every night at half past two
My beautiful cocka-doodle-do,
And later on, I wake the sun
And tell him the day has just begun,
And when he gets up in the big, blue sky,

"Good day," said Uncle Lucky when the big rooster had finished clapping his wings. "Little Jack Rabbit and I must be going, for we don't like to be out too late for fear the Policeman Dog might lock our gate."

Away drove the old gentleman rabbit and by and by they came to Cloverville, a pretty little village where two hundred bumble bees lived at one end and three hundred rabbits at the other. You see, bees and rabbits are fond of clover everywhere and the world over.

"Shall we stop and get a clover soda water?" asked Uncle Lucky who never forgot that little boy and girl bunnies can never pass a soda fountain without having a dreadful time. Of course, Little Jack Rabbit said yes, so in they went and sat down on two high stools in front of the counter.

"Give us a clover soda
With a dash of lollypa
And squirt the fizzey water,
Till you make the bubbles hop,
And have the glass twelve inches high.
For goodness me! we're awful dry."

As soon as Little Jack Rabbit had picked out two nice long straws, you couldn't hear a sound except a noise like the steam in the radiator, when you turn the little wheel in the morning. Oh my, I just wish I was at a soda fountain now and so does my typewriter, but we can't go until we finish this story and those two dear little rabbits have finished their soda.

When the soda was all gone, Uncle Lucky took out of his wallet, a lettuce dollar bill to pay the candy clerk, who was a little white goose with a mother hubbard dress that hung from her lovely white neck right down to her little yellow feet—I beg pardon, I mean her big yellow feet, and after she had handed the change to the old gentleman rabbit, he and Little Jack Rabbit hopped out of the store and into the Luckymobile, and in the next story, you shall hear what happened after that.

THE RHINE ARMY BILL.

What must be regarded as a fair adjustment of the bill incurred by this country in maintaining its troops on the Rhine has been made by Assistant Secretary Wadsworth of the treasury department with the allied nations. It is a bill that Germany must pay, but it is through the collecting agency that is maintained by the allied nations that it will be secured. The reasonableness of this is shown by the fact that it was at the request of the allied nations that the United States kept its army on the Rhine, and inasmuch as the allies, through the reparations commission, is taking such funds as Germany pays, it is out of those funds that our payments must come.

Thus the agreement concerns the part which this country will receive. It is acknowledged that the sum of $248,000,000 is due us. We agree to be reasonable about it and to accept payments over a period of twelve years provided Germany pays and provided there is no moratorium which would sanction the stopping of payments for any certain period of time.

Getting the money depends upon whether it is paid by Germany, but of the payments that it makes this country is to get not over 25 per cent for the first four years and thereafter it will have priority on all cash payments, if necessary, to cover the remainder of the amount.

It is conceded that the money must come from Germany to pay the allies and to pay this country for the Rhine armies. It would be folly to separate collecting agencies in order to get a settlement. One commission can get what is to be had and now that the arrangement for the distribution has been made the chief difficulty rests in convincing Germany that it can and must pay.

By the agreement this country shows the same leniency that was displayed concerning payment of foreign debts.

DAWES FOR COMPTROLLER.

In the belief that he possesses the same business traits that have been displayed by his brother, there will be widespread approval of the decision of President Harding to appoint Henry M. Dawes, of Chicago, as comptroller of the currency. The fact that this is a recess appointment causes no reflection. It is a well known fact that the president had sought another for the position but failing to obtain confirmation from the senate a recess appointment became necessary if the office was to be filled.

Mr. Dawes has had years of banking experience and there is no reason to believe that he will be dependent in any way upon the reputation of his brother in the same position or in charge of the budget system in administering the duties of the office.

General Charles G. Dawes made a reputation as a financier when he was comptroller of the currency under President McKinley. He further convinced the country of his ability as director of the budget. In both instances he was the right man in the right place, and what has been experienced at his hands in government activities there is every reason to expect will be received from the brother who has long been associated with him in banking. There is, in fact, because of past experiences, something in the very name that inspires confidence and large expectations.

The appointment will have to be acted upon by the senate when the new congress opens in December. Taking office will not depend upon that, however, inasmuch as it is a recess appointment, but there is no reason to believe but what the senate will promptly confirm the action of the president, and it will have the opportunity in taking whatever action it decides upon in passing upon the work of the new appointee during a period of eight months or better.

LORD ROBERT CECIL'S VISIT.

Lord Robert Cecil has come to this country for the purpose of telling us about the league of nations, and while there may be others who will dispute the claim it is nevertheless made to the effect that he knows more about it than any other person.

Lord Robert comes at this time to speak regarding the international court, the joining of which by this country has been urged by President Harding. It is entirely separate from the league, although created by the league, and can be joined without joining the league.

That he will have something to say in regard to the league is not improbable. The opening has been made for urging this country to join, but he will encounter a decidedly different attitude whether he devotes his chief attention to the court or to the league.

The league of nations was pretty thoroughly discussed previous to the last presidential election. There has been no reason to change the opinion that the country expressed itself regarding it at that time. There hasn't been anything done by the league since that time that would make us change the decision that was then rendered. In fact it doesn't appear to have done anything very great for Europe itself. In behalf of world peace this country has accomplished far more than the league through its Washington conference, the bringing together of Chile and Peru for the settlement of their long standing dispute and the more recent agreement among the Central American countries.

Lord Robert will undoubtedly find plenty of interested hearers concerning the plan for supporting the international court of justice, but it is in that rather than in the league of nations that American interest lies at the present time. He has a big job if he expects to change the state of affairs.

A BAD RECOMMENDATION.

When the general assembly in its last effort undertook to prevent the saving of daylight it only served to muddle the situation, and that is just what the judiciary committee is headed for through the legislation which it has recommended.

No attention seems to be paid to the underlying facts in the situation. Connecticut lies between New York and Massachusetts. In the city of New York daylight saving will prevail. It will in Rhode Island. In the state of Massachusetts daylight saving time will be followed by law. Because such large numbers are desirous of daylight saving, and because the great bulk of the people in between who are governed by New York and Boston activities will do as these states and cities do, the railroads are changing their schedules to conform to daylight time.

The belief prevails that the greater number of people in this state is favorable to daylight time because of the longer period of daylight it permits. Business houses, banks, industries and individuals will adopt daylight saving because they prefer it, or because it is to their advantage to keep up with the time in the big centers.

Attempting to force the people of Connecticut to keep their clocks on different time and to do business on a different schedule than others with whom they do business doesn't eliminate the confusion. It simply makes these supporting such an arrangement stand out conspicuously in their stubbornness in disregarding conditions that exist and which cannot be changed. Connecticut has enough joke legislation without anything of this kind. The idea that a clock cannot be kept an hour, a half hour or ten minutes fast, or slow for that matter, without violating a law is ridiculous.

THE LITTLE RED SCHOOL-HOUSES.

The action in the legislature which killed the bill seeking to end the existence of the little red schoolhouses means much to many school districts throughout the state. It is possible to look upon the proposed legislature in a favorable or unfavorable light, according to the angle at which it is viewed.

When the small schools are abandoned it is entirely probable that increased advantages may be offered through sending the pupils to a central school that will accommodate a much larger number and come much nearer to the standard of the elementary schools of the cities with better teachers and better advantages. Some, however, will contend that the frills are not desired and that the fundamentals can be obtained quite as satisfactorily at the little schools that have done such work for decades and many of which have graduated some of the leaders in all branches of industrial, financial, educational and business activity.

Sending children long distances by team to a central school may be ideally correct, but it means that the children must be away from home for a much longer period each day, that they must be gotten ready for school earlier and that they will get home later in the afternoon, and it is not surprising that there is much opposition among parents to such arrangements. Even where such transportation is now underway there are many who point out the disadvantages, and instances are encountered where parents accept it only because they are forced to. For such the decision not to abandon the little red schoolhouses will be hailed with delight. It may come but Connecticut has said that it isn't ready for it yet.

THE MAN WHO TRIES

Palm Sunday—The Day of Triumph. As the thought of Christendom is centered on Holy week, it may be well for us to follow our Lord through the events of this significant period. If these happenings be judged by their moral and spiritual importance, and the influence they have had in making history, they are the most important consecutive days in the world's history. Palm Sunday, the Day of Triumph, can be correctly understood only from one viewpoint, the spiritual. If this day is regarded as his assumption of worldly authority it was a tragic farce. If this was the idea, then it was nothing but a burlesque on the pomp and splendor that the very weakest and smallest of worldly princes might have put up. But that was not the purpose at all. His throne was not to be in Jerusalem but in the hearts of men. He did everything possible to impress upon them the idea of His spiritual kingship.

Monday—The Day of Authority. Wearied with the labors of Sunday and saddened over the perversity of men in misunderstanding Him, He seeks the quietude of the little Bethany home for his night's rest. His Bethany visits are among the brightest spots in the Savior's life. It was the nearest He ever came, in His manhood days, to enjoying the blessings and comforts of a real home. In that home there were true brotherly and sisterly relations which made a deep impress on the Master. On Monday morning He starts again for the Holy City. On the way, being hungry, he takes note of a fig tree without fruit, and He curses it, not because it is barren but because it is false. The leaves and the fruit of fig trees usually appear at the same time, but on this tree there was a great profusion of leaves and no fruit. He uses this as an illustration of many hearts that are all show and no reality.

Tuesday—The Day of Controversy. A mere enumeration of the activities of this day shows clearly the variety of oppositions He had to face from the Jews. After He had cleansed the temple, cured the blind men, and defended the children who had said when they passed by Him, "Hosanna to the Son of David," he returned again to Bethany at the close of Monday. The next day finds Him again in Jerusalem and probably no other day in history was fraught with such important teachings. On the way, finding the fig tree withered, He used the occasion to teach the great lesson of faith. Then followed in quick procession: The Challenge of Christ's Authority; The Two Sons; The Wicked Husbandman, The Marriage of the King's Son; Tribute to Caesar; The Question of the Resurrection; The Greatest Commandment; The Widow's Two Mites; The Gentiles Seek Jesus; The Jews Reject Jesus; Discourse Concerning the Future; The Parables of the Ten Virgins and the Talents; The Judgment Scene and Conspiracy against Jesus.

Wednesday—The Day of Retirement. All four gospels are silent as to the events of this day. If Jesus did anything of a public nature on Wednesday, no record of it has been preserved. It is almost certain that He spent the day quietly in the Bethany home. In so doing He teaches us a great lesson of a negative character. The three days preceding had been very strenuous from every point of view. Body, mind and heart had been equally taxed. He had enough strength of will to stop working, but when his jaded faculties called a halt, and in so doing He becomes a great object lesson for us Americans who have not yet learned when and how to let up on our hustling. It certainly takes a great deal of ability to hustle effectively in this great age of competition but just as much to stop. When we do this our insane retreats will not be overcrowded.

Thursday—The Day of Fellowship. Recruited in all the faculties of His being, because of the day so wisely spent in rest and meditation, on Thursday He saddled forth again to put in a great day in Jerusalem. In the amount of work done it was a repetition of Tuesday. The first thing recorded was the preparation for the Passover "which He was to eat with His disciples." It was at this feast where a strife arose among His followers as to which of them should be accounted the greatest. Then comes that act of humility in which He washes His disciple's feet. This was followed by pointing out Judas as the betrayer. After The Lord's Supper comes the longest continued discourse recorded in the gospels called the farewell conversation. This is recorded in the 14th to the 17th chapters of John, inclusive. This wonderful address ends with The Intercessory Prayer. "And when they had sung a hymn, they went out into the Mount of Olives."

Friday—The Day of Suffering. Our Lord had experienced the beautiful home life of Bethany for the last time. After the taxing scenes of Thursday, some of which were glorious and some depressing, Jesus with a few of His disciples strolled up the sides of Olivet for quietude and prayer. With the shadow of the cross hovering near, He cannot even think of the peacefulness of the Bethany retreat. Instead of the home it must be the Garden of Gethsemane with its bitter cup. From midnight to dawn the "suffering Savior prays alone." With the break of day He passes from one agony to a still greater one, i. e., the bitter cup is exchanged for the kiss of Judas. After this events happen in rapid succession: The arrest, the trial before the Jewish authorities, the denial of Peter, the remorse of Judas, the trial before Pilate, before Herod and Pilate resumed. Finally the apparent triumph of Jewish hatred as seen in the Sorrowful Way, the Crucifixion and Burial.

Saturday—The Day of Silence and Sorrow. Probably no city on earth ever passed a day with such a variety of experiences as Jerusalem on the day that intervened between the death and resurrection of Jesus. Every emotion to which human nature was susceptible was felt during that period. But the one characterizing feature was the Jewish authorities, a fiendish satisfaction. There was, however, on the part of all a foreboding that something strange was soon to happen, and on the part of Christ's immediate followers a feeling akin to despair. It seemed to them that all was lost. The only event that is recorded of this day was the attempt on the part of the Pharisees to have Pilate put a double guard over the sepulchre lest His body should be stolen, for they were troubled over what He had said: "After three days I rise again."

Easter Sunday—The Day of Resurrection. It was the events of this day that changed the semblance of defeat into positive triumph, victory over sin and death, and over the venomous hatred of his enemies. Now the happenings of this amazing day given in their chronological order are as follows: The earthquake. Only the bare mention of the fact is given of this disturbance, and whether it had anything to do with the rolling away of the stone from His tomb can be only a matter of conjecture. It is said that an angel did it, and the ones who came early to the tomb were affrighted at what they saw, especially when the risen Christ revealed Himself to Mary. Her sudden change from weeping to the ecstatic shout of "Rabboni" shows that she was not deceived. Our Lord's appearance to the other women, to the two disciples near Emmaus, and in the evening to the other disciples gives indisputable evidence that Jesus rose from the dead.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Bell in Abington Church.

Mr. Editor: Since reading the letter by Mr. Ayers in your paper of March 15th, I thought I would like to give a few facts relating to my ancestors, and of those now living in my native town of Pomfret, Conn. Mr. Ayers writes of the bell in the church just south of Abington Four Corners. That bell was given by my great-grandfather, Samuel Sumner. A direct descendant now lives on the old home farm, and others are living near who attend church there—the oldest church in the county—and I think in the state where services are held regularly. These people have a sword and antique things that once belonged in the said Sumner family and I have a clock and other things which I valued very much, and I hope my six grandchildren will prize them. The following bit of poetry has been handed down to several generations:

"Samuel Sumner gave the bell,
Richard Ryder rang it,
Priest Lyon read the Psalm
And Abishua Sharpe sung it."

The Backus Cemetery in Westminster.

Mr. Editor: Kindly allow me to make a slight correction in the Westminster news items where the writer would unintentionally lead us to think that the cemetery mentioned was named for the heathen god, Bacchus, the god of drunkenness, and revelry, who was crowned with garlands of flowers and worshipped by offerings of fruit and wine at drunken feasts in the ancient days. An image of Bacchus which was, I think, carved by an English prisoner in Revolutionary days was many years ago used as a sign to the old Windham inn, and the last I knew of it was an exhibit in the Windham library. The cemetery took its name, the Backus cemetery from the good old Backus family, who lived near it and are buried there. The Beckits place used to be the show place of Westminster, with its greenhouse, grape arbors, a beautiful garden, and park. But the buildings were burned down long ago and the grounds are an overgrown wilderness, or were the last time I saw them, and the family all gone to their last rest.

The same is painfully true of many other show places in the country; their glories have departed.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is a remarkable record of faithful service that Martin O'Hara, laborer, leaves behind him when he quits the employ of the Boston and Albany railroad today and goes on the pension rolls of that company. For exactly 50 years O'Hara has worked for the same company, in the same place, and during the half century he has never lost a day's time on account of sickness, accident, or for any other cause. Born in County Galway, Ireland, 70 years ago, he entered the railroad employ at the age of 20 in the capacity of flagman in the town of Brighton, Mass. Several years later he was transferred to the freight house in the same town as a laborer, and has been employed there in that capacity ever since. In the length of service without the loss of a day his record is believed to be without a parallel in the history of American railroads.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

THE LESSON OF EASTER

We need not wait for Easter on the calendar to find the lesson of Easter. It is for all days. Every Lord's day is really an Easter. For it was on the first day of the week that Jesus arose, and it is the fact of His resurrection that makes our first day sacred. But we do not need to wait even for Sunday to bring us the Easter blessing. Easter is not so much a radiant date as a glorious fact.

Perhaps we do not always realize Easter's spiritual meaning and its supreme importance. If Jesus had not risen, there would have been no gospel, no Christianity, no hope of redemption for a sinner. Over His grave history could have been written, only the despairing word "defeat". If Christ be not raised, then is our preaching vain. Your faith is also vain—Ye are yet in your sin. But Christ has been raised, a broken grave is only one of the symbols of our hope as is the cross. Easter restores us, therefore, of the great victory of Christ over death. The Messiah was rejected and put to death, but God's purpose of love for the world could not thus be defeated. The slain Messiah was raised up again, and lives and carries on His work of redemption.

This is the true meaning of Easter. It is the day of hope and victory while it has a definite place in the calendar it brightens streams over all the year. It showed its threads of light into all human experience. It puts new meaning into all human relationships. It changes sorrow into joy, wherever Christ is loved and trusted it makes all life infinitely more worth while, since it adds the element of immortality to everything that is tender and beautiful in love and friendship. We read through the gift in Christ to look through a window, and see life going on forever. This blessed vision also changes the aspect of death. It is no more an experience to be dreaded as if it were the ending of life in mystery and darkness.

It is but the passing of the spirit into fuller, larger life. It is really only a phase of living, through which it is needful that we shall pass in order to reach fullness of beauty and blessedness.

But the lesson of Easter is not only for hours of sorrow. It has its teaching for the gladdest day as well. It tells of hope. The dominant note in Easter music is hope, victory. Christ rose to die no more. Death no more hath dominion over Him. If we are risen with Christ this should be true also of us. We should come out all together from under the dominion and influence of death, into liberty, and the beauty of life.

The life of faith should always be life of joy. Many Christians however, seem to learn this lesson very slowly. Joy is not the universal experience of those who bear Christ's name. Too many of us are easily cast down, and hard to lift up again into gladness when our spirits have drooped.

The risen believer should have an unconquerable hope. He should never be discouraged. He will have experiences, which to the natural thought would tend to disheartenment, but he is to look at these experiences in another light, the light of heaven, and in that light nothing can be evil to God's child. "We know that to them that love God all things work together for good." No tribulation or anguish or persecution or famine or nakedness or peril or sword can separate us from the love of Christ. "In all things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us". That is what it should mean to us to be raised with Christ.

We should never yield to discouragement, our faith never should fail. We should go through life with a song in our heart and on our lips. Even in deepest sorrow our hearts should sing. The risen believer should never be a discourager of any other. Jesus never was. He was always a dispenser of cheer and gladness. The many of His followers are anything but that. They go about among their fellows dispensing gloom. They make life harder, burdens heavier, shadows deeper for all they meet.

Christ's risen ones should be radiant in their own life and should be full of helpfulness to all who cross them. We should speak only glad words. The world is sad enough already without the unburdening of our cares and discontents into its ears. We should speak words of faith and trust. We have no right to add to the world's darkness and bewilderments our own doubts and fears.

The Easter spirit, if allowed to rule our lives, would make us helpers of other's faith and joy. As it is however, too many of us seem not to have got beyond Good Friday in our experience. We have never fully realized that Christ is risen. We deny expression each Sunday in creeds and prayer and word, but in our lives Christ is not really a living Christ. Of Moses we are told that "He endured as seeing Him who is invisible". The presence of God was as real to Moses as if he had seen God with his natural eyes. We claim Christ's promise, "Lo! with you all the days" but we do not live as if we really believed this promise.

We doubt and fear and plod on as if there were no Christ in all the world. Countless people will find hours of hope and joy and love on Easter morning. But into the heart and life of how many of these has the Easter truth and parole only, it is a day for getting the lilies and cares into one's life.

"Thou art gone before us, Lord
To make for us a place,
That we may be where thou art
And ever on life's darkly path
A gleam of glory lies
A light will break behind the cloud
That veiled thee from our eyes."

HERSELF IN KITCHEN OF HER HOME

Margaret S. Tennant, wife of John Richmond a Civil War veteran, shot herself through the heart about 4 o'clock Friday morning in the kitchen of her cottage in North Stonington. Ill health and despondency were believed to have led Mrs. Richmond to take her life in the dead of night. She was 70 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond had lived in a small cottage house in North Stonington many years. Of late she had been sleeping on a couch in the kitchen of the house, where there was a fire during the night. Her husband had been sleeping in the bedroom just off the kitchen.

Mr. Richmond retired Thursday night about 9 o'clock leaving his wife working in the kitchen, and closed the door leading into his room. Everything was quiet in the house until about 2 o'clock in the morning when a shot rang out, but Mr. Richmond who is an elderly man did not hear and slept on. Mrs. Lilly Main, a neighbor, happened to be up in her home and heard the report but thinking it a bursting tire on a passing car paid no attention to it.

In the morning Mr. Richmond arose and went into the kitchen and saw his wife lying on the couch apparently asleep. He noticed that the fire was out, an uncommon thing and then tried to awaken his wife. He failed to notice a small blood stain on her waist over the heart and did not see the revolver which had fallen to the floor under the couch. Not being able to awaken his wife he realized something was wrong and called in the neighbors who quickly discovered that Mrs. Richmond had taken her own life by a bullet fired into the left breast over the heart.

Medical Examiner Dr. Thurgood S. Main of North Stonington was notified of the sudden death of Mrs. Richmond about 9 o'clock in the morning and went to the house. He found the revolver beneath the couch and says that it was a small 32 calibre revolving manufacture.

Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich was called and went to the Richmond home at noon and after an investigation pronounced death due to suicide. He said that there was little or no blood about the wound and believed that the bullet penetrated the heart, death coming almost instantly. The revolver had four unfired shells in it one having been fired.

Mr. Richmond stated that he never knew that a revolver was in the house and did not know where his wife had procured it. The revolver was a new one and the name "Champion" was on the barrel, no other name appearing. He is a heavy sleeper and slightly deaf, thus accounting for the fact that he did not hear the shot through the door of his room. He also said that his wife had not been in good health for some time and was despondent at times.

Coroner Desmond, at the request of Mr. Richmond, gave permission for the body to be removed to Norwich funeral parlors, which was done Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Richmond is survived by two daughters, both married and living away from home.

EARLIER CLOSING HOURS FOR REGISTRY AND MONEY ORDER

Postmaster John P. Murphy is putting a change into effect in the closing hours for money order and registry departments in order to enable the employes to ring out promptly at 8 p. m.

Hereafter the money order window will close at 7 instead of 7.30 and the registry window at 7.30 instead of 8. The business transacted in the last half hour in these departments was very limited yet it prevented the clerks from completing their daily report until the close of the windows.

As money order and registry business can be transacted at the various contract stations that have been established around the city, it is not necessary to come to the main office. Unless these stations do such an amount of business as will show the department they are headed there is danger that they will be abolished. Postmaster Murphy has had several of these stations established in the suburban districts with the idea of accommodating the patrons in those localities. They are well supplied with a stock of all the necessary postal papers. Among the stations are those at the Falls, Thamesville, Bean Hill, West Side and Laurel Hill.

An appeal for early mailing, rather than holding accumulated letters all to be deposited in the last mail of the day has been sent out by Postmaster Murphy in the following letter which has been sent to business houses:

Dear Patron: No doubt you have read in the press the appeals of the post office department to its employes and patrons for co-operation with the hope that business for the remainder of the year ending June 30 may be conducted within the appropriation granted by congress. To do this our instructions are no overtime for the employes, and no auxiliary or substitute allowances. As much of our evening work, such as collection from boxes, etc., is done by substitutes, I ask if you would have deposited in the letter boxes all mail possible before 1.30 p. m. as such can be promptly cared for in this office before the men on the first shift leave here. The only cause for the shortage of funds is the extra increase of the postal business throughout the country since July 1 last. The appropriation for the next year has been increased so as to care for all emergencies that may arise.

Your assistance to the department at this time will be duly appreciated. Personally, I can say the employes of this office will do everything possible to render efficient service; but must have the co-operation of our patrons to accomplish the same. Will you please request the employes having charge of your mail to become thus interested?

JOHN P. MURPHY,
Postmaster.

NORWICH TO HAVE STATE D. OF V. CONVENTION

By invitation of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, the Department of Connecticut National Alliance Daughters of Civil War Veterans, will hold its fourteenth annual convention in Norwich during May.

This is the first time the Daughters of Veterans convention has been held in Norwich, this honor being due to the fact that the Department President, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, is a resident of Norwich. The convention for Mrs. Atterbury and festivities in connection with it, for which plans are progressing smoothly, is to be held in Wauregan House Ball room, Thursday and Friday, May 3rd and 4th.

A singular coincidence is that while the Daughters of Veterans State Convention for Mrs. Atterbury is to be held in Norwich; the State Encampment of the G. A. R. is also to be held in Norwich this spring, because of the fact that another local resident, Orrin M. Price, is the department commander.

AWARDS MADE FOR TWO INJURED NORWICH MEN

Two awards for Norwich employes injured while at their work have been made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue after hearings:

Peter Corey of 34 Cedar street, an employe of the Connecticut Engineering and Construction Co., who had his shoulder bruised Jan. 30 was disabled until Feb. 14 and is awarded $6.26 for one week with reasonable medical bills.

Jimmie Grdanchie of 167 Summit street, who was employed by the Chelsea Lunch had his right ankle sprained on Nov. 11, and is entitled to one week compensation at $9.90, with reasonable medical bills.

MARCH MAKING RECORD IN PARCEL POST HERE

Parcel post business in March at the Norwich post office has been running as heavily as in December, which is ordinarily looked upon as the banner month because of the holiday season.

Friday night there was such an accumulation of parcel post matter at the Norwich office that it will take four trucks today (Saturday) to get it all cleaned up.

Unclaimed Letters

Unclaimed letters in the Norwich, Conn., post office for week ending March 31, 1923: Mr. Peter Billedeaux, Mr. J. F. Knight, Miss Clare Lamphere, Mrs. Jennie J. Thompson.

HEARD MOTIONS TO SET ASIDE TWO VERDICTS

Judge Christopher L. Avery heard motions to set aside verdicts in two cases in the superior court in New London Friday morning. He reserved decision in both cases.

One was the verdict in the case of Moses Klingon of Colchester vs Colchester Farm Produce Co. et al. to recover payment of a balance of $6,000 on a note of $12,000 in which a jury Tuesday night gave a verdict for the plaintiff to recover $4,146.62 against the Colchester Farm Produce Co., Samuel Gelfand and Abraham Jaffe and $2,813.17 against Max Cohen, Harry B. Mintz, Harry Glickman, Benjamin Londin and Isaac Nelsner, all directors of the company.

The motion was made by the defendants and was argued by Attorneys Arthur F. Libby and Thomas M. Ribicoff of Norwich in their behalf and Attorney Edmund W. Perkins of Norwich for the plaintiff.

The other motion was to set aside the verdict of $200 awarded to the plaintiff by a jury in the case of Edward Olaff, against Arthur E. Andrews, both of Norwich, for injuries received in an automobile and motorcycle collision in Greeneville in which the plaintiff alleged that his motorcycle was struck by an automobile of the defendant. The motion to set aside the verdict in this case was made by the plaintiff on the ground that the amount was insufficient. Attorney Thomas M. Shields argued in support of the motion and Attorney C. Hadlai Hull opposed it.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED AT PRETTY EASTER PARTY

A number of little friends were entertained at an Easter party Friday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins of Fairmount street given in honor of Louise and Norris Higgins. Games were played and prizes awarded the lucky ones. In the hunt for Easter eggs, first prize, an Easter bunny was won by Francis Wright, second, a chicken in a broiler by Virginia Woodmansee, and third, a chicken in a coop by Lois Duro. For best work in throwing the eggs in the basket Annie Taft and Elinor Harrington were tied for first prize, and received a crate of Easter eggs and three chickens in a coop.

Virginia Woodmansee won first prize, an Eastern bouquet, for the best drawing of a rabbit, second, a box of candy going to Lois Duro.

Later the guests were invited to the gaily decorated table where refreshments of ice cream, fancy cakes, sandwiches, wafers and candy were served. Each guest received a basket of Easter eggs for favors.

FORECLOSURE GRANTED ON PROPERTY IN COLCHESTER

Judgment for foreclosure of three mortgages was entered by Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court in New London Friday morning in the case of the Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., against Michael and Bessie Gwirtsman of Colchester. The amount of the judgment was for $1,680 on the face of the notes and interest of $384.10.

A hearing on the confirmation of John A. Cunningham as temporary receiver of the Lane Rubber Co. of Norwich, which was scheduled to take place in the morning was continued pending some action in the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the matter.

ELIJAH LATHROP LOSES ONE OF MULE TEAM

One of the team of valuable mules with which Elijah W. Lathrop of Gardner Lake has for a number of years traveled back and forth between his home and this city, broke its leg and had to be shot Wednesday when it stepped into a hole in the highway between the River place and the Clinton Gardiner farm in Bozrah.

The road is in such bad condition that it is reported that the rural mail carrier has not been able to get through there for several weeks, while automobiles that tried it have been stuck and several horses have been injured.

Wilson Foundation Exceeds Quota

Announcement is made by Professor Irving Fisher, chairman of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation for Connecticut, that they state has now "gone over the top," exceeding its final quota by a comfortable margin.

Professor Fisher adds: A premature and unauthorized statement was widely printed several months ago giving the impression that the campaign had been finished and no further attempt would be made to reach our quota. Now that the quota has been completed the state headquarters of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, 440 Prospect street, has been closed. Any further communications or contributions should be sent to the Woodrow Wilson Foundations, 150 Nassau street, New York city.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT TO PROHIBIT POLYGAMY

Paris, March 30 (By the A. P.)—A law is shortly to be passed in Turkey prohibiting a man from having more than one wife, according to Dr. Fouad Bey, a member of the Angora parliament and former Turkish minister of health and child welfare, who is sailing tomorrow on the Aquitania for New York, where he will attend a congress of moslems called to assist the 300,000 Turkish war orphans.

"There have been radical changes of attitude in the last few years toward the old moslem marriage customs," explained Dr. Fouad. "Our wars left many widows and orphans. Now we are determined to conform to custom, and the fact is that I recently traversed all of Turkey and did not find any man with more than one wife."

Dr. Fouad is the first Turkish official to go to the United States since the war although the Washington government has not yet resumed diplomatic relations with Turkey. He stated he had a special mission to the United States, that of answering at first hand inquiries regarding Turkey's business prospects.

"It is not true that we propose to interfere with American institutions established in Turkey," he said. "We have no objection to missionaries or others, so long as the Greeks and Armenians are not stirred up against us. If the Protestant faith is better than the moslem, let us be converted."

DROP IN WHOLESALE PACKING INDUSTRY

Washington, March 30.—A drop of more than $3,000,000,000 or 43 per cent. between 1919 and 1921 in the value of products of establishments engaged primarily in slaughtering and meat packing (wholesale), which two years ago, was the largest industry of the country in point of value of products, was announced today by the census bureau. The value of products was placed at $3,206,843,000 in 1921, compared with $4,246,291,000 in 1919, and $1,651,965,000 in 1914. There was an increase of 83 per cent. in 1921 over 1914.

Prices for products prevailing in 1921 and 1919 were largely responsible for the decline and fewer animals were slaughtered. More sheep and lambs were slaughtered two years ago than in 1919 but fewer beeves, calves and hogs. The number of animals slaughtered in 1921 was 68,972,000 with a dressed weight of 12,287,143,000 pounds while in 1919 the number was 72,257,000, and the dressed weight 13,435,720,000 pounds.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Last of an entire family, ill with grip or pneumonia, to be stricken down, Miss Mary L. Larkin, 50, died Friday afternoon at the Larkin home two miles north of East Killingly. At the time she passed away her father, sister and two brothers were all desperately ill in the same household. She was the last to become ill after preparing food for the others who were ill and given attention to many other duties about the place. Nurses are now caring for the other members of the family.

Miss Larkin was born in South Scituate, R. I., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Larkin, but had lived practically all of her life in East Killingly. She leaves her father, a sister Ethel, and two brothers, Byron and Crowell, all in a critical state of illness at this time.

A budget prepared by borough officials for presentation to the coming annual meeting totals $25,029.83 and is apportioned as follows: One-half mill tax for the library, $1,247.41; one-half mill tax for fire truck, $1247.41; note due this year $1500; police department, $5,000; light department, $4560; fire department $4500; water for hydrants $2189; interest on notes, $3900; public park, $450; sewers $350; elections, $100; printing $135; assessors $120; tax collector $200; clerk and treasurer $300; borough farm $100; borough hall $50; legal expenses $100; miscellaneous $150.

Estimated revenue of the borough during the coming fiscal year is estimated at $2597. The amount to be raised by taxation is $22,432.55, and it is estimated that a 9 mill tax will produce this amount, which will be a mill less than last year.

At the present time the indebtedness of the borough amounts to just over $55,000. Offsetting this are various items amounting to something over $5,000, so the net indebtedness of the borough is just over $50,000.

It so happens that included in what are regarded as borough assets are uncollected taxes amounting to over $3,000, and sewer assessments that total $642 more.

It is indicative of the good management of borough affairs during the past year that the debt has been reduced $2683.38.

While Good Friday was a day of routine obligations for many of Danielson's people, hundreds of others flocked to the churches to attend the services incident to the most solemn period of the Lenten season. At all of these services there was particular devotion—an indication of the reverence that so many have for the period of the Passion and its significance through more than 1900 years.

The following despatch from Manchester, N. H., is of interest to many residents of this town:

Rev. and Mrs. Frank A. Kent, formerly of East Killingly, Conn., and known to many Danielson people, observed their golden wedding anniversary at a happy gathering held Saturday evening at the home of their son, George M. Kent, president and treasurer of the Derryfield Creamery here. For eight years, Rev. Mr. Kent was pastor of the Free Baptist Church at East Killingly.

Besides the only son, three daughters were present at the event, Mrs. Henry Bollins of Bedford, Mrs. Charles Rogers, Weymouth, Mass., and Miss Anna Kent, who lives at home with her parents at 405 Lake avenue.

The gathering also included many friends from Manchester and nearby places and all extended their hearty congratulations to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kent.

From 5 to 8 o'clock a reception was given to Mr. and Mrs. Kent who were united in marriage, March 24, 1873, at Newark, N. J.

Flowers lent their fragrance to the anniversary, other decorations told of an event long anticipated by the celebrants and members of the family, which besides four children, and eleven grand children, includes one great grand daughter. A caterer served refreshments to the company and there was music and other forms of entertainment. Grandchildren contributed their bright spirits to the celebration.

Frank A. Kent is a native of Dana, Mass., where he was born Dec. 20, 1851. Mrs. Kent was Isabelle V. Rice of Newark, N. J., and her natal day was 68 years ago on June 30 last. Her husband's age exceeds hers by four years. They were united in marriage by the Rev. Joshua Day, pastor of the North Baptist church, Newark.

Mr. Kent early became an ordained Baptist minister. He was pastor of a church for three years at Block Island, R. I., and eight years at Putnam, Conn. United with preaching, the Rev. Mr. Kent has conducted successful evangelistic work. He and Mrs. Kent came to Manchester 13 years ago. Since then, Mr. Kent has held a position at the big lumber plant of his son, 39-59 Beach street, where his youngest daughter, Miss Anna Kent, is employed as book-keeper.

All of the children of Rev. and Mrs. Frank A. Kent except one were born at Newark, N. J. The Kents are a musical family, and music featured in the notable affair of last evening. Singularly, 10 of the 11 grandchildren of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kent are grandsons.

Jack Feeney is recovering from an attack of bronchitis and a bad cold at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. . West in Westerly, R. I.

A patrol operating under the direction of the county game warden was covering trout brooks in this town Friday and will be on the job again today in order that those who would fish before the opening of the season may be checked in their unfair desire, and if caught, made to pay the penalty of their illegal work. The ban on trout will be off at midnight. That doesn't mean much to the average fisherman this year because the weather is unseasonably cold and the brooks are very high. However, the advance guard of the trout enthusiasts will be on the brooks bright and early Sunday morning and hops for some luck, though they will get more or less satisfaction out of just whipping the brooks in the hope that a fish will rise to their temptations and bite in the good old-fashioned way.

Broken down state highways in this section are fairly well patched up for the Easter season and there need be no worry on the part of any motorist as to getting through eastern

PUTNAM

Friday evening the members of the senior class of Pomfret Memorial High school, with members of the faculty with the class, set away from North Grosvenordale for a trip to the national capital via Washington, D. C. The class will spend the Easter recess period on this trip, an annual feature for senior classes of the high school in the town of Thompson. At Washington they will have every opportunity of inspecting departmental buildings, going to Mt. Vernon and seeing other sights of current and historical interest. Incidentally, the trip affords those who wish it a chance to see something of Philadelphia and New York.

Reports from the southern training camp where the Milwaukee team of the American association is getting in its training period would indicate that Paul Johnson of North Grosvenordale is due for a great season in baseball. Press reports tell of his having walloped out a home run as one contribution to the good nature of the management of the Milwaukee team during the present week. Johnson is a great sticker and there is always the chance that he will yet land in the big show, at which he already has had one chance, but was sent back to what may be called the major-minors for further seasoning.

Putnam was practically a deserted city in its business section after the noon hour on Good Friday. In observance of established custom practically all of the business places of the city closed at noon. Some of the mills also suspended operations at this time, but the pressure of business is so great that other plants continued to operate throughout the day, something unusual for a Good Friday.

Tomorrow (Sunday) April 1, brings the new reduced rate of fares into effect on the Putnam lines of the Connecticut company. Sunday and thereafter those who use the trolley will ride on a basis of 1-2 cents a zone, as compared with the 3 1-2 cent rate per zone that has been in effect for a long time. This reduction will be especially appreciated, coming as it does at the opening of the spring season.

Harry Davis and Hazel Hall were selected to represent the high school in the inter-class prize speaking contest to be held this evening. A junior program was very interesting and the eight orators presented their pieces very well. The judges were Miss Harrison of Woodstock, Principal Kayes of Tourtellotte High, and Miss Eleanor Carpenter of this city were the judges.

The program was as follows: "Ten Minutes in a Trolley," Lillian Rice; "Cela Arrime," "A Hero of the Kitchen Room," unknown, by Rita Bailey; "Caleb Hammacher Preaches" from "Lincoln," by Genevieve Ireland; "The Leeward," Guy Empey, by Molly Smith; "Mulholland's Contract," Kipling, by Charles Carpenter; "Bailey Banks Experiment," Joseph C. Lincoln, by Harry Davis; "Plea for the Defense at the Haywood Trial," by Philip Davis; "Not Guilty," Adapted, by James McBriety.

Davis' piece was a long one and entertaining, and he deserved first place. Miss Smith did a hard piece of a fine manner, and also was undoubtedly deserving of her honors. Rita Kelley and James McBriety were awarded honorable mention by the judges.

A very large number of people turned out Tuesday night, the 27th, to examine first hand the type and variety of work being given at the local trade school. In preparation for this occasion which has come to be an annual event, the electrical boys under the instruction of J. E. McCormick arranged very attractive lighting effects consisting of a double row of electric lights running from the street to the entrance of the building which lighted in groups progressing from the street to the front entrance. A special sign was also made and hung up welcoming the visitors. Two large search lights were set up on the roof, one being directed upon the front walk and the other upon the flag. As the visitors approached the building they were greeted by the hum of machinery and general activity. Upon entering the first floor they came into the machine and carpentry departments.

The carpentry department under the direction of Leon C. Morehouse, exhibited specimens of work being done such as building of cottages, tables and boys were at work on similar jobs.

In the machine department a large number of boys, under the direction of K. J. Bogardus, were busy on a variety of machine operations such as turning, milling, shaping and grinding, every job being of a necessary and useful nature and performed in strict accordance with trade practices. Demonstrations were given in the machine department at 8 and 9 o'clock with a magnetic chuck. This chuck was suspended by a chain from the ceiling and brought into contact with an anvil. The electric current was turned on and the 160 pound anvil lifted from the floor. This was of great interest to all who saw it, and more so in view of the fact that the work of designing and perfecting this tool was done entirely by the boys of the school.

On the second floor the textile department students under C. S. Blossom were busy on a variety of cotton manufacturing projects from the breaking of the raw cotton to the weaving operations. A great many people were especially interested in this department and quite a number of mill men were on hand to see the kind of instruction given in the textile department.

The third floor, west, had a very interesting display of electrical machinery and experiments being performed by the students with electricity, such as, battery work, transformers, power plants and illumination operations.

On the east end of the top floor was the drafting department under C. L. Ransom. Here the students from all departments come at regular periods for their academic instruction. A large quantity of related subjects was shown here in mechanical drawing, math, mechanics, and technical principles involved in the various trades taught at the school.

The home economics department in the high school proved especially attractive this year on account of the exceptionally fine work done by the students and the efforts of the teachers. Miss Hannah Pease and Miss Edna Petersen, in showing the work to the best advantage.

The entire auditorium was fitted up and exhibits of the cooking and sewing departments were shown. The variety of work would be difficult to describe on account of the quantity shown. A feature, however, was the very attractive booth made by the carpentry department students and installed to show an ideal breakfast room. This was suitably trimmed by the home economics girls and showed a table prepared for the breakfast meal.

Both the trade school building and the high school auditorum were crowded during the entire two hours that the exhibit lasted. The students feel gratified that the public are interested in what they are doing and the faculty is glad of this appreciative interest.

F. J. Trinder, state director of trade and industrial education was a visitor at the school, meeting old friends and, discussing the establishing of the school in Putnam. Mr. Trinder said he felt that the vision of the people in desiring a trade school was being fully vindicated by its present performance.

At St. Philip's church, Putnam, Rev. David Coombes of Plainfield, will celebrate the holy communion at 2.30 p. m., Easter Sunday. There will be no morning worship.—adv.

In the rain and cold of Good Friday afternoon County Game Warden Chas. M. Letters of this city and a staff of six men were patrolling brooks in eastern Windham county with a view to holding off those who would beat the average sportsman to it by getting out ahead of the opening of the trout fishing season. This patrol will continue today, the last day of the present close season, and will end tonight at sunset. Tomorrow (Sunday) morning the ban will be off for those who consider fishing on Easter Sunday morning paramount to all other interests, and there will be no further fear of fish and game wardens for those who do not take short trout.

As the season opens on Easter Sunday this year many fishermen who are not too religious, yet have every respect for the significance of the paschal period, will defer their initial appearance on the brooks this season to Monday or even later. The weather of late has not been all to the liking of real trout fishermen and they won't mind waiting until weather that is to their liking comes along. It's tough, but why argue with the weather man?

Gerald Allard of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs is spending the Easter recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Allard, of Pomfret street.

C. D. Sharpe has been elected a member of the board of deacons of the Congregational church of this city in the place of John G. Johnson, deceased.

Five hundred of those liable to pay a personal tax in the town of Putnam have as yet failed to pay the $2 that each is assessed to Joseph Plessis. This however, is only a moderate percentage of all who pay this tax.

There was a rumor current here Friday that recently organized textile workers of this city have a union meeting planned for tomorrow (Sunday.)

Today brings the end of the Lenten season, which has been a period of greatly restricted social activities for many hundreds of the people of this city. Easter Monday, however, will bring one of the big dances of the season.

Mrs. F. A. Libby, many years an active member of the Baptist church in this city, has been granted a letter of dismission to the Central Baptist church at Norwich, this state.

Miss Rhode T. Gilpatric, student at Walnut Hill school, Natick, Mass., is spending the Easter period with her parents, State Treasurer and Mrs. G. Harold Gilpatric.

FIND CONTENTS OF DRUMS WAS WATER, NOT WHISKEY

New York, March 30.—Water was found by prohibition agents today in all the ten drums seized by them as evidence last night when Thomas Craven and Frank Dorian, of Boston, and several other persons were arrested on charges of conspiring to violate the Volstead act.

United States Attorney Clark announced, however, that the conspiracy charge would stand, with a half-pint bottle of alcohol said to have been exhibited as a sample of the stuff in the barrels, as evidence. Craven, prohibition agents said, contracted to sell them alcohol and was given $500 in advance.

John W. Clifton, said to reside in Washington, still is being sought in connection with the conspiracy.

DECLARES FIRST GOOD FRIDAY WAS PIVOT POINT FOR HUMAN HISTORY

The first Good Friday, the day upon which Jesus was crucified, was a point from which all history takes a new departure and upon which all human destiny pivots, declared Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Howe in his impressive sermon at the Good Friday service at Park Congregational church at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

The choir selections for the service were taken from Handel's oratorio of The Messiah and were admirably rendered by the quartette as follows:

Organ Prelude, "Beside The Cross Remaining," from The Redemption, Gounod
Anthem—
(a) Quartette, Behold The Lamb of God.
(b) Also solo, He Was Despised.
Offertory—
(a) Tenor recitatives—Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart
(b) Tenor recitatives — Behold and See if There Be Any Sorrow
(c) Quartette—Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs.
Organ Postlude—"And There Was Darkness Over All the Land, (from Seven Last Words) Otto Malling

Dr. Howe spoke from the text John 19:30, It is finished, and Luke 23:46, Into thy hands I commit my spirit. He spoke as follows:

This is Good Friday, the world's greatest day, the culmination of all history. A point from which history takes a new departure. All human destiny pivots here.

And yet the world took little note. The old tyrannies did not turn out of their way. Rome did not interrupt the traffic of her streets or the tramp of her armies or the sports of her amphitheaters. Athens did not stop her philosophical debates or arrest her processions to the temples of her gods. Goth and Vandal did not halt their savage feasts or their worship beneath their sacred oaks. Jerusalem would preserve her accustomed way. The markets would be open. Crowds would be pouring in from distant provinces to the Paschal Feast. The Roman nights would ride past the tragic scene and enter the Damascus gate without a look at the judicial execution. The trumpets would be blown at the temple calling the people to the sacrifices. Priests would be moving about the temple area, sanhedrin-robed and dainty phylactered, would sweep through the sacred gates.

But despite the world's ignorance and indifference the day would draw a seam of separation between the old world and the new. Some new forces would be out on the fields of history that would make the world new. All history would revolve about this day's work. Jerusalem would be compelled to give heed. Athens would yield her tongue and her choicest brain to interpret the significance of Good Friday and Rome would put a cross on her national escutcheon and in her coliseum and on the dome of the world's proudest fane on the banks of the Tiber. Rabbi Duncan was right when he said, "Passion Week is the great week of all the world's history." Yes, the pivot of all the world's history for weal or woe is here.

And it is good to recall the chief events for the events are all great, and veritable mountain-peaks following one another in majestic procession. We follow the little company in the early hours from the upper room to the garden when He was bowed under the weight of the whole world's sin. We witness the brutal arrest, and the hurried procession from court to court. Hailed before the high-priest, tried by the Sanhedrin, hastened to the court of Pilate where he faced for the first time the Roman Eagles, remanded to the court of Herod, governor of the province of the prisoner, where he was heaped with insupportable indignities; returned to the Roman authorities where was enacted the tragic injustice by which he was condemned to a felon's death, resulting in the gibbetting of the judge for the scorn of history. And then the hurried procession to the place of execution which wrung the sympathy of the weeping daughters of Jerusalem, which Jesus put away as an interruption of a divine plan as old as eternity; then the cruel nailing of hands and feet which had carried him to ministries of healing and blessing; then the mockery of the maddened multitude and its bitter jibes, then the prayer for forgiveness for his bitterest foes, the benediction for the dying thief and cry of bitter dereliction, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" that we might never utter that cry and then the commitment of the mother to the faithful disciple and the closing speeches which I have chosen for brief exposition. And now the end approaches, the ninth hour when the temple trumpets were sounding, calling the people to prayer.

It was at this specific moment that the exultant, the victorious cry was uttered which must have torn the heavens asunder and reached every ear in the heavenly places and was heard in all the realms of the dead—"It is finished." The task is accomplished, the world is redeemed. He had uttered these words in the upper room, "I have finished the work given me to do." The life upon the earth, the work divinely assigned. And now at the end of his priestly task when He had offered Himself for the sin of the world. He had finished His work.

Strange words you will say for a young man of 33 when most of us are only effectively beginning our own lives. But He had finished His. Finished! why we never finish what we seem sent into the world to do. It is our glory that there are unevoked latencies this world cannot unfold. We have only begun to live when we go. We only grow our winds but find no skies vast enough for flight. We lay down tasks which we have only taken in hand. Titian wrote in the corner of his portraits, "Titian was painting this." There were final touches never made. A great author with his book unfinished muttered when dying, "My book, my book I shall never finish my book." Francis Thompson muttered in the delirium of death, "My withered dreams, my withered dreams." Keats exclaimed, "I have writ my name in water." Merlin built the palace of King Arthur with great windows with records of the great deeds of the chivalrous monarch, leaving one window unfilled awaiting the enactment of new heroisms which were interrupted by death. And our palaces of life hold the unfinished window. And oh! the blank pages at the end of the volume that must remain unwritten! Our greatest work seems yet to be done. There is always the crushing sense of failure to fulfill our dreams; perhaps I should say our exulting sense of failure for satisfaction is a distinct misfortune.

But as an anti-climax to our experience Jesus could say, "I have finished the work Thou gavest me to do. It is finished!" The work for which I came is accomplished." No added word to speak, no miracle of power unwrought. He had not failed. He had no consciousness of failure, no sense of an unfilled task affected by this cutting off of a splendid prime. But His mission was fulfilled. He was leaving the world a redeemed world. He had wrought salvation. He had brought life and immortality to light. A gospel of universal forgiveness could now be preached. He had fulfilled prophecy. The long list of prophetic forecastings closed like gates behind Him. Types and shadows had hardened into concrete realities. The matchless beauty of perfect life had been maintained to the last. The hope of the ancient sainthood had been confirmed. The work of man's salvation effected. Nothing had gone astray. No need to return to complete an unfinished task. No prophecy had been left suspended in air. No sin was unatoned.

Sin had done its utmost, had brought up its last reserves and was beaten on its own ground. His was a complete Saviorhood. He had borne our sins on the tree.

And now the final words waited to be spoken—Into thy hands I commit my spirit." That was death to Him, a committal of the soul to God. Just now He bent under the weight of the world's sin. In the Garden He sinks to His knees. He falls on His face. On the cross He was consciously forsaken for one brief moment. That ghastly horror of a world's sin was laid to his charge. But now the cloud has passed, the black shadow is lifted, the heavens are azure and light-filled, the bitterness is passed. I will arise and go to my Father. Father into Thy hands I comment my spirit. The day's work is done. The work is finished.

But the day is not done, this great day of the Lord of Glory. It is not to be left a trivial event in the ongoings of the world's life. Nature takes up the story. Nature which man has cursed and bemeaned and humiliated and withered and hindered from taking its intended office. Nature is awake and a witness. The earth shudders with earthquake throes; the rocks are rent, the graves are opened, the dead arise. The Vail of the Temple is rent in twain; the sun hides his face. The darkness startles far-off peoples: In Egypt the priests declare that one of the great gods is dying; the sailors on the Aegean with this hark of darkness pursuing them cry out Great Pan is dead, Great Pan is dead.

No, the day was not finished with these dying words. Loving friends will take down the body and lower it tenderly in the new tomb. But the day does not end. Easter will approach; the great hour of resurrection is drawing near and until then let silence fall on the world; for the great day of the Lord is at hand.

HOW GOOD SAMARITAN LANDED IN LOCKUP

Orange, N. J., March 30.—John Federici, of this city played the role of good samaritan today and as a consequence found himself locked up in a police station.

NEW LONDON WOMAN SEEKS ESTATE OF DEAD EMPLOYER

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 30—Julia Driscoll was the servant and companion of the late James H. Hill, a Japanese insurance agent of this city for many years after his wife died. She was his attendant and cared for him in his last sickness. Mr. Hill was known as Jimmy all the time he resided in New London, and that was some 60 years, and he was so designated when he died.

Hill was brought to New London by the late Capt. John Haines, who was a seafaring man at the time he found Jimmy on an abandoned junk in the China sea. It was an act of providence that Jimmy was rescued at that time for he was destitute and the old craft on which he was the only human being was adrift. But Capt. Haines saved him and brought him to New London. Then Capt. Haines gave up a life at sea and engaged in the rigging of vessels for there was an abundance of that work to be done here with some fifty craft engaged in the whaling business and many coastwise vessels and fishermen coming to and going from this port. Jimmy was educated in the Union street school and he became one of the bright pupils. He was talented in the drawing of maps and the coloring of them. He resided with Capt. Haines and his sister, the late Mrs. Lucy Chapman, wife of Charles Chapman, where Jimmy had a christian home and a most excellent training.

Finally, at the completion of his education he engaged in the insurance and real estate business and he made and saved so much money that he had $20,000 or more when he died intestate.

Now Miss Driscoll seeks to have the state relinquish its interest in that estate that she may have the whole of it. She and her attorney, Frank L. McGuire went before a committee of the legislature Thursday and there the story of Jimmy Hill's life was told in a way that was expected to arouse the sympathy of the committee for Miss Driscoll.

Good Friday was more generally observed in this city today than it has been observed in several years. At the Episcopal churches, St. James in New London and Seabury in Groton, the Passion service, requiring about four hours consecutively. At the Methodist church there was a union service with President Marshall of the Connecticut college delivering the sermon especially appropriate to the day and to the Easter season. The attendance was large and included as many men as women.

At St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches the services were of a most impressive nature and were largely attended. The factories and the stores were quite generally closed so that the day was one of holiday aspect in marked degree.

Farmers declare that there has been no time when farm labor was scarcer and when wages were higher for the hands that desire to work steadily. They also say that notwithstanding the prohibition law is supposed to be in force there has been no time when the annoyance occasioned by the intemperate habits of the men hired was greater.

Policeman Clifford did a good deed last night and one that has won for him the credit that belongs to an officer, who has his wits with him at the time. Patrolman Sheehan discovered a fire at the store of John Lisa on the outskirts of the city or at least on the west side where the housing corporation built a number of residences. The officer sized up the fire as one that couldn't get away to do any great damage so he went to a phone and called the Northwest company to render assistance. Sheehan stood at the alarm box so that no whistle that would call the department should be sounded. In a few minutes the firemen were on the spot and the work of extinguishing the flames was but a short job. The expense of a general alarm was averted and the city was saved a considerable expense provided no accident happened to the apparatus that was used.

Marie Leverone, the daughter of John and Rose Leverone of Tillotson street, is home from New York for the Easter season. She is a music student in New York seeking training that will fit her for the concert stage or for teaching music as the years come and she completes her musical education.

Miss Bessie L. Marguerit Cavanaugh, sister of Policemen John, Dennis and Thomas Cavanaugh, is to become a bride next month. She will be wedded to James J. Lynch of Bosco who is now a naturalization commissioner at Providence with territory in all Rhode Island. Miss Cavanaugh's engagement was announced by her mother, Mrs. Ellen Cavanaugh of Shaw street yesterday. Miss Cavanaugh has been a store clerk here and has made a large acquaintance.

The display of Easter lilies in New London was never so large or so varied as it is this season though the blooms are high in price. Bermuda has sent a very large number of plants to the market this year and the weather has been of just the right sort for preserving them in excellent condition.

The wooden water tank that stood for a couple of generations or more just south of the railroad station here and which had a capacity of 50,000 gallons, has been removed and has been displaced by a steel tank that will hold twice as much water as the tank it has displaced. The lumber that was taken from the tank when it was removed was in as good condition of preservation as it was the day it was put together.

Mrs. Cornelia Osgood Tyler, when she disposed of her beautiful home The Elm, on Pequot avenue decided to occupy a cottage in the rear of the Pequot avenue place and on Gardner avenue. Now she is putting an addition on the cottage so that she will have a more spacious home.

The sale of the William H. Starr house on Bellevue to the Misses Josephine and Mary Rice has led Mr Starr to change his residence and he will, it is said, locate in Buffalo, N. Y.

So many eggs have been brought into the markets from the section about New London that they have touched the Easter price of 35 cents a dozen. They are expected to go still lower.

It is expected that the city council will make known its budget at its meeting Monday evening when the expenditures and receipts for the past year will be made known and when an estimate of the what the receipts and expenditures for the rest of the year to October 1st will be. The budget should have been completed last September, but it has been delayed for one reason and another so that it has not yet been presented.

Easter Sunday and the Hebrew Passover fall on the same day this year, April 1st, something that has not occurred in many years.

At the meeting of New London lodge of Elks last evening committees were appointed for the installation which the lodge will have next Thursday.

Merchants are anticipating the best business of the year tomorrow if the weather favors them. They have called the trade quiet up to this time.

There are rumors of a breach of promise suit to be brought soon, the parties to it being a New London man and a Montville woman.

A good natured rivalry developed in the fire department today when teams from the Niagara company and the Allen Hook and Ladder company contested to determine which could lay a line of 200 feet of fire hose and, connecting with a hydrant, throw water. The start was made from in front of the Odd Fellows' building and the run was to the corner of Bank and Tilley streets. The teams used the old hose wagon of the Pequot company. The Allen company team made the first trial and covered the distance and sent water through the hose in 50 1-2 seconds. That was a quick run but it did not win the contest, for the Niagara team covered the distance and threw the water in just 50 seconds, though they made three trials before they succeeded in having the hose carriage hold together. On both the first and second trials the wagon fell apart, but there were mechanics standing by and it was put together easily so that it held.

Palestine commandery worked the degree of the temple this evening with a large attendance of members. A supper was served at 6.15, with an attendance that was all that could be expected. On Sunday the commandery will have an Easter service at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in Brainard Shore temple.

New London forest of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon has leased Lyric hall for a year and will hereafter hold their meetings there and have social affairs in the same hall. The Cedars are to go to Providence on the 12th of April to institute a forest.

Police Lieutenant Benjamin A. Beele surprised even those who gave him credit for being of a tenacious nature when he left the hospital where he has been confined three weeks as the result of a shock. He has gone to his home now and there will have the constant attention of a doctor. His grit is shown in the statement that he intends to resume his duty in charge of the night police force in a few weeks.

The woman and children from the coal carrying scows of the Keeler line who were on the wrecked barges that went to disaster off Cornfield lightship Thursday morning have gone to New York, but the men from the barges are still at Lawrence hospital, where they are being treated for frostbites. The women said today that there was a good deal of romance in what was told about the disaster that came to the scows. They declared the craft would not stand such a wind and sea as were running when the tow reached Cornfield and that their cargo made them drag like lead in the sound. The women and children were sheltered and fed at the Winthrop hotel last night.

The steamer Texan which went ashore at West Chop, Block Island, and was floated and brought here, has completed repairs and left for New York. The tug Elmer E. Keeler, which went on the rocks at Cornfield when she lost the coal scows Wednesday night, will probably be floated by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company of wreckers tomorrow or Sunday. The chances that she will be hauled off Saturday are good. The extent of damage to the boat is not known.

LEDYARD

Miss Barbara Goodenough of Columbia college, New York, Amos Avery and Miss Carrie Main of Storrs college are spending the Easter vacation with their parents in town.

The regular meeting of the town school committee will be held at Ledyard Center on Tuesday afternoon.

Samuel B. Main, who has been ill and under the care of a Norwich physician, is reported to be gaining in health.

There was a large attendance at the auction of the Leeds Main estate held on Thursday. Most of the articles brought good prices. The farm was sold to Irving Foote of Preston for $4,010.

Selectman Leslie P. Gray has been repairing some of the roads, which have been badly washed by the winter's storms. There has been more mud this spring than for a number of years, and many automobiles have had to be pulled out of the mire.

JEWETT CITY

With the approaching spring, Jewett City is to have a building boom that will far exceed any recent activity in that line.

There is to be one new block, which will be known and named as the Maynard block. Contractor Martin Davis begins the work next Monday. The site is to be on the street line between the Finn block and the Fanning residence, now owned by Fred Maynard, builder of the new block. The dimensions are 46x70, two stories high. The construction to be of tapestry brick.

On the street floor there are to be two stores, and the second floor are large office apartments are to be fitter.

There will be 30 feet between the Fanning house and the new block, and a little more on the east, between the Finn block and Maynard's. The roof is to be flat with a system of piping extending inside the partitions to the sewer. Another system of chutes, also in the patitions, will serve to convey waste paper and refuse matter from the office floor to the cellar.

Operations are also to be begun at once by Edward Blanchard, who has perfected plans, including the changes and alterations on the Button tavern property at the corner of Ashland and Main street. When completed the Blanchard block will be three stories high, the owner's store will be on the street floor.

The second and third floors will be constructed as modern flat apartments, one of which will be occupied by Mrs. Fred Jodoin and one by Mr. Blanchard.

The one time Ashland store now occupied by the owner, will be remodelled into garages and other apartment. On the east side, next to Mrs. Harry Paul's property, Mr. Blanchard is to construct four modern private automobile garages, which are all engaged before a timber is laid. Work will begin at once, on the Paul Anthony block on Main street between the residence of E. H. Hiscox and the Rioux block. The plans call for extending the present building out to the street front. When completed it will be two stories high with three stores on the street floor, and three office apartments on the second. This change will necessitate the removal of the W. C. T. U. public drinking fountain, which was on Mr. Anthony's property. One of the stores in this block will be occupied by Mr. Paquette's barber shop and one, possibly two by the owner.

Miss Eleanor Stetson and Wayland Stetson are visiting relatives in Chicopee, Mass.

Mrs. John Murtha died suddenly on Friday morning, after being in ill health for several years. She was born in Baltic, the daughter of John and Margaret Devine Mooney. The family have lived in Jewett City over 40 years. Mrs. Murtha is survived by her husband, one son John of Norwich and two daughters, Mrs. Nellie Davis and Mrs. Rose Risley of Jewett City. There are three grandchildren. Mrs. Murtha was a very kindly hearted woman and her friends recall many helpful acts in times of sickness. Although it was very difficult for her to walk, she has never missed the opportunity to go to the polls and vote since the women were given that privilege.

First class mechanic at M. Anderson's garage. Battery, electrical work a specialty. 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily. —adv.

For a number of weeks there has been considerable talk about bowling. Robert Robertson and John Pinckley claiming they could defeat any two in the Aspinook. William McCluggage and Gordon Willis could not see it that way, so accepted the challenge, and the match was rolled on the local alleys Thursday night. Five games were rolled, the total pin fall counting. McCluggage and Willis winning by a large margin. After the first match, Pinckley and Robertson challenged McCluggage and Willis to roll the best two out of three, a game of cocked hat and again they were defeated.

The reason appearing is that more times than not, there is some reference (complimentary or otherwise) made to Jewett City or its aborigine inhabitants.

A week ago there appeared the story about a local deacon, who went down to the "Landing" with a load of cabbages drawn by a yoke of oxen. As the result of Norwich licker, which he was induced to take to warm up on, he came back without his oxen. A reader remarked that there had been a trifling change in the brand, in 50 years. Now the returning visitor after warming up thinks he is driving a team of Texas steers.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there's nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements perfected by one of the foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes Absorbine Jr.—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial cannot do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. A case sufficient to bring results—is but one dollar.

ABSCONDER DE ROODE WAS DISGUISED WHEN CAPTURED

New York, March 30.—Disguised as an old man, Louis F. De Roode of Baltimore, formerly a major in the United States Marine corps, today was arrested as a fugitive from justice in an apartment on Riverside Drive, which he was alleged to have been occupying with a handsome young woman. He was taken into custody at the request of the Baltimore authorities who said he was charged with absconding with $52,000.

De Roode, who was said to be 31 and married, was reported by the Baltimore police to have been an executor of the estate of his uncle, Dr. L. C. Carrico, a prominent physician residing in Charles county, Maryland. He was alleged to have obtained the $52,000 from banks in Baltimore and Philadelphia on worthless checks. Detectives said they found in the apartment $10,403 in cash, $30,000 in negotiable securities and a bank book made out to "Morton Fox" showing deposits of $3,072.

Detectives said they were met at the door of the apartment by the young woman, whose name is being withheld. Over her protests the police entered the suite to be confronted by an old man, with white hair and mustache, bending over a cane.

"We know you; you'd better come through," said one of the detectives, who added that De Roode then had drawn himself up dramatically to his full six feet, and whipped off a false mustache.

According to the police, De Roode purchased wig and mustache in Baltimore and used the disguise to escape from that city on March 30.

Easter

O blithesom dawn of Easter,
When Lent at last is o'er,
When grief and gloom
Forsake the Tomb,
And hearts are light once more.

O blissful morn of Easter,
When chimes so sweetly ring,
When lilies white
Bloom fair and bright,
And joyous voices sing.
O blessed day of Easter,
When Christ returns to earth,
And sins of men
Are cleansed again,
As by another birth.

O blithesome dawn of Easter,
O day that saw Him rise,
When Christ is here,
And we are near
The Gates of Paradise!

Always Wear a Smile

There's never a darkened forest
That the sunlight doesn't peep in
And help each budding plant
A beautiful life to win.

There's never a raging tempest
No man of power can quell,
But He Who rules the storm
Speaks peace and all is well.

There's never a day so dreary
Or a night so said and lone
But passing life is brighter
If we live its purest tone.

There's never a cloud so darksome
Or a shadow across the way
But will vanish like dew in the meadows
In the morn of a summer day.

So fight life's battle bravely,
And always wear a smile
Compared with a lasting victory
Tis fight but a little while.

Interesting

Married in January hoar and rime,
Widowed you'll be before your time.
Married in February's slushy weather,
Life you'll tread in June together.
Married when March winds shrill and rear,
Your home will be on a foreign shore.
Married in April's changeful skies,
A checkered path before you lies.
Married when bees or May blossoms flit,
Strangers around your board will sit.
Married in month of roses—June,
Life will be one long honeymoon.
Married in July with flowers ablaze,
Bittersweet memories in after days.
Married in August, heat and drowse,
Lover and friend in your chosen spouse.
Married in Golden September glow,
Smooth and serene your life will go.
Married when leaves in October thin,
Toil and hardship for you begin.
Married in veils of November mist,
Fortune your wedding ring has kissed.
Married in days of December cheer,
Love's star shine brighter from year to year.
Watch your step!—Exchange.

DREADS THE HOUSECLEANING.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: What beautiful weather we are having just at present! The winter has been so long and cold, that one does enjoy these beautiful days of sunshine. It certainly must be welcome to the shut-ins that have been indoors all winter, as one sister wrote the snow is such a dread to her. I do dread the snow half as much as I do my spring cleaning. I am to do painting and papering, and also painting on the outside. It all looks a big mountain to me as I shall do the inside myself. Hope I may start soon and get through. How nice it will be to get all painted and cleaned. It will seem as if I am in a new house.

Twice Twenty: I was much surprised to meet you in the car the day I was in good old Killingly. Wish I could have seen you longer. Hope you enjoyed your trip as well as I did. I found my aunty better than I expected. She was sitting up and very cheerful. She certainly has the best of care. Try and come down to the April meeting.

Neighbor Eveready: Am glad you had such a good time and crowd at the anniversary of Club No. 1. Ours was a failure this year owing to the storm. Am glad so many could go from Norwich.

Calla Lily: Have you heard any returns of your book as yet? If not I trust you will. What good can it be to another?

I want to thank all of those that sent me birthday cards if I can name them all. I will see how well I can do. Thanks to Red Rose, Lo, Bonie, Canterbury Bell, Golden Glow, Ruth, I. J. B., Student, Sarah F, Dont Worry, Gypsy and others.

A dear friend of mine sent me a birthday card and signed her name: Guess, and I did guess right away the sender, as she lives on a high hill and says she has enjoyed the beautiful snow and snowbirds all winter.

I am looking forward to the April meeting and hope to see a good crowd. So come one and all, sisters.

Red Rose: Glad you have started to clean house. Hope you will be able to finish.

Sweet Fannie: Will answer your letter. Was glad you were able to sit on long enough to write me. Will see you in April if nothing prevents.

Yours for the Corner.
RED CLOVER (March 21.)

A PLACE FOR FANCY WORK.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: I wonder if there is any more room on your page for one more name? If so I would like to become a member.

I attended your anniversary meeting as the guest of Charlotte, and had a very pleasant time. One thing I will say though is, that if I should become a member I shall never attend a meeting without taking along some kind of fancy work to work on. Everyone was as busy as could be, but myself and I just sat with folded hands.

Well, I will not write any more now because this letter might reach the waste basket, and I don't know as I would blame the editor.

I will take for my penname the wonderful name of

TIDDLY WINKS.

CORNER MEMBERSHIP INCREASED.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has long been my wish to join the Social Corner, but have put off writing from time to time. I do enjoy reading the interesting letters each week and hope to know each and every sister in the near future.

The winter has certainly been a trying one but I have veen very busy, so have spent the time much more pleasantly than some, for which I am very thankful.

I sincerely hope I may be received as a member of the Social Corner and will answer to the penname of

POMPEY HOLLOW.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Social Corner Editor: I have been reading the Social Corner page every week and it is very interesting to me. I would like very much to join you, and become a member.

AN EASTER PRAYER

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Let me be among the number of those to greet you this happy Easter time. I wish for you all the best of present peace today, and as earth and angels join in Easter praise, let me add my little prayer that God may bless you at this time of flowers with whispers of His love, and He fill you with joy, sublime—earth's little while. What a blessed meaning comes with the day that Christ arose, to all who have given themselves to Him, because He lives they shall live also. He suffered for our sins that we might be free and full of hope and joy.

I am sorry for each one who is sick and trust they will soon be well again, also those who have had sorrow, that only His love can heal.

'Tis spring:
By the water in the street I know it,
By the freshness of the breeze,
Swelling buds on the trees,
'Tis spring and all the world is glad.

'Tis spring:
By the coming of the birds I know it,
Burst of song at early dawn,
Redbreast hopping on the lawn,
'Tis spring and all the world is gay.

'Tis spring,
By the joy of Easter morn I know it,
Music telling Christ is risen,
Promise of new life is given,
'Tis spring, let all the world rejoice.
Best wishes to all.

PLEASED WITH SUNSHINE BOX

Dear Social Corner Sisters: First of all let me extend my sincere thanks for the sunshine box sent me during my illness and also I wish to thank our Social Corner sister who lives on East Baltic street, for bringing same up to me. As I do not know her pen name I cannot address my thanks to her personally. I am very glad to say that I am feeling some better now although I have been out only once since the second of March. I hope we will soon have some good warm sunny weather and then we all can get out and we will feel much better.

I enjoy reading the letters of the different sisters every Saturday and if I do not get time to read them Saturday and I generally read them the next day, Sunday. I have also been able to collect some very nice recipes and I am enclosing a nice little recipe for a dainty dessert called Candle Light Salad: Put a slice of pineapple on a small plate, then stand half a banna in the hole of the pineapple. One the top of the banana put a spoonfull of whipped cream and in the center of the cream place a red cherry. This is very nice and especially adapted for holidays, parties and socials.

I think I have taken enough space for this week and will leave room for someone else to write. Again thanking you all for your kind remembrance and hoping to be with you soon I am

ORIANNA. (May 20th.)

WELCOMES THE SPRING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters and Friends: How lovely to see the sunshine and bare ground and feel the spring fever coursing through our system at a high temperature, and to think of the pussy willows, hepaticas and arbutus coming right along with crocus and hyacinths and soon violets dandelions, jack in the pulpits, sundrops and spring beauties, to gladden our hearts flee the long cold winter. And the man who wrote of the beautiful snow must be looking around for somewhere to go. They won't want him about with his tedious old snow. Nor down below where he ought to go. So he better stop prating of beautiful snow. If he had to hike out each morn and each night, and shovel to left and to right and wallowing knee deep, he would never more peen about beautiful snow, but would change his song to something more like this, and fill our hearts with cheer and bliss.

Oh spring, beautiful spring, just newly born
With the earliest flowers in bloom on the lawn,
And the dear little blue birds singing their song,
As if nothing on earth had ever gone wrong,
And the red breasted robin, that we all love to see,
Pulling out worms under the old apple tree,
And the clear crystal brook bubbling past the dam, where the boys with their hooks can fish once more. How much dearer to our eyes are sights like these, than banks of snow and ice-laden trees, to cheer up comrades sisters and friends, for spring always comes when the winter ends.

With love to all.

TEN TIMES TEN IN THE KITCHEN

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I never have written about my visit to the household exhibit in New York city, great many of the sisters will laugh at the idea that a 10 cent household device would lighten their work to a great extent, yet it was demonstrated there at the exhibit that one dollar invested in these little novelties would make housework much easier for the average woman.

The day before my visit to the exhibition my pot roast which had been put on the stove to simmer away, was suddenly discovered burning. I found the meat stuck fast to the bottom of the pot, so I was more than delighted to find also a heaven-sent device in the form of an aluminum kettle bottom which you put into any pot and the meat will not burn. It is in form of a disk with a row of raised buttons; the burning of the juice below this disk warns you of this danger and the contents remain unspoiled. I only gave 10 cents for this.

Still thinking of my burned pot, I was attracted to a little kettle scraper which had a flexible steel edge. It was so made that it would shape itself to curved surfaces of the pot, and in no time the kettle would be absolutely clean.

And right beside the kettle scraper I found a plate scraper which was entirely different, yet a great labor saver in addition to protecting the hands from greasy dishwater. This was made of a compound rubber with a strong wooden handle, and the woman who uses one of them would have her dishes practically clean before going into the water.

I was attracted by the new cake or cake turner. The handle was short and was so arranged to the metal portion of the turner that it sets perfectly flat on the pan. It is oval in shape, and because it has no square corners the eggs will not break when you slip the turner under them. It is said to be an ideal omelet turner.

I passed on to find a coffee strainer that appealed to me. It was so constructed that it swung level with the coffee pot when pouring—and when the pot was placed back in a standing position the drip which usually falls on the tablecloth drops into a little safety cup which is attached for that purpose. The strainer was made of aluminum, which seems to be the coming material for all cooking utensils, and was absolutely dripless.

Alongside of this I found a tea strainer of the old-fashioned order of handle and bowl but it was silver-plated (yes, 10 cents each), and the handle was riveted on, not soldered, which means that it will not come apart.

Perhaps the readers of this Corner page have tried to open a jar of fruit in a hurry and found they cannot budge the top, and finally resorted to putting the jar in hot water. I roamed and rummaged at a little steel fruit jar wrench which grips the metal cover and opens it off in a jiffy. I also found a fruit jar funnel.

How many women wondering if they were able to dust, have pulled straws out of a broom and inserted it in the cracks. I found a large package of these feathers, and I found a remarkable cracks and dust-proof cutter.

I found a little utility which will take the nuts from the pineapple and the centre from the grapefruit with a turn of the wrist. It is also impossible for anything nice from potatoes and apples down to cabbage with the smallest possible waste.

I found that most every woman having some hard to do and a suitable place for it, and needing it, was interested in a little rolling device which enables one to roll pastry, meat, vegetables and the contents of the pan.

SIGNS OF SPRING.

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: How do you all do this beautiful morning? Isn't it glorious to see the ice and snow all gone once more? On looking out of the window one day recently I saw a flock of robins in one orchard and today I heard a little phoebe bird. I saw a flock of wild geese flying to the north one day last week, the pussy willows are all in bloom and I heard the peep frogs last Saturday and today I see my daffys are up about four inches over ground. For all those beautiful things of nature I feel very grateful.

Calla Lily: Thanks for your kind message through the Corner page. I am very sorry you can't get any trace of your book. How long since you loaned it? I never mind loaning articles but I do like to have them returned. May be the party who borrowed it has moved away and don't take The Bulletin and has not seen your appeal for its return. Haven't you any idea whether it has gone, as the song says to the north, south, east or west. The Bulletin touches all those points, I am very sure.

Balsam Fir: Did you ever get a picture of the crossed spoons where two of the Social Corner sisters stationed in Biddeford? Be sure to let me know. Say, wasn't that a wonderful picture, hand painted as that, done in colors by one of the faithful writers of the Social Corner? Any of the sisters wishing to see the same may do so by calling at the home of CRIMSON RAMBLER. (March 5.)

IDEAS REGARDING HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: The busy housewife who has to spend several hours a day in the kitchen will find herself less tired at night if there are rugs or linoleum on the floor, especially in front of the stove, the sink and the table where the meals are prepared. Walking and standing on bare floor is hard. How hard, it is difficult to realize unless one has had the rugs and then tried to do without them.

Many people who have fireless cookers have perhaps never thought of baking potatoes in them. This can easily be done, and they are just as satisfactory as when baked in the oven. Put the largest heater over the gas flame and arrange the potatoes together on this; leave them one-half hour, turning occasionally; then put in the cooker and cover up and in another half hour they will be done.

Small rugs made of crex will be found desirable as they clean easily and are quite serviceable. Also an adjustable stool in the kitchen is a great help; there are many things that can be done sitting down if there is a seat of proper height. This can be slipped under the table when not in use and can be adjusted to suit any place it is needed.

In this connection a stepladder chair is a convenient article in the kitchen as there are many things just out of a comfortable reach. A step ladder is a nuisance around, while the chair can be used for other purposes.

Wash potato parings, boil them for ten minutes and let silver stand in the water for ten minutes and then rub off with a flannel and wash in hot soapy water and it will greatly improve the appearance.

When celery is plentiful, wash the tops thoroughly, then spread on paper and dry for several days, after which they can be broken up and put away in a jar for use in soups, stews or wherever the flavor of celery is desired.

For those who do not have to take ice all the year around, the following will be found a good way to keep the ice box always in condition: As soon as the ice season is over, clean thoroughly, then put on one or two coats of white enamel paint, and leave open for a while to dry and air.

Do you now when you want to cut meat that is a little tough if you dip your knife in hot water once in a while it cuts much easier?

If you pour hot water on apples they will peel much easier.

Most any man at one time or another has a serge suit that he is tired of wearing. Now if he has a small school girl, this suit can be easily made over into a plaited skirt to wear with a middy blouse. There is quite a good deal of cloth in the pants, which will piece together and give the required amount of width with some help from the coat, and if the piecing is carefully done under the pleats, it will look just as good as though the cloth had been all in one piece.

Five cents buys a little blank book. You can make note of all the money you spend for the month. Look it over every week and cut out all the foolish things. Learn by experience and get a bit of satisfaction in seeing how you economize. The little things count up so save on those. Then start a bank book by studying your blank book.

NO CHANCE FOR HAPPINESS.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The anniversary days bring up sad memories of our losses, but I suppose we ought not to dwell too much upon the sadness, for while so much has gone so much remains for us to enjoy if we will. "Strengthen the things that remain," is a good motto. For many the life is broken and must be started again with new interests and new habits. Life has to be lived in periods anyway, as the different duties and interests come to us. But habit is so strong in most of us that it is a trial to adjust ourselves to the different conditions as they come to us.

I was interested in a quotation from a son of one of the famous millionaires: "I never had any chance for happiness, I never had the satisfaction of really wanting something and of earning the money to procure it. Always more money than we could use and every need satiated before we thought of desiring the things." So we see that in the most perfectly supplied home still may be lacking the spirit of development that will prepare the child for a useful and happy life. It is not too much or too little money that makes the best home. It is that the home contains someone who understands human nature and who loves to teach it.

There you have the perfect home and the fine character and the noble happy people.

I was interested too to know the secret of the training that produced that wonderful man Roosevelt. And reading his life one can see how wonderful was his home life. His father especially taking much trouble to provide right instruction and interests and occupation to develop the health and ambition of the frail boy. Among the rest he became so interested in natural history that he resolved to be a naturalist. This decision did not appeal to his ambitious father and it took considerable argument from his father to convince him of the advantage of a life that would bring him a large income and a share in public work. Very different was Roosevelt's view of life from that of the millionaire's son. One selfish and bored, the other full of happy helpful interests.

I inquired about the descendants of a certain public man and was told there were none. Then that splendid family has come to the end," I said. "O, no," my friend replied "they will live forever in the splendid orphan asylum and school that they founded and endowed as the family memorial."

"In a little private cemetery two strangers, both successful business men, unexpectedly met at the grave of an obscure public school teacher. The stone was marked "Our Mary," erected by her grateful pupils. Both men said, "I owe all that I am in character and business success to the advice and instruction of Mary."

The missing register reminds me of other similar occurrences. Two valued books disappeared and have never returned. Probably we made a mistake when we let it be known that we had forgotten who borrowed them. Two others cases illustrate human nature, too. A girl working her way through college was injured in an accident by a chum, the daughter of a wealthy man. She asked the father to pay the hospital and doctor's bills, but made the mistake of appealing to his sympathy by saying she was poor and had no one to defend her. Another family refused to pay their bill to a poor man until an influential friend appeared to take notice when the matter was settled forthwith.

A small boy in a wealthy family took part of any of the change he found left out to pay small daily bills his parents, if any loss was reported, thinking the help to blame. When a mother was unpacking the suitcase of this girl just returned from her first visit, said, "O, Anna, here is Aunt Kate's silver button hook." "Yes," said Anna, "I thought I needed it."

A father remarked, "It don't do to believe anything that Archie says." A little later I found out that everything lost or broken was laid to Archie, and the little fellow often told an untruth to get rid of being questioned and threatened to tell how it happened or where he had taken it.

The father never seemed to think that he was untruthful when he falsely accused the child.

Similar is the recent case of the school boy and the detectives trying to find the cause of the fire discovered by the boy in the school. They questioned and threatened him until to get rid of them he told a false story about it.

These cases all prove that we are all, for animals except in as far as we have been taught better, and when tired or married or do not take time to think we act in the natural or animal way. It is natural to take advantage of the weaker or take what we wish to have.

If we are to really enjoy cooking we must first learn not recipes, but the general principles so that when we fail we can know just what went wrong.

So we cannot make progress in human affairs until we know and use the principles of human nature and understand how to know how much the person demands and acts from culture and how much by natural instincts. Everyone must be made to understand, and then only right ideas will be used.

To help and to expect to become as efficient and perfect in all human affairs as in mechanical inventions, to make someone understand and some life better and happier should be our aim.

JEREMY.

AN EASTER MEMORY.

Dear Folks of the Social Corner: Easter, the birthday of hope, means more and more to all of us as the years go by. We shall ever remember Easter of last year that came in mid April when we spent the day as guests of friends in the Silver city, Meriden. We had been having a long spell of dreary stormy weather and we were awakened as the clock was striking the hour of 6 on Easter to behold the beautiful rays of sunlight come stealing into the room. No more sleep, so we hastily dressed and quietly went outside to hear the music of the birds. Up the avenue we walked to Lake Merimere, the city's reservoir, a mile distant, also about a mile in length, situated between two high mountains, we followed the narrow road that wound through forest trees of evergreen to the farther shore where we stopped to listen to the music of a mountain rill tumbling down the mountain side and we watched an old pheobe bird bobbing around in the thicket. Along the mountain road was seen the first tender blossoms of the first wild flowers. As we saw the sun-lit mountain peaks a thousand feet high we thought of the comforting words, "As the mountains are around about Jerusalem so the Lord is around about His people from henceforth even forever," Psalms 125-2.

We were back again at 8 o'clock, just in time for breakfast. We attended the First Baptist church service, the beautiful Easter music, the sermon, the flowers and a large number were baptised and received into church membership. Many a sympathizing tear drop was noted to. We took another walk in the afternoon through Hubbard park. In the evening we listened to the wonderful cantata, Creation, told in song by a chorus of over 60 voices at the union service of all of the city churches. So ended the memories of a perfect Easter day.

MEMORIES OF THE LITTLE WHITE SCHOOLHOUSE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: First I must thank the kind editor for publishing my first letter and accepting me as one of the sisters. Aren't the letters interesting? Long live the Social Corner.

I am tip-toeing my way along just like an ordinary chicken as it's raining today and very muddy, and I do so hate to get my feet wet. I am sorry I did not see the prairie schooner that passed through the states. It would have been very interesting for me to see a real one because my grandparents left the town of Stonington about eighty years ago for the west in a prairie schooner, stopped in York state for a while, then started on their long and tiresome journey for Nebraska. My grandmother wishing to own her own little home took up a claim' meaning she had to remain there six months before she could have the privilege of leaving it.

How lonely she must have been as my grandfather had in the meantime passed away and her three sons had married. But she was plucky and fearless and whatever she undertook she finished—just what one would expect of a 'true blue' New Englander.

How I would like to surprise some of the sisters by joining you at one of your gatherings in Norwich but I guess I would be the one most surprised. Never-the-less when the days roll around I'm thinking of you all.

Mandy: I found the "Little Old Red Schoolhouse very interesting as it reminded me of the Little Old White School house I used to attend. It is the oldest in the town of Stonington built in the year of 1799, is still standing and well presevved. Children still walk up that narrow briery path seeking their education in the little school house 124 years old. I recall to mind the long, high desks and rough planks for seats that ran the length of the room. The low seat in front for the little ones. The teacher's desk was heavy and crude with lid that opened and lifted up. The stove was in the center of the room with long pipe held in place by wires. In the winter the water pail and tin dipper set in a chair near the door that led into the narrow and dark entry, where in one end the wood was packed, making it very easy for the children to climb up overhead and hide either from a teacher or a place quickly reached when playing hide and go seek. All of our written work was done on slates and I'll assure you the school room was not very quiet. First some one would drop a rule, then a state would slip onto the floor. Another would get a little drowsy and drop his book. After all, those times were good times and a very noted man of my acquaintance, and many others I do not know but have their names, received the biggest part of their education in The Little Old White Schoolhouse up Lime lane.

A Stranger in the City: I see where you and I hopped in the Corner the same time a couple of weeks ago. Don't it make you think of a game, Puss in the Corner? I do hope the doctor is helping you.

Just a word with the shut-ins, then I'll fly away. I feel very sorry for those who are unable to see the beauties of nature and of others who cannot leave their wheelchairs and others who cannot hear the sweet songs of the birds. But then I know not one of you are finding a bit of fault for there is always something you can do to pass the time and I am wondering if you ever heard, of a pretty rug. I trust the name does not condemn it for really it is a pretty thing. First you need a small jug about a two-quart size. Cover it quite thickly with putty and while the putty is still soft press into it different things such as pieces of pretty china, glass, marbles, odd and pretty buttons and other things you hate to throw away. Press everything very closely together until the jug is covered. My mother has had one for years. I have had much pleasure turning it and with every turn I found something different.

I think you would find it very fascinating work and you would surely be repaid by watching the little ones amuse themselves for perhaps an hour or so.

Best wishes to all.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

THE QUESTION AT EASTER TIME

Dear Corner Sisters: If a man die shall he live again? Do you know this is the age-old question, asked at the side of every bier—and is asked by all Christians at Easter time?

And what can one say in answer to it?

Every one of us is taught in child hood to believe in God and an after life.

I remember when I was beginning to read and think a little, it occurred to me that, though I had been told there is a future life, nobody had ever given me any proof.

So industriously I set to work in the public library to read the works of the greatest men who ever lived and find proof for myself.

And I remember how, slowly at first, then faster and faster, I turned through one wise man's book after another. "Surely this one will know," I said to myself; "or this one; or this."

And suddenly the bitter truth flashed upon me. They did not know, any more than I did. All their proofs were not proofs at all. In all history there had never lived a single man wise enough to prove immortality. Almost everybody believed; nobody really knew.

It was a discovery that left me helpless at first; then slowly out of my helplessness I began a little system of my own. In the first place, it seems easier to believe than to disbelieve.

You have heard some people say, "The world just happened." It created itself through the operation of natural laws."

And do you think that sound scientific and satisfactory?

But I wanted to know who or what established the natural laws and set them to operating.

When you can dump a load of bricks on a corner lot, and let me watch them arrange themselves into a house—when you can empty a handful of springs and wheels and screws on my kitchen table, and let me see them gather themselves together into a clock—it will be easier for men to believe that all these thousand of worlds could have been created, balanced and set to moving in their separate orbits, all without any directing intelligence at all.

Moreover, if there is no intelligence in the universe, then the universe has created something greater than itself for it has created you and me.

Is it easy to believe that a universe without personality could have created us who have personality?

I really thing it is easier to believe that our personality is a little part of the great pervading personality that has created and now permeates the universe.

And if there be a personality in the universe—a God—what kind of a God is He?

He must be at least as good as you and I. He couldn't have made us better Himself. The worse can not create better.

And if He is a good God, is it reasonable to suppose that He would have planted in human hearts this unquenchable yearning for immortality, and left that yearning unsatisfied?

You and I would not have done so.

Go where you will, from the most savage race to the most cultured, you find that same instinctive assurance that death is not the end. Would the good God plant that assurance in His creatures just to mock us?

Without immortality the world is an unanswerable riddle we are born; we struggle up through slow years of development; and just as we have reached our highest point of usefulness we are cut off.

What inefficiency! What waste. It is hard to believe in a universe that made it self, and that ruthlessly casts away its most precious possession, human personality.

It is easier to believe that back of the universe is a guiding Intelligence, of whose personality my own is a tiny spark that shall not go out while He lives.

If I can not prove that this is so, neither can anyone prove to me that it is not so.

And, until some one can disprove it, I find it easier, more helpful, more efficent, to believe.

MAKING A FLOWER HOLDER

Dear Cornerites: I thought I would like a flower holdier for my piazza, so I took a quart fruit jar and crocheted a cover for it.

I bought white cotton in size 20 and dyed it green.

Begin with a chain of 22 and join to form a ring; into this ring work 22 single stitches. Continue to make in single stitches for three rows. Make next row in dc. then 3 rows s. c. Next row d. c., then 4 rows s. c., upon this foundation work a sufficient number of rows in clover knot st. to cover jar, 17 rows covered the jar. You can make one to hang up on a porch post but I should cover a pint jar for that.

I thought there might be some who did not know what clover knot stitch is, * with one chain on hook, wrap thread around front of hook, then turn the hook around backward and take up thread, then front again, working alternately from front and back, taking up thread four times from front and four times from back draw thread through knot or lump having one chain st. on hook. Ch. 3 make another knot fasten in 4th stitch in foundation and repeat to end of row. Draw out ch. s g fasten in ch between first two knots in preceding row and repeat from * until desired number of rows are made.

I have made chains of this same stitch and they are very pretty.

EASTER TIME GREETINGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I send you one and all a hearty greeting at this Easter time. Seems good to have the spring time once more, and still better when the good old summer time is with us again. Large flocks of robins come near my door these beautiful mornings and I have enjoyed seeing and feeding the bluejays and other birds this winter. Glad to see the Corner page full and overflowing each week, still, even now, I miss some of the old writers.

Chatterer: Where are you? Haven't heard your voice for a long time.

Bumblebee: It is time you were dying about.

Adelia: Hope we shall meet again this summer.

Hancie: Call again soon.

Canterbury Bell: Will you please tell me what to do with a cyclamen that is through blooming?

Nespa: Hope you are rested by this time and will come again soon.

Esmerelda: Did you get home in time for services?

One of the sisters wished me to repeat the recipe for musk melon cake so here it is:

Musk Melon Cake: One heaping cup flour, 2-3 sugar, 1-3 cup shortening, 1-2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder, white of 2 eggs, (flavor) and put in pan.

Repeat rule using yolks of eggs in second part. Pour over white part and bake slowly.

Lo: Have tried your recipe for pineapple sponge pie. It is fine. I will send one for grape nuts bread.

Grape Nuts Bread: One cup grape nuts soaked in 2 cups sour milk, 20 minutes, (you can use sweet milk by leaving out soda) 1 teaspoon soda, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 scant tablespoon shortening (1 egg (salt), 4 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Think I have written enough for this time.

Wishing you all a pleasant Easter time.

Yours for the Corner.

U. C. E.

EASTER.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I wish you one and all a pleasant Easter. Easter means new life and as Christ on Easter morning lived again so shall we all through Him live again. Also nature and all things will feel the Easter thrill and be enthused with new life for they will wake from their dormant state, their winter's sleep or rest and slowly, but surely array themselves in their beautiful spring garments. We do well to follow the example of nature and freshen up our clothes, if one cannot have new, and look spic and span during the beautiful spring time.

To Club No. 1: I thought of you on Anniversary day. It snowed here but the Corner says that you had a fine time as usual on that day and you gave me a big surprise, for I never thought of such a thing as receiving a box of goodies from you. It was very kind and thoughtful of you, to do so and it was much enjoyed by yours truly. I thank you heartily for it.

Our snow has settled and much has disappeared during last week; still we have a large amount of snow left and one cannot get into the woods to get the wood which has been cut.

I trust that the sick ones are improving and that those who miss the dear ones who have gone from them will think of them as just away, just out of sight but not far from us.

Best wishes to one and all.

Rural Delivery: We are sorry to have you go so far away but shall hope that the Corner will have an occasional letter from you. But we all wish you happiness and prosperity in your new home.

DIANA.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOME.

Dear Sisters: I have not written recently so will send in some household helps. Here is a practical use for old stockings, after the soles are worn out, cut the feet off and use the legs to protect your sleeves while busy in the kitchen. This will save much unnecessary washing.

For a home-made sanitary duster dip a piece of soft black cotton in thin melted paraffine and let dry. This will hold the dust so it will not scatter again.

A handy nail for a stray garment or an extra towel is always in good season. By placing a wooden spool over the nail before driving the same in the wall, you will prevent rust spots or a possible rent to your clothes.

Procure from a dollar five cents' worth of rubber tissue. Place the garment to be mended on an ironing board, wrong side up, with the torn edges nearly together. Cover the rent with the tissue and then place the patch on the tissue. Cover with a heavy cloth and moisten with a wet sponge. Press hot iron until nearly dry. Then with a sharp shears clip all loose threads.

In cleaning windows, mirrors, etc., first remove all the dirty spots with warm, soapy water. Then dampen a cloth in paraffine oil and rub over the panes. Polish with a dry cloth or a piece of paper. You will find this an easier and quicker way.

PETERKINS.

LADY FINGERS.

Dear Sisters: One member asked for a recipe for lady fingers. Here is one:

Lady Fingers: Four eggs, three-fourths cup pastry flour; one-half cup powdered sugar.

Method: Have the bottom of three large baking pans covered with parafine paper or sheets of buttered note paper. Beat the yolks of the eggs and the sugar into a froth. Beat the whites to a stiff, dry froth, and add to the yolks, sugar. Add the flour, and stir quickly and gently. Pour the mixture into the pastry bag and press it through onto the paper in the shape and of the size you wish. When all the mixture has been used, sprinkle powdered sugar on the cakes, and bake from twelve to sixteen minutes in a very slow oven. This is a good recipe.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The last week of March in 1873 was a quiet one in Norwich, little of importance occurring the minds of the inhabitants. Some of the incidents noted in the bulletin of that year were as here set forth:

Monday, March 24, 1873—According to the last report there are 800 volumes on the shelves at the Reed Library and Reading room, adjoining the "Dirty Face Church", at Norwich Town. There is a librarian employed, yet the expenses with current expenses for the last year totaling $376 were met by subscription. An annual income of about $200 is required to perpetuate the institution and it is believed that the residents will see that the required amount is forthcoming each year.

The Hartford Courant of Saturday says: Messrs. Hislop, Porteous and Mitchell, who for the last six years have been engaged as dry goods salesmen in this city, are about starting for themselves in Norwich, and on Thursday evening a large number of their friends gave them a supper at the City Hotel. The occasion was a very pleasant one.

One of the four Connecticut gentlemen appointed by the president's honorary commission to the Vienna exposition, is Joseph Platt of this city. Mr. Platt is fully worthy of the honor.

The Allen patent home hoister was tried out by the chief engineer Saturday and worked to perfection. The hoists are in use and cost about $75 each.

Tuesday, March 25, 1873—Considerable excitement was caused in the vicinity of Chelsea Landing yesterday afternoon by the discovery of a dead body floating in the Thames. Upon examination it proved to be that of a man about 40 years of age, and was identified as that of Thomas Hall, who resided on the Bozrah road. Hall left his home on Sunday morning, and it is supposed fell into the river while crossing on the ice. The body was taken to the Laurel Hill cemetery.

Thursday, March 27, 1873—Engineer Yeomans, chief officer of the late steamer Rockland, has a new steamer and city boats will take the evening route, which has been discontinued for the past few years.

Thursday, March 27, 1873—Mr. Hall, of the Hallett House, had a very experience yesterday. An

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

GROTTO

Mizpah Grotton has set Wednesday, May 9 as the date for the next ceremonial to be held in Norwich when the monarchs of the Grotto will work towards having a large class that will take the degree. Important business is to come up where the Grotto's first regular meeting in April and at the second meeting in the month there will be an entertainment provided.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Five candidates were initiated into the rank of page at the meeting of Wauregan Lodge, No. 76, held Tuesday evening at the Buckingham Memorial by the degree team led by acting Chancellor Commander Rudolph Hendrickel. The names of three candidates were read and acted upon.

In the absence of Chancellor Commander Dr. Roeland Markoff, the meeting was opened by Past Chancellor Commander Casper Graff and routine business was transacted. It was voted to send baskets of flowers and fruit to the several members of the lodge who are confined to their homes because of illness. Plans were also made for a whist and dance to be given in May and committees are to take charge. Regrets were expressed at the departure from Norwich of Dr. Harry Protass, a brother Pythian, who left Wednesday for New Britain, and at the death of his father who passed away in that city recently.

At the next meeting of the lodge there will be degree work on three candidates for the rank of Esquire and three candidates will receive the rank of Page. Plans are minde for initiation work at several of the meetings to follow as the lodge has shown a steady increase of membership during the past few weeks.

Following the meeting there was a social time and light refreshments were served by the social committee, Joseph Mackey, chairman.

AMERICAN LEGION

Robert G. Fletcher post, No. 4, moved on Friday from the Stead building to rooms in the Richards building at 99 Main street. They had been located in the Stead building for about a year and having a large social room which they had fitted up in an attractive way. The new place is in a convenient location and provides a pleasant room for meetings and the social gatherings of the Legion.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

Captain Robert B. Handy, Jr., Inspector-General of The Veterans of Foreign Wars, is marshalling his forces for the nationwide Poppy Drive to be conducted by the overseas veterans for Memorial Day. They have taken as their slogan, "A Poppy in Every Buttonhole on Memorial Day" and from present indications it would seem that this year's campaign will be a noteworthy one.

Last year the Veterans of Foreign Wars sold poppies in nearly every community in the United States and while a huge poppy wreath was being deposited on the Unknown Soldier's grave in Arlington Cemetery, Adjutant-General Reuel W. Elton placed a similar piece on the tomb of the French Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe.

Determined to obtain a bonus for former service men in Connecticut, State Commander John H. Williams, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has thrown every resource within his Departments into building up sentiment for the soldier measure. The various Posts throughout this state are combining their activities in publicity stunts to build up a strong sentiment for the bonus legislation.

OWLS.

Norwich Nest, No. 1396, met in regular session Tuesday evening at their hall on Main street with President John Wals in the chair. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted. Plans were also made for the next whist of the nest to be held in the near future.

EASTERN STAR.

Sachem chapter, No. 57, held its last meeting in Triple Link hall Tuesday evening with Worthy Matron Mrs. Louis Geer in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted and several candidates were initiated.

Announcement was made that meetings of the chapter in the future would be held in Odd Fellows' Hall, as the chapter has outgrown the Triple Link hall, also that owing to conflicting dates the regular meeting nights of the chapter would be changed to the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. The next meeting Wednesday evening, April 11th, would be held in the new quarters at which time there would be initiation, followed by a social and refreshments.

On Tuesday, April 10, the members are to meet at the home of Worthy Matron Mrs. Geer on Prospect street for a sewing bee, work to be done in preparation for a sale to be given by the chapter in the near future.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Norwich grange, No. 172, met Wednesday evening in Steiner hall with Worthy Master Mrs. John O. Peckham in the chair. Regular business was transacted and three new members were balloted upon and accepted.

The programme for the last two meetings has been in the nature of a contest between the thins (those weighing less than 100 pounds) and the thicks (those weighing 176 pounds or over) and many interesting side entertainments have resulted.

Mrs. Carl W. Brown acted as chairman Wednesday night and presented a very interesting programme of songs, talks, stunts, etc. Each member was called on to answer the question, "What do you wish you had Aura Benoit of Providence is visiting" and the answers were varied and some of entertaining nature. Rev. E. J. Ayer gave a very humorous discourse on "The Beauty Shop," and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be neighbors' night and grangers from Preston City and Ledyard will be guests of the local grange and also furnish a part of the entertainment.

ON EASTER TOUR WITH GODDARD GLEE CLUB

Paul Higgins and Frank Lamb, students at Goddard seminary, Barre, Vt., arrived in Norwich Friday evening to spend the Easter vacation at their homes here. Harold Higgins, Eugene Buckley, Herbert McNeely and Walter Hitchon, members of the Goddard Glee club will not arrive home until Tuesday as they are on a brief tour with the Glee club. The club appeared Friday evening at Randolph. This (Saturday) evening it is scheduled to appear in Boston. Monday evening the club will appear in another concert near Boston.

The New New Haven road carries daily 480,000 passengers in and out of the Grand Central station in New York, most of them commuters, and has the most dense passenger traffic between New Haven and New York of any railroad in the country in the same length.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN AUTO DERAILED TRAIN

Columbus, Ohio, March 30.—Seven persons were killed and nearly a score were injured today when a seven hundred ton big four Pullman train struck a three thousand pound automobile and was derailed in a grade crossing accident.

Running an hour late the heavy Pullman train en route from Boston and New York to Cincinnati was thrown from the rails by the sudden application of the brakes after the engine had plowed through the automobile at the extreme northern edge of Columbus.

The engine and four Pullman coaches toppled over, with the exception of the diner, which was the last car, all of the other cars in the heavy train left the track.

The dead are:

Mrs. Frank S. Hemminger, wife of a Columbus attorney, who was driving the automobile.

Robert Hemminger, aged 5, her son.

Dorothy Hemminger, aged 4, her daughter.

Joshua William Klee, of Cleveland fireman.

Earl Wilson, of Columbus, fireman.

Robert Henderson, negro, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The occupants of the automobile were instantly killed as were most of the others. Robert Henderson died in a hospital later.

That more were not killed was attributed to the fact that the Pullman coaches were of steel construction and did not crumple up despite the fact that their trucks were torn away and they were piled against the overturned locomotive.

Portions of the automobile and its occupants were carried for more than a block. One of the heavy steel coaches as flung over the adjoining tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, fifty feet away. One of the coaches came to a standstill ahead of the overturned engine.

Mayor John J. Thomas of Columbus personally directed the relief and rescue work. Every available ambulance and doctor responded to emergency calls.

F. B. Sheldon of Columbus, vice president of the Toledo and Ohio Central railroad who was reported killed at first, and then injured, suffered only from nervous shock.

LAW TO GOVERN ALL CLOCKS IN PUBLIC VIEW

An anti-daylight saving bill with teeth in it was approved by the judiciary committee in Hartford Thursday for submission to the house of representatives next Tuesday.

The wilful public display of clocks intentionally indicating any time other than eastern standard time would be made a violation of the law and punishable by a $100 fine or 10 days' imprisonment by passage of this bill, and the changing of either clocks or schedules in public offices to conform to daylight saving time would be prohibited.

The action of the judiciary committee conforms in effect to a recommendation in Governor Templeton's inaugural message advocating uniform adherence to standard time.

The standard time law adopted at the last session of the legislature and referred to in the bill now approved by the judiciary committee merely prohibited the use of any but standard time in departments of the state, municipalities and sub-divisions of the state and the enactment of ordinances or by-laws to the contrary. No penalty was provided, and the law was ignored in several cities.

Departments of the state and the courts kept their clocks on standard time but advanced their schedules by one hour. This practice is prohibited by the new bill. People in several cities got around the law by having the mayor issue a proclamation recommending the advancing of their clocks. Adoption of the present bill would probably have the effect of having the railroad leave the schedules of at least some of its trains unaltered for the convenience of Connecticut people, notwithstanding the observance of daylight time in Boston and New York.

Paid for Driving Without License

In the city court Friday morning a man from out of town appeared on a charge of intoxication and was fined $15.75. Having no money he was taken to jail to work out his bill.

Bronislaw Kosiowski, 19, appeared, charged with operating an automobile without a license and he paid Clerk Bailey $25.50. He was driving another man's car when he was arrested by Officer John Donovan.

GOOD EASTER DAY.

He is not here; for He is risen, as He said. Matthew xxviii: 6.

O Easter! Day of gladness!
O Day of days, the best!
O Day which banished sadness
For hearts by grief oppress!
Brightest of days, we hail thee
With glad, exultant song;
Loud hallelujahs raise we,—
A joyous, countless throng.

O Day of all most glorious!
Day of the Empty Tomb!
Day when our Lord, victorious,
The grave stripped of its gloom!—
We greet thee with rejoicing;
With smiles, where erst were tears!
Is glad humanities voicing
The joy of ransomed years.

O Day of hope eternal!
O joy which naught can pall!
O vision bright supernal!
By faith we now see all!
The Resurrection morning
Looms glorious to our view;
The wounded Brow adorning,
We bow in worship true.

O gladsome Day of glory!
O radiant Day of light!
No eye may pierce the mystery
Which made thy dawn so bright.
But with the hosts in Glory,
Our hymns, voices sing:
"O Grave! where is thy victory?
O Death! where is thy sting?"
—Jessie Wilson-Howell, in Boston Transcript.

AN EASTER PRAYER.

Lord, now that Spring is in the world,
And every tulip is a cup
Filled with the wine of Thy great love
Lift Thou me up.

Raise Thou my heart as flowers arise
To greet the glory of Thy day,
With cold as clean as lilies are
And white as they.

Let me not fear the darkness now,
Since Life and Light break through the Thy tomb;
Teach me that doubts no more oppress
No more consume.

Show me that Thou art Angel Lord,
And Thou the flowers and the grass;
Then, when awake the soft Spring winds,
I'll hear Thee pass!
—Charles Hanson Towne, in DeMeator.

NINE GERMANS KILLED AND 34 WOUNDED FOLLOWING ATTACK ON FRENCH TROOPS

French First Fired a Warning Volley Over the Workmen's Heads—Four Directors Have Been Arrested by the French Military Authorities for Inciting the Attack by German Workmen—One Member of a Party of Frenchmen Traveling Along the Rhine-Herne Canal Was Shot and Killed by the French Shore Patrol—The Boat Was Flying the German Flag.

Essen, April 2 (By the A. P.)—Four directors of the Krupp works were arrested by the French military authorities today on charges of inciting the attack of the German workmen on the troops Saturday which culminated in the killing of nine Germans and the wounding of thirty-four others.

The casualties occurred when a French lieutenant with eleven men went to the Krupp works to requisition motor trucks for the French army. There were only a few cars in the garage at the time, as it appears the Krupp authorities had a previous intimation that the requisitioning was about to be carried out, and removed some of them.

The directors arrested were Hartwig, Oesterm, Nunn and Hutter. They were taken into custody at their homes in Essen at 5 o'clock this morning. There has been no announcement made by the French as to when they will be tried.

The French declare that the sirens at the Krupp works were blown for more than two hours after the arrival of the French troops at the plant on Saturday.

This, they assert, tended to excite not only the Krupp workmen but the inhabitants of the surrounding district as well, and contend that the directors, even if they did not order the sirens blown, could have stopped them.

The funeral of the nine victims probably will be held Wednesday, with services for [illegible] the one time, unless the surviving relatives offer some objection. The Krupp works, by order of General Director Schaffer, will be closed until Wednesday, possibly longer if necessary, for the workmen to recover their composure.

Director Schaffer today disclaimed any responsibility by the directors for yesterday's trouble, declaring: "The sirens are always blown by the men themselves as a fire signal or when there is sign of danger of any kind."

He explained that the German version of the shooting was that the workmen had made no attempt to attack the troops, but stones and sticks, it is admitted, were thrown at the soldiers. Herr Schaeffer denied that the workmen had any arms, so far as he knew, or that the Germans used jets of scalding steam, as the French allege.

"The sirens were sounded as soon as the troops appeared," he continued, "and the 54,000 men of the plant quit work immediately and assembled in the yard and streets near the scene of the trouble. One of the first Germans to greet and talk with the French lieutenant in command of the detachment was Saunders, chairman of one of the workmen's councils. The soldiers at this time were already within the garage yard. Meanwhile, the workmen assembling near by were becoming excited, as they learned the French were actually in the yard.

"According to the information which has reached me, Saunders and the other chairmen of the workmen's councils urged the soldiers to go away, as there were only a few automobiles on hand. Saunders suggested that the troops leave by the rear entrance so as to avoid the crowd that jammed the street. Firing began soon afterward and Saunders was mortally wounded. He was one of the first to fall."

The Germans confirm the French assertion that the French soldiers fired a warning volley over the workmen's heads, but they contend also that there was no interval between the warning shots and the firing into the crowd. They say the troops merely lowered their rifles and continued shooting, to kill. A majority of the killed and wounded, according to Krupps, were young men of 19 to 25 years. One of the killed was an office boy 17 years of age.

The wounded were removed to the Krupps hospital, three dying overnight, bringing the total dead to nine. The surgeons said that most of the wounded were hit in the head and abdomen and that several others were likely to die. Count Von Bohlen, head of the Krupps, visited the hospital and talked with the men.

Essen is still without police since the security police were expelled. The firemen are doing a certain amount of police duty, as yesterday when they helped to quiet disturbances.

All the troops have been withdrawn from the vicinity of Krupps, and apparently quiet is restored. Essen had its usual Easter parade, and watched the football games despite predictions in the German newspapers of another "bloody Easter" such as occurred in the past during communist disorders.

The Ruhr is credited with many disorderly holidays. The Easter crowd today, however, was shocked to see a rope around the neck of the famous bronze statue of Bismarck, the anniversary of whose birth was today. The French sentries said they did not know how the rope got there, but they did not seem to mind it.

PREMIER POINCARE TALKED WITH FRANK B. NOYES

Paris, April 1 (By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare yesterday received Frank B. Noyes of Washington, president of The Associated Press, and subsequently authorized the following statement:

"I was glad to meet the president of The Associated Press, Mr. Noyes, whose sentiments with regard to France have long been known to me.

"After the long voyage he has made around the world, I am glad he has been able to spend some days in Paris and so be in a position personally to inform his countrymen on certain of the questions that seem most to preoccupy the American public.

"Efforts have been made to distort the reasons for and the nature of the policy followed by the French government when it decided to occupy the Ruhr basin. It is by virtue of the treaty of Versailles and in consequence of the defaults of Germany, certified by the reparations commission under this treaty, that we went into the Ruhr to bring about final settlement of the reparations problem.

"We regret that not all of our allies participated in this policy of coercion, which then would have been carried out under less difficult conditions and made the pressure upon recalcitrant Germany not only more effective but would have hastened results. But when the occupation of the Ruhr shall have resulted in compelling Germany to make precise serious propositions it will be in accord with our allies that we will settle the reparation problem.

"However, profiting by three years of experience, during which all means of persuasion have been employed vainly by the allies in efforts to inspire Germany with a will to pay her debts, we are thoroughly resolved not to relinquish in return for mere promises the guarantees that we have seized and not to evacuate the Ruhr except as payments are made to us and in proportion to them.

"It is not then selfish aims that we pursue in the Ruhr. It has been charged that we harbored thoughts of annexation or conquest in sending troops to the right bank of the Rhine. Long since these wild accusations, against which protest the consciences of all Frenchmen, who seek only their due and the reconstruction of their ruined property, have been disposed of. In this settlement we cannot accept any mediation between France and Germany, knowing only too well that any attempts at mediation would only aggravate and prolong the resistance of Germany. Only direct official propositions from Germany can be taken into consideration.

"I have, moreover, noticed with the greatest satisfaction in the American press increasing evidences of sympathy for the energetic actions we have been obliged to take. It seems to me that I have proof that the American people, guided by that lucid intelligence which so happily inspired their policy during the war, and feeling for France that touching affection that will not be effaced from their hearts, understand our action better day by day.

"I have the firmest confidence in success, in spite of the provocation to which the nationalist party and the magnates have recourse, when they see the failure of the policy of violence to which they have tried vainly rally the mass of the Ruhr population.

"Again a grave incident has occurred at Essen, where a French detachment, surrounded and menaced by a hostile crowd, had to use their arms. The responsibility for the blood spilled will rest upon those who tirelessly pursue their acts of incitement in the hope of producing clashes between our troops and the working population.

"Nothing will divert France from her determined course. She will continue on with the same patience, the same calmness, until the collapse of German resistance."

GERMAN FOREIGN MINISTER FAVORS HUGHES' PROPOSAL

Berlin, April 1 (By the A. P.)—Reiteration of his endorsement of the proposal of Secretary of State Hughes for a settlement of the reparations problem, as outlined by Mr. Hughes in his speech at New Haven in December, is given today by Foreign Minister Von Rosenberg in a statement in the Boersen Courier.

The foreign minister declares that he gladly would welcome the creation of such an international commission as was suggested by Mr. Hughes, but that it would have to be removed from political atmosphere and established on the knowledge of economic fact. "It also certainly would have to take psychological factors into consideration and include within itself guarantees for practical operation," says the statement.

The opinion is expressed by the foreign minister, however, that the plan would encounter insurmountable difficulties as long as France treated the reparations problem as a political issue. He opposes the proposal launched in England for demilitarizing and internationalizing the Rhineland. Such "a Macedonianizing" of territory would only produce new germs of conflict, he asserts.

"The German people and its government," says Baron Von Rosenberg, "are ready for a policy of agreement with France, but will not lend a hand to a policy which leaves German territory in the lurch, sacrifices German sovereignty and puts unfulfillable obligations upon us."

The foreign minister declares Germany's defensive campaign of passive resistance can and will be continued as long as "Poincare demands the sacrifice of our aims and subjugation."

FOUR FRENCHMEN KILLED IN FREIGHT TRAIN WRECK

Buer, Germany, April 1 (By the A. P.).—Four Frenchmen were killed and three Frenchmen and one German injured today when a freight train loaded with coal went over an embankment at Schifferstadt while on the way from Lautersburg to Ludwinshafen, according to reports received here from Mannheim.

It is said that the train took the wrong switch and ran over a bulkhead and tumbled down the embankment. Two engines, which were drawing the train, and a baggage car also were wrecked.

The material damage is declared to have been considerable.

France Modernizing Six Capital Ships

Paris, April 1 (By the A. P.)—France is spending 51,000,000 francs in modernizing her six capital ships under the government's interpretation of the Washington naval accords. At the request of The Associated Press, the minister of marine, Flaminius Raiberti, today explained at length precisely what is being done.

"You ask me two questions," said the, "one relative to the changes in old ships, and the other about ratification of the Washington naval treaties.

"The first subject is dealt with in the first paragraph of Section one of the third part of the Washington treaty upon the limitation of naval armaments. This paragraph authorizes the contracting powers to increase the defensive power of their ships against submarine and aerial attacks by additional lateral caissons and protecting bridges, provided the tonnage is not increased more than 3,000 tons.

"As to artillery, the treaty forbids any change in the number, calibre and general type of mounting of the units of principal armament. However, recognizing the special situation of France, which possesses only old units—as she ceased to construct since the war—she is authorized, as in Italy, to increase the calibre of the guns of her battleships, provided the calibre does not exceed sixteen inches.

"France has conformed strictly to these provisions, even before ratifying the treaty. The only modification of her armament she contemplates is that which consists in increasing the angle of elevation of the guns on all her battleships, thereby increasing their range, and modernizing firing methods.

"I come to the second question. The government has asked parliament to ratify the Washington accords. If ratification of these treaties has not yet been effected, despite the government's efforts, the reasons therefor can be found in the development of the budget debate, which has occupied the greatest part of the chamber's time; to the large number of interpellations, to discussion of urgent measures of general interest, such as the rent law, and finally to the serious illness of the eminent reporter of the naval treaty, the Honorable M. Guernier.

"He fortunately is restored to good health now, and the government expects to ask that discussion of the Washington accords be put on the program of the chamber as soon as the foreign affairs commission submits its report when parliament reconvenes after the Easter vacation.

"The French delegates to the [illegible] nations have been instructed by the government to support the plan to extend the Washington naval accords to the non-signatory powers.

"We have maintained, as I just explained, our 1916 modernization program in spite of the much greater freedom allowed us under the treaty. But the most certain proof we have given of our intention to ratify the Washington treaty was the filing of the bill for France's naval program in the chamber on March 8.

"This measure is intended to replace the law of 1921, which is still in effect and which would have given us, if the war had not interfered, twenty-eight battleships, twenty cruisers fifty torpedo boats and ninety-four submarines.

"Intended to comply with the necessities of the present time, this bill has been drawn within the limits of the Washington accords, ratification of which it contemplates and whose provisions it applies in advance. As compared with the law of 1912 and the fleet existing in 1914 it makes considerable programs in the reduction of naval armaments.

"The preamble of this bill takes care to set out that, unless absolutely compelled by circumstances, we do not intend to avail ourselves of the freedom to begin replacement of our battlefleet in 1927.

"Americans, then, can see that the French government's only wish is to obtain as soon as possible parliament's approval of the Washington accords, and thus giving striking evidence of its appreciation of the lofty peace ideals that inspired the government of the United States when it took the initiative of summoning the conference that led to these accords.

"France has gone as far as she can in the limitation of her naval power. She could not go further without giving up having a navy, and she could not give up having a navy without condemning herself to die, for France is no longer the little bit of Europe made illustrious by the glory of many centuries and whose soil was recently sanctified by the sacrifice of so many American soldiers who fell by the side of ours for the world's liberty.

"Beyond the seas there has been born a new France. This new France covers an immense stretch of territory in Asia and Africa.

"But France, to show her pacific sentiments, wishes to have only such a navy as is strictly needed; that is why she has shown such great moderation in her naval program, and it is also why she is getting ready to ratify the Washington accords and associate herself with the great work of the American government and statesmen."

The 51,000,000 francs estimated for the modernization of the French capital ships, it is learned, from the technical bureaus of the ministry, is based on the cost of the work just completed on the Bretagne and Lorraine, which approximates 8,500,000 francs each. The same amount is expected to be necessary to modernize the two vessels now being changed and the last two to be improved later.

The French naval authorities direct attention to the fact that the naval budget is really about half that before the war, as the 1923 budget calls for 1,020,000,000 paper francs as compared with 641,000,000 gold francs for 1914.

Pneumonia Threatens To Exterminate Family

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, April 1.—Pneumonia with influenza in a virulent form caused the deaths of three member of the Larkin family of East Killingly at the week end, and on Sunday two remaining members of the family were hovering between life and death. Miss Mary M. Larkin, 30, the first member of the family to die, passed away Friday evening. She was the last of all the member of the household to become ill after having cared for her father, her sister and her two brothers. Saturday morning at 2.45, the father, Gilbert Larkin, 66, died and at 6.05 Saturday morning Miss Ethel Larkin, 29, passed away. The two brothers, Byron and Cromwell, were reported Sunday afternoon in a slightly more favorable condition, though it was believed there was little hope for them during Saturday.

The bodies of the three dead have been removed from the home and placed in the receiving vault at Bartlett cemetery at East Killingly. Services for them are to be held later, Undertaker A. F. Wood said Sunday afternoon.

The deaths and remaining cases of illness in the Larkin family are regarded as little less than a tragedy and all the people of the territory about East Killingly have been shocked by the happening. Those who died were ill only a comparatively short time. There has been a great deal of illness about East Killingly the past few weeks, but no such disaster as has been visited upon the Larkin family has been experienced.

Mr. Larkin was a native of Richmond, R. I., and would have been 66 years of age April 15. Miss Ethel Larkin also was born in Richmond. The family occupy a farm place about two miles north of East Killingly.

AT LEAST NINE DEATHS IN TOWER COLLAPSE, HARTFORD

Hartford, April 1.—Although there were six investigations of the collapse of the tower of the new plant of the Fuller Brush company here Saturday resulting in at least nine deaths, apparently little progress has been made toward determining the cause of the disaster.

Frederick W. Barrett, building supervisor of Hartford, started his investigation this afternoon. He has engaged A. S. Lynch, of New Haven, secretary of the democratic state central committee, as consulting architect. Other investigations are being conducted by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello, the R. G. Bent company, contractors in charge of the construction of the tower, and Buck and Sheldon, architects of the tower.

The sixth investigation by the Fuller Brush company was undertaken in detail today. President A. G. Fuller and other officials of the company held a conference this afternoon with Stewart N. Dunning, lawyer for the company, and instructed him to ascertain whether the building had been turned over to the Fuller Brush company or was still in the hands of the contractors. Mr. Fuller said that if the building had been turned over to his company there would be a thorough investigation, but otherwise the company would simply co-operate with the other investigators.

The theory which found most support yesterday among contractors was that one of the four supporters of the 200 ton tank had buckled causing the tank to tip and then fall through the four stories. Other theorists say that the seams of the tank were started, causing a flood from one side and the consequent collapse and that frost in the concrete, due to the erection of the building in cold weather were responsible for the disaster.

The battered bodies of James Bent, superintendent of the R. G. Bent company and of Robert Clark, tile-setter, were extricated from the mass of masonry about noon. With the recovery of these bodies the list of known dead increased to seven, and the bodies of Peter Normande and Max Neiger, both employes of the Standard Structural Steel company, were still believed to be in the ruins.

Although workmen toiled ceaselessly throughout the day, no trace of the other bodies could be found. The battered tank was cut into many parts with oxyacetylene torches and the greater part of it removed, but at 11 o'clock no trace of the bodies could be found.

SEC'Y DAVIS PREDICTS A LONG ERA OF PROSPERITY

Washington, April 1.—In a comparison of present industrial conditions with those which existed on April 1 a year ago, Secretary Davis predicted today that, with the exercise of ordinary caution the country should have "a continued period of substantial prosperity that will put behind us the whole era of depression which followed the war.

The labor secretary also predicted that with the accumulating of coal stocks during the coming summer there would not only be an abundant coal supply for all needs next fall and winter but a "more normal" market price as compared with the past winter.

SAYS RAILROAD POLICY OF THE GOV'T IS CONFISCATORY

President Rea of the Pennsylvania Railroad Declares That Since 1908 the Road Has Been Allowed Only About 4 Per Cent. Per Annum on Its Investment—States Railroads Desire Freedom, Under Reasonable Regulation, to Create a Margin of Credit That Will Guarantee New Capital for Greater and Better Public Service.

New York, April 1.—Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, asserts in his annual report to stockholders, made public tonight, that the government's railroad regulatory police "which since 1908 has allowed a return upon the railroad investment averaging only about 4 per cent. per annum for this fifteen year period, is not regulation, but confiscation of the investment."

"It is also, in substance," he adds, "a slow but sure confiscation of the business of the country because it has resulted in congestion of traffic in prosperous periods, on account of insufficient transportation facilities."

The income statement of the road shows net income last year of $32,383,058, an increase of $8,074,393 over 1921. The net railway operating income was $78,405,327, or $36,247,993 more than that of the previous year. While this was described by Mr. Rea as a notable improvement over 1921, the net railway operating income, he explained, is far from being adequate in view of the transportation demands for greater service

"It is expected that in 1923 the railroads will earn something approaching a fair return on the investment," the statement said, "provided there is no marked recession in business or rates, and no labor disturbances to interrupt the transportation service. If the outlook did not appear more favorable than in past years, it is difficult to see how the railroads could any longer delay appealing to the courts for the equitable protection of the railroad investment which the regulatory bodies have so long neglected. The railroads do not plead for appropriations of government monies, nor for any government guarantee; they ask only for the freedom, under reasonable regulation, to so operate their properties that they can earn from remunerative rates a fair return upon their investment by rendering a greater and better public service, and thereby create such a margin of credit as will guarantee the rising of the new capital urgently required to correctly expand and improve that service."

The report shows that freight revenue in 1923 was $34,217,349 larger than the year before, while the passenger revenue decreased by $7,641,650. The total non-operating income was $29,093,153, a decrease of $8,943,214.

ABOUT FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL INTERESTS

New York, April 1.—(By The A. P.)—Perhaps the chief subject of interest in financial and commercial quarters during the past week was the bi-yearly meeting of the federal reserve board with the governors of the several regional banks.

Due to rumors of impending advances in discount rates, which have been in circulation for a number of weeks, it was thought that the board might arrive at and announce a policy at this meting. On this basis a considerable volume of selling appeared in the chief speculative markets, cotton receding about 3 cents from the recent high and stocks and bonds displaying a distinctively reactionary tone. A tendency toward caution was apparent on all sides.

Actually, the meeting developed little that was definite with regard to the federal reserve policy. On Tuesday a statement was given out declaring that there was no basis for any rumors with regard to the board's intentions, while at the close of the conference on Thursday another statement rather emphasized the usual nature of the discussions and made no reference to a rate policy.

It was considered in most quarters that the events of the week indicated no immediate change in official rates and the markets steadied on this basis. They did not, however, display any particular tendency to rally and lapsed into dullness.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WESTERN UNION CO.

New York, April 1.—American enterprise is checked and international communication retarded under the operation of the Kellogg act, Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, declared in submitting the annual report of the corporation for 1922.

The report discloses net income of $13,158,180, after deducting all operating expenses, including interest on outstanding bonds amounting to $6,306,850 and $1,632,564 as employes' income participating. This is comparable to net income in 1921 of $9,613,806.

The gross operating revenue of $105,447,748 and an increase of $1,292,625 or 1.2 per cent. over 1921, the report showing land line revenues during the first half year were 2.2 per cent. less than for the corresponding period the previous year, and 9.5 per cent. greater during the last six months than during the comparative period of 1921.

There was a decline in ocean cable revenues, due, President Newcomb Carlton states, to the condition of foreign commerce and the effect of wireless competition at low rates. Total operating expenses were reduced $2,307,808.

The sum of $2,00,000 was appropriated during the year for ocean cable development work and the balance of net income amounting to $11,157,180 was transferred to the surplus account, from which dividends of $6,982,694.25 were paid. The surplus account on December 31, 1922 was $46,854,537.

RUM RUNNING SHIPS OFF BLOCK ISLAND

Block Island, R. I., April 1.—Rum running ships were again sighted this afternoon and it is believed that they were preparing to make an attempt to smuggle liquor ashore after nightfall, when conditions for such operations were favorable for the first time since the raid on the alleged bootleggers' headquarters on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, threw into the limelight the activities of the rum fleet.

Aware that the smugglers would probably seize the opportunity to attempt to get rid of their cargoes, government prohibition agents who have been guarding Rhode Island coast points against excursions of small craft, kept an extra sharp lookout tonight. The sea was calm and the light of the full moon was sufficient for easy navigation. Gales Friday and Saturday made smuggling operations impossible in the vicinity.

The Aventown, alleged mother ship of a rum fleet, was reported seen about five miles off Coast's Ledge, where she was also noticed Saturday afternoon and Friday morning.

The police will continue to search for the body tomorrow morning.

WORK OF THE NATIONAL RADIO CONFERENCE

Washington, April 1.—Recommendations of the recent National Radio conference for re-allocations of ether wave lengths as a means of reducing interference will be sought with certain slight modifications by the commerce department, Secretary Hoover announced today, but will be put into effect gradually.

Broadcasting stations will be given time to adjust equipment to their wave length assignment and no station will be forced to cease use of the present 360 meter band unless it so desires. The conference concluded its sessions 10 days ago, and its report has been in the hands of Mr. Hoover for study since.

"The recommendations by the Radio conference represent a step in ideal development of measure for the prevention of interference in public broadcasting," Mr. Hoover's statement declared.

"The report recommends making available all wave lengths from 222 to 545 meters for public broadcasting, the various possible bands to be assigned to different stations so as not only to reduce direct interference but also to build up zone regions of distribution."

Two weeks ago a beautiful white flower bloomed in the open, near Frank L. Ray's home on South Main street. With its three snowy petals, and a yellowish round center, it showed a striking resemblance to anemones. A florist said it might be anemonella. In celebrating of E. F. Hutchison's policy De Graves of New London to which Mr. Hutchison sent a specimen, declared the flower to be the old fashioned cultivated snowdrop. It is believed that Mrs. H. C. Fellowes state see planted the bulbs, which even the rigors of the present spring, could not prevent from blooming at the accustomed time and place.

No record of recent date, tale of March temperatures as low as were variously reported Sunday morning when the mercury dropped to 8 and 10 degrees above zero.

The day was fair with bright sun and a clear sky. Easter hats of wonderful fashion and of gorgeous hues, were the pride of the pasturers. One was pleasantly reminded of "Solomon in all his glory. Yes, it was cold, that the dainty fruit display, with artistic adherence true to nature's form, were unchanged from frost. When it came to handsome bonnets with wearer to match, there was never need to leave the town.

JEWETT CITY FIREMEN FIGHT HARD BLAZE

Jewett City, April 1.—Station 21, called the company at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, for a fire in the Shea Bros. coal sheds with a double garage attached, on South Main street.

When the firemen arrived the building was a blazing furnace with the flames leaping fifty feet into the air. The mercury stood but little above zero, and with a 25-mile gale blowing from the north, Chief Wakeley and his men faced a mighty stiff proposition.

There seemed at first not the slightest chance to save the big two-story house owned by Shea Bros. or the Old Black building owned by W. O. Bodge. The firemen ran their hose line across the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad tracks. The southbound trolley was held up a half an hour. A systematic and determined attack was made from all sides, with the finest awards as the result of the fire fighters' skill. One catastrophe belonging to Joseph Rook was saved, the other owned by Mrs. Medbury was destroyed. The building is a wreck.

Shea Bros.' loss contained practically no coal. Seven hundred dollars will cover the combined losses, partially insured.

Train 771 on the New Haven road had just gone south, twenty minutes before the alarm was sounded from the railroad. It is believed that sparks from the locomotive are responsible for the blaze.

No fireman ever fought a blaze in such intense cold with April 1 less than three hours away. Half the town was there, but they faded when it was seen that "the boys were going to get it."

It was next to impossible to face the gale more than a minute or two, that howled down the tracks, without danger to noses and ears.

When the truck came through Post Office square on the recall, someone shouted, "Hats off, everybody." It was well said. Another man remarked "The fire that gets away from Wakeley and his bunch will be going some."

Paige-Timken axles front and rear. Ball-bearing steering spindles. Springs 60% of the wheel base. Paige-type clutch and transmission prevent motor stalling; gear changing is so easy you can drop from high to second at 30 miles an hour. If you want the best car $1065 ever bought now is the time to buy.

Our Ideal Paige—long the Most Beautiful Car in America—is now more beautiful and enduring than ever. Richness you can see and feel—not a piece of imitation leather in the entire car. The body made proof against squeaks and rattles by double strips of patent leather which prevent metal touching metal or wood.

The Paige 6-70 motor with silent timing chain and high-pressure oiling system possesses [illegible] which will endure—power that will not [illegible]. With [illegible] more than [illegible] front and rear, [illegible] new [illegible] sides and drives as no car ever could before.

Paige is equipped with two extra cord tires, two bumpers, shock absorbers, gasoline gauge on dash, motometer, automatic windshield wiper—everything you could think of. By far the finest car Paige ever produced, and fully equipped it costs only $2450.

SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP GAME RESULTS IN EXTRA-PERIOD

Harrison, N. J., April 1.—The Paterson (N. J.) Football club and Scullin Steel eleven of St. Louis, Mo., national soccer champions, fought a 2-2 extra period tie in a game for the soccer championship here today. Neither team scored.

The Paterson team took a fast pace in the early play with short combination, Duggan broke through the defense repeatedly but was unable to score. Scullin was the first to score, however, Brannigan, inside left, getting the ball through Paterson's goal on a pass from the wing. Scullin led at half-time, 1 to 0.

Soon after the re-start Scullin again rallied when Center Forward Schwartz ran through the field and booted the ball past the Paterson goal tender.

Duggan, outside right, scored Paterson's first goal on a shot from the wing after Paterson's forward line brought the ball past the defense. Duggan equalized for Paterson when he headed the ball in on a kick by Herd a few minutes before the end of the second half.

The 15-minute extra periods were called for and although both teams played hard, nothing materialized.

No decision was reached by the officials as to the date and place for the replay. J. P. Stark of Detroit was referee.

"FISH MAKE BRAINS—ALSO LIARS"

XOPHIME WINS FRENCH TURF CLASSIC AND PURSE OF 90,000 FRANCS

Paris, April 1 (By the A. P.)—Xophime today won the President De La Republique stakes, known as the Grand National steeplechase, at the Auteuil race course. Master Bob was second and Barker third.

The winner paid 18 to 1 in the parimutuels betting, Master Bob was 2 1-2 to 1 to place, and Barker 3 1-2 to 1 to show.

The "Tutenkhamun hat" and the "glove shoe" made their appearance at the track for the first big racing feature of the year. The running of the President De La Republique stakes, from the viewpoint of fashion, has always been regarded as the first move in the dressmakers' offensive in launching their new spring styles.

The "Tutenkhamun" hat is a bonnet-shaped headgear of medium size, between the large picture hat and the skull-fitting toque. In it the Egyptian colors, blue and rose or blue and gold, predominate. The hat has a brim varying from an inch and a half to two inches wide, turned down to an angle of 45 degrees. Straw, cloth and felt are the materials used, and a thin garland of multi-colored flowers is its only trimming. A few toques were noticed in the assemblage, but the large hat by reason of its absence seems to have been doomed.

The shoes, in the manufacture of which hard leather practically has disappeared, were another innovation of the opening of the 1923 spring season. The vamp is made of soft chamois or very thin leather, and the shoes can be put on like gloves. The sole consists of a thin flexible leather which appears to bend and stretch like a moccasin. The heel is made of wood, covered with enameled cloth or hard leather. This is the only part of the shoe in which hard leather is used and is the only solid part of the new footwear.

It was noted that many of the women wearing the glove-like shoe remained on the lawn or in the stand, as the pebbles surrounding the betting ring and the paddock seemed to hurt their feet. It was a dark, chill day and the new styles in frocks, if there were any, were hidden beneath furs. Four models, however, displayed gold and silver-embroidered skirts of rather full effect, marking a pronounced reversion to the panier type.

President Millerand was unable to be present for the running of the race. Sixteen horses finished out of twenty-one starters. The race was run true to form and to the handicapping. The light-weighted Xophime, with 134 pounds up, kept off the early pace. He moved up at the 4,000 meters, however, and took the last jump in the company with Master Bob and Barker carrying respectively 151 and 160 pounds. Xophime drew away on the flat and won easily while Master Bob and Barker fought it out neck and neck to the finish.

Heros XII, winner of the race in 1921 and 1922, ran gamely under his impost of 178 pounds, but was unable to finish better than fifth.

The race, which was at 4,500 meters, was worth 90,000 francs to the winner.

Training Camp Talks

by STONEY McLINN

(Special to The Bulletin)

Montgomery, Ala., April 2.—Connie Mack will present to the baseball public of 1923 a real ball club—a ball club that will be in the pennant quarrel from beginning to end. No longer may the boys who like their little joke find a ready source for puns and witticisms in the Ath-a-letics. Philadelphia's American League entry may not win the pennant, but the club that does win it will have cause to remember some unpleasant afternoon which found Mack's laddie bucks as the opponents.

Not unlike several other big league clubs, the Athletics have become a factor in the flag chase because they spent money for a third baseman Sammy Hale, the lad who was purchased is the sort of a pastimer who adds strength, moral as well as physical, to any club to which he may be attached. But it is something more than an acquisition of a top-notch third baseman which has started old fires of hope and enthusiasm burning in the Mack camp.

Hale Has Delivered

Sammy Hale, the new third baseman, has made good. More than that, he has surprised and delighted even his warmest boosters by his play at the Montgomery camp. Sammy's hands got him a lot of unfavorable publicity in the winter months after the Athletics had purchased him for a sum said to be $75,000 in cash and players. The boys who declared that they knew six or a dozen things informed us that Ty Cobb had shuffled Hale along to the Pacific coast because his fins were so tiny from a baseball point of view, that he never would do a good job defensively at the hot corner.

That was the bunk, friends. Cobb does not admit he ever made this statement regarding Hale. But that matters not— Hale was the one to bury the small hands bunk in the fiery furnace, and he did this thing by giving the onlookers at Montgomery a fielding exhibition which was entirely satisfactory to everybody concerned. One would not be so bold as to announce that Hale will become a second Jimmy Collins as a fielding third-sacker. But he gets 'em just the same, has a remarkably strong throwing arm and has won himself a place in Mack's infield from which will not be dislodged for many moons, unless we miss our guess.

On the attack—well, that's another thing again. It has been many a long day since a youth entered the Mack b. b. family possessed of so much natural ability to hit 'em hard and far, as well as run the bases with speed and intelligence. Sammy Hale will win lots of ball games for the Athletics with the bat; and it is not likely that such an earnest and aggressive worker will lose many because his hands are small.

Infield Is Strong

Joe Hauser at first, Jimmy Dykes at second and Chick Galloway at shortstop are the other members of the Mack regular quartet. Galloway and Hauser both hit in the select class last season—Chick bumped the apple for a .324 percentage; Joe batted .322. Dykes is a cunning man on the attack and makes his hits count. And the entire infield is so fast in getting where they are going that this more than makes up for any below .300 hitting one of them may do.

The Athletics have two efficient utility infielders in Harry Riconda and Heine Scheer. Indeed, Riconda has shown so much stuff, both at bat and in the field in the spring workouts, that it is not going to be an easy matter to keep him on the bench. He came from New Haven in the Eastern League, where he batted .335. Scheer was a weakling at the bat in the few chances he had to his last year, but he is improving and sure is a neat fielder.

Bing Miller is the one outfielder who is certain to play every day he is fit. In the best of health and spirits—which he was not in for a part of the 1922 season—Bing is likely to better his last season's hit mark of .336, and also may slam more homers than he did in 1922, which found him with a total of 21.

After Miller, it is a question. We have an idea that Wid Mathews, the fleet-footed gardener who batted .333 for Milwaukee of the A. A. last campaign, will be a regular in the green pasture at Shibe Park. That boy is so full of fight and spirit, and bats so consistently and gracefully, that it does not seem possible he can sit on the bench very much of the time. Miller is a right handed hitter; Mathews a left.

Tilly Walker, who swatted 37 home runs in 1922 and who was not far below the 300 line, is a good man on the attack. Then there is Welsh, another man who clouts the sphere much more successfully than his average shows. They are right-handed hitters. McGowan, who was with the A's last year and who hit fairly well, and French, the former West Point athlete, are the other outfield candidates. The last pair bat left-handed.

Perkins Classy Backstop

Si Perkins is all that could be asked in the way of a catcher for Connie Mack's new machine. He is wise, aggressive and fast. Bruggy, with the A's last season, and Rowland, from the Rocky Mountain club in North Carolina, probably will be Si's aides. Then there is Hartman, a peppy young collegian.

And that brings us to the pitchers. Off-hand, one would say that Connie Mack has just one experienced pitcher, of real class—Edward Rommell, knuckle ball shooter, who led the big leagues in victories last season, willing 27 and losing 18. Eddie is the hardest worker at the Montgomery H. Q. this spring, has more stuff than ever before and should come through with an exceptionally brilliant performance in 1923.

However, now that Connie has an up-and-at-'em club, several other hurlers are showing refurnished goods and ambition, chief among these being the lengthy lads, Slim Harris and Bob Hasty. Harris, six feet six inches higher than the clipped grass blades, is in good condition and tryouts in the South have been pleasing to his boss. Hasty, just three inches below Harris, which makes him six feet three, always had as much stuff as any big league hurler. This spring he has been getting it over—the A's tell us it is going to be a "Hasty year."

Then there is Ogden, the former Swarthmore college athlete, who looked so good in his few starts last fall and who may be said to be the Athletics' big hope" for 1923; Naylor, who had all sorts of hard luck last year, but who is pleasing the Mack board of strategy at the Alabama camp; Shilling, whose fast ball is the fastest in this or any other league, and O'Neill, who was sent to Augusta of the South Atlantic, last campaign, where he won seventeen and lost ten. All these are right-handers.

Walter Kinsay, the 190-pound southpaw, who was reinstated by Judge Landis after three seasons outside organized baseball, kept his pitching arm in trip during his suspension and the indications are that he will give the Athletics what they have needed—a winning left-hander. Fred Heimach, who was with the club in 1922, has developed a change of pace and is a much improved portsider this spring. Johnnny Jones, from Coatesvill, Pa., is the third hurler, who employs the left.

Walter T. "Whitey" Oberg, the heaviest hitter on the Springfield team last year, has broken his silence and informed his club that he will be among those present next week. He batted .322 last season and led the league in two-baggers. He also clouted out thirteen home-runs. Oberg will bring his contract with him.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Visit From the Old Gentleman Rabbit.

Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot, the old gentleman rabbit, sat all alone in his little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, Rabbitville, U. S. A. His nephew, Little Jack Rabbit had gone home to the Old Bramble Patch and little Miss Mousie had gone out for a walk, so you see, the old gentleman rabbit was quite alone.

"Oh, dear me!" sighed Uncle Lucky, "the house seems dreadful lonely since Little Jack Rabbit's gone," and he sighed again and hopped into the sitting room and got out the old family album, and when he had turned over the leaves forty 'leven times, he came to a picture of a lovely lady bunny

A picture of a lovely lady bunny.

Just then, a little voice from the treetops began to sing:

"Little Jack Rabbit has gone away
The Grandfather clock goes tickerty tock;
The key is turned in the back door lock,
And the sunshine gleams on the kitchen floor,
But, not so bright as in days of yore."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Lucky again and he hopped over to the telephone.

"One, two, three, Old Bramble Patch; ring Happy Bell, shouted the old gentleman rabbit, and pretty soon he heard Little Jack Rabbit say, "Hello, who is it?"

"It's your lonely old uncle. I'm coming over in the Luckymobile," and banging up the receiver, he hopped out to the garage and into the Luckymobile before you could say, "Winky Pinky."

Well, pretty soon, he came to the Shady Forest where the first flowers of Spring were peeping up through the leaves and the birds were calling to each other:

"Here's a nest for you and me,
Tell me, which one shall it be?
Here's the one we had last year
In the Oak Tree over here,
If you think it will not do,
We will build one nice and new."

Just then, Professor Crow came by with his little black book under his right wing. "Let me tell you what to do," he said, and putting on his spectacles, he turned to page 8:

"Build a new nest every Spring,
Don't be lazy—work and sing."

No sooner had he finished than all the little birds set to work to make new homes for themselves, except maybe a few who were too lazy to do anything but watch other people work.

After that, the old black bird flew away and Uncle Lucky tooted his horn and pretty soon he came to the Old Bramble Patch and in the next story you shall hear what the dear old gentleman rabbits said to Litt'e Jack Rabbit.

Gloria Swanson at the Strand.

No more curly or wavy hair; such is Gloria Swanson's decree.

This radical dictum, coming from the Paramount star who is recognized as one of the best dressed women of the screen, is another thrust at the flapper-like styles which have predominated for so long a time.

The general trend in new fashions has been towards the severe. The baby doll style of dress has given way to the more classic, dignified lines. The high waist-line has dropped to the hips, or been obliterated altogether; the short skirt has been replaced by the ankle length gown; bobbed hair has become suddenly passe.

But Miss Swanson now carries the reaction one step further and takes the curl out of her hair. The curling iron and the waver have been laid on the shelf, so far as she is concerned—temporarily at least, and for her characterization of the American girl in My American Wife, her latest starring vehicle, coming to the Strand theatre today, she leaves her hair absolutely straight when dressing it into the various coiffures.

Those who have seen the new hairdresses which she wears in this picture, declare them stunning. The new coiffures are original, being worked out by Miss Swanson and Hattie, the studio hairdresser. One in particular, which is especially striking, is known as "the Turban." It is made with the aid of a jet and brilliant hair ornament the straight roll of hair being brought around her head in a sort of turban roll.

An Al St. John comedy, Ship Ahoy and an up-to-date news comedies this fine program.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Banner Program at the Broadway Theatre.

For an Easter treat the management of the Broadway theatre has arranged for the first half of the week an excellent program of B. F. Keith vaudeville and pictures. This also being the National Vaudeville Artists Week a treat is assured.

The feature attraction is Reiley, Feney & Reiley in "Three Reasons For Fun and Melody."

Howard & Earle will entertain with a singing and dancing novelty.

Swan & Farrell are comedians of merit.

The Lutes Bros. close the bill with a novel offering. Clare A. Lutes is called the Wizard of the Feet and a surprise is assured for all who witness him perform.

Under Two Flags, the Universal-Jewel film version of Ouida's immortal tale of undying love, which held the stage of the world for many years in a dramatized version of the novel, presents one of the great stories of all times through the superior medium of the screen. It comes to the Broadway theatre today.

Supporting Miss Dean are such stellar artists as James Kirkwood, John Davidson, Ethel Grey Terry, Stuart Holmes, Fred Cavens, W. H. Bainbridge, Burton Law and Bobby Mack.

In the production of the picture Universal allowed Tod Browning unlimited scope. Even Foolish Wives had scarcely better sets and scenic effects. The gamut of Algerian architecture is run, from narrow alleys to barracks and boudoirs of Oriental splendor.

A wonderful program, so don't miss it.

Breed Theatre.

"The strength of a nation has always been in the beauty of its women and civilization never would have been advanced so remarkably had there been no such beauty to wield such potential influence."

This is the unqualified statement of Enid Bennett, who appears in the role of the Maid Marian opposite Douglas Fairbanks in his elaborate screen version of Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, a United Artists release now showing at the Breed theatre. In the course of the unfolding of the romantic drama abounding in this cinema classic, Miss Bennett's characterization proves to be a series of charming activities. So charms Robin Hood to such an extent as to inspire him to perform great deeds of valor and to prove himself an unerring exponent of the highest form of chivalry, a manly element which predominated in England during the Twelfth century as it never has since.

"Egypt, Greece and Rome, each in turn, ruled the world and it was in these countries that physical pulchritude reached its highest standards of the times," Miss Bennett continues. "Later came France and England as rulers of the world. Each of these nations was proud of its beautiful women, and, then as now, the greatest strides in the progress of civilization have been taken in the interest of women."

According to history it is incontrovertible that in medieval times, such as the period on which "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" is based, royalty maintained men-at-arms and encouraged knighthood for the sake of their ladies. There are plenty of instances in authorized annals wherein men have died for the smiles of women and nations have warred for possession of some of them.

"Beauty always has been the greatest strength of the so-called weaker sex and has been more potent than steel of fire," Miss Bennett adds. "Nations looking upon women as chattels have failed to advance. India, China, Africa and Arabia all look down on women and they are the weakest governments in the world today. The present Russian administration probably is suffering most because of its failure to give women a proper place in the sun of wholesome activity.

"All women do not meet the requirements of physical standards set by artists and sculptors, but there is beauty in every woman and there is always somewhere a pair of masculine eyes to detect it and a heart to respond to it. The women of today are the women of yesterday—only their dress is different. Their method of dominating man is the same and their influence ever advancing civilization is undying."

Two shows daily at 2.30 and 7.30 p. m.

BRUSH AND FOREST FIRES.

Brush fires have already issued their own warning. The wind of the past few days has been just the kind to fan any spark or small bonfire that gets out of control into a fast spreading line of fire that makes it impossible for the individual to check it and it endangers very quickly any buildings or other property that may be within burning range.

This is the season of the year when much trouble can be anticipated from just such fires. Miscalculation may play its part but it never scores as heavily as carelessness.

Even though there have been plenty of instances in other springs and falls, to show how destructive the thoughtless dropping of a match, or the starting of small fires may be, each season seems to produce a large number of those unacquainted with the importance of exercising care and foresight.

Timely is the action of the state forester in calling attention to the fact that it is unlawful to burn brush between March first and June first without securing a permit from the fire warden. This may seem like a law that helps to make up that long list of statutes that are not enforced, but the statement to the effect that there were 40 convictions last year indicates that it means more to some than it did a year ago.

Brush fires, when they do not threaten dwellings, too often mean the destruction of valuable standing timber. Heavy are the losses that are suffered each year from this cause, and too often is it that the right thought is not given to such matters until the harm has been done. Few are the fires where malice is the object, but many are there due to carelessness which never ought to be.

The aid of the Boy Scouts has been enlisted in Connecticut as well as in other states to boost fire prevention work of this kind. It is highly commendable and with others doing the same less fires should be kindled.

AGAINST MUNICIPAL WASTE.

Even though it makes no difference to those outside of the city of New York how much money is used for celebrations or how it is obtained, there cannot fail to be a keen interest in the efforts to prevent Mayor Hylan from bonding the city that there may be observed the 25th anniversary of the beginning of Greater New York.

In the first place it seems like an insignificant anniversary, and for that reason more credence is given to the claim that the mayor of the big city is engaged in blowing his own horn and plans the anniversary to direct greater attention to his administration.

The sum of $400,000 may be a small sum for New York to blow in such a manner, and particularly so when it is realized that it was planned to get the money through a bond issue that might cost as much again before the bill was settled. Those who balk at municipal waste will applaud those who have taken action to prevent such bonding.

New York does business on a big scale. Its annual expenditures and its yearly tax collections run into large figures. When it undertakes a celebration it does so in an elaborate manner, that it may be in keeping with its size. Those who are blocking the bond issue are not necessarily opponents of the celebration, but they believe it is not a just expense to saddle upon the city and certainly not in that form. And properly is there pointed out in this connection that if any such sum is to be employed it should be put to the better use of providing the much needed facilities for the school children of that city who have not had sufficient school buildings for a number of years.

When necessary provisions of that kind continue to be neglected it is not surprising that there is opposition to the employment of funds for such a purpose as that intended.

SELLING TO ARGENTINA.

Those Americans who believe they can build up a mutually beneficial trade with Argentina are giving endorsement to views that have long been expressed. Argentina is a big country and it is growing. It has been depending upon other countries for many of its requirements but not until within a few years has it done any considerable volume of business with this country.

It was the war that brought about the change in the situation. Inability to get the goods which it has relied upon Europe for for so long it was obliged to turn in this direction. We supplied its needs and as the result gave American goods an introduction to the people of that country. We likewise increased our imports. The purchases from this country increased even after the war but sight cannot be lost of the fact that with each succeeding year the countries on which it depended are becoming more and more able to supply the demands that previously came to them from that direction, and they are going to strenuously endeavor to get back that much desired trade.

Whether they can do it or not depends upon the attitude this country takes toward such trade. It cannot be overlooked that England draws heavily upon Argentina for certain supplies. England and Germany were depended upon by Argentina for its imports before the war. When a large customer returns he is likely to insist upon Argentina taking much of what it has for sale and what it previously delivered to that country.

Getting back into old channels will come rather easy unless it is made manifest by this country that there are advantages which lie in the use of American goods and the continuation of that better trade relationship that has sprung up since the days of the war. This is a source of trade that cannot be neglected if its continuance and increase are desired.

WISE RESTRICTIONS.

A protective movement for the highways in Massachusetts may have an indirect benefit to the state of Connecticut.

At this season of the year there are excellent reasons for taking all sound measures that will protect the highways, and Massachusetts, through its highway commissioner, has designated a long list of roads on which auto trucks cannot carry loads of over five tons without a permit.

It is known from experience that heavy loads on improved roads cause a vast amount of damage, and that much is spent each year in repairing such damages that ought to be applied in the construction of new roads by the maintenance of those suffering from the usual wear and tear.

Restricting the loads is therefore guarding against that highway burden which they ought not to be expected to bear at this season of the year when much moisture and the departure of the frost leaves them susceptible to overloading. Restricting the use of the highway in such a manner displays excellent judgment. It is for a short period but it prevents abnormal expenses and greatly reduces the bad places in the highway.

This policy is no different than has been instituted in this state, but Connecticut will benefit from it to the extent that if loads are restricted over Massachusetts roads, those which come into the state must show the same respect here. Roads are bad enough without tolerating the overloadings that quickly make them much worse.

NEW ENGLAND FRUIT.

Next fall there is to be an exposition in New York city in which New England and the Atlantic states will participate for the purpose of displaying the productions of the orchards of the eastern states.

This is an effort to develop a greater interest in the eastern product and it is certainly commendable. It is a step that should have been taken long ago. Holding expositions is not all that must be done, however. It is but one of the methods of developing a greater interest, which is highly important for any successful undertaking of the kind.

We have been seeing little else than western apples for so long that some have the idea that they cannot be raised in Connecticut, in New England or the other eastern states, when as a matter of fact there is plenty of the needed land for producing a much greater proportion of the requirements of the east, while the advantages of a nearby market all lie with the orchardists of this part of the country.

It has taken a long time to get awakened to the situation, but from the plan of the fruit raisers they have gotten to the point where they feel something should be done. There is no doubt eastern fruit ranks just as high, if not higher, than any other. There needs to be dispelled the idea that it cannot be produced here and marketed to advantage. If the exposition serves to get the right idea established concerning eastern fruit it will have served an admirable purpose.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

No one is going to be reckless enough to plead with April to make it snappy.

Almanac days for April were not the kind that gave promise of a farm delightful month.

The man on the corner says: Can it be that spring is debating all this time about what to wear?

Having got the skids under March it will not be long now before we get winter out of the lap of spring.

What is the governor of Colorado going to say to those who seem to be meddling with his prerogatives?

There is an opportunity for the weather sharps to tell us what kind of a summer we are going to have.

Lord Robert Cecil cannot arouse our ill will by telling us that the league of nations is going along without us.

Those who insist that there cannot be very much more of this cold weather are sure to hit it right if they are persistent.

The onion crop is reported as falling off. There must be something the matter when that isn't found to be going strong.

This is a year when the old signs are being substantiated. The groundhog regained his reputation and March kicked up the fuss that its mild entry promised.

If that California man really knows who was responsible for the New York explosion he will never be complained of for violating the speed laws in bringing him to justice.

The fire at Nantasket is the first of the season at summer resorts. It is during the period of preparation for a busy season that many summer hotels and resorts are wiped out.

Knowing that there are other and better days coming, it will not be difficult this April for fishermen to forego the pleasure of "whipping" the trout brooks while February weather prevails.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Apples are delicious when baked with orange marmalade.

To prevent new bread from crumbling when it is being cut heat the knife very hot.

A boiled custard sauce should have the milk heated before putting in the eggs and sugar. However, it must not boil.

Balls made of seasoned mashed parsnips and rolled in ground peanuts and fine breadcrumbs are delicious toasted and served with sauce. Garnish with parsley.

Salt sprinkled on boiled potatoes immediately after draining helps to make them white and mealy.

No cake should be moved in the oven until it has risen its full height.

For an appetiser at a formal dinner one might have poached eggs, neatly trimmed and served cold in a sauce ravigote.

Put a little currant jelly in the heart of lettuce which accompanies the chicken sandwich. It will delight both eye and palate.

Freeze a fruit salad to a frappe stage and serve in halves of chilled cantaloupes. Garnish with strips of maraschino cherries.

Flour should be as dry as possible before using it. For cakes, etc., it is better sieved as this process allows the air to get to it, which has much to do with its rising powers.

When making cream sauce always prepare enough for two dishes. It will keep perfectly under cold conditions for at least twenty-four hours, and it is as easy to make a pint as a cupful.

Boiled beets, chopped rather fine and buttered, may be moulded in almost any desirable shape, and will keep it with no other binding save the butter, so that they may be served hot. They will also prove a fine garnish.

White marks on polished furniture, caused by hot dishes, can be removed by applying a little olive oil and salt over the stains. This should be left for some time, then wiped away and polished. The marks will then have disappeared.

All strings or skewers should always be removed before dishing. Much gravy should not be served on the dish with a roast but handled separately. Meat is often garnished with grated horseradish, poultry with rolls of bacon, fried sausages, parsley or watercress, and game with watercress.

TREATMENT OF MEATS.

Never wash fresh meat before roasting it; scrape it if it is necessary to clean it. If it has been wet or is moist wipe it thoroughly dry before cooking it.

Never put meat directly on the ice; put it in a vessel or on a plate of some kind.

If you baste roast meats, do not use salt in the basting. Salt the meat after it is cooked.

Salt and season boiling meats while they are cooking.

In boiling put fresh meats in hot water and salt meats in cold water. Boil both kinds slowly.

Never salt and pepper broiling meats while they are cooking. Season with salt, pepper and butter after removing them from the gridiron.

An ordinary pan is good for broiling; heat very hot; use no fat of any kind. Put the meat flat on the pan, turn it rapidly and often and you will find a "pan broil" very good. Season when done.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Getting relief from the white spots on nails consists in mixing a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and myrrh to be spread on the nails every night. It can be removed in the morning with a little warm olive oil. This will take out the spots, though if there is any tendency towards them, new ones will appear.

The best way to wave the hair is to divide it into thin strands and to moisten these slightly. Then roll each one tightly around a thick kid curler, purchasable in any notion department, or around a thick wad of tissue paper. Even a roll of old muslin will do, the ends in any case must be tied or fasten together. If you can do this at night it will give the hair plenty of time to set in a natural looking wave.

A crude oil shampoo is most beneficial. Thick crude oil, or if you can't get that, olive oil, heated as hot as you can stand it, should be rubbed thoroughly into the scalp and allowed to stay on over night. Next day the hair should be shampooed with hot water, and a good soap, preferably liquid castile. The hair will have to be soaped three to five times to take out all the oil and then rinsed very thoroughly. The tar shampoo which is also good, is slightly more difficult because the tar and oil mixture must be applied to every part of the scalp with a brush and allowed to stay on 15 minutes and removed by a vigorous shampoo with good soap.

When the worst of a day's work is over the hands should be scrubbed with soap, warm water and a brush, rubbed with a bit of lemon to remove stains and rinsed. If the day's work has made them dry they should be rubbed with pure lard or cold cream and thrust for a few moments into old leather gloves kept for the purpose, then they can be washed free of grease and the nails cleaned and polished, for the hands by this time will be quite good looking. Otherwise any one of the good hand lotions on the market can be used to keep the skin soft.

COLOR AND NERVES

Color has a far greater effect upon our nerves than all of us possibly realize. Without perhaps understanding the exact cause, we know that we feel more confident and stimulated in a frock of one tint than another, and that the color schemes of some rooms express themselves as restful and inviting in opposition to others which somehow jar upon senses.

Health and spirits are variously affected by the dominance of certain colors in the surroundings. Red is the most exciting and irritating of all shades, and should be used very sparingly. On a dull day or when the spirits are depressed a touch of red in the toilette or a scarlet cushion in a room has a stimulating effect, but considerable taste and restraint is necessary to keep this color from dominating everything else.

Yellow the sunlight hue, may be used in a room with a northern aspect, and where the sun's rays do not penetrate freely.

Green and blue, on the other hand, have tranquilising effects.

Brown, unless in association with some bright color, such as yellow, is apt to be depressing, a reputation which it shares with grey.

SMART COATS.

Long, straight coats of sand colored wool and silk and new and very attractive. One particularly lovely model is of heavy crepe covered with fine embroidery in the same tone. A collar and cuffs of viatka squirrel add to its chic.

Satins, moire and grosgrains claim first attention because of their style dominance, but faille, taffeta and velvet all claim a prominent place in the sun. The reddish browns and greens, the orange-yellow tones and reddish purple shades gaily flaunt their colors, while black still claims its own more frequently trimmed with gay colors than was true last season.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Bun glass bracelets are daily gaining in popularity and are worn by the dozens.

The clocks either felt crepe or straw, is the millinery success of the season.

All shades of nut, champagne and beige stockings are worn with colored shoes.

Long coats of Paisley pattern are embroidered in steel beads and colored with fox in either black or a silver tone.

In the early spring modes crepe de chine frocks are accompanied by crepes to match.

Smart street shoes for spring are of patent leather with a modish heel and tongues made of plaited ribbon attached to the shoe with cut steel buckles.

A new material of marked distinction is a sheer crepe of firm texture which serves as a background for the most exquisite embroidery in gay colors stimulating cross stitch.

The silhouette for spring is both straight and circular, and while it remains fairly short, the fullness is concentrated at the front with a tight back effect.

The suit of the three-piece type is finding the greatest favor, the cape back being a spring feature.

Coats present contrasting lengths the knee length model flaring from the shoulder. Many of the tailored types show some fur trimming.

Much dull leather is used, either cut out, fringed, colored or embroidered.

Evening gowns of taffeta and faille of the bouffant period are occasionally petaled in treatment.

Among the varied trimmings are included loose panels a great deal of pleating, cut-out work, embroidery and cordings.

Straw hats, as well as candy cloth and other fancy braids are being worn.

A CURTAIN HINT.

If your casement curtains persist in hanging awry after anyone has touched them, try sewing dressmakers' leaded tape along the bottom of each curtain.

REMOVABLE COVER.

Beautiful fancy and dainty coverings for the quilt in the bassinet or baby carriage are being made entirely of ribbon, fagotted together or hemmed by hand. Ribbon ruffles complete the outer edge. Instead of all ribbon, lace can be combined—a strip of ribbon alternating with a strip of lace insertion. Then use ribbon and lace edging for the ruffles. Pillow tops are made to match.

They are not sewn to the quilt, but are removable, and can be put on at will by using safety pins attached to bows or flowers, which add to the decorative effect and at the same time conceal the pin.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

A slice of lemon placed in a boiler of clothes will make clothes a beautiful white, besides taking all the stains out of handkerchiefs and lighter garments.

To iron men's soft collars, begin at the points and press toward the center of the back. This will prevent the unsightly wrinkles that are usually seen on the home-laundered collars.

When ironing a garment that has a row of buttons, fold a Turkish towel into several thicknesses, lay the garment, buttons down, on the towel and iron it on the wrong side. The buttons will sink into the towel and the garment will be smooth and well ironed.

If you burn an article ironing it, wet the goods and apply corn-starch to the burned part, rubbing it in well. Allow this to dry and all traces of the burn will have disappeared.

A good laundry soap can be made as follows: Dissolve 1 can of lye in 1 quart of cold water. When lukewarm add 2 tablespoonful of ammonia and 2 of borax and 5 pounds of lukewarm melted drippings. Mix, pour into a pan lined with muslin, and cut into bars while still soft.

TO WASH RIBBONS.

Good ribbons can be washed, if care is taken. One safe way of laundering lingerie ribbons is to wash or sponge the ribbon carefully with tepid suds made of pure soap. After washing ribbon in this manner it should be rinsed in a basin of clear tepid water. The ribbon should not be doused in the rinsing water nor thrown in the water. It should be held taut and rinsed by pulling the taut ribbon back and forth through the water. To dry flatten the ribbon out on smooth, hard surface—a sheet of glass, a marble slab, a window or a mirror. While drying, gently press out the air bubbles and no ironing will be required.

TO WASH GLOVES.

The secret of success in washing chamois and doeskin gloves lies in using lukewarm or cool water—better cool than even a few degrees too warm. That, at least, is one of the secrets, the other is to use soapy water. The soapier the water, providing it is of the right temperature, the silkier and softer the gloves will be. They should first be freed from all dirt in a soapy bath and then put through another soapy bath in order that they may be rinsed from the dirt set free.

They should then be pressed and squeezed in a thick towel until they are free from soap and water as nearly as possible. Then they are ready to be hung to dry in a cool, dry place.

Never hang them near a fire, and never hang them in the sunshine, if you would have them soft and pliable after laundering.

FOR CLEVER FINGERS.

A very effective brown cockade, the center of which was a large red, square button, surrounded by a circle of shirred one-half-inch moire ribbon, is made with the head combination. The ribbon was surrounded by an edge of red beads matching the button in color, which were sewed in the space between the upper edge of the first row and the lower edge of the second row. This was alternated until the desired size cockade was obtained. The edge was of the ribbon itself.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Spinning companies in Japan have begun a movement to stop the employment of women on night shifts in the factories.

The chimes of Old North Church, in Boston, are manipulated by Mrs. Arthur Shurtleff, she having succeeded her father at his death.

The distinction of being the first State to establish mothers' pensions belongs to Missouri, the law having become effective there in 1911.

English women have become so interested in weaving their own tweeds that many of them have installed costly looms in their homes.

One of the rules for financial success as laid down by Mrs. E. M. Abernathy, Oklahoma's only woman bank president, is "get in debt and work hard to get out."

NEW METAL BROCADES.

Stunning new metallic brocades are silver on one side, with lovely blurry patterns on the reverse so that there is just a faint gleam of color through the silver.

A DOOR BUMPER.

Tack thin pieces of cork on the part of the door frame where the screen door strikes. This will effectually silence the slam, if the head of the tack is driven into the cork so that the screen cannot strike on it.

RECIPES

Lobster Cocktail in Pepper Cups:—Select sweet green peppers of small size to form cups, discarding the seeds and all the white portion on which the seeds grow. Cut the edges in points or use a pinking iron. Set the pepper cups in the center of small plates and surround with four or five small lettuce heart leaves the edges of which have been sprinkled with paprika and place an inch cube of lobster meat cut from the tail of the lobster in each leaf. Season with tomato catchup of a fine quality, to suit the taste, and put two or three tablespoons into each pepper cup. An oyster fork should accompany this course.

Grape Fruit Cocktails: — Cut the grape fruit in halves crosswise and remove the sections in as perfect shape as possible. Save all the juice and sprinkle the pulp with sugar; set aside to chill thoroughly. Brush the rims of cocktail glasses with the slightly beaten white of egg to the depth of half an inch and dip quickly into finely chopped fresh mint or parsley. Put the pulp into the garnished cocktail glasses, piling it well above the rims and set a maraschino cherry on the top of each cocktail. Just before serving pour over the fruit French dressing made in the usual way, omitting the garlic, and use less salt, no black pepper, but plenty of paprika.

STUMPT?

FROM childhood up, we meet stumps every day of our lives.

They either stump us, or we stump them. The more successful we are in jumping stumps, the less are we stumpt by stumps.

The most important stumps to watch are those that stump the maintenance of good health.

When Nature sounds her warning and indicates unmistakably the location of a stump—HEED NATURE.

When the mouth tastes bad, breath is foul, stomach distressed, brain foggy, eye dull, remember Beecham's Pills will clear away the stumps of indigestion, constipation and biliousness.

For 80 years this famous family medicine has stumpt disorders of stomach, liver and bowels to hold their grip on man, woman or child.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, who, according to reports from Rome, may become the first American cardinal from west of the Mississippi river, has been archbishop of San Francisco since 1915. Among the Roman Catholic prelates of the United States the archbishop is renowned for his learning as well as for his capabilities as an administrator. A native of Rochester, N. Y., he received his early education in that city and subsequently pursued his studies in Rome and at the universities of Munich and Cambridge. For several years after his ordination he remained in Rome as a teacher. In 1893 he returned to America to join the faculty of St. Bernard's seminary in Rochester. During the 30 years that he was connected with that institution he became widely known as a theologian. In 1912 he was called to San Francisco as coadjutor to Archbishop Riordan, whom he succeeded a few years later. In 1918 Archbishop Hanna was prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Cardinal Farley as archbishop of New York.

Stories That Recall Others

How Thermopylae Was Fought.

In a class of Greek history recently a youth was asked to tell the story of the battle of Thermopylae. He had unusual descriptive ability and he proceeded into the story with great zest. None of the detail was left out. The heroic stand was described as few others could do.

"——and they fought and fought and fought," said the youth. "They fought until they lost their arms. Then they used their hands."

The Police Dog.

Some weeks ago this particular policeman had a fine looking police dog with him. Each evening the dog was always on hand and the animal's beauty attracted the attention of one of the residents on the beat. "That's a fine dog you have," she said to him one evening.

"You think so?" he asked. "Well, I can't say I think very much of him."

"Doesn't he belong to you?" the woman inquired.

"Goodness, no," was the reply. "He's Mr. ——'s dog. Every time I try to drive him back he nearly eats me up. Maybe he thinks I'm a soldier or something, but he never bothers me if I don't get after him. I don's know how I'm going to get rid of him."

Just the other evening the same resident saw the dog on another part of the policeman's beat. The dog was still tagging him.

HAD SEVEN FIRES IN LESS THAN SIX HOURS

With a total of seven fires in less than six hours every piece of apparatus in the local fire department excepting Engine 2 was out Sunday. At one time Engine 2 was the only apparatus in the station that could have been called upon in case another fire call was sent in to the department.

The total money loss by the seven fires will probably run into figures of over $60,000, the greatest loss being the total destruction of Sacred Heart church and hall at Norwich Town, the loss here being from $50,000 to $60,000.

The first call for the department came in at 9.28 a. m. for a fence fire in the rear of 59 North Main street. The fire had been caused by sparks from a passing locomotive. The property is owned by the New Haven road and the loss is small.

At 9.56 a. m. the second call came in for a roof fire at the home of Moses Ballou at 439 Main street. Sparks from the chimney caused the blaze. A line of hose and chemical was laid and the fire soon extinguished. The house is owned by John Hawkins, and the loss was slight.

At 11.30 o'clock a brush fire was started in the rear of Summit street by boys playing with matches and the department was called out to put out this fire which was on land owned by the Norwich Land Improvement Co.

Another call was sent in shortly afterwards for a fire near the central station and this was quickly put out with chemical.

The fifth call was for another brush and grass fire set by boys playing with matches in the rear of Broad street. The firemen put this blaze out and returned to the station.

At 1.03 o'clock again the Sacred Heart church was on fire. Engineer and Chief Howard L. Stanton sounded the 3rd and had a line of hose into the building in short order, being at work before the town apparatus, the Yantic could arrive. The Yantic boys pumper suffering a burned out bearing on the way down. When the local firemen arrived the hall at the north side of the church was too far gone to be saved and attention was given to the church and nearby houses. The men stayed on the job until after 3 o'clock then when the fire was under control, came back to the city, leaving the Yantic and town firemen to put out what fire remained in the wreckage of the edifice.

The first local bell alarm for April came in at 3.33 o'clock in the afternoon for a roof fire at the home at Samuel Ruckick of 95 Forest street. The call came from Box 115, corner of West Main and Forest streets and when the men arrived the roof and upper story was blazing and it seemed that the top of the building was doomed. Two lines of hose were turned into the building and the fire confined to the roof and one corner of the upper story where the fire had eaten through the roof. The roof was burned through in several places and some damage done inside. The house will have to be reroofed, the crossbeams being burned badly. The house is owned by Mrs. Rosa Hertz, who lived upstairs in the house. The cause of the fire is unknown. It started away from the chimney and it is believed that the sparks from a locomotive caused the blaze.

That fire ended one of the busiest days of the local department has had for some time.

Will Test Box 283.

The new fire alarm box, No. 283, has been put in by the fire department at the corner of Russell road and Boswell avenue. A test will be rung in from this box at noon Tuesday.

FOR EASTER SUNDAY SERMONS

Congregations that filled the churches of the city were in attendance at the services on Easter Sunday. When the beautiful floral decorations, special music and sermons on the great theme of the resurrection made a most appropriate and impressive observance of the day. The winter temperature that prevailed all day, making it one of the coldest Easter Sundays in years, apparently had little effect upon the church attendance.

Central Baptist Church

The Resurrection and Its Meaning was the theme of Rev. Dr. David A. Fitt's sermon at the Central Baptist church.

It is good for us every Easter, he said, to review the evidence that we have of our Lord's resurrection. The accounts differ somewhat in details but they are agreed on the great central fact which in all of them stands out in all its glory.

The most eloquent testimony of His disciples to their belief in His resurrection was not in their words but in their changed lives. They were different and they were ready to go to death for their conviction that Christ was alive. The rise and growth of the Christian church has been built upon faith in the resurrection and the living Christ. Undermine faith in that and the church would topple like a house of cards.

What significance had the resurrection for the first disciples? Paul expressed it in Romans 1:4. "It proved Christ to be the Son of God with power." It set God's will upon Him and proved that Christ was all He claimed to be.

Again, as they meditated still further on the resurrection it was proof to them of the victory of life and holiness over death and sin—appearances to the contrary.

In the third place, they soon came to realize that the living Christ was still available for His people. This was settled for them forever at Pentecost. He had told them it was to their advantage that He was going away physically, in order that He might come to them spiritually, that He might be to all His followers in all lands and in all ages, what He was to the twelve in the days of His flesh. Nearly sixty generations of Christians bear testimony to this blessed fact.

Finally, the resurrection of our Lord was proof of the life hereafter. He brought life and immortality of life through His Gospel. Christ did for that undiscovered country what Columbus did for America. He not only visited it, but returned with the assurance that the longings of humanity were true to the facts and that God would satisfy them in the life eternal.

Eighteen persons were baptised at the morning and evening services of the church Sunday, four having been baptized last Thursday and three others to be baptised next Thursday. There will be 55 to be given the right hand of fellowship next Sunday.

Christ Episcopal

Rev. Richard R. Graham, rector of Christ Episcopal church, selected for his Easter sermon text, 2nd Timothy 1-10, "Our Savior, Jesus Christ hath abolished death and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." The sermon in brief was a follows:

How and in what sense can it be said that Jesus Christ brought immortality to light? Certainly He did not originate the belief in life or even unending life after death, in the hearts of men. That belief is common with nearly every race of man and all religions.

We might trace the history of that belief among the Jews. Early they were doubtful but as we read the Old Testament more and more is thought of it, until at the end it occupied an important place in the minds of the people. This, however, was not an essential element in the religious life of the Orthodox Jew.

If Christianity did not originate the belief in immortality it certainly gave this belief wide currency, this being due to the belief of the disciples in the teachings of Jesus. They believed in God, in the soul, in immortality, in future judgment before He called them, but after He called them they believed with a new conviction and new energy.

Jesus brought immortality to light by His resurrection. This is the first distinctive note in Christian teaching and belief on the subject. We however must take by faith in their testimony, the assurance of the resurrection of Jesus. As we read the accounts of the appearance of Christ to His followers, we cannot shirk the questions that are asked, cannot be absolutely certain as to the nature of those appearances.

One absolute fact that should be noted is the change that took place in the minds and attitude of the disciples. By the action, their talk, we know something has happened, something that turned defeat into victory, something put the hope of immortality on a new footing and it changed the history of the world. St. Paul has said Christ brought life and immortality to light not by His resurrection but by His gospel which includes His whole teaching.

Putting all this aside we know that Jesus in all His teachings, in parable and direct speech brought out the incredible interest of God in the individual and His love of Him. We would not turn to the parables of the lost sheep and the lost money as proofs of immorality of the soul, yet do they not implicitly teach it.

There is joy in the presence of angels of God," and therefore by an irresistable inference in the heart of God Himself over one sinner that repenteth. Would God so rejoice over one human soul if the days of that soul were indeed but for a moment, if it were to be snuffed out forever after the brief years of man. Jesus by His resurrection set the seal of truth on our hopes, He gave us that assurance we desire.

Once we have grasped the idea of the value of our own personality as it has been taught by Christ we will be assured that death does not mean annihilation, or that our individuality will become lost in the great ocean of life. By the teaching of Christ we know they shall not be thrown away as long as God is God and love is the supreme power in the universe.

St. Mary's Memorial

At St. Mary Memorial church, the four masses offered for the day attracted large congregations to each service, the first mass being a private one and offered in the chapel at the convent at 6.30 by Rev. William A. Keefe. At the church the first low mass at 7.30 was offered by Rev. Frederick M. Cohoian, the second mass at 9 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Patrick J. McCormick of Washington, D. C., and the high mass at 10.30 by Rev. George J. Coyle, S. J., of Worcester, Mass. The sermons at each mass treated on Christ's victory over sin and death in the glorious work of His resurrection, a reminder that we, too, in this life must pass through the portals of death after which we shall rise from the grave to pass in judgment before the living God as to the manner in which we have spent our lives here. If there were no resurrection nor immortality of the soul this would certainly be a gloomy life, but our hopes centered in Christ's resurrection make a smiling life beyond the grave a certainty. St. Paul says that our faith and all good works are in vain if we doubt the work of the risen Saviour.

The altars were gracefully decorated with Easter lilies and carnations which with the white altar cloths for a background made the scene one of joy and gladness. The assistant priests were in charge of the masses at all parish. The music for the masses was of the usual high order, directed by the choirmaster, Henry J. La Fontaine, with notably fine solo work in response to the request of many the mass, Mozart's 12th Mass, will be repeated next Sunday.

The special offering, taken for the day was the annual offering taken for the upkeep of diocesan objective and proved to be of a generous nature.

St. Patrick's Church.

Congregations that filled St. Patrick's church attended all the services of the day. The mass at 7.30 was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. M. H. May, the mass at 9 o'clock by Rev. Rocco Guerree and the solemn high mass at 10.45 by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, assisted by Fathers May and Guerree. The sermon was by Father May from the text, He is Risen, and was inspiring exposition of the resurrection theme.

The music was splendidly rendered by the choir under the direction of Prof. Frank L. Ferrell and it was the general opinion that not in years has the church known such impressive Easter services nor more beautiful in music. The Veni Creator was sung by Frank R. Murdy, who was in excellent voice and the other soloists, who were Mrs. Frank L. Ferrell, Miss Loretta Belledeau, Frank G. Aubrey, Daniel Gleason and Arthur McNamara, were heard with great pleasure by the large congregations. Lang's orchestra of ten pieces assisted the choir.

The forty hours devotion began after the 10.30 mass at which the junior choir of 35 voices sang the Panse Lingua, assisted by the senior choir, alternating with admirable effect. A dozen priests are here to assist in the forty hours devotion which ends after the 8 o'clock mass Tuesday. There will be masses this (Monday) morning at 8.30, 7 and 8 o'clock.

United Congregational.

Discovering a Soul was the theme of Rev. Alexander H. Abbott at the United Congregational church, speaking from the text Luke 24: 5, Why seek ye the living among the dead?

In part, he said: Christianity will never stop asking this question, but while it is asking it possesses the answer. The question is the peak of a mountain whose broad base is a triumphant affirmative. Christianity treats this question with elements of amusement, compassion and rebuke. They are all of one piece. Each is somewhat negative in attitude. But Christianity likewise treats the question positively. Surprise at lack of perception, pity for a destructive habit and rebuke for despairing conduct are not the only elements our religion exhibits in this matter of life and death. Christianity declares an affirmation and issues a command. These two words complete the story.

No hesitant spirit founded our faith. When we think of Jesus, we do not picture a mind befuddled by experience, lost in direction, wildly hunting about for some program on which to act of think. We think of intelligence that has thought its way through. We think of purpose that knows its own ends. We think of will that is thoroughly controlled, faithful and steady. We have a sense of confidence. We have a feeling of certainty. And those of His followers who have partaken of His Spirit recognize the fact that the question "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" is built up upon the broad base of a Christian affirmation.

That affirmation is: That it is not death to die, or, in its positive form, to die is to live, for me to die is gain. God is not God of the dead but of the living. I go to prepare a place for you. In my Father's house are many mansions. These are words of affirmation. The question at the tomb starts from it.

Jesus says life is not a dream that dissolves at death. Life is the only reality, and death admits it to its final greatness. Go and build, not the evanescent fabric of the dream, but your living soul. This is my command. Why seek ye the living in that which vanishes?

So—this question is one of amazement, of compassion and rebuke. But it is seen more an affirmation and a command. And we who have felt these elements of relicion at work within it, have really entered into the discovery of the living [illegible] of Jesus Christ, and into the discovery of our own living souls.

Mt. Calvary Baptist.

The resurrection of Christ, said the pastor, has become one of the greatest themes of the age. The most learned are conjecturing as to the possibility of the resurrection of Christ. Many admit His power to raise the dead who deny His power to raise Himself from the dead. To deny the latter is to deny Christ's divinity and omnipotence. One of the greatest proofs we have as to Christ being God and equal with the Father, is that He rose from the dead. If He did not come up on His own volition and power, His resurrection is a demonstration of His relationship with the Father. There are more evidences which go to prove the resurrection of Christ than there are denials in the face of the most bitter antagonism and unreasonable arguments brought to bear.

Christ came to earth to earn salvation for the world. He laid the foundation of his sufferings and death, and the completeness of it was his resurrection. We consider his incarnation miraritic: His death stupendous: but His resurrection has been the wonder of the world.

The pastor reviewed the gospel accounts which support the fact of the resurrection and declared in conclusion that we are witnesses that He rose in the hope of eternal glory that He brings to our souls.

First Baptist Church.

"Man's Greatest Reward," was the subject of the sermon by Rev. H. C. Dunbar at the First Baptist church, speaking from the text, John 10.10. I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

In part, he said: Desire for life is the strongest of human passions. Eastern is the festival of life. It is the climax of the Christian year. The joy bells of Christmas rang because the Holy Child was born. Christmas is the day of promise. Easter is the day of fulfillment. Can we picture life without the Resurrection? Yes, for we have only to think back to the period from Friday noon until Sunday morning of Passion Week. We see ourselves as Marys, Peters and Johns, disconcerted, grief-stricken, and pessimistic. Man needs a religion of hope. Jesus through His resurrection gave

On the trip down through Groton, over into Mystic and Stonington, the members of the party often stopped and took pictures. They reported the roads to be in fairly good condition.

The success of the trip Sunday afternoon caused the members of the party to plan on many other week-end trips during the summer months, as has been done in past years. The trips this year will be taken in by many more motorcycle drivers than those in past year, and real times are being planned.

Those who took the short trial trip Sunday were J. P. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Saturday morning the funeral of Charles Grigas was held from his home 92 Reservoir at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, many relatives and friends attending. The bearers were William Brunkus, Patrick F. Murray, Dennis Mahoney, Michael Cronin, Arthur Viens and James Ward. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. Louis R. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Albert H. Sayles, 70 is dead at his home in East Killingly, where he has been a resident for many years and where he was engaged in business, conducting a general store for a long time. Mr. Sayles was a native of the town of Plainfield, but he had lived the greater part of his life in the town of Killingly. He is survived by three sons, Harvey, Albert, Jr., and Howard, who has been spending the winter at Miami; by three daughters, Mrs. Charlesse Chandler of Danielson, Mrs. William Ayer of Pitcairn and Mrs. Jewett Chilton of New Haven. Mr. Sayles also leaves two brothers, Alcott D. Sayles of East Killingly and Welcome Sayles of Moosup. Mrs. Sayles has been dead for about 15 years.

Mr. Sayles has been seriously ill for a number of weeks and for the past fortnight it has been evident that he could not recover.

At the Flood stable in Furnace street Thursday horse buyers from far and near gathered to attend one of the numerous horse auctions that have been staged in this territory during the past few weeks. When the sale was over 33 horses, a mule, a bull, two cows, 20 harnesses and 40 wagons had been sold—and anyone who happened to be driving along a state highway anywhere within a half dozen miles of Danielson would be well aware of it after meeting caravans of horses and wagons being taken home by purchasers who came from far and near.

The auctions, conducted by Witter Brothers, afforded a day of interesting entertainment and diversion for all who attended for there is much to one of these sales in the way of comedy and delights that makes it well worth the time of those who attend, whether they buy a horse or whether they do not.

"He's a Bluenose" is an expression one has heard many times in the past, and the reference usually was to some mighty fine person, but on Sunday it took on a new significance when it applied most fittingly to all those who ventured out on the trout brooks for the first day's fishing of the season. It was cold—so cold that the very sons of those hardy enthusiasts declared it would not look well in print, but many of them stayed out and fished, and caught trout, though the trophies in every case were frigged, with ice and in some instances the streams were frozen over.

A group of fishermen who stopped to look at a thermometer as they were leaving Danielson in the early morning found the reading just five degrees above zero. That doesn't sound like April and it isn't first class trouting weather, but getting out on a brook the first day of the open season is a sort of obsession with those who love the sport and many of them think it the finest, most exhilarating day of the year. It may be stated, however, that some of the trout fishermen restrained themselves and kept off the brooks yesterday. In the first place it was Easter Sunday, and many sportsmen do not go out on a Sunday and they were handicapped in their restraint this years by the extraordinary cold weather for this day of all days.

Joseph Gwozdz, year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Gwozdz, is dead at their home in Goodyear.

An automobile owned and driven by Burton Bosworth of East Woodstock and another car driven by Arthur Pepin of Putnam came in collision on Friday morning at the junction of Woodstock avenue and Providence street, near St. Mary's cemetery. Both cars were badly damaged but no one was hurt. Bosworth drives a mail route to the Woodstocks and was on his way to that town with one passenger in the car.

Pepin was about to turn from Providence street into Woodstock avenue when the crash occurred. The noise of the impact was heard for a considerable distance and a crowd quickly gathered.

Gerald Allard of Storrs Agricultural college is spending the Easter recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Allard, Pomfret road.

Putnam may have a little mill baseball league of its own. The Nightingale-Morse Mills, Inc., team, which made such an excellent record last year, will be in the field again this season and there is talk of teams at the mills of the Manhasset Mfg. Co. and the Putnam Manufacturing Company.

The St. Onge block is no more. The building has been completely torn down. This leaves two vacant building lots in the business section. The Savings bank is to beg in the construction of their new home in the immediate future but as yet nothing definite can be learned of any proposed building to be erected on the lot made vacant by the Donahue block fire. Work on the interior of the First National Bank building is being rushed and the new quarters should be ready for occupancy within a few months.

Following a distastrous fire such as Putnam experienced in the recent destruction of the Donahue block with a loss of over $100,000 many property owners stop and consider whether or not they are properly covered by insurance. The insurance men invariably experience an increase in business especially at such times as these when buildings destroyed by fire can not be replaced within many per cent. of the cost at which they were erected in past years.

The matter of insurance of town school buildings has been discussed somewhat of late and the situation is such that in the event of a fire at either the high school, State Trade school, Israel Putnam school or the Smith Street school, the town would face what might also be termed an alarming state of financial affairs in the problem of rebuilding if adequate insurance was not received.

A consulting architect employed by the city of Norwich recently investigated matters concerning school buildings and finds the cost of building today manyfold greater than a decade ago. For instance it was found that to build side by side the new Plainfield High school accommodating 700 pupils, it will cost $250,000. In Willimantic, Mass., a high school to accommodate about 400 pupils, with equipment, will cost about $350,000. The Putnam High school, which was built at a cost of between 50 and 60 thousand, with its present equipment would cost to build today approximately a quarter of a million dollars. It is understood that at present the building and contents is insured for less than one hundred thousand. It costs $4.50 per thousand per year to carry insurance on town, believed in view of building conditions that the amount of insurance this building and a citizen of the should be increased at least $750,000. The fact that there is no fire in this building, as heat is furnished by the State Trade school nearby, lessens the fire hazard in this building. It is estimated that the equipment of the school is worth fifteen to twenty thousand.

A like condition is said to exist at the Israel Putnam school, which with the new addition will have cost the town close to $75,000 would also cost approximately a quarter of a million dollars to replace in the event of its destruction.

The State Trade school building is also owned by the town but the contents is owned by the state. This building cost approximately $20,000 but without question could not be replaced for less than $50,000.

The Smith Street school is a four-room brick building to replace which would cost approximately $70,000.

It is doubted that if with the present replacement value of these buildings so enhanced by increased building rates, whether or not they are at the present time adequately covered by insurance. The matter will be brought up at the next meeting of the town school board for discussion and it is believed that some action will be taken. At least the matter will be investigated with a view to see if there is proper fire protection for should the town suffer a loss and face the necessity of expending a large amount of money to rebuild any one of its four school buildings it would be a heavy burden upon the taxpayers of the town.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Discouraged.

My mother has been promising
That pretty soon there'd be
A little brother all my own
To run and play with me.

I wouldn't have to play alone
The way I do, at all.
He'd come along and skate with me,
And skip, and throw a ball.

This morning when I came downstairs
A nurse was there, and said:
"Your little baby brother's here.
He's sleeping in his bed."

She took me in to see him then
And though he's awful sweet,
How can he ever run and play
Upon such little feet?

How can he ever hold a ball
In hands as small as those?
And will he ever grow as big
As I am, do you s'pose?

He hasn't said a word to me,
And I'm discouraged, quite.
I'm 'fraid the doctor only left
A sample here last night!

—Anne Campbell, in Detroit News.

Lines in a Son's Bible.

Remember, love, who gave thee this,
When other days shall come;
When she who had thy earliest kiss
Sleeps in her narrow home.
Remember, 'twas a mother gave
The gift to one she'd die to save.

The mother sought a pledge of love,
The holiest for her son;
And from the gift of God above
She chose a goodly one.
She chose for her beloved boy
The source of life, and light, and joy.

And bade him keep the gift—that when
The parting hour should come
They might have hope to meet again
In her eternal home.
She said his faith in that would be
Sweet incense to her memory.

And should the scoffer, in his pride,
Launch that fond gift to scorn,
And bid him cast that pledge aside
That he from youth had borne!
She bade him never and ask his breast
If he, or she, had loved him best?

A parent's blessing on her son
Goes with this hair thing;
The love that world retain the one
Next to the other cling.
Remember, 'tis no idle toy,
A mother's gift—remember, boy!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Although most of us do not realize it, our character develops according to our thoughts and words. A well known writer has said: "To act a vice or a virtue is to induce it. Act the gentleman and you get to feeling like a gentleman. Put on brutal manners, indulge in brutal words, and before long you are brutal."

When a boy chews bad manners, discharges foods and many other evils that hurt the feelings of others, he is heaping himself more than he realizes. If he keeps up these evil thoughts, words, deeds and sharp words have on his character, he would a child them and make an effort to control himself.

Bad thoughts injure the mind, and, if they are not banished or put away, will in time cause the mind to become diseased. Our actions are greatly influenced by our thoughts. From this it can be seen that if we have good thoughts we will do good deeds. If our thoughts are good and pure, our lives will be good and pure.

We should always think clearly, speak intelligently and live right every day. Not one or two days, but every day. That is the road to success and perfection. In character building "every day" means more than anything else. Live a clean life, think good thoughts every day, do good deeds every day, and you will grow up a healthy, successful and popular man or woman.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDEAWAKES.

Story About a Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a story about a little dog. It was different from the dog you often see with long silken hair and sharp bark. It was a very pretty little dog and her name was Wylie. Wylie helped her master drive the sheep to the mountain and was kind and gentle to the sheep. When the sheep were frightened and ran first one way and then the other, she would run after them and bring them together. She was a wonderfully fine sheep dog.

Her master grew to be very old and could not stay alone on the hills. So he gave Wylie to some of his friends whom he knew would take good care of her. These same people lived in a village.

Later they moved the dog and didn't know where she went. She would leave about nine in the night and come home in the morning, footsore and weary. One night they watched to find out where the dog went but could not find out. Finally they tied her up one night and in the morning they would find her gone and the rope unfrayed.

This remained a mystery until one day they went to the market to see sheep driven in from the mountains. To their surprise they saw their pet.

The shepherds told them that every night when they got ready to drive the sheep to market, the dog would appear and help them. Then she would disappear the same way she came.

Afterwards they tried to find her owner, and could not find him anywhere. So this went on day after day until they saw that this dog recognized them in the market place.

The owners were so proud of the dog that they asked if they gave her to the shepherd would he take good care of her. He promised and after this the dog served her new master faithfully until she could serve them no more. Was not this dog true to her bringing up?

Would it not be a wise plan to look after and take good care of nice dogs? You may be helping them to do their duty and find their home.

A Lesson About Coffee.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you a story about a lesson that we had and which I think is very interesting. It is about coffee.

Coffee grows in India and in other countries. The coffee berries grow on a tree. The tree grows about 12 feet high and has slender branches. At a certain season of the year there are pretty white flowers on it and then there are red berries, very much like cherries.

The pulp of the coffee berry has in it two hard seeds. These are coffee berries. The coffee tree is at its best when it is three years old.

When the fruit is ripe it falls to the ground. The coffee berries are laid on mats or on concrete to dry in the sun. When the coffee is cleaned and sorted it is put in sacks and then it is carried to the warehouses. From the warehouse the sacks of coffee are sent all over the world. I think the coffee plant is an interesting plant to study about.

Has Cat Named Tommy.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to the Wide-Awakes before and I thought I would write and tell you about my cat. His name is Tommy. He has white on his breast and his back is brown and black. He comes in the house very often. Sometimes when I go in the house he runs after me. We feed him bread and milk. After meals there is sometimes something left. We give it to Tommy. He has never scratched anyone yet. I think he is a good cat. We have a little hole in the barn so that he can go in there.

Outwitted an Indian.

Dear Uncle Jed: My story is about An Exciting Adventure. Once three fur traders came from the west to exchange their furs in St. Louis for [illegible] and provisions. Some [illegible] them but did not [illegible] changed their [illegible] and started back [illegible] Dyne they [illegible] camp near a [illegible]. After supper two of the men went for a walk. When they were near the town they saw an Indian following them, so they turned toward camp. One hid while the other went on ahead making as much noise as possible. The one that hid did not have to wait for the Indian came running along. He went in the direction in which his friend had gone, so the Indian did not see the white man.

When the Indian was past the white man's hiding place he got out and threw his hatchet at the Indian and hit him in back of the head, which killed him instantly. The white man put him under some underbrush and went back to camp, where he related his adventure. The Indian did not get the white men because he did not know where they were.

An Amusing Incident.

Dear Uncle Jed: On a little farm in Vernon lived a family named Menchuo. We moved there when I was four years old. My two brothers, William and John, were older than I. There was a barn not far from the house. The house and the barn were to be painted the next week.

There were three kinds of paint: red, white and yellow. My brothers and I took the paints to the barn. We took paint brushes and each a different color. We painted the barn three colors. When Mr. Menchow saw us we ran to the cellar and hid in an old oven. We stayed there until night. Then we went up for supper. But mother would not give us any and sent us to bed.

About Pussywillow.

Dear Uncle Jed: Two years ago when my pussy willow was a mere slip, I placed it upright in a jar of water. Soon little fibers and rootlets began to appear on the lower end of the slip.

When these roots grew stronger, I set the plant in a box of sandy soil. Every day I fed it with water and kept it in the sunlight. When the weather became warmer, I transplanted it outdoors.

I was delighted when the first fluffy catkins appeared.

A Lesson on Carelessness.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day a boy was seen going down the sidewalk of a street. He was walking very slowly, scraping his feet along the ground as he walked, thinking of nothing. He was about sixteen years of age and his merry eyes told that he liked to play tricks. Then he saw a girl that he thought was his sister.

The boy quickened his steps to catch up with her and was just about to call her by name when he saw her pocket yawning open, displaying her purse to view. Thinking that he would teach that careless sister of his a lesson, he slyly slipped his hand into her pocket and removed the purse. Then, stepping beside her and placing his hand on her shoulder, he said heartily, "Why, hello, Nell! Where do you—" and there turned and faced him a startled young girl, whom he had never seen before.

For a moment they stood still and stared at each other. Then the boy said shamefully, "Excuse me, please, I thought you were my sister. She is always so careless with her things, so I thought I would teach her a lesson, and when I saw your purse so pla[illegible]

[illegible] I thought I would be more careful for another time it might be a real thief that got it and never get her purse back." Then Jessie (that was the boy's name) gave the purse back to the girl.

"Thank you," she said, "I am glad you saw it. I think you have taught me a lesson. I will try not to be so careless after this, and I am glad you did not really keep my purse for it is all the money that I have and I would not know what to do if I lost it."

My Travels.

Dear Uncle Jed: Last summer we went to Boston, Lawrence, New Bedford, Fall River, and Arctic. At Boston we had the best time of all. We went to Revere Beach. We could ride about three miles and see all the amusements. I wonder if any of the Wide-Awakes have been to Revere Beach?

Spring.

Dear Uncle Jed: Spring will soon be here for the birds are coming back and the snow is melting. After the snow gets off the ground the soft green grass starts to grow.

When the grass comes then the frogs also tell that it is spring. It is fun to sit at night by the pond and hear the frogs croak.

At night the frogs make music and the birds sing in the daytime. There are many kinds, such as robins, blackbirds, sparrows, bluebirds and others.

Two other things that tell the spring is here are the trees and flowers. The trees have blossoms of different colors. In the woods the wild flowers bloom happily. When they bloom the bees are just as happy as the people because they can make a lot of honey. Every person and animal is happy and soon June comes and summer is here.

The Oyster's Tale.

Dear Uncle Jed: Two years ago I was a little mite not much bigger than a speck of dust. In company with a million little fellows as small as myself, I swam off from the bottom of Chesapeake Bay. On my way up I stuck to a stick branch. There I built myself a double shell, and was happy many months.

Last week I was scooped up and carried to Boston. Where I am going next I do not know.

Feeding The Birds.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first time I have written to the Wide-Awake circle, so I thought I would tell you about feeding the birds. Every morning when I get up I put some food on my piazza for some little bluejays, snow birds and some other kinds. They have nests in my apple tree.

An Amusing Incident.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day at evening I was walking home from school. It was quite dark so I thought I would take the shortest way home. While I was walking what do you think I saw? Why, right in front of me was a great bear. I was so frightened that I did not know what to do at first. In an instant I turned and fled. I stopped at a neighbor's house and asked if anyone could go home with me. Yes, to be sure we can go home you. But what is the matter? they asked. I said them all I saw but they only laughed at me. But what is the matter? I don't anything funny. I said. Then they answered, the bear is in this country. But I insisted that there was. Well, said they, we will prove it tomorrow. Then they went to our house in silence. Then we all thank you all very much for taking me home. Then they went home and I went to bed. The next morning they came to prove what they said. We went together. When we reached the place where I got frightened, what do you think I saw? Well, only a chopping tree. So we all burst out laughing. We then went to school. Don't you think it very amusing? I do and so does my friends.

My Visit to Groton Long Point.

Dear Uncle Jed: One Sunday morning in August, two of my aunts, two friends and myself, took the quarter of nine trolley to Groton Long Point. We reached there about half past eleven, and, after talking for a while with friends, mother and sister, they purposed taking a swim which we did. We had much fun in bathing and stayed in half an hour, and then went to the cottage and had dinner.

We reached Norwich about quarter of eleven, tired, but happy.

The Lesson of a Troll.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time two trolls lived under a bridge. They were brother and sister. This bridge was five hundred feet long and fifteen feet wide.

One day two deer were passing the bridge. The trolls became glad because they were half starved. Soon as the deer were halp past the trolls asked, "Who goes there?" The deer stopped, frightened. The trolls said, "We're going to eat you both." Soon one of the trolls said, "I'm going to eat them both." But the other wanted to eat both. What do you think they did? They both started to fight.

While they were fighting the deer ran away. The brother was stronger than the sister, so the brother killed the sister, and went to eat the deer. To his surprise he saw no deer, and he saw how selfish he was to kill his sister, and not have any deer meat. From that time on, he learned to share his food with somebody else.

The Wolf Den

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder how many Wide Awakes have visited Putnam's Wolf Den in Pomfret. One day last fall, my father, mother, brother and myself decided we would go there as my brother and I had never been to it. We started about one o'clock and got there about two o'clock. When we were nearly there we found we had to go in a very narrow rough road, and the car could not get through very well. So we stopped and walked the rest of the way. Just before we came to the den we had to go down a very steep, rocky hill in a narrow path. The D. A. R. have improved this pathway much. I think Israel Putnam must have found it pretty hard walking there when he followed the wolf.

When we finally reached the den itself we saw what looked like several big rocks in the side of a steep hill with an opening in the rocks large enough for a man to crowl in. We did not go in, but took some pictures of it. The D. A. R. has put a bronze tablet on the side of one of the rocks telling when Israel Putnam shot the wolf and that it was the last wolf in Connecticut.

Last spring some one stole this tablet, which is quite valuable. But the thief must have been afraid to sell it or else his conscience troubled him, for one day a few weeks after this it was found leaning against one of the rocks. It had just been cemented back in its place when we were there. Down below the den there is a large rock that comes out from the side of the hill. It is said that 20 people once got under it and kept dry in a shower. We had our pictures taken under this rock, too.

Then we climbed the steep path and rode through Pomfret street and Putnam and came home after a very pleasant ride.

Good Luck Hunting.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you this story. One day I took my rifle and called my dogs, Choke and Mutt, to go hunting. We went into a great forest. I heard Choke bark.

I went to the place where I heard the dog bark and found the dogs running around a big stone wall. I cut a stout stick and started to poke in under it. Mutt got into the hole and pulled out two large, black skunks. I killed them and when I sold the skins I received seven and one half dollars a piece. The next day I went there again. I found three more skunks of the same kind. Now I had $37.50 to put in the bank. I had no more luck the rest of the winter.

A White Kitten

Dear Uncle Jed: Fluffy was the name of Nora's little white kitten. Fluffy awakened from her afternoon nap in the window seat and discovered a pretty red ball within reach of her paw. She touched it gently and the red ball bounded back at her. Then she opened her eyes wide and began to play with the ball.

It was fastened to a funny black box and would only bounce away a short distance and then would bounce back and hit Fluffy in the face. If she did not jump quick enough. Finally she caught it in her paws and squeezed it real hard. "Snap" went something in the black box, and Fluffy jumped away as though she had been shot.

"I believe Fluffy has taken her own picture said Nora who was watching the kitten. Sure enough, when the films were developed there was a good picture of Fluffy taken by herself.

My Pet Cow

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake Circle. I am going to tell you about my pet cow. She is red and white and very gentle. I can put her in the barn and stanchion her. My grandfather gave her to me when she was a little calf. Her name is "Daisy" and she comes to me when I call her.

When my playmate comes to see me we feed her and sometimes try to milk her. I wish all the Wide Awakes could see my pet cow.

Frisky

Dear Uncle Jed: One day in May I had a very nice May basket. It was a little kitten in a basket tied in with red ribbons. He was very lively so we called him Frisky. He liked to play with the neighbor's cat Nig. He liked to lie on my dolly's bed. One day in winter a stray kitten got into the cellar. We had fixed a board with some pieces of cloth for our cat and one morning we found the stray kitten on one end and Frisky on the other. Frisky took care of the kitten for several days. Finally it went away. One Hallowe'en night Frisky got frightened by the noises and went away and we haven't seen him since.

My Calf

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my calf. Her name is Rosie. Her color is brown and she is much admired because she is so pretty. She likes milk, hay and stock feed. She has three brothers and two sisters, but they all left home but herself. Her mother's name is Betsy and her sisters' names are Daisy and Blossom and her brothers' names were Husky, Dan and Fritz.

They are all very pretty. Rosie likes to play.

Her age is two months. She looks older, but she isn't. She is very tame, she doesn't bunt, but she has little tiny horns coming. My father and I love to tend to her because she is so cunning.
